Cub Pack Charter Presented To Lions Club

The Belleville Lions Club were officially presented with their Cub Pack charter at the regular club dinner meeting held at the Shrine Club, Thursday evening.

Mr. Archie Lewis, Regional Boy Scout Commissioner for Central Ontario, made the charter presentation to the local service club and in a brief address told of the advance in Scouting in Ontario. He said that Ontario now had 40 per cent of all Scouts in Canada.

The speaker also referred to the recent Boy Scout Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, noting that 66 different countries were represented. He said the Scouting movement could do much toward bettering international relations.

Club member Bill Bray was presented with a trophy for outstanding service as a Lions Club bulletin editor. This is the second consecutive year which Bill has won the award. Besides acting as bulletin editor for his club Bill is also the club secretary.

Bill's publication received recognition for his six years' service in attendance at club meetings.

Club president "Gib" Gibson presided over the meeting.

Air-Cushioned Ride Is Travel Treat in New Rawson Bus

A three-way air-cushioned ride is the travel treat in store for passengers on the latest edition to the Rawson Bus Lines fleet, delivery of which was accepted this week.

The new 37-passenger streamlined bus is the latest Highway model equipped with air carpet ride and something new in public transportation — airfoam seat cushions. The third shock cushioning is the entire overall unit on which the bus is mounted.

Regular customers on city bus runs will not have the privilege of sampling the riding comfort. The new model has been acquired strictly for charter work and long distance highway runs. The 40-odd foot length in the new conveyance makes it too unwieldy for handling in city traffic.

Powered with a 180 horsepower rear-mounted Cummins Diesel engine, the new bus is also fitted with a complete lack of vibration. Its freewheeling units are cushioned with foam rubber and are complete with slip covers readily taken off for cleaning.

Adding to passenger comfort are individual reading lamps and complete air conditioning for summer or winter comfort. Overhead are racks for small luggage, while there are also two large body compartments reached from the sides for heavier luggage.

Feature of the new bus, however, is the air carpet ride, a new type of suspension, which does away with steel springs. Instead of springs, wheels are mounted on air bellows, air pressure in which is automatically compensated according to load and stress.

"Bus manufacturers have gone all out to prove that passengers can be just as comfortable in a bus as in a private car," stated Fred Rawson, bus company manager.

"And if we can get them into the bus we can prove it."

And a brief ride on the high-way at speeds up to 60 miles per hour amply proved the riding qualities during a demonstration run.

Arts and Craft Club Presents Excellent Display of Works

Quietly and efficiently, the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club started a new season with flying colors last night.

Opening event of the season, and what probably will turn out to be the biggest one, was a professional exhibition of arts and crafts at Sir Winston Churchill School.

Paintings by four professional artists, most of them connected with this area, and Ontario as a whole form or another, are on display at this two-night exhibit which closes Saturday night.

However, the exhibition is not solely in the form of viewing of the easel, but also is well balanced with displays of ceramics work, weaving, leathercraft and metalcraft.

Probably the exhibits to attract most attention are the paintings of Peave Jeffery, noted for his painting in several distinct art clubs and associations, the Ontario and Form Artists Society, Toronto.

Five of Mr. Airola's works are on exhibition, including the ones drawing most attention are his subtle "Abstract" and "Ice Box."

Five works also are exhibited by the Swiss-Canadian artist, Oscar Schlenger. Two oils and three watercolors make up this showing here with the watercolors, "Driftwood" and "Spring Home," receiving much attention from visitors to the display.

Mary Schneider, instructor at the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club, ing five oils, most of them of scenes in the immediate Belleville area. Probably most outstanding is her amusing "My Old Friend's House."

A local artist, Philippa Faulkner, makes up the quartet of professional painters exhibiting. Two oils and a watercolor have been contributed by the well known local artist to the exhibition. Visitors alone will like best of all her bold, bright oil, "Autumn Fiesta."

Also featured is the display of painting of all in the exhibition.

Ceramics also are bound to hold the attention of the art lover, shop window of the arts and crafts. An exhibition of several beautifully balanced pieces by Dr. Roman Schneider, Toronto, and Hazil Smith, Belleville.

Some finely-designed exhibits also may be seen in the weaving section, while five artists also contribute a touch of the artistic smoothness with exhibits in the metalcraft section.

Particularly displayed is the work of Elizabeth Wilks Hoey, Belleville. Oval, has open silk screening exhibits sure to catch the eye of visitors with their delicate creations.

Probably the largest part of the display is that in the leathercraft section, prepared by members of the Canadian Society of Creative Leathercraft, now touring the country.

Inter-Club Service Trophy Won by Lions

The Belleville Lions Club are this year's winner of the Inter-Service Clubs Golf Tournament held on the links at the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

Four service clubs represented Lions, Kinsmen, Kiwanis, Rotary and Y's-Men's Clubs. A year ago the Kiwanis Club were the host "Prince". "Prince" was David's fourth birthday present. David, seated in the carriage handled the reins nicely, much to the crowd's enjoyment. He won 2nd, 3rd, and 5th prizes and also captured 1st prize, accompanied by his mother, both suitably dressed."

Special prizes went to Bill Bray of the Lion's log for closest to the pin with runners-up Henry Fuke of Kiwanis and Lorne Ernie of Kinsmen, also runner-up Bill Bromley, Lions; Bill Harvey, Kiwanis and Fred Fikes, Rotary received prizes for low net scores.

Other special prizes went to Newt Wilmur of Kinsmen for being the "most honest golfer" and to Bill Cash of the Lions as the "best dressed golfer". Other prize winners were Ernie Counsell and Alex Wilson.

Staff Sergeant Kiwanis acted as chairman of the tournament, organizing committee, while games chairman was Arnold Weideden with Don Stanton and Joe McKay as assistants.

3-Part Motion To Be Considered By Council

Prior notice of all delegations wishing to appear before city council will be necessary in the future if an executive committee recommendation sees ratification by council members.

The recommendation which will be up for consideration at the next council meeting is the brain child of Alderman Enos David calls for all delegations desiring to address council to have their request in by 12 noon on the Friday preceding the regular council meeting.

Said in another move to keep council informed as to what is on the agenda, consideration will be given to a recommendation calling for the Mayor and aldermen to be supplied with a list of all business to come before council.

And finally in an effort to expedite council procedure, a third recommendation will call for a stenographer to send all reports of council meetings to take down in shorthand all matters discussed and the acting city clerk may be free to carry out council procedure.

Obituary

LIEUT. HERBERT BENJAMIN WELLER

In ill health for some time but seriously ill only the past few days, Lieut. Herbert Benjamin Weller, 75 Victoria Avenue in this city, died in the veterans' wing of the Hotel Dieu in Kingston, early Friday morning.

He was born in Belleville, 69 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weller. Educated in the public and high school in this city he was associated with the Harry Corby Company, when the office was located on Bridge Street East. Later he was with his father in the lumber business in Hastings County and except for his years overseas, had followed the lumber business until his retirement some years ago.

The late Mr. Weller was well known and highly respected in this community and despite his failing eyesight in the later years of life, he was still the work of kindly man, who took a keen interest in the affairs of the district, the city and country in the First World War when he joined the famous 15th Battalion in 1914 and served in France with his unit later transferring to the Machine Gun Section, where his knowledge of lumbering was put to the use of his country. He was discharged in 1920 and again took up his profession working in Bloomfield, Mich., and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. He came to Belleville a year ago to retire.

During his younger life, he took a keen interest in sport and in 1903 played on the Junior hockey team of this city. He was a member of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville and when health permitted took a keen interest in the work of that parish. Surviving are his wife, the former Maude Wilson; one son, married while overseas, two daughters, Mrs. Jon B. (June) Jolly of Brookside, N.J., Miss Molly Stevens Weller of this city, and one sister, Mrs. John of Toronto.

C.A. Society Presents Report

Mr. C. B. Morgan, president of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society, welcomed the members of the board at the first meeting of the fall season with Mrs. Ernest Ward had a pleasant holiday and were prepared for hard work.

There was a good representation of members with Mr. J. H. Brackett, Mr. C. E. Graham and Mr. M. J. Hamm from the county of Hastings; Mrs. H. Ramsay Park, and Mr. R. H. Smithrim of Trenton, and a number from Belleville.

The resignation of Mr. R. H. Mercklein was accepted with regret, and it was moved that a letter be sent to him to this effect, also stating there would be a place for him when he returns.

The president announced with pleasure that Mr. A. V. Pigott, whom he described as a dynamic speaker, had agreed to be the guest speaker at the annual meeting on February 21. Mr. Pigott is president of Pigott Motors of Canada, chairman of the Toronto Board of Control, and past president of the Winnipeg Children's Aid Society.

Plans for the Community Chest canvass are under way and the members were asked to assist in this campaign.

Mr. C. L. Hyde reported on the additions and alterations at the Children's Aid Society office building and submitted a financial statement for the months of July and August.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, the executive director, asked the members to consider seriously the function of the Children's Aid Society of Belleville and Hastings, stressing that they are not just dealing with problems and cases but with the lives of children now and in the resulting years.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES

Special committees were formed to consider, with Mr. Kerr and members of his staff, such important subjects as the care of neglected children, and the prevention of neglect.

Since January last a number of children have been returned to their own homes which have been re-established satisfactorily.

Mr. Kerr also spoke of children placed for adoption and those whose adoptions have been completed.

Copies of "A Handbook for Foster Parents" prepared by the Children's Aid Society of the City of Hamilton, Board of Hastings and Town of Trenton, were distributed.

Mr. Kerr gave a comprehensive report on the budget required to the existing sources of meeting some of this.

A committee was formed to go into these matters more fully and to set up recommendations.

Lane said it took off as gracefully as it could with a damaged undercarriage, it's body bruised and a light load of feathers.

IN MEMORIAM

WOOD. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Ada Ann Wood. Dear Wood, who passed away-September 24th, 1954.

No farewell words of comfort,
No last look of love,

But left us all to mourn.
Angels rest of love and peace,
And loved ones have to part;
Death leaves a wound that never heals.
—Lovingly remembered by Charlie, Hazel, Junior, Freddie, Shirley and Steward.

WOOD. — In memory of a dear mother, Ada Ann Wood, who passed away suddenly, one year ago on September 24th, 1954.

So we submit, but very remembered, Mother.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

"NEVER GIVE UP!"

Never be sad or desponding
If thou hast faith to believe;
Grace, for the duties before thee,
Ask of thy God and receive.

What if thy burdens oppress thee;
What though thy life may be drear;
Look on the side that is brightest,
Pray, and thy path will be clear.

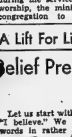
Never be sad or desponding,
There is a morrow for thee;
Soon thou shalt dwell in its brightness,
There with the Lord thou shalt be.

Never be sad or desponding,
Lean on the arm of thy Lord;
Dwell in the depths of His mercy,
Thou shalt receive thy reward.

Fanny Crosby, the blind singer whose hymn verses seem sweeter because they were written in darkness, had a happy surprise one night, toward the end of her life.

She visited a church where, during the service of praise and worship, the minister asked the congregation to sing her own hymn, "Never Give Up!" Perhaps it was the unexpectedness of it all, or it may have been the enthusiasm of the singers. At any rate, Fanny Crosby never forgot how thrilling the singing of her verses seemed that night.

Several times, afterward, she mentioned the incident and once, speaking of the hymn itself, she said:



"There is a great and wonderful truth embodied in its words. The whole victory of life is in them — 'Trust in the Lord and take heart'. That means the exercise of courage, the consciousness of being linked to One mightier than ourselves, and it helps one to keep smiling, to keep sunshiny, and to have not only a song on the lip, but one in the heart."

A Lift For Living

Belief Precedes Knowledge

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Let us start with the statement, "I believe." We may say those words in rather light vein. For instance, we may say, "I believe it will rain tomorrow." That is a mere expression of opinion, a sort of guess work. Or we may say, "I believe James Monroe was the fifth president of the United States." Here we are just stating a belief in lieu of looking up the fact.

But when we say, "I believe in God," we are going further than stating a mere guess or opinion. To believe in God means first of all to think with assent. It means that we have made up our minds that there is a God in whom we believe.

This matter of making up our minds involves more than mere intellect. Watch a little two year old child come into a room where several persons are standing around. The little girl looks about with her eyes wide with wonder. Perhaps there is a pucker of excitement on her face as she tries to take it all in. That's what we say, isn't it, "she is taking it all in." She is taking a picture of the room, the persons, the faces. But her little mind is more than a camera registering external impressions automatically on an inner film. She is making up her mind.

The little girl spies her mother in the crowd. She believes in her mother. That is more than a belief in her mother's existence. She trusts her mother.

ADULTS TAKE IN WORLD

Similarly with grown-up observers, we look around our world. We try to take it in. We try to make up our minds about it. We see such facts as the orderliness of nature, and the fidelity of the good earth with its seasons and harvests. We see a man looking before and after, and pining for what is not." We see man longing for truth and beauty, for justice and mercy; and we ask whence came these ideals. If water cannot rise above its source, must there not be something at the heart of the universe which gives rise to these longings in man? We see men everywhere in all ages building altars and shrines to some Being beyond themselves. And taking it all in, we make up our minds that there must be a God to explain the factors which we see around us.

But believing in God is not just a matter of intellect. It involves the will. Some years ago I sat at the bedside of a young man who had suffered a long series of misfortunes and accidents. He said he could see no evidence of God. His trouble was that his mind was in a position analogous to his body, that is, flat on its back, waiting for God to come and rescue Himself. Well, God does not come and prove Himself to minds flat on their backs. He comes to those who are desperately seeking Him for aid in others, as He came to the sick lad's father who cried, "I believe help thou mine unbelief." Our Heavenly Father shows Himself to penitent prodigals who have risen from their sins and are returning to the homeland of their innocent childhood.

BELIEF PRECEDES KNOWLEDGE

Jesus said, "He that cometh to God must believe that He is." Do you say that is begging the question? No, the Master is only telling us that in religion as elsewhere, belief must often journey ahead of factual knowledge. There were two scientists who believed the atom could be split long before it was demonstrated to the rest of us ten years ago.

Or consider friendship. If your friend invites you to dinner, you do not ask him for a written guarantee that there is no poison in the food. If he invites you to ride with him in his car, he does not require you to sign a waiver releasing him from damages in case of accident. If your friend bids you to spend the night in his house, he does not put you under bond not to steal the valuables in the room. In short, a friend trusts himself to the fidelity of a friend.

This attitude of trust, so essential to human fellowship, is equally necessary to our relations with God. As Dr. Charles Wishart says, me must be gentlemen with God. That is, we must take some things on trust.

Do you have doubts about God? George Matheson, a young Scottish preacher, once was so beset with doubt that he wanted to give up the ministry. His friends counseled him to go on living up to the best that was in him just as if he still believed. Matheson held on and became one of Scotland's greatest preachers.

Remember, we advance toward God one step at a time, not all at once.

ARE OUR WORLD LEADERS TOO OLD?

In the United States the Democratic and Republican parties are already actively preparing for the next presidential election which will not be held until November of 1956.

Much depends on whether President Eisenhower decides to seek re-election. Recently he remarked that if he did serve a second term, he would be 70 before its completion. No U.S. president has attained that age while in office.

Naturally the Democrats have seized on this fact and started to use it in a campaign designed to persuade the voters that, no matter how much they may like Ike, they should not vote for him because he would not be likely to live out his term but would be succeeded by the vice-president. The probable Republican nominee for that post is Richard Nixon, 42, who was once considered a "rightist," is now believed by many to have joined Eisenhower in a "middle-of-the-road" policy but who still has enemies.

The New Republic of Washington reports that Dr. Harvey C. Lehman, a psychologist at Ohio University, was moved by President Eisenhower's observation to examine the trend of things over the past century and has discovered some interesting facts about the ages of the nation's rulers. The average age of top-ranking soldiers during the American revolution was not quite 40; by the Civil War it had gone up to almost 50; in the Second Great War it was verging on 59. The same change is noted in the ranks of political leaders. Representatives in Congress were, on the average, 6 years older in 1925 than they were in 1825 and senators added 15 years to their average age. Members of the U.S. cabinet have put on 14 years since the turn of the century.

All this, of course, is easily explained by the fact that medical science has increased man's life span in those parts of the world where good medical treatment is available.

That does not mean, however, that the advanced age of many of the world's leaders should not be the occasion of troubling. Psychiatrists point out that Premier Bulganin of Russia is 70, that Sir Winston Churchill, Syngman Rhee and Konrad Adenauer have all lived more than four-score years.

Elder statesmen have distinct advantages over their younger rivals. They can offer the world a wealth of experience; approaching the end of their lives, they are more likely to look at the world's problems with that cool detachment which often paves the way to wise decisions.

But there is something to be said, too, for the man who is in his prime, who is attuned to the present and not burdened too heavily with memories of the past.

There is no reason why a nation should discard a leader just because he is past 70 years. There is also no reason why it should entrust its future only to grey hairs. The New Republic's list of elderly statesmen is long enough to include quite a number all of them are so blessed with extraordinary abilities that there are, in their countries, no younger men more likely to prove skilful coachmen of the national chariot if the reins of office were placed in their hands.

NATIONAL IMMUNIZATION WEEK

Next week is National Immunization Week.

It is being organized by the Health League of Canada, in co-operation with health departments.

The aim of the week is to call to the attention of the public the importance of immunizing children and urge those diseases with respect to which such a program is possible, including smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio.

The polio immunization program, of course, is being carried on by the government, through schools, and so far it is impossible for parents to arrange privately for such protection.

Immunization against other diseases in the list is also offered through the schools. But these are cases where, for one circumstance or another, a child will miss getting his or her "shots." If the Week accomplishes nothing more than to prod forgetful parents into remedying such omissions it will have been worth while.

Some persons may believe that immunization work has already become so effective that emphasis on its value is not required. The Health League takes the contrary view. In 1954, it says, there were 76 more cases of diphtheria than in the previous year, 208 cases in all with 18 deaths. Whooping cough cases numbered over 11,800 and there were 157 deaths caused by this disease in 1954, 80 of them in Quebec, 28 in Alberta and 21 in Ontario. An analysis of cases seen at the Hospital for Sick Children at Toronto showed that 95 per cent of the children with whooping cough had received no immunization treatment. Most deaths are among babies. Immunization can be commenced at three months, immunization of older children, will reduce the chances of babies being exposed to the disease before they can receive immunization treatments. As for tetanus, or lockjaw, while it is a rare disease it is a deadly and cruelly painful one.

POSSESSION

The more the things we gather cost
The greater is the care required.
Lest they be broken, stolen, lost,
For them must space in vaults be hired.
Possession, difficult to gain,
Is sometimes harder to retain.

The more we get, the more to guard.
Make worries over what is
The fortune won by labors hard

May prove to be as hard to keep.
Watchful of things we're forced to stay,
Lest they be lost or snatched away.

Once give your heart to treasures rare,
As every one is apt to do,
They must be given constant care.
Great worth will make a slave of you.
You'll have to keep a sturdy grip
Upon the pride of ownership.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Sept. 24, 1935

An interesting event took place on Thursday afternoon in the office of the London Life Insurance Company when Mr. Vernon Weir was presented with a handsome chesterfield suite by the members of the entire staff as a token of their esteem.

Mrs. D. Conway has returned to her home in Oshawa after spending a week here with friends.

Harbor Master Robert Goudy informs us that 2500 boxes of cheese, the largest shipment of cheese this season, was loaded on the steamer Glen Allan yesterday for Montreal.

At Queen's University, Kingston, recently, the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon Mr. Julius Abramsky of Belleville, Miss Marion Winifred Blake of Deseronto and Miss C. Lillian Fairweather of Bloomfield.

On Sunday morning at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church a beautiful oak lectern or reading desk was consecrated in memory of the late Donald MacKenzie Waters, who was a prominent member of the church for many years and was a valued member of the churchboard for a considerable time. The lectern, which is the gift of Mrs. D. M. Waters, completes the furnishing of the chancel and is a handsome piece from of the organ console and on the opposite side to the pulpit. The consecration service was conducted by the minister, the Rev. W. J. Walker.

Sept. 24, 1925

The plans for the observance of the 60th. anniversary of the founding of Christ Church Parish are well underway. The jubilee will be held in the city hall on Oct. 14th. The first church building, a modest rough cast structure was built in 1864 on Moira Street west, near the upper bridge and it was dedicated on January the first in 1865. This church was burned to the ground and steps were taken immediately to build the present church on Coleman Street and it was dedicated on April 6, 1884. The Rev. Canon Clarke is the present rector.

Mrs. Diamond of Bass Lake is the guest of Mrs. Wiggins, Everett Street.

Mr. S. B. Rollins, reeve of Tweed Village, was a visitor in town today.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here on Sunday last ninety new members were received into the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reid and son, Donald, of Toronto, are the guest of the former's uncle, Mr. Charles M. Reid, Bridge Street east.

Sultan Who Liked Hitler

(Peterborough Examiner)

The French Government is edging Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa from the Moroccan throne, on which it had put him two years ago. It is establishing a regency, in preparation for a political settlement of the Moroccan troubles which will please nationalist feelings in that French African colony. The deposing Moulay Arafa, the Faure Government in Paris has agreed to transfer former Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef from exile in Madagascar in France. This may be a step to re-establish Ben Youssef in the Sultanate from which he had been removed in 1953 because of his inimical nationalism. This Arab leader is a man who bears watching as his correspondence with Hitler during the war proves.

In 1945 the Allies discovered in the archives of Hitler's Wilhelmstrasse a letter written in January of 1943 by Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef to the German Fuhrer whom he addressed as "the greatest leader of all the peoples and of all time." When the letter was sent to Hitler, Allied landings had been made in North Africa and the Sultan of Morocco was supposed to be a loyal faithful to France. But the Sultan wrote that if the Moroccans had the possibility of resisting (the Allied landings), they would not have hesitated to do so.

"They hope, despite the anger which these landings caused them, that the German ascendancy will arrive." The Sultan gave the German consul-general in Tangier detailed information about hidden arms, depots, military bases, the location of airfields, and the number of naval transports, landing craft and gasoline available in the equipment they unloaded. "I am determined to assist you regardless of any danger," wrote the Sultan to Hitler.

This, then, is the ex-Sultan Ben Youssef, whom rabid Moroccan nationalists want restored to the Moroccan throne, over which France is suzerain. Was he a traitor in 1943-45? From a French point of view he most certainly was. Yet it is likely that Ben Youssef's friendly attitude towards the Germans was dictated by his hatred of French colonialism. In the last decade France has dealt inept ly and inadequately with the rise of nationalism in its colonial empire. The same error which inclined Sultan Ben Youssef to the Germans in the war, and the nineteenth century colonial policy of French governments which has been continued to have caused the uprising in Morocco this year.

Diagnosis

(Winnipeg Tribune)

An ulcer sufferer on the bus the other day said a stirrup had his condition to 10 years of working between a guy who whistles and red corpuscles who can think of no reason why they can't have them.

On Coining New Words

(New York Times)

Recently a Congressman threw a new word into the wind over Capitol Hill. Representative J. Arthur Younger, a California Republican, offered "urbiculture" to our language. Initial reaction indicated that his effort would not be accepted. What the lawmaker had in mind was the creation of a department of "urbiculture" that would extend services of the Agriculture to the city-dweller in the manner that the Department of Agriculture does by the farmer.

In creating "urbiculture," Representative Younger joined the ranks of the linguistic do-it-yourself movement. One student of language has estimated that about 5,000 words are coined in this country each year. Only a fraction of these manage to stay on to become part of the language. The Fowlers, word wizards of the highest order, have gone on record as those constructed to serve the needs of the moment they invented the term "nonce word."

As a dramatic example of how the language grows and grows, they pointed out that the word "apendicitiss" made its first existence in 1884 when the Oxford English Dictionary began publication. Nor was "apendicitiss" a solidly established term for a gaseous element in the air.

What makes a person invent a new word? The heavy Webster's offers more than 350,000 entries, but the inventor finds that no meaning defined and catalogued. They do people feel the necessity in a new way? Perhaps the answer lies in the fact that it is easier than to language, every man is his own expert. Words are a commonly shared technique, but the creative possibilities become a subjective matter, open to much misuse or an artistic juxtaposition as the individual desires. And the challenge to wit and expressiveness in the invention of new words, or in giving new meanings to old ones, is almost universal.

Whatever the reason for neologisms, one cannot dispute the living quality of language, continually growing — due to the purist, continually being defiled. Sometimes the name of a man becomes a word descriptive of certain characteristics or lack of them. Sandwiching, the Norwegian Nazi, supplied in his name the accepted noun for a traitorous national who aids an invader. Or to another extreme, Lewis Carroll's speech. Scientists have given up "cyclotron," "penicillin," "atom" and "pesticide." The military have brought "blackout" to everyday usage, and "jeep" into everyday usage. The high-fidelity interest and the "hi-fi" craze in a few years have made the onomatopoetic "woofer" and "tweeter" more or less familiar.

Man's fascination with language is a basic interest that he is very young. To many it never ceases. To linguists, language is their work, it seems to want to learn more. And then comes a word that is their delight: inventing a new word that may one day gain complete respectability, perhaps even in a dictionary. Word games and challenges, from anagrams to scrabble, have provided what one wag has called "inbarred technique." Perhaps the next one would like to suggest a game called "Coin a Word." It might be fun. Or maybe we might have Neology, anyone?

Dome Coaches Are Popular

(By Ward Allan Howe, In The New York Times)

Rail travel this summer has been fevery on most lines, especially on those having dome-equipped trains. Trans-ners have been more than filled, and trains carried overtime. But dining-car trains are not the highest, even when they are filled at night.

These are some observations noted on a thirty-day 9,000-mile coveling travel on fourteen railroads in the United States, Canada, roads and twenty-seven trains. The journey, which began in Montreal, took in a cost of $161.54 for the fare alone. There was sunshine every day and in four cities, San Francisco and Monterey, California, it was cool for comfort.

The rush to ride trains with domes was especially apparent. Everywhere, those trains were doing good business. At one stop, a country club members were waiting who had been unable to get reservations, and there were three up his hands, but let them on nevertheless. Some travelers find the domes a pleasant relaxing place to spend the night than the stuffy sleeping cars, where there is no easier and quieter riding upstairs.

Trains with domes which this summer ride were the California Zephyr, North Coast Limited, City of Kansas, Pacific Limited, Empire Builder, and Canadian Pacific's Transcontinental and Trans-Canada Limited. Trains with dome coaches are the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy's Denver

Choosing Capital

Every schoolboy knows how Ottawa was chosen as the capital of Canada. Others—Montreal and Kingston were all angling the honor and were so jealous of each other that no one in Canada wished to make the decision. The problem was therefore placed before Queen Victoria. She looked at a map of her young country beyond the seas, ignored the three main contenders, put her finger on a map and said, "Let the capital be Ottawa."

Many Canadians were surprised by the choice and had to hurry to their maps to see where Ottawa was. If they had known more about their own history, however, they would have known that Ottawa had been the choice as a capital many years before, long before anyone even lived there.

After the American Revolution, when many Loyalists were leaving their homes in the Republic to come to live in British territory, the Governor of Canada was General Sir Guy Carlton, Lord Dorchester. During the Revolutionary War, a young officer named John Graves Simcoe was in command of a regiment called the Queens Rangers. One time, Lord Dorchester made a critical remark about the Rangers; Simcoe heard about it and never forgot it.

When the war was over and the provinces of Upper and Lower Canada were being formed, Dorchster suggested that a capital should be built at the Chaudiere Falls on the Ottawa River. In the meantime, Simcoe had been appointed Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada and he was determined that Dorchester's wishes should not be followed. At first, he founded a capital at Niagara-on-the-Lake. Then, he planned to establish it at London but finally he settled on an Indian meeting place referred to by the redmen as Toronto. He called it York.

Dorchester was disappointed, but so too was Richard Cartwright, of Kingston, a rich merchant, who had set his heart on having a city founded at the Chaudiere. He it was who first suggested the site to Dorchester and if Simcoe had not been sent to Canada as Lieutenant GGovernor there would have been an Ottawa city away back in 1790. Two years before Simcoe arrived, surveyors had visited the region and had reported favorably. They had laid out a town plot and recommended a settlement, but their report was ignored and the area left vacant.

A quarter of a century later, Col. By came from England to build a canal from the Chaudiere to the St. Lawrence. As the first bridge on the Ottawa was completed, he stood there with Lord Dalhousie, another Governor of Canada. Dalhousie looked across the river and said: "There, gentlemen, is the site of the future capital."

His prophecy was realized when, on the eve of Confederation, the Queen made the wishes of the Governors come true and Ottawa became the capital of Canada.

RAWDON

Departing Residents Given Farewell Gifts

RAWDON — On Wednesday evening approximately 40 neighbors and relatives gathered at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies, and their nephew, Mr. Jack McEathron, to bid them adieu before their departure to reside in Stirling on the Frankford Road.

The new owner of the farm, Mr. Antonious Yonkman, Jr., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Yonkman, Sr., and his sister Margaret, who reside in part of the house, also opened their rooms for the occasion and this also gave them an opportunity to meet their new neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Menzies and Jack moved to the second concession of Rawdon 11 years ago, and they came as complete strangers from Morganston.

Since that time they have made many friends in the Mount Pleasant district and all hope they will enjoy their retirement in the village.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, was master of ceremonies, and spoke briefly.

Interesting selections were read by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, "How Father Got Started"; by Mrs. Douglas Campbell, "Neighbors", and Mrs. Ross Jeffs, "Friends."

Mr. and Mrs. Menzies and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker led in a couple of rounds of assembly singing throughout the program. This consisted of old-time melodies and two sacred numbers.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen recited a humorous selection, "A Comparison," and Mr. George Weaver brought greetings and best wishes from the Anson Line neighbors.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Mrs. Frank Jeffs read an appropriate address and the presentations were made by Percy MacMullen and Harold Hagerman.

In the absence of Mr. Jack McEathron, who was absent owing to duties at a new factory in Bloomfield, Mr. Cecil Nelson acted as his proxy, receiving the gift on his behalf and voicing thanks for same. Jack's gift was a lovely green blanket with satin binding and a matching floor rug.

Mr. and Mrs. Menzies were the recipients of an electric tea kettle and two brier rose Axminster floor rugs.

Mr. and Mrs. Menzies each spoke briefly as they sincerely thanked their friends for the lovely gifts, for their kindness in arranging this party and invited everyone to pay them a visit in their new home.

"For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" and "The Queen" closed a pleasant evening, followed by refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Menzies celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary four years ago. Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver, who also were in attendance, celebrated their golden anniversary two years ago.

Relatives were in attendances from Bethel, Ridge Road, Oak Hills and Frankford.

No. 5 Company, RCASC, Finds Plenty of Variety in Army Life

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP BORDEN, Ont. (CP)—Korea last year, Canada this year and Germany for the next two—that's the story of No. 5 Transport Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Now reassembling hereafter embarkation leaves, the main body sails from Quebec, Sept. 29, with wives and dependents to follow.

When it was formed in 1952 the unit, now commanded by Maj. Robert A. D. Kelly of Winnipeg, was No. 36 Transport company. In its first year it became the army's first outfit to drive its transport back to base on a long haul. After manoeuvres at Camp Wainwright in Alberta it demonstrated that a 1,000-mile convoys can be handled without disrupting civilian traffic or straining drivers or vehicles unduly. The pattern it worked out has become standard in the army.

USED AT GAGETOWN

Following its technique, all units except armor in the army's exercise Rising Star last month at Camp Gagetown, N.B., drove their own vehicles, instead of shipping them by rail.

In Korea, the unit hauled ammunition for the Commonwealth division and rations for the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

There the company set another first for both Commonwealth and Canadian armies: In operation Skyhook, working with a United States unit, it supplied a division by helicopter.

On its return it got its present name. Of its Korea crowd, 80 per cent of the officers, 80 per cent of the NCOs and about 50 per cent of the men still are with it.

"You can't beat esprit de corps, and this is one unit that has it," says WO2 John R. Stringer, 35, of Kitchener, Ont., the company sergeant-major. "We've done so much together in Canada, in Korea, and back here again, that the mutual confidence among all ranks make this an outfit with a flavor."

LINK WITH B.C.

Almost all provinces are represented in its ranks, but the outfit has a special affection for B.C. thanks to an idea of Capt. J. J. Fitzgibbons of Vancouver. The 3rd Company—five is Roman numeral V—Penticton Va, world hockey champions."

A letter went to logging operator Jack Sexton of Winfield, B.C., and in no time the outfit had a hockey stick from the V's, signed by all members of the team. A silver puck is to be mounted on the stick which will be the company's permanent inter - platoon hockey trophy. It will be played for in Germany this winter for the first time.

Of 394 officers and men on strength, 165 are married. Married quarters already have been allotted to half of them. Until more become available the others will have to find their own accommodation.

"Families of the men who have quarters will follow within two or three weeks," said Maj. Kelly.

"We are sending as many machines as possible on the first draft to give them a head start on setting up accommodation. As soon as a soldier finds suitable quarters, his dependents will be moved over."

While they are looking forward to settling into the army's new barracks at Soest, where they will be stationed with other units of the 2nd Infantry Brigade, the men boast they hold a Canadian army record for time under canvas.

"Between Wainwright, Korea, Blackdown (an army campsite near here) and Gagetown, we think we've spent more time under canvas than any other unit in the army," said WO2 Stringer.

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Color television, an expensive proposition estimated to cost four or five times as much as black-and-white, still is far from being just around the corner in Canada.

So far, the broadcasters and the manufacturers of color receiving sets appear to be waiting for each other to create a demand for color television. And both are going to watch what will happen in the United States next winter.

In the U.S., one company (Radio Corporation of America) has spent $50,000,000 to develop color television and a network (NBC) is planning 15 to 15 hours a week of color programs.

In Canada, the CBC set aside $500,000 for minor modifications of its transmitters in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto to enable them to rebroadcast U.S. color programs. Private broadcasters have not disclosed their plans.

NOT THIS WINTER

However, apart from a small sum urnd to keep abreast of developments in the U.S., it is learned there has been no decision to make the modifications for this winter at least.

There have been reports that the CBC might start experimental color telecasts late in 1956, but a spokesman said no money will be spent until the CBC is sure there is a demand for color TV.

It likely will take more than a few hundred sets to create the demand that would warrant heavy spending on color. Although manufacturers are attempting to bring down the cost of color sets, the cheapest receiver available in the U.S. is about $500.

Color sets are made to receive black-and-white programs, and color telecasts would be received in black and white on ordinary receivers.

EXTEND NETWORK

Meanwhile, the CBC microwave network is expected to be completed by 1958. It will include facilities for color transmissions from coast to coast.

Such advertising would be expected to be in color and that might cost more to produce than an entire program in black and white. Some authoritative estimates run as much as $100,000 for advertising spots alone.

Color television requires more expensive cameras and larger crews than the black-and-white variety. Lighting is three or four times stronger, creating more heat in studios and the need for more powerful air conditioning systems.

Larger technical crews and more signing for color also contribute to higher costs.

One television expert said: "We are up to our neck in black-and-white television now. But we'd be in the bottom of the pit with color."

Donald Maclean Was Suspected Before He Fled

LONDON (Reuters)—A government report on the Burgess-Maclean "missing diplomats" case disclosed Friday that Guy Burgess had been "guilty of indiscreet talk about secret matters" as early as 1949.

The two foreign office officials—Burgess and Donald Maclean—vanished in May, 1951, behind the Iron Curtain.

The report—a white paper—said that in January, 1949, British security authorities received a report that certain foreign office information had been leaked to Soviet authorities some years earlier.

"Highly secret but widespread and protracted inquiries were begun by the security authorities and the field of suspicion had been narrowed by mid-April 1951 to two or three persons," the report went on.

MACLEAN SUSPECTED

By the beginning of May, 1951, Maclean—then head of the foreign office's American department—had come to be regarded as the principal suspect.

The report said: "There was however, even at that time no legally admissible evidence to support a prosecution under the Official Secrets Act."

CONLEY—CORNELL

St. Thomas' Anglican church, Bellefonte, was the setting on Saturday, August 27, at 2.30 p.m., for the lovely ceremony when the Rev. L. A. Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, Bellefonte, united in marriage Doris Marie Cornell of Bellevaille, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cornell, to Hubert Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Conley, before a background of pink and white gladioli.

Mr. John Croyden Wilhers, organist of Christ church, provided the wedding music, which included the "Lord's Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Y.F.C. Sponsors Train to Hear Billy Graham

Young and old boarded the train sponsored by Youth for Christ, at Bellevaille, Trenton, Cobourg, Port Hope and Bowmanville to hear Billy Graham, where he is conducting a special campaign in the city of Toronto.

The evening service opened with a song service under the leadership of Mr. Clint Bennett, choir director, and member of the Billy Graham team, who led the congregation in many old familiar hymns of the Cross.

Mr. Barron's theme is that of the Psalmist, "I sing unto the Lord's new song; for He hath done marvellous things: His right hand, and His holy arm hath gotten Him the victory."

Billy Graham chose as his text, Matthew 15:18, "But those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile a man." "Out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, and blasphemies."

Mr. Graham spoke particularly on the "heart" and went on to say that "the heart of those things the emotions, the centre of man's conscience and the spring of all human life. The heart is the centre of your life and your soul." "Isn't it strange," he said, "that people spend all of their time on the house (the body), and so little on the soul?" "The human heart is a treasure store of evil because from it come evil thoughts, doubts, pride and rebellion against God."

Mr. Graham went on to say that "we can have this old heart with its sinfulness exchanged for a clean heart. All we have to do is to put our trust in Him and the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, and blasphemies."

Housewives To Get Help In Marketing Ideas

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian housewives—the nation's most practised and most critical consumers—will help authorities on food marketing and some help in marketing their ideas.

The Canadian Association of Consumers today announced the formation of a committee to help housewife-designers develop, patent and market their ideas.

"Many a woman must have doped out an improved clothes peg or a better saucepan, but additional, her national women's organization said. "But for lack of encouragement and ideas have usually disappeared down the drain."

The organization—which says it serves 200,000 Canadian women through the 10 provincial bands represented on its board of directors—has appointed a Toronto housewife-inventor as chairman of its new "committee on marketable ideas."

She is Mrs. Elizabeth McLennan, mother of two children, who has designed a gadget called a "Pat-It-Knit." The gadget keeps various coloured yarns from tangling when knitting diamond or pattern socks or sweaters. It holds just enough yarn to knit either one pair of sock or the back of a sweater.

The CAC says she learned about the "hazards and headaches of developing, patenting and marketing her brain-child."

The new committee, operating solely in an advisory capacity, will provide interested inventors with an explanation of the steps taken to register their ideas. If the committee agrees an idea has merit, it will also provide the inventor a letter of introduction to a manufacturer of her choice.

How to Get Reservations

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

There comes a time in the life of every traveller when all is frustration and despair: there just aren't any reservations to be had anywhere, for anything.

If you had started planning your trip early enough it wouldn't have happened, but since it isn't always possible, you'll have to resort to some of the additional ways of skinning the cat. Don't panic; one or more of these tricks will usually work.

For Hotels: Chances are you sent a wire or wrote a letter to your favorite hotel and got back an answer that they were booked solid for the date, you wanted. But — though you may find it hard to believe — that doesn't necessarily mean you can't get a room there, and it certainly doesn't mean there are no rooms at that particular city or resort.

For one thing, there are dozens of rooms in non-short cuts that so consistently fill up they don't even bother with reservations. They don't have to; somebody always comes along to provide business and travel agents by returning them away by early evening. Some resort hotels won't accept reservations for short stays.

TRIP APPROACHES

There are two things that you can do: come ahead anyway and take your chances that they'll squeeze you in, or try information somewhere else in that city for a protection, or for your first night only, if need be, then come ahead and take your chances.

Even if you can't get a room assured, no hotel will let you sleep in the lobby. They'll get you a room somewhere for the first night if you come in early, or even if it's at a tourist home, and then get you in for the next night's rest. And what's wrong with a tourist home? Most of them have better accommodations than the average second class hotel.

If you're making a stay of several days, the hotel may sometimes tell you it can accommodate you for one night only, but go ahead and take it. Legally they can't drag you out unless, possibly, you sign an understanding that your accommodation is for just one night, but they'll be sure to make room for you; the agreement is only for their protection, and almost never will they ask you to leave.

You might try getting a number of hotels at once, and if you get multiple confirmations, cancel only the ones you don't want when you arrive.

RESERVATION BUREAU

In some large cities there are hotel reservation bureaus that can usually find you accommodations at no expense to you. They may even have influence in getting crowded hotels. Regional travel agents will also perform this service free for resort places, but not necessarily for commercial hotels.

One more angle — most hotels today belong either to a chain, or are connected with a mutual reservations teletype system with other independent hotels. Frequently rooms are held for members of the group when the general public is being turned down.

By phoning a member hotel in your city or a nearby one, you may be able to solve your problem. It's the cheapest way, too.

For Airlines: Since the reconfirmation rule was discontinued last spring, the airlines have had more cancellations and "no-shows" at the last minute than they used to, and your chance of eventually getting that seat, a flight that is filled up when you call in a lot faster than it used to be.

But don't count on it when the reservations clerk says, "Sorry, you'll have to call back." Tell them you're a passenger in a hurry, and to put you on the waiting list, especially if those on the waiting list aren't interested enough to phone in occasionally, you may be given a space that just opened up when you phone.

CALL LOCAL OFFICE

If part of your trip is on an airline other than the one you are working through, particularly if it is the first leg, it may help if you call that airline's local office directly. But make sure they are the ones handling your reservations if they do connecting for you, for they may not like your working on your own, but if it's effective you've got a good chance.

Going out to the airport to stand by for a last minute cancellation is effective about 90 per cent of the time, though it's more of a matter of luck if there are two or more of you.

Most airlines will clear you only one stop at a time, but your chances of staying on the plane are excellent, since most of the lines will give you preference over transients and stand by for cancellations at these stops.

To improve your chances, your best bet is to arrive at the airport stop or comparatively direct flights that require no change.

For Railroads: If you can't get a Pullman berth, you can usually get a coach seat, for which only the conductor can more than likely turn up at least an upper by bedtime. Possibilities of getting a last minute cancellation at the station are always good too, particularly if you've previously placed your name with the ticket agent.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church W.M.S., Ivanhoe, was held at the home of Mrs. Barton Haggerty on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Harry Benson, president, presiding.

The program opened with the singing of the hymn "Pour Out Thy Spirit From on High" followed by prayer led by Mrs. Alex. Fleming.

Psalm 35 was read by Mrs. John Hassell.

A study of the keyword, the 9th Commandment "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour" was given by Mrs. Harold Thompson. This commandment of God's law is probably broken more easily than any other—There is slander, gossip, tale-bearing and rumour in the world which are not the harmless little vices we like to think they are. There is competitive dishonesty in the business game. There is prevarication in advertising. There is deception in politics.

"God devoted one entire commandment of His law to the matter of untruth. In the sight of God a breaker of this is no less guilty of sin than a killer."

The Bible says that we only expose untruth but will expel it. Proverbs 19:5—A false witness shall not be unpunished: and he that speaketh lies shall not escape."

BOOK

A chapter in the study book was reviewed by Mrs. John Wright. This chapter dealt with a most important letter of St. Paul to the Romans, which is a distinct social problem. Wide areas bake at 125 degrees F. while in other areas have had heavy snow and freezing temperatures. The worst is the vitiating effect upon the people. The relation of weather to health is as old as the world. At certain times of the year, there is lack of water, meaning less to wash with, and less to drink. The monsoon—another name for weather—and disorder—is an ever present problem in India.

A story of an Indian boy, "Prem" going to school was read by Mrs. Wright.

A report of the Maritime Rally held in St. Andrew's church, Sterling, September 10, was given by Miss Bessie Fleming, who also thanked Mrs. Haggerty for opening her home.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker closed with prayer.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

INVITING GROOM'S DAUGHTERS AND FATHER TO THE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married soon to a divorced man who has grown children. I have met the children. They are very fond of their father. Is it proper to send them wedding invitations?

Also is it proper to invite my fiance's father to the wedding?

Bride-to-be.

Certainly you should invite your prospective groom's children and his father to the wedding . . . no matter how small the wedding. It would not be appropriate to invite these members of his immediate family by sending them invitations. The most gracious and suitable way to invite them would be, if possible, for you and your fiance to go together to see them, tell them of your plans for the wedding, and invite them to come. If this is not possible or convenient, you might telephone to them, with your fiance with you to second the invitation. You might write them cordial notes telling them the news and plans of the wedding, and inviting them to be with you at the wedding. There should, of course, be no formality about giving these invitations . . . this is fine opportunity to establish a warm and friendly relationship with those so close to your prospective groom.

WEDDING ATTENDANT'S CHILDREN NOT TO BE INVITED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would you please set me right about my question! My grandmother is returning soon from his service in the Navy, and is to be married the next month at a Nuptial Mass. My son was asked to be an usher and he accepted, but when they asked if no children were to be invited, my son said that would be hard on him and his wife, for they couldn't afford a sitter for so long a time (Mass at 11 o'clock), then the reception after the Mass, then the evening reception. I thought the members of the wedding party could bring their children, but the bride's family say no.

B.

The bride's family are the hosts of the wedding, and therefore of course they are the ones who have the privilege of deciding all the plans for the wedding . . . including whether or not they wish to have children invited to the wedding. Today many brides and their parents regard a wedding and reception as occasions for grown-ups only, no children to be invited, and they make this clear to parents who might take it for granted that their children are included in the invitation. And even a person who has been invited to be a member of the wedding party must abide by this decision, must plan to cooperate with it in whatever way necessary.

PLANS FOR REHEARSAL - DINNER AND GIFTS TO ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. After the wedding date has been set and the wedding attendants chosen, does the bride-to-be entertain, the wedding party at a dinner given before the rehearsal, or at a simple supper after the rehearsal? And should this dinner or supper be given at her home or some other place?

2. When does the bride-to-be give her gifts to her attendants? And when does the groom-to-be give his gifts to his attendants?

C.

1. These plans depend entirely on convenience. Equally correct is for the bride's parents (or quite often the groom's parents) to give a dinner before the rehearsal or to serve very simple refreshments after the rehearsal. And the party may be given in the bride's home or wherever else is more convenient . . . with such busy hours directly before the wedding, it is sometimes considered more convenient not to give the party in the bride's home, where so many preparations are going on.

2. If the bride gives a luncheon for her attendants (as often is done) she gives them her gifts then; if there is no special party for her attendants, she gives her gifts at any convenient time. The groom may give his gifts to his attendants at his bachelor dinner: If he isn't to give a bachelor dinner, he gives them at any convenient time.

Star Gazing

By NANCY CLEAVER

Star gazing is old as mankind. It is a hobby which fascinates a child and never loses its charm with the passing years. Astronomy is a field where there is always something new to learn, something for which to search. Fresh discoveries are being made all the time, and during the last century some of the important ones have been first noticed by amateurs. Especially in the country, or at the lake or sea shore, where one can have long star time, brightness, on any clear night the stars shine down in all their beauty.

Some 9,000 stars can be seen with the naked eye all over the earth throughout a whole year. But only 2,500 to 3,000 stars can be seen with the naked eye from any place at one time.

Telescopes have been used for less than five centuries. Star gazers can find out a great deal about the heavenly bodies with just their two eyes. The Indians used to know the eyesight of their children by pointing out the second star in the handle of the Big Dipper and asking if they could see there was a tiny star beside the bright one. "If a little rider, or a buck," they called it. Like many other races, they often called the Big and Little Dippers Big Bear and Little Bear. Astronomers today call them Ursa Minor and Ursa Major, and use Latin names for many of the constellations.

It is fun to look for the stars or the moon through good field glasses, but the chief excitement in using to have the privilege to view them through a telescope. In most areas, some amateur astronomer owns a telescope and is glad to find those who are enthusiastic to catch a glimpse of the heavens through its lenses.

Observatories are stationed in definite places and are usually open to the public at stated times. A visit to a Planetarium, like the one in Chicago, is indeed a "High occasion," a delightful into the wonder and the majesty of the night skies.

Simple star maps are inexpensive and not too difficult to follow. The little booklet, "An Easy Pocket Star Guide for Beginners" by H. R. Kingston is a must to find the star enthusiast's. Three or the many excellent books on astronomy for young readers are The Stars for Sam by W. Maxwell Reed, Wo Among the Stars, by H. and A. Schneider, and Stars, by Zim and Baker.

Drawing a map of one's own from observation of the stars on a clear night, after studying them for a month, is a good test of how much information you have acquired.

A large round cookie tin can be converted into splendid star map by painting it a dark blue. Then trace a star map, and using nails of three sizes, punch holes, big one for the First Magnitude stars, medium sized one for the Second Magnitude stars and the smallest holes for the lesser ones. An outline of the constellations and their names can be marked with luminous paint. Place a flat flashlight, facing upward, inside the tin, put on the cover, and you have a very special star map of your own marking.

If amateur photography is a favorite hobby, why not try a fast film of the path of the stars on some clear moonless night? A circular tube cardboard lens hood two or three inches long will keep out stray light and protect the negative from dew marks even if it does limit the field. A tripod camera can be pointed to the North Star, or a box camera supported on a level chair, and the film given a time exposure of several hours. Because of the motion of our rotating earth, the longer the exposure, the longer will be the arcs traced by the stars with the stationary North Star the centre hub of the wheel.

Star study can be carried on in any season. Children, and older boys and girls, love stories of action and adventure. Every race which ever lived has its own legends about the mighty figures which people the night sky. The Red Indians, the Egyptians, the Greeks, the Oriental nations have all contributed to the wonderful treasury of star stories. Why not try the hobby of star study and learn the legends? Just see for yourself how much you and your family will enjoy it!

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I WOULDN'T THINK YOU'D HAVE MUCH IN COMMON WITH THIS BOY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 14 years old, and I am going with a boy 17. Do you think he is too old for me?

I would also like to ask you another question. Do you think it's right for him to blow the horn for me when he comes to take me out, or do you think he should come and knock on the door?

B.

Dear B.:

I wouldn't think that a 14-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy would have very much in common. There are years that separate them generally give them different interests, especially in school matters. But if the two of you really enjoy each other's company and you like to go out together occasionally, I see no reason why you shouldn't.

Don't get any ideas about "going steady" with this chap, though, or other boys ask you to go out with them, by all means do so. Take my word for it, you'll be changing boy friends quite frequently as you go through the teens, so try not to take any one of them too seriously.

And another thing. Don't try to grow up too fast and expect to go out on evening dates too often. It's not very nice for a girl of 14 to go out at night all the time. So if your mother lets you go out on a Friday or Saturday night each week, and sometimes on a school night if there's something special going on, be content with that for this year anyhow. As you grow older, you'll be entitled to more privileges, but don't insist on rushing things.

As for your other question, of course a boy who calls for you should come to the door for you. Any boy who sits at the curb in a car and honks the horn for the girl he's taking out needs a severe jolt in good manners. You might tell this boy that.

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO TELL ME ABOUT YOUR PROBLEM?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

In reference to the letter of Mr. K. in a recent column of yours, I would like you to forward the enclosed letter to him.—F.

Dear F.:

I am very sorry, but since I make it a rule not to introduce strangers to each other through the mails, I will not be able to do as you ask. You will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will be glad to return the sealed letter you wished me to forward to him.

Perhaps, if you are a lonely woman, you would like to write me a personal letter telling me your special problems. I will be very glad to give you some suggestions as to how you might overcome your loneliness.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

NEW HAIR-DOS "TRIED ON"

Models in the Vanity Fair Beauty shops can now give you a preview of how you'd look with different styles in hair.

If you're one of those women who's been "just dying" to try something radically different in a hair style or hair color but have been just a little bit scared about how it would look, you needn't be any longer. We don't have to tell you that anything can happen these days — and usually does — The very latest is a preview of yourself in an entirely different shade of hair — without a strand being actually touched. Sound impossible? Well, it isn't.

One noted hair coloring company has put out a preview kit that enables you to see how you'd look as a blonde, brunette or a redhead. You can even see how you'd look in the intermediate shades. The kit, which has been distributed to 50,000 leading beauty salons throughout the country, consists of eight ingeniously - shaped cardboard hairpieces — each one colored to simulate one of the more popular colors ranging from red-topaz to velvety black. You don't have to buy a thing. All you have to do is to go to the beauty parlor and ask the operator to hold one of the headpieces up to your hair and decide for yourself what shade of hair will go best with your skin tones, your eyes, your features generally. Then the rest is up to you. You can either keep your natural hair coloring or go ahead and startle your friends with a completely new one.

When it comes to hair styles, you can also preview the finished product — and right in your own home, too. Here's how:

Wet your hair thoroughly and soap it well; then blot away surplus suds. Soap the hair again and wrap a dry towel about your head. Wait five minutes. This gives the suds a chance to dissolve and make the hair pliable. Remove the towel, and comb your hair in the style which you think you'd like to leave an unbroken uniform wall. Cut in slices to make 1-2 inch thick rings. Cover with cold water. Add 1 teaspoon salt and let stand overnight. Next morning drain well and cover with cold water and add 2 tablespoons powdered alum. Boil exactly ten minutes. Drain well and again cover with cold water. Add 1 tablespoon powdered ginger. Boil 15 minutes. Drain well but measure this liquid. Discard it but measure the same quantity of white wine vinegar. To each quart of vinegar add 3 lbs. granulated sugar and 1-2 cup whole cloves and 1-2 cup cassia buds—these whole spices being tied in muslin bag. Add cucumbers and boil until cucumbers are transparent—about 20 or 30 minutes. Remove spice bag. Carefully lift out rings and pack in sterile jars—this must be done gently as the rings are crisp. Pour syrup over rings and seal. Store in cool place.

NOTE:

These are the rings that are so attractive either served on an hors d'oevres plate or in, or stuffed with white cream cheese.

QUESTION:

Would you be so kind as to offer your suggestions re the buying and preparing of refreshments for a stag evening . . . for twenty . . . I would like to prepare the food ahead of time . . . I imagine a buffet meal would be best(—) Reader.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you the release entitled "The Stag Buffet" which appeared here on Thursday of this week—Good luck.

QUESTION:

Would you be good enough to work out for me—for cottage use particularly—your one-egg fluffy white cake using skim milk powder and orange juice instead of milk; orange rind I'd add but would I need soda? For topping —white sugar icing with orange and crushed almonds. I have equipment but not fresh supplies. I notice in the new hydrogenated shortening that the lid now gives the pound to a can, containing 2 1-3 cups. Do I measure by cups or, as I've always done, by cutting up the pound into four, each quarter being a cup? For blend ornamenting the juice from a can of shrimp, lobster or crab makes a delicious bisque using skim milk and (blend) vegetable water—with "things" added for flavor.—O. McD.

ANSWER:

I loved your little private note —I think you have me beaten! Divide the pound "of hydrogenated" shortening in four 4-oz. pieces.

JIFFY CAKE

Skim milk powder and orange juice.)

Sift together 1 1-2 cups sifted flour and 1-4 cup sifted skim milk powder with 1-3 teaspoon salt and 1-2 teaspoon baking powder three times. Cream tablespoons shortening with 1 cup orange juice and if desired, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour into buttered square pan. Sprinkle on top 1-2 cup white sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and 1-4 to 1-2 cup chopped almonds. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 35 to 40 minutes. Skim milk powder is optional.)

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Would it be possible to trace a recipe published perhaps two or three years ago? It was called Cucumber Rings, a sweet pickle and very delicious. Some members were sliced in half-inch slices with the seeds cut out. Perhaps this will help to identify the recipe.—Mrs. Allan M.

ANSWER:

I remember the recipe well. It came from my friend Barb. She and I made them together one year —by the thousands it seemed then—but they did not last long enough. It was then I gave you the recipe which must be five years ago.

BARB'S CUCUMBER RINGS

This is a fancy fussy product, but worth all the work in the eyes it adds to your stature as a hostess.

Relatively seedless cucumbers, long and thin like China Longs, are recommended. Wash thoroughly enough cucumbers to make 2 quarts after they are sliced. Cut cucumbers in halves crosswise and using a narrow-bladed knife cut out the seed being careful to leave a uniform wall. Cut in slices to make 1-2 inch thick rings. Cover with cold water. Add 1 teaspoon salt and let stand overnight. Next morning drain well and cover with cold water and add 2 tablespoons powdered alum. Boil exactly ten minutes. Drain well and again cover with cold water. Add 1 tablespoon powdered ginger. Boil 15 minutes. Drain well but measure this liquid. Discard it but measure the same quantity of white wine vinegar. Cleaning Cooling System

By EUGENE MILMOE

It takes little time and effort to give the cooling system a good cleaning, yet many cars wind up in trouble because this simple service is neglected. To keep it free of rust and scale accumulations, the system should be flushed at least once or twice a year as follows:

Remove the thermostat and drain all the water from radiator and block. Then, refill with clean warm water, add a good cleaning agent and turn on your engine for approximately ten minutes. After stopping the engine, wait about ten minutes or so before draining the system. Next, refill with warm water, run the engine for ten minutes more and drain once again. Finally, re-install the thermostat, fill up with warm water and add a rust inhibitor.

From J. N.: "What can be causing the steering wheel shimmy and shake which begins at 35 mph? The condition is most evident on rough roads. Tires, wheel bearings, steering assembly, springs and shocks have already been inspected and O.K.?"

(A) Wheel unbalance and/or misalignment is probably at fault.

M. M. asks: "The ignition points on my car always become pretty badly pitted in a short time. What do you say is to blame?"

(A) A condensor of the wrong capacity would have to be my first suspect.

From R. H.: "My car, a 1950 model, is in exceptionally good condition. However, on a long hard pull when the engine is forced to labor for a while, oil fumes are noticeable. I've had no explanation from the several mechanics I consulted about this, but I feel there must be a reason."

ENGINE OIL THINS OUT

(A) Your engine oil may be thinning out too much when the motor is hot. This will occur when the grade used is too light for the season, or if the oil becomes excessively diluted.

J. B. writes: "I own a 1933 sedan with automotic transmission and my engine stalls whenever I take my foot off the gas pedal to make a sudden stop. Do you know the fuel pump is to blame?"

(A) Engine stalling in automatic transmissions such as yours, the engine has a tendency to stall out whenever the throttle is suddenly closed. To prevent this, however, your car is equipped with an anti-stall unit which slows down throttle-closing action. Apparently, this unit is not working properly on your car.

C. C. Jr. asks: "I have just got delivery of a beautiful new 1955 car, and I don't intend moving it out of my garage until I learn exactly how to break it in. I notice that the instruction book strongly warns against idling the new engine more than is absolutely necessary. Will you explain this please?"

(A) When your engine idles, oil pressure is low — e.g., the flow is not sufficient to do a really thorough lubricating job. Consequently, idling periods will therefore subject your engine to excessive wear and possible damage to rings and cylinder walls.

Ask Eugene Milmoe to help with your car problem. Write him in care of this newspaper. Answers will be given in his column only.

Bulletins from Birdland

BIRDS AT PLAY

Somehow, we hardly expect to see birds playing. Yet why not? Kittens, puppies, otters and rabbits are noted for it. We scarcely recollect at least once when you saw a bird playing by itself — a canary leaping through a swingin perch like a trained dog through a hoop. Parrots often do this, or twirl their swings round and round.

Stories of crows predominate. Several have come, through Audubon Magazine, from the wife of a warden of a Long Island sanctuary. Her children brought up unfortunate nestlings from a fallen home. One young crow practiced an acrobatic stunt, afterwards putting on the perfected act whenever he could find an audience. Head down, wings folded back, he hung by his feet from a branch. He had had the trick of examining the clothesline, tugging at bright colored garments, loosening clothespins. Also, he used to visit the village, tease dogs and small boys' caps. A third played by the hour, rolling about a bright ball.

In a Reader's Digest, Alan Devoe told of three crows he watched trapped with their claws stuck until it fell from a branch. Another of his stories was about the team work on a pair of ravens owned by the British naturalist, Frances Pitt. One would pull the cat's tail while the other kept her attention in front. When, with a yell, she whirled around, her tail was presented to the other raven. Thus they tormented the poor animal, keeping her spinning like a top.

A year or two ago, David A. Munro, a Canadian wild life officer stationed in Ottawa, sent a report of his experiences with a prairie falcon to The Auk. The bird repeatedly flew up 70 feet or so, carrying a clod of earth about the size of a tennis ball. It dropped from a height and swooping down low tried to catch it before it hit the ground. Then the falcon alighted and began tossing the ball of earth ahead and flittering along the ground to pounce upon it. A third game was to rise to a few feet with the ball, fling it ahead with both talons, and try to capture it while still in the air.

Birds have group games too. Whole flocks rise as one bird, turn in unison, and land together. Guillemots swim in companies, like soldiers drilling, roll over on their backs with one accord, and right themselves simultaneously.

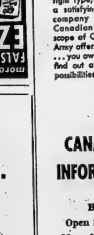
ADEQUATE WIRING
for Better Electrical Living

Adequate wiring in your home assures convenient, economical electrical living at its best. If you are planning to build a new home, have your local Hydro or your Electrical Contractor explain why it is to your advantage to have sufficient circuits, switches and convenience outlets in order to derive the full benefit from today's many electrical aids to living.

Too often the unsatisfactory operation of electrical appliances is due to inadequate wiring. Many older homes, and some newly built homes, are not wired to efficiently operate more than a few electrical appliances.



Specify "Red Seal" wiring to the standard of The Electrical Service League of Ontario, a non-profit orgamization maintained to assist you with wiring problems. See your local Hydro Manager, or send for the FREE BOOKLET, "Facts About Electrical Wiring For Your Home." Write to: The Electric Service League of Ontario, 4 Carlton Street, Toronto 2.

'We-Told-You-So' Yankees Win Sixth American League Flag In 7 Years

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE WORLD SERIES

During the week of September 28, the annual epidemic will sweep over the United States. It will be felt in a milder form in Canada, and other parts of the world.

The epidemic announces its arrival with an appalling upsurge in grandmother mortality and/or illness. It abates the second day to far-stretching waves of afternoon headaches. These usually re-occur during the course of the epidemic which could last seven off-and-on days.

The most vulnerable point of the epidemic is Brooklyn, N.Y., nestling along the lush banks of the fragrant Gowanus. Across the river the hated enemy lies supine in the shadows of Coogan's Bluff, immune to epidemics, in fact everything but a shake-up.

For it is World Series time.

The Americans call it the greatest sports event in the world. The British claim the "Cup Tie" tops everything. We Canadians get a tremendous wallop out of the National Hockey League playoffs and the subsequent Stanley Cup series. Not forgetting the annual Grey Cup classic. Each nation to its own.

But for sheer depth the World Series tops them all. Auxiere Justices, business tycoons, Wall Street magnates, down to the humble Joes, even as you and I, the housewife and those shrilling cacophoners, the moppets pause in their stride if only to learn the score.

Television sets will, sparkle, radios in home, barn and car will blare. In some places in the series-bitten U.S.A. school is "out" on game afternoons. Paging will insist on roads thoroughfares from New York to Twisted Rib, Arkansas, in front of TV store windows. Traffic officials have reported some vehicular accidents due to drivers concentrating more on a series game announcer than that "white line."

In the United States the World Series is as much a part of the American way of life as any of the amendments, cocktails, the bill of rights and the Statue of Liberty. And the epic contests annually which have produced such fame to the four corners of the globe, also Texas. They say the Grand Llama of Tibet pronounces it "Oiskin."

And the glory that is repetition will be there. There will be a winner and a loser; a hero and a goat; champs and chumps. New stars may be born and old ones twinkle or die agglimmering. There will be boners—and brilliant plays. There will be popcorn and canned beer. And there will be the baseball you see—and more important, the baseball you don't see.

The baseball records are packed with "boners" that weren't "boners" at all, while real ones were overlooked by the fans, with sparkling inside plays going unnoticed.

One expert says the key play of the 1954 series was one the man in the stands never saw. Fans and scribes agreed that Willie Mays' fabulous catch of the Werts' 450-foot drive was the big play.

Ball players differ. They saw the prize play in the 10th frame of the first game. Werts screamed one down the wide-open left centre alley. Mays was in right centre (he admits his mistake). His tremendous speed, flashing pick-up and off-balance throw held Werts to two bases on what was a potential home run by a mile.

Inside baseball at work is seen in the second baseman or shortstop kicking up dirt in the direction of a runner leading of. second base.

Lots of fans wander why? The answer can be found in a Giants' game last year. They led 1-0 and Reemen had a runner on third. Alvin Dark scuffed dirt back of the batter. The hitter stacked to centre. Dark's action in perfect timing had the runner moving the wrong way. He pulled up at third instead of home.

Ninety-nine times out of hundred with runners on first and second and none out, the bunt sign goes up. Take the case of the much-maligned Dodger third-base coach, Milton Stark in that final game with the Phillies in 1950.

Last of the ninth. Score tied, none out. Snider singled to centre with runners on first and second. Stark waved the first runner around third. He was thrown out at the plate. The Phils scored in the 10th to win the game and flag.

Stork was not the goat. He neither gambled nor made a mistake. The bunt for Snider was a natural but the Duke is a bad hunter. So he was allowed to hit away. The second runner reached third, the Duke second on the sequence of plays.

So what was the situation? Runners on second and third; one out. Exactly the same thing a bunt would have accomplished—unless the Duke beat it out. But Mr. Stork "was a bum."

Environment, excitement prevented one of the greatest boners from going into the records. The great "Babe" was the unwritten goat in the 1926 series. The drama attending Grover Cleveland Alexander's great pitching clouded the Bambino's bobble. The Yanks were a run down at the bottom of the ninth. Two out, and the big Babe got a walk. Two big batters waited. Suddenly the Babe hiked for second. He was out by 20 feet and the series was over. They forgot to put it in the "bone" books.

FIGHT PICTURES

You heard it—and read about it. Now you can see it. The heavyweight championship fight between Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore will be shown on film for the first time in Belleville at the McCarthy Theatre starting Monday through Wednesday. The fight pictures will be screened at both matinee and evening performances. The afternoon show starts at approximately 2.10.

AUTONOMY FOR TIBET

LONDON (AP) — Peiping radio Thursday night reported Communist China has taken the fist step toward making Tibet an autonomous region. The broadcast said an office was established Tuesday at Lhasa, capital of the Himalayan territory, to organize a preparatory committee which will map out the changes the Chinese Communists installed into Tibet in 1950.

U. S. BUYING BONDS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The treasury announced Thursday it has sold $4,000,000,000 worth of United States savings bonds this year and is heading for a record. Sales passed the four-billion mark 36 days ahead of last year, when a peacetime record of $4,889,000,000 was established.

Ford's Great Relief Hurling Clinches Bunting for Bombers With 3-2 Win Over Red Sox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Yankees knew they had it all the time.

Many days ago the New Yorkers circled Friday, Sept. 23, on the clubhouse calendars as the day they'd clinch their 21st American League pennant, the sixth in seven years.

And it was Friday night, Friday, Sept. 23, that they did it, beating Boston 3-2 behind the great relief pitching of Whitey Ford, the stubby southpaw who will open the world series against Brooklyn Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

Manager Casey Stengel had it figured, too. Back last spring he said "we'll have to win 95 games to win this one." By winning Friday night, after losing 8-4 in the afternoon half of the day-night twin bill at Fenway Park, Yankees now have 95 victories.

Cleveland, the defending champ and last of the challengers, has 91. Indiana, second club at Detroit Friday, have three games left but even by winning them all they would finish with only 94 victories.

A BIG BATTLE

With all that crystal-ball gazing, the Yankees still had to battle to put No. 95 in the bag. They received it with eight straight victories before being side-tracked in the afternoon game as Mel Parnell pitched a two-hit seven-game losing streak.

Going into the ninth inning of the nightcap, big Don Larsen had a 3-0 lead with only one wobbly inning in the first. Then three singles produced a Boston run and Stengel, hoping for the big one, waved to the bullpen to bring in his ace.

Ford, who had won 18 for his one-season high in the majors, opened his sixth relief job by walking Billy Klaus on a 3-2 pitch to load the bases for Ted Williams, with two earlier hits, stepped in.

"I was scared," said Ford afterward. "I'm human. I had to get the ball over. I didn't want to walk him."

Williams fouled one off and the count reached 3-1. Then Williams whacked a drive to the left centre baseman Billy Martin and a rally-killing double play was under way.

Jackie Jensen tagged Ford for his 26th home run to open the eighth but that was the last noise Boston made.

THE WINNING RUN

Eddie Robinson drove in what was the winning run in the fourth, a pinch single off Willard Nixon, an old Yankee nemesis, in the fifth inning after a walk and a single by Martin.

The Yanks had racked Nixon, who had beaten them four times this season, with three hits—one off McDougald—in the 15th homer for a 2-0 lead in the first.

In the afternoon game, Boston routed southpaw Tommy Byrne—Stengel's pick for the second game of the world series—with six runs in the third inning. Jensen started the rally with his 25th homer after one was out.

Elsewhere Chicago White Sox, still scraping for a piece of second place, whacked Kansas City for nine runs in the first two innings and won 12-4. Washington, which has been overpowered by Baltimore's seven-game streak and drew to within a game of the seventh-place Orioles by sweeping a twi-night doubleheader 6-4 and 7-3.

In the Nationals, Warren Spahn won his 17th and hit one of four Milwaukee home runs, two by George Crowe, for the Braves beat St. Louis 4-2. Philadelphia clinched at least a tie for fourth with idle Cincinnati by whipping New York Giants 13-4. Willie Mays is leading the majors with 50 home runs, went hitless.

Two Big 'Ifs' In Big Four Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two big "ifs" are to be answered this weekend in the Big Four.

If Toronto Argonauts can get unwound and if Montreal Alouettes repeat their win of last weekend, three teams will be in a tie for second place.

If Argos don't win, they'll be far in the hole in the Big Four standing. And a play Ottawa Rough Riders in Ottawa while Montreal plays Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton.

Als are 3-0-5 points on top in the standings. Ottawa and Hamilton share second place with four points each. Red Argos trail with two. If Argos and Montreal win, the Als will be way out in front with four wins and a play for eight points and the other three in the second spot with two wins and three losses for four points.

Two exhibition games feature other football action in eastern Canada during the weekend. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, host for first place with Sarnia in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union play University of Western Ontario Mustangs in London. Sarnia plays Queen's University at Sarnia while the University of Toronto Blues play McMaster Marauders at Varsity Stadium.

Kitchener travels to Toronto Sunday for a league game with Beach.

Ghost Nags Win in Britain Under 'Surprise Entry' System

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—It could happen only in Britain.

Only in this cockeyed country, said the crestfallen turf clairvoyant could a similar horror smite an honest horseplayer—namely, races won by equine specters.

Consider a recent afternoon at Sandown Park. There are six races and you have a good thing going in every heat. You pay your money, you pick up your late papers and you learn that three of the races were won by horses whose names didn't even show in the entries.

The reason? A macabre British refinement known as the "surprise entry." Under this system, probable starters are listed in the morning newspapers. Nine times out of 10, list stands up. But occasionally a horse is declared a last-minute runner, and only those betting on the course know about the surprise starter.

Thus the stay-at-home bettor is betting blind. If a horse he has been following pops up unexpectedly at a long price, all he can do is swear off the sport.

In the Republic of Ireland, such shenanigans are unheard. The Irish insist on overnight declarations. Occasionally there is a clamor for a similar system in England, Scotland and Wales, but most racing writers pooh-pooh the idea.

One objection is based on the fact that Britain's 1,000 major courses are scattered across the country. Trainers often send their charges hundreds of miles to a meeting. Because of sudden changes in track conditions they don't like to have to make up their minds the night before.

In any given week there are seldom more than two or three unexpected starters—but by some perverse irony almost all of them win.

Thus at Sandown Sept. 10 three fast-minute entries—Coello, Madam Awkward and High Blanc—stunned the stay-at-home speculators. Sporting Life, top text-book of the British turf, admitted it was "rather hard" on those who weren't at the track. The intruders were the only late runners, and all won.

A notable case of the late entry occurred in a famous race at Royal Ascot a couple of years ago. With the usual 20 or so horses entered in this big betting event, turf writers plied thousands of words discussing the relative chances of the "probables." Came race day, and the winner turned out to be Jupiter, declared a runner only half an hour before the event.

LATTIMORE AT WORK

BALTIMORE (AP)—Owen Lattimore, Far Eastern affairs specialist and one-time state department adviser, has returned to active status as a lecturer at Johns Hopkins University. Lattimore was placed on leave of absence with pay in December, 1952, after he was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of perjury. After repeated failure to make the charges stick or bring them to trial, the government formally dropped the prosecution last June.

Willie Marshall Is Forgotten Man With Quit Unless Given Major Try

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Willie Marshall, an outstanding centre in the American Hockey League for three years, threatened Friday to quit the game unless Toronto Maple Leafs give him a chance to graduate to the National Hockey League this season.

Marshall, a 29-goal man with Pittsburgh Hornets, Leafs' AHL farm team for the last three seasons, has been working out here. Hornets at nearby Niagara Falls, Ont., but as he has been asked many times before, "I'm just wasting my time with Pittsburgh.

"I'M GO HOME.

"If I can't get some reassurance within the next couple of days, I'm going home to Kirkland Lake to go spring.

"I haven't discussed the matter with Marshall," said Leaf general manager Hap Day. "We have him signed for 17 games last year and our coach (King Clancy) didn't play him a great deal in the last few games.

"Also if Marshall is of NHL calibre it seems strange that none of the other NHL clubs claimed him at draft. They would have had to bought him for $7,500. That's not much for a guy who has scored 30 goals."

Hardcastle in the Leaf camp here get is a brutebolt." the 155-pound centre said in an interview. "I'm not asking for a guaranteed job, but I know I've earned a trywhich through the last three years here. I'm not good enough to make was selected to the all-star team a major league hockey player. I want to know now. I'm just wasting my time with Pittsburgh.

Hardcastle in the Leaf camp here Sid Smith was appointed captain of the Toronto club.

Smith, one of the Leafs' most consistent players since he became a regular in the 1949-50 season, was selected to the all-star team at left wing in the leftwinger. He was a major league hockey player. I want to know now. I'm just wasting also won the Lady Byng Trophy for gentlemanly play last season and was runner-up to Gordie Howe.

Eskimos Agree To Post-Cup All-Star Game

EDMONTON (CP)—The Edmonton Eskimo rugby-football club has agreed in principle to the staging of an east-west Shrine bowl classic following the Grey Cup game each season, president Moe Lieberman said Thursday night.

The club nearly agreed that such a game, from which all proceeds would go to crippled children, should be staged," Lieberman said, "providing it doesn't clash or detract from the Grey Cup classic."

The Eskimo president said the Shriners had sent the Edmonton Western Interprovincial Football Union entry a questionnaire concerning the establishment of a east-west game and the form the game had been filled in and returned. "We have not been officially notified of any decision regarding the benefit game," he said. "The question of establishing such a game for the benefit of crippled children had been on the WIFU agenda for two or three years. We turned it over to the Shriners and have in turn made an arrangement with the Toronto Star."

Lieberman said that unless all nine big league Canadian teams agree to the new arrangement the game will not be staged.

Frick Fines Baltimore, Richards For Violation Baseball Bonus Rule

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick fined the Baltimore club $2,000 and general manager Paul Richards $1,500 Friday for viola'ic of the bonus rule and conduct detrimental to baseball in connection with the signing of pitcher Thomas Boriand. Frick also declared Boriand a free agent.

Boriand, a native of Hobart, Oklahoma,A, and M. College, was declared free to sign with any club except Baltimore and its affiliates, after Oct. 10, 1955.

Boriand was bid by at least eight clubs after the college world series in Omaha last June, was signed by Richards to a Baltimore contract calling for payments of $40,000 over a two-year period. The contract never was filed with the American League president for approval, according to baseball law.

Caroline Cut By Argonauts

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts have cut loose another highpriced United States import.

J. C. Caroline, pro-bound backfielder who shattered U.S. college football ground-gaining records in 1953, was on the waiver list Friday night by the Big Four football club.

Signed to a $15,000 contract, the six-foot, 180-pound former All-American can be picked up by any team in the league for the $500 waiver price. He played in Green Bay, Iowa Rough Riders, last year's eelar-defeaters. They meet the Cats and Montreal Alouettes are next in line.

Ottawa coach Chan Caldwell said Friday night he couldn't see "where Caroline would help us." Although Caroline has a great reputation, Caldwell added:

"Our club is set. We're not picking up other players at this late date. He'd be a discard from another club. The spirit on our club is too sweet to be changing in midstream."

THAIS TO TAKE OVER.

Caroline's place as running halfback will be taken by Corky Tharp, former Alabama star who was signed this week after being cut by the National Football League Detroit Lions.

In an effort to strengthen a club which has won only one of its five regular-season starts, coach Bill Swiacki also will use Tharp as pass receiving line because his pass-catching and plunging have been weak.

"After looking at the movies, we decided Caroline could not help us as much as Tharp and Gaylord Graves."

Caroline was declared ineligible for college ball this year because he failed his summer examinations.

He would have had to wait a year to be eligible for the NFL, as he looked to the Canadian scene for employment.

Detroit Wings Shellac Flyers

SUDBURY (CP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League launched their 1955-56 season Hockey League farmhands, Edmonton Flyers, an 8-0 shellacking Friday night in an exhibition game.

The game, watched by 3,066 fans, was slow in the first two periods but picked up in the final frame, when it was Detroit Bolenoff's night. The puck often dribbled through his legs, off his pads and out of the net as the Flyers were below his Wednesday night performance when Flyers defeated the Stanley Cup champions 3-1.

Earl Ralbel, Bill Buczyk and Alex Delvecchio scored first period goals. Larry Ullman and captain Ted Lindsay added two in the second.

Tiger Jones Decisions Dane

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ralph (Tiger) Jones, winner of a unanimous decision Friday night over Bobby Dane of Chicago, emphatically blames the referee for his failure to score a knockout.

Letting his manager, Bob Mellnick, do most of the talking, Jones said he could have knocked the welterweight a 2nd middleweight champion Dane down. "If the referee hadn't kept breaking us all the time."

Mellnick said that the husky Yonkers, N.Y., slugger "likes to work in close and that referee Tony La Branch "wouldn't let them fight that kind of a fight."

Jones went into the 10-round bout at 158, six pounds heavier than his opponent. Gentleman's manager, Harry Stickevers, claims the weight had much to do with the outcome.

Canada Wins Over Japan

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Saskatoon Canada gave Canada a 5-2 win over Japan Friday night in the opening game of the global world series before a crowd of 8,000.

The Canadians came up with sparkling 3-run 7th inning attack and executed a triple play in the fifth inning.

Ayres, represented by the Osaka Kanebos, scored two runs in the first inning but Canada battled back with four in its half. The Canadians added a fifth run in the eighth inning on Jim Ryan's homer.

SURPRISE ENTRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Amiet, the Broadway restaurant man, tossed a surprise at Belmont Park Friday when he named his six-year-old campaigner Mr. Turf to oppose the top handicap stars in three other stars in the $100,000-added Sysonby Mile today.

All week long the word had gone around that only four horses would go in the 1¼-mile gallop, which most everyone believes will be one of the greatest races of all time.

Mr. Turf doesn't belong in such company. He's a New York-bred three-year-old star Nashua, the King Ranch's High Gun, William G. Helis, Jr.'s Heliascope, and the Maine Chance Farm's Jet Action.

However, Amiet wasn't supposed to have much chance in the 1951 Kentucky Derby, but Count Turf slammed home in front of 19 others that day and added $96,050 to his already collected total.

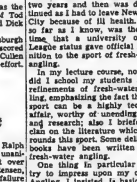
Fishing Not Competitive Sport

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Back in 1938 I managed to persuade the powers-that-be at Columbia University to install a lecture course in the Department of University Extension. The course was given the dignified title "The Theory and Technique of Fresh-Water Angling." I was the lecturer.

The course ran successfully for two years and then was discontinued as I had to leave New York City because of ill health. That, so far as I know, was the first time that a university of Ivy League status gave official recognition to the sport of fresh-water angling.

In my lecture course, not'only did I school my students in the refinements of fresh-water angling, emphasizing the fact that the sport can be a highly technical affair, worthy of unending study and research; also I briefed the class on the literature which surrounds this sport. Some delightful books have been written about fresh-water angling.



One thing in particular I did try to impress upon my classes. Angling, I insisted, is basically a contemplative, relaxing pastime. And that can function as an excellent sedative, wonderful for frayed nervous systems. Never should competition enter into the sport of fresh-water angling.

BURNING IN CONTEST

Imagine, therefore, my surprise when I read of a recent intercollegiate competition that was held last May 7th and 8th up in New England. On those two days, with the University of Massachusetts as host, four selected teams, from four universities met to compete in what is heralded as the first intercollegiate fly casting match.

The first day, May 7th, was devoted to casting contests. Here Yale University's team took honors, nosing out Dartmouth by a narrow margin.

The second day was devoted to competitive fishing on a trout stream. Dartmouth's team scored the other three competitors with a wide enough margin to give it honors for the two-day event. Yale was second with Amherst and U. of Mass. engaged in the running. The report before Tribune Syndicate, 1955.)

But when the time comes that college teams vie with one another on a "fish-for-fish" basis, the team can catch the most trout in a given space of time, I say I, for one, have come to the end of my rope.

As I say, competition has no place in the sport of fresh-water angling. There is no better way to spoil a day's trout fishing than to try to catch more trout than the other fellow. It surprises me that the universities do not recognize this fact and take pains to safeguard the program of angling talent than to sponsor the destruction of the ideals of the sport.

Rangers Win

REGINA (CP) — New York Rangers opened an exhibition hockey tour of the Prairies by scoring a 6-1 win over Regina Regals before about 2,000 fans here Friday night.

Dave Creighton and Ron Murphy paced the NHL club with two goals each while Bronco Horvath of the Rangers' Cincinnati farm team in Saskatoon where they play an exhibition tonight against Kalamazoo Quakers of the WIH.

Bout-End 8-Man Brawl Marks No-Contest Battle of Nations

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

After the brawl was over "Bunny" Dunlop licked his wounds, wired mamma "It was a great fight, glad I won" and went to get a huddle with "Beak-busted" Bert, and high-tailed for Toronto. Bert Gardiner, who fought for United Nations fighting fiasco, Germany, Australia, Ireland, Quebec, Vancouver, the Royal Tork, and T-Bone Crick sent representatives.

In case you're curious, "Operation Sandwich" resulted with nothing but a melee of arms, legs, and heads, the two 2,000 pound spectators, cuss-words and two men in white ending up with the tall feathers of the dove of peace. Officially it was "No Contest".

Yesterday that was the understatement of the year. It was the best four-six man operation seen in Walt Gerow's Palace of Grab this season. There was action aplenty from start to finish with Referee Bunny essaying the role of a Dempsey, while Beak Maxwell, a manlsize splinter holding his two-piece schnozzle in place, helped valiantly, but carefully.

NO SPARE PARTS

After all Marse Frank Tunney carries no spare parts for referees' uniforms. "Either you've got to use your own, or trade it in. And some of the original models of the uniform are a bit outdated as the Dodo bird.

The combination went according to plan with the Vons, Schober and Gardiner handling the first two falls with Fred Atkins, as much out of place in a hero role as a Hollywood starlet in a convention. and Doug Hepburn, upholstered strong man.

The heroes of the peace actually were Atkins and Dunlop—and, if is reported, next week they will go for the $64,000 question. Atkins, mustering Australian imprecations under his breath, nearly went berserk a couple of times and could have licked all the Vons that ever came out of Brooklyn. In fact he practically the Herculean on one occasion and wired Hamburg for the rest of the clan to come over.

Chisox Part With Manager Frank Lane

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Lane, dynamo of baseball's trading mart, and the Chicago White Sox parted company Friday after Lane's feud-brewed resignation as general manager was "regretfully" accepted by the club.

Immediately, strong speculation had Lane and Jack Sieg, all general manager of St. Louis Cardinals in the National League.

But neither Lane nor Cardinal officials would confirm this.

Sox president, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, accepted Lane's resignation after seven bustling years of prolific trading and rebuilding without any reference to the bitter relations between Lane and her son, Chuck Comiskey, 29-year-old Sox vice-president.

Lane's present Sox contract had five more years to run at an estimated salary of $50,000 annually, pegged on base pay and attendance bonus. For the past three years, the Sox have drawn more than 5,000,000 fans.

Irvin Undecided On Goalie; Rookie Is Good

WELLAND (CP) — In spite of some brilliant work by Al Rollins in the net, the days of the Welland Black Hawks training at their Welland Memorial Arena Rookie camp here could be numbered.

Stealing the show in the nets was the 18-year-old Rollins from the Windsor senior netminder, who was signed as an amateur by Hawks manager Tommy Ivan last season.

"Harrington looks as if he may become another Bill Durnan and I think Murph Chamberlain, the former Montreal star, has a great job with him," said Irvin.

Hank Bassen was also showing good form in goal, said Irvin as he admitted that the job with the Hawks still was wide open.

DRIVERS SUSPENDED

FREB.-OLD, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey State Racing Commission has suspended six drivers for the remainder of the year in the seventh race Wednesday, it was disclosed Friday.

Jockey Apodaca and chief steward Harold Berry said the drivers were given five-day suspensions for "inconsistent driving" which he explained means not trying to win.

Al Mitchell, executive secretary of the state commission, said the commission and the Trotting Association plan an investigation.

Pete McGillen's Book Lives Up To Raves by Gregory Clarke

By FRED CHAFE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In a lifetime of roving Ontario's lakes and forests, Pete McGillen has acquired a lot of knowledge, patience and strong opinions.

McGillen, outdoors editor of the Toronto Telegram, has just boiled down about 20 years of newspaper and radio writing into a book, "Outdoors with Pete McGillen" (Ryerson). It contains everything from a discourse on bass fishing in summer to hints on locking up the summer cottage for the winter.

In between he sandwiches reminiscences of a boyhood farm' life in Ontario's Northumberland county and fireside thoughts of a city dweller who looks on some aspects of 20th-century progress with doubt and bewilderment.

"EVANGELIST OF OUTDOORS"

In the book's foreword, his friend and fellow newspaper man, Gregory Clark, calls McGillen "an evangelist of the outdoors and of wild nature." For 177 pages, McGillen lives up to the billing.

A shooter of blue geese who worries about the effect overgunning may have on their future, a deer hunter who cannot harden himself to shoot a doe, he is nonetheless first and foremost a fisherman and he scorns none of the species, including the much-abused great northern pike.

"It's too bad the pike isn't a human so that it could sue for defamation of character, not to mention cruelty," McGillen writes. "Hook one on a fly or light tackle and see who wins the battle."

He is also fond of the black bass, "the aristocrat of Ontario waters," and the muskie, " sleek, dynamite laden, tackle-smashing fish, an evil powerful, unpredictable opponent that has made tough anglers nervous wrecks in a very few minutes."

KING OF FISH

But a trip to Newfoundland convinced him the Atlantic salmon is king, and he laments their passing from the upper St. Lawrence and the feedee streams of Lake Ontario.

He rises to the heights of evangelistic fervor when he lines up his sights on the game hog, the ignoramt gun-handler and the anti-conservationist. These, he feels, are the worst enemies of the trained wildlife specialists who are often unable to put their experience to good use because the public opinion needed to support sound legislation is often lacking.

On "gung" hunters who beat the bush in droves, flushing and shooting everything in sight: "A pox on all those hard-driving, mercenary characters who look on a rabbit, a partridge or a fish as something that might cut the meat bill by half a dollar. May they fall on their faces in four feet of icy, snow-covered water."

On "gung Gundope": "Their numbers are legion. Some are highbrows, others lowbrows . . . all have one thing in common, a finely developed sense of stupidity in the woods . . . they are the best friends morticians have."

DUCK HUNTERS REMISS

On predator control: "What right have Canadian duck hunters to sit back and accept our ducks shooting this fall? What have they done to ensure that there will be sufficient ducks on the wing? They rant and rave and cuss everyone from government officials to market hunters of Mexico. In the meantime, the snapping turtles, crows, pike, muskrats, skunks, raccoons and snakes, not to mention the foxes and hawks, are whittling the duck population."

Over-riding the narrative is McGillen's philosophy that the city-dweller is like a squirrel in a cage and that the trend towards urban life is part of "a complicated plot to make people physically and mentally unwell."

His solution: Get back to the fields and forests, and don't invite weekend guests.

Phil Silvers Making Hit In New Series on Army

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—There are almost as many debuts in television these days as in the debutantes' collion. You can't remember all those newcomers at one time, but maybe by Christmas we'll have danced with most of them.

The new programs, spotted one after the other on CBS-TV this week, presented the army and the navy.

"You'll Never Get Rich," starring Phil Silver as M.Sgt. Ernie Bilko, heart and all in the most hilarious comedy series of the new season.

Thanks to Nat Hiken, who wrote the script and directed the show at a swift pace, there is a very lampoon of that really fascinating organization known as the army.

While "You'll Never Get Rich" is basically a gentle satire on the life in the service, "Navy Log" offers a more official view. A good program, it presents a carefully documented and beautifully photographed studies of various aspects of life in the navy.

The first program was an exciting dramatization of the work of frogmen. Specifically it showed an underwater demolition team working out of a submarine in Korean waters. Civilians played the major roles, but the program had full navy co-operation.

The fact, necessary to the production of the series, raises an interesting question. Its slight story line had a happy bromide ending. It's worth watching to see whether all future programs of the series will show this branch of the service surmounting every technical and human problem.

There's a lot of snafu connected with nearly every aspect of every branch of the service. Everybody knows it, even though no service public relations office ever admitted it. The authenticity of "Navy Log" will be greatly increased if a little snafu crrps in once in a while.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

Kibitzism: The insurance rate on an expert bridge player must be very high. Only over his dead and bleeding body will he permit an opponent gain to buy a makeable contract.

In the course of gruesome events came this deal:

The bidding by a group of hotshots went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Double	1 ♦	Pass
2 ♣	Double	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♣	5 ♥	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	6 ♠	Pass	Pass
7 ♣	Double	Double	Pass
7 N-T.	Double	All Pass

The apparent intention of west was to take a sacrifice, if such a thing was necessary, Instead, after persistent and dangerous living, he succeeded only in crowding south into a no-trump grand slam.

West elected to start with an opening lead of the spade king. The south spade ace won it. This with heart ace, five clubs, and five diamonds were 12 tricks. Where was the 13th trick?

On the fifth club, dummy sluffed a small heart. On the fourth dummy diamond, south sluffed a small spade. This left dummy with both major tens and a diamond; south with heart ace and two major jacks.

The heart cards west could hold by then were queen of spades and king with queen of hearts. But right here dummy led the last diamond and south sluffed his spade jack. West was squeezed.

If he gave up a heart, south had ace and jack of hearts for the last two tricks. If west gave up his spade queen instead, dummy's ten of spades and south's heart ace would take the last two tricks.

Not even on the seas as relentless as the squeeze.

Bob Hope Planned to Retire, Now Has 8 TV Shows, 3 Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week Bob Hope was filming the first of eight NBC television shows he'll do this season. He'll also make two or three pictures in the coming year.

"And I'm the guy who was going to retire last year," he laughs.

Bob was getting some relaxation chipping some 75-yard shots on the golf range behind his Toluca Lake home.

He told how he almost retired.

"I was down in Palm Springs playing golf with my first agent, Charlie Yates. Charlie dropped dead right in front of me. . . .

"It didn't really affect me for three days. Then the shock set in.

I was terribly upset. Then I thought I was dying. About this time NB came to me with a new contract deal. I told them nothing doing; I was retiring."

MD CHASED HIM OUT

The frustrated Hope went to his doctor for a complete physical. That's when his spirits changed. "He had me to get out of his office," Hope said. "In fact, he chased me down the street. I was too healthy."

As a result he signed a new pact with NBC calling for eight TV shows a year. His first one, Oct. 9, will be a color show because Hope will then be making a movie, "Strictly Dishonorable." He reported six of the shows will be revues, two of them plays. He'll do "Roberta" and "Pal Joey" another comedy.

This winter he goes to England for a film with Katharine Hepburn and Alec Guiness. He'll also do two color TV shows there, in London and Paris.

But he hasn't forgotten the lesson of Charlie Yates.

STAYING OUT OF RADIO

"I'll never get into the routine that I found myself in a couple of years ago. Then I was doing a daytime radio show five days a week, a night radio show, TV and pictures. I must have been out of my head.

"Now I'm doing no radio. TV and pictures will be enough."

Bob is looking better than he has in years. He has trimmed down to 190, and his humor is in good form.

He delivered some snappy gags including this one: "The new Beverly Hilton is such a swank hotel they won't serve you navel oranges without a cummerbund."

CAMPBELLFORD

H-S Assoc. Hears Address On 'Importance of Being Somebody'

CAMPBELLFORD — The first meeting of the Campbellford Home and School Association for the place in the parish hall on Tuesday following a banquet for the graduating class of Grade 8 and the teaching staff and guests.

Mr. Barrow then called the program convener, Mrs. Hector Macmillan, to introduce Mrs. Jack Cowell, representative of the Public School Board, to present the diplomas. She was assisted by Mr. William Rothwell, principal of public school. Mrs. Cowell expressed sincere wishes on behalf of the school board, that in 1960 each of the students would be graduating from High School. Students receiving diplomas were: Terry Baker, Gary Beaudoin, Ann Boyd, Gordon Brethour, Ralph Carr, Thomas Donald David Dooher, Ruby Ellis, Marie Fisher, Gordon Greenlaw, Kathleen Herrold, Gary Hoard, Judith Hopkins, Lorraine Hurley, James Jacobs, Joanne Jacobs, Betty Jeffs, John Johnston, Carol Newman, Carol Petherick, Shurie Post, Carol Rannie, Karen Rowe, Michael Shannon, Carol with the Fashion Show which took place on May 18th.

At this time Mr. Barrow thanked the convenor of the banquet, Mrs. George Lott and

Mr. Barrow wished to have Mr. Rothwell introduced to the school staff, which is the same as last year, with one new teacher, Mrs. Isobel Clark. Mr. Rothwell spoke a few encouraging words to the graduates.

GUEST SPEAKER

The program convener announced that Mr. Barrow would introduce the speaker, Professor H. Hallam. The professor retired from the University of Toronto and now makes his home in Hastings. He spoke to the group on "The Importance of Being Somebody," and illustrated to them how a relay race is similar to the life of a boy and girl, and that they must work hard, study, listen to teachers and attend church. He said that the future belongs to those who prepare for it. Marilyn Dix was a model to follow, he said. She has faith in herself, her parents, and God. Her coach, Ann Ryder, is a devout Christian gentlewoman. There are two types of people, those who run a good relay, and those who run a poor one—but not all relay graduates are successful.

He closed his speech with a Latin phrase, which translated means "As a field cannot be productive without cultivation, neither can the mind without learning."

Miss Carol MacArthur, on behalf of the Home and School Association, thanked the speaker for her splendid talk, and was seconded by Mrs. Macmillan.

Mrs. Ollie Embley then presented to Mrs. Clarke Parker, the president of the association, the past president's pin.

An invitation was extended for all to attend the next meeting of the Home and School Association to be held in the kindergarten room of the public school on October 11th.

SOMETHING OF SUMMER

Grieve not for passing summer
Nor sigh that the birds have flown.
But let us keep of the summer
Something our very own,
Something sweet of the fragrance
And brightness of summer flowers,
Dreams of the tranquil beauty
That enhanced the summer hours.

The gold of the dawn and sunset
May we store within the heart—
Treasures strange and enduring—
To form of life a part.
And may the spirit of summer
A Thai daddooed in our every place
Sink deep in our inmost being
And shine from each sunny face.

Then something of summer sunshine
Will brighten the winter-day,
Though winter winds are wailing
And winter skies are gray.
—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — Though the summer holidays are over and schools and colleges have opened their doors to an army of students, there are many people preparing to enjoy the fall fairs, Mrs. Armouda or Florida and even to Europe, these being the destinations advertised in the daily press. And besides, there is something stirring in the air when the harvester comes with its ice and snow. Quoting Bliss Carman—

"There is something in the autumn
Sets our gipsy blood astir,
We must rise and follow her
When from every hill she flame
She calls and calls each vagabond by name."

Miss Gena Benson has returned to Windsor after spending the summer in Wellington at her summer home. She will visit her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Wilson and family in Kitchener en route.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, Wellington, and Miss Helen Arthur and Mrs. (Dr.) Fell, Belleville, were among the guests who enjoyed dinner at Glenora on Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Blakely and Miss S. E. Blakely motored to Kingston on Monday and spent a few days guests of Mrs. Ion Wyse at the summer home near Bath.

Dr. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson are enjoying an autumn holiday for several weeks.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Cruickshank of Melville who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, entertaining thirty family guests at dinner at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, with an evening reception at their home at Consecon Lake.

Canada Declines Red Invitation To Quit Bases

And the United Nations Friday, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov called on the Western nations to liquidate their foreign military bases.

He was renewing a demand made by Russian Defence Minister Zhukov earlier this week after the U. S. S. R. announced that it will abandon its Porkkala naval bases in Finland.

Officials here said Canada has no present intention of withdrawing its forces from Europe. This country does not have its own bases as such in Europe but has a 12-squadron air division and infantry brigade group stationed in West Germany and France as part of NATO military forces.

Authorities added, however, that North American defence has been cut at least as important for NATO as European defence and it might be possible some time in the future for Canada to bring home some of its troops, perhaps when Germany is fully rearmed.

MARMORA

MARMORA. — Through the invitation of Canon and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie, the members of St. Thomas' Bawden Women's Auxiliary held their monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon in St. Paul's rectory, Marmora.

The members of St. Paul's W.A., also attended as guests for an interesting and profitable session. Mrs. F. Preston, president of St. Thomas' W.A., was in charge and following the Bible reading taken by Mrs. Lindsay Tanner, led in the prayers.

The business session of the St. Thomas' branch followed. Attention of both branches was directed to the Deanery W.A. annual to be held at St. Andrew's, Stirling, on September 27. She spoke of the fall meeting of the Deanery of Quinte, the western end of the diocese to be held shortly in Marmora, with Archdeacon W. H. Hunt of Gananoque, as special speaker, and asked for assistance from the local W.A., for the refreshment period.

Mrs. R. Frost reported on Dorcas requirements.

Mrs. M. J. Brownlie followed with an elucidating talk on the deliberations of the recent General Synod of the Anglican Church in Canada, after he had warmly welcomed the auxiliary W.A. The latter put on a short program, Mrs. E. Colden rendered "Breathe on me Breath of God," with Mrs. Edna Tanner as accompanist; Mrs. Lindsay Tanner also on a reading. Current Issue Toronto Tabloid Is Withdrawn

VANCOUVER (CP)—Distribution of the current edition of the Toronto tabloid Flash was stopped here Thursday by the distributing company on the advice of its lawyer.

Julius Baisline, business manager of Vancouver Magazine Service Ltd., said he was advised by lawyer L. L. Murphy now without the sale of some 20,000 copies because an article in the Flash might be taken as a reference to the current police investigation.

Copies already distributed to dealers were recalled.

Last week, T. G. Norris, former counsel for police chief Walter Mulligan, told the Tupper royal commission investigating the Vancouver police department that Flash writer Ray Munro had attempted to blackmail him through the magazine.

As a result of the lawyer's charge Munro has been ordered to appear today before Commissioner R. H. should not be cited for contempt. Tupper and show cause why he should not be cited for contempt today before Commissioner R. H. It will be the 29th sitting of the commission.

Vancouver lawyers believe it is the first time in the Commonwealth that a royal commission has instituted contempt proceedings.

Efforts to End Buffalo Grain Strike Hit Snag

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Negotiations in Buffalo's five-week-old grain strike blew sky high early Friday when elevator operators broke off talks with the AFL Grain Elevator Employees Union.

Spokesman for the operators blamed the union's action on "extreme demands" of the union and "divergent interests of the elevators in the panies."

Union officials could not be reached immediately for comment.

The break came a few hours after the union stood down the latest offer from the group of nine grain elevators affected by the strike. The offer involved a three-year contract calling for an immediate raise of 5 cents an hour, another seven cents next year and another six cents in 1957. The 500 strikers indicated a preference for a one-year contract.

The elevator workers went out Aug. 15 in support of a 15-cent-an-hour wage demand. The old pay scale was not received.

The strike has crippled the city's huge milling industry and has left about 4,000 workers idle.

Marmora

MARMORA — The September meeting of the Marmora Home and School Association was held on Wednesday evening in the public school with a good attendance and the president, Mrs. F. Boyle, in the chair.

The treasurer's report given by Mrs. J. Vanvolkenburg revealed a goodly balance on hand. In correspondence a letter was read from J. G. Demeza, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf Belleville, stating his pupils would be present to give their demonstration at the next meeting on October 19. A further letter was received from the Ontario Home and School Federation drawing attention to the Regional Conference in Peterborough on October 21.

The president and vice-president were appointed as delegates and the fee of $3 will be remitted as requested.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

With the exception of the first and second vice-presidents, last year's officers have all been re-elected. They were installed by Mrs. R. Frost, past president.

They are:

President, Mrs. F. Boyle; recording secretary, Mrs. K. Sine; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Sproul; treasurer, Mrs. J. Vanvolkenburg; executive, Mrs. H. Olsen, Mrs. D. P. Marett, Mrs. L. G. McGinnis, Mrs. K. C. McKay; teachers' representatives, Mrs. C. Prentice, Mrs. A. E. Manchester.

It is hoped to fill the other two positions by the October meeting.

The attendance of parents and grandparents was taken by Principal E. C. Prentice with honors going to Mrs. Manchester's room.

D. P. Marette, chairman of Marmora Public School Board, welcomed the teaching staff and spoke to those present on problems which confronted the board and their dealing with them.

Mrs. R. Frost gave a talk on the survey to be taken of preschool children and called for volunteers to assist.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS

A short recess allowing parents to converse with teachers teaching their children was followed by the showing of two educational films, "Family Life" and "Heredity and Environment" by Mr. G. Watson on the school's new projector.

Refreshments and a social hour followed.

15 Police Cars Catch Speeder After Long Chase

TORONTO (CP) — A screaming woman dangling half-way out the front seat of a racing car Thursday night touched off a 15-mile police chase involving 15 cruisers from five police departments. Police said it almost cost one officer his life.

The chase, which they said reached 100 miles an hour, started here and ended in nearby Oakville when the car ran into a dead-end street.

Arrested on a charge of criminal negligence and impaired driving was Donald Polley, 34, of Oakville.

Police said the car roared through red traffic lights in downtown Toronto and headed toward Fort Credit. The woman in the car, who had met its driver on a street corner, screamed and attracted a provincial policeman.

Police set up three road blocks all of which the driver crashed. One officer said he had to jump for his life when the car charged him as he tried to flag it down near Oakville.

Advertising helped make the difference
AN EXCITING VIEW of Niagara Falls was the high spot the evening with an old-fashioned stereopticon. Today, the scene from our living room has been widened enormously. The whole world is on display, the magic of radio & television brings news and entertainment to countless Canadians.
But to mass produce tens of thousands of radios and television sets, manufacturers must be able to sell them by the thousands. Only by advertising can a manufacturer talk to millions of people at the same time.
ADVERTISING TELLS the story of newer radios and television sets and helps sell them. The more it sells, the more must be made — keeping the production lines and the jobs going. The result: newer, better sets at prices more people can afford to pay. Advertising helped make the difference — in radio and television, and in our Canadian way of life.

Say Eisenhower's Recovery Chances 'Reasonably Good'

If Progress Continues Could Serve Second Term

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER (AP)—Dr. Paul Dudley White said today that barring unforeseen complications, President Eisenhower's prospects for recovery from his heart attack "are reasonably good."

Dr. White was so satisfied with the progress of the president that he left immediately by plane for Boston, where he is recognized as one of the top heart specialists in the United States.

He told a news conference immediately after a final examination of the president that if Eisenhower's progress continues at its present rate he would be "physically able" to serve a second term.

Pressed by wishes for speedy recovery of the president, who will be 65 Oct. 14, posed from the temporary White House from all over the world.

At Fitzsimons Army Hospital, where Eisenhower was taken Saturday afternoon, there was no thought of the tremendous political impact of the heart seizure, which stunned the country and people around the globe.

That come-and it is huge-was left to Republican party leaders, with the president's wings stricken, had almost unanimously refused to consider the idea that he might not be available for a second term.

A prominent heart specialist who flew from Boston to care for the president said another term is "quite conceivable," but he added it will be a week or two before the full effect of the attack is known.

It seemed to have raised an overriding likelihood that Eisenhower would not actively seek re-election. He said himself last Aug. 4 the state of his health would be an important factor in his decision.

Two weeks ago he told Republican chairmen from 48 states to dismiss from their minds the idea of the indispensable man—and not to "pin your flag . . . tightly to one mast.

Because, Eisenhower added, "humans are frail and they are mortal."

A bulletin issued by Eisenhower's doctors Sunday night said the president is resting very comfortably. There is no change in his condition."

No change meant his condition still was "satisfactory" and that there had been no complications, as a mid-afternoon bulletin Sunday had put it.

It was in that afternoon bulletin that the doctors characterized the heart attack Eisenhower suffered early Saturday as "moderate." It had been first described as a "mild coronary thrombosis," a clotting of blood in one of the arteries that which supply blood to the heart muscles.

The designation "mild" was used only once—in the Saturday afternoon announcement that the president had been stricken. The switch to "moderate" came after he had been examined by two leading heart specialists who flew here from the East.

One of them, Dr. Paul Dudley White of Massachusetts General Hospital, in Boston, defined "moderate" as "neither mild nor serious" and explained that it applies to those two medical yardsticks.

In addition to White, one of the world's foremost experts, the attornoon bulletin was signed by:

Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician who first diagnosed the attack; Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief of the medical service at Fitzsimons Hospital.

It was while who said "another term for President Eisenhower is quite conceivable."

But he also said: "Even if this is a mild case (and he later called it "moderate"), the president will have to take things easy for a couple of months. If he gets by that time without trouble one can say he probably will be all right."

Eisenhower's first bulletin announced as a "digestive upset" by Dr. Snyder, brought by him from Washington Sunday.

The president's wife moved Saturday night from the Denver home of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Doud, to Fitzsimons Hospital where she took a room across the hall from the president's. She has stayed out there since. John remained at the hospital Sunday night, too.

Mrs. Eisenhower visited with her husband twice Sunday. John had one brief chat with his father, who has been in an oxygen tent since he was taken to the hospital. Doctors said the tent is standard procedure in coronary cases because it enables patients to get complete rest. —

Torture Killing Spurs Enlistment In Civilian Militia

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The torture killing of an Arab on a French farm spurred enlistments today in a civilian militia in the Philippeville area.

The Arab body was found Sunday night on the farm near Philippeville in eastern Algeria. Officials said Algerian rebels had tortured and mutilated the man before cutting his throat.

French and pro-French residents in the Philippeville area immediately called for a civilian militia. A large number of men, responding to an earlier appeal from the military governor of the area, already had enlisted.

At a meeting last week the mayors of the Constantine area said 20,000 armed men will be needed to ensure the security of the French and pro-French populations.

PROMISE BY FAURE

Present armed forces are estimated at about 150,000 men for both Algeria, administered as part of France, and the troubled protectorate of Morocco to the west.

There has been no estimate announced of the size of rebel forces in the whole of Algeria. Rebels are believed to be about 5,000 strong in the Constantine area, scene of frequent attacks.

Premier Edgar Faure in a broadcast Sunday night said Algeria and France would keep Algeria at all costs.

Think Revenge Motive Behind $33,000 Robbery

BRAMPTON (CP)—Police said today the revenge may have been the motive for a combined arson and safe-cracking job at contractor Frank DeMarco's home at Cooksville Sunday.

They said they will interview some of Mr. DeMarco's former employees who were reported to have quarrelled with him.

Mr. DeMarco told police that $5,000 in silver and jewels worth $5,000 were missing from the safe. Mr. DeMarco was on vacation at Lake Couchiching at the time of the break-in.

British Seal Off Cyprior Village

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—British land and sea forces today sealed off the main trouble centre in this Mediterranean colony and began a house-to-house search for explosives and weapons.

The crackdown came on the heels of the appointment of Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the Imperial general staff, as governor of the island in succession to Sir Robert Armitage.

Reinforcements this morning, more than 500 British troops including Royal Marines commandos landed at Larnaka village, two miles from Paphos, and imposed a curfew for an indefinite period.

It marked the first large-scale operation by British troops in the Paphos area, one of the worst trouble centres in the island.

The combined village 100 miles west of Nicosia was the scene of a terrorist attempt last January to blow explosives for the underground campaign to drive British out of Cyprus.

Huntsville Man Is First Canadian To Reach Geneva Singing Finals

GENEVA (Reuters) — James Milligan, 27, of Huntsville, Ont., is the first Canadian ever to reach the finals of one of Europe's stiffest singing tests, the Geneva international musical competition.

Milligan, whose baritone voice has brought him through all the preliminaries, takes part in the finals Wednesday when he will sing to the accompaniment of Switzerland's symphony orchestra, L'Orchestra de la Suisse Romande.

In Sunday's semi-final round, the other two to reach the final were Marvin Hayes, Los Angeles baritone, and William Olvis, Hollywood tenor.

Milligan intends singing Iago's monologue from Otelli, by Verdi, on Wednesday.

The young Canadian's father is Rev. Frank Milligan of Huntsville.

BY-ELECTIONS TO FILL FOUR SEATS IN PARLIAMENT

8 Lawyers, Contractor And Engineer Running

OTTAWA (CP) — Voters today choose among eight lawyers, an engineer and a contractor to fill four vacancies in the House of Commons.

By-elections in Temiscouata, Quebec South and Bellechasse, all in Quebec province, and New Brunswick's Restigouche - Madawaska provide the third extensive test of strength between Liberals and Conservatives since the 1953 election. Polls are open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., local standard time.

Liberals and Progressive Conservatives have candidates in each contest. As well, an independent is running in Quebec South and an independent Social Credit in the New Brunswick riding.

The 10 have campaigned for constituencies which have returned Liberals for years by big margins.

HOSPITAL LOCALE

With electioneering confined mostly to local issues and candidates' personalities, most of the campaigning has been centred on Temiscouata where 43-year-old Jean-Paul St. Laurent, son of the prime minister, is running for the Liberals against Jean-Paul Beraud, 35, Progressive Conservative. Both are lawyers, Mr. St. Laurent from Quebec City and Mr. Beraud from Riviere du Loup where he was crown attorney.

Temiscouata has elected Liberals in the past and in 1953 elected Jean-Francois Pouliot, its member since 1925, by a 4,051-vote lead. Mr. Pouliot is a contractor.

Of the other constituencies, Quebec South and Bellechasse have returned Liberals for 38 years and Restigouche-Madawaska for 22.

In 31 by-elections since the 1953 election only one has resulted in an upset when the Manitoba riding of Selkirk, which narrowly elected a Liberal two years ago, returned CCF candidate William Bryce with a substantial lead last Nov. 8.

LIBERALS HELD SIX

There were four by-elections March 22, 1954, six Nov. 8 and one June 20 in Alberta. Liberals retained all but one—five with margins sharply reduced from 1953. Conservative Frank McGee won a seat in a smaller lead—and the Social Credit party held the A seat with its 1953 margin cut.

Martin Urges UN Exploit World's 'Improved Situation'

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) Canada's Health Minister Martin today called on the United Nations to capitalize on the improvement in the world by making new and concerted efforts toward peace.

In a general debate address to the 57 General Assembly, the ruling Canadian delegate said there is evidence "of a new spirit and mutual understanding which did not exist before."

Martin said that in the field of disarmament the UN has called the key to attainment of peace, the Canadian government is more hopeful of an East-West agreement than at any time in the last 10 years.

But he cautioned delegates from 60 nations that "no international arrangement could be effective without proper controls, and controlled disarmament is only called for in his 35-minute address.

Canada would like to see more meetings on the peaceful use of atomic energy.

The Tory minister gave "serious consideration" to the early admission of Japan, Outer Mongolia, Portugal and 12 non-Communist—whose membership applications are pending.

5. "Unless there appears to be general agreement at the forthcoming review conference at this time we are inclined to think that it would be the particular advantage to 'pressing for it.'"

The Tory minister said there is no doubt that reduction and control of armaments are the matters on which peace most depends.

He stressed the reduction of armed forces and conventional armaments and the prohibition of atomic weapons must be put in an ordinated and scheduled that no nation, at any stage in the process, will have genuine cause to fear that its security is endangered. In the course of the forthcoming meetings significant progress has been made towards an agreement on the principles of a comprehensive or schedule of reductions and prohibitions."

Canada, the Western big three and Russia are represented on the UN disarmament sub-committee, which has been meeting here.

Martin reiterated Canada's "great interest" in President Eisenhower's plan for mutual aerial inspection and exchanging military blueprints with the Russians, and said it was not inconsistent with other proposals advanced at subcommittee meetings.

Expect Major GM Talks Will Soon Be Resumed

TORONTO (CP)—General Motors of Canada's five-plant strike may be in its eighth day today and it was expected major talks to end the walkout would begin within 24 hours.

While the local problems, discussed in informal negotiations, were expected to be resolved today, clearing the way for top-level negotiations.

Talks aimed at settling local problems at the Oshawa plant were held this morning. Those covering the 10,000 Ontario plant were completed Saturday.

Talks on Monday 17,000 members of the United Automobile Workers union (CLC) walked out at GM plants at Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines, London and Windsor.

Local problems are non-economic issues such as seniority rules, job posting, seniority and union shop.

Economic differences—demanded for general wage increases, and establishment of a company-paid pension plan—will be further discussed at the main negotiations.

The company's last offer, turned down by the union, was for an increase of 11.7 cents an hour, including a version of the guaranteed annual wage. The UAW demands a package add at least another 19 cents to this figure.

GUNBOAT TAKES PERON INTO EXILE ASYLUM

Revolution Is Over, Argentina Back to Work

By DOUGLAS CLARK

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Argentina went back to work today with the revolution over, a new president firmly in power and ex-president Juan Peron fleeing the country at full steam.

Peron was sailing up the River Plate on a Paraguayan gunboat, bearing for exile in Paraguay. He left Sunday night after receiving promises of safe conduct.

Even in Rosario, the great industrial city 290 miles west of here, where fighting workers engaged in two days of savage clashes with troops, labor delegates who conferred with Gen Leon Bengoa, chief of the federal police, promised that work would be resumed today.

An overnight message from Rosario said that the promise was given after Bengoa had assured the labor leaders that Argentina's new revolutionary government under President Eduardo Lonardi was determined to defend labor interests.

NET LABOR HEADS

Revolutionary leaders in other parts of the country held similar meetings with labor delegates, and all reports reaching the capital suggested that the nation would start to get back to normal today.

Argentine sources said the ship carrying Peron would be met by a naval escort through the 700 miles of Argentine territorial waters on the 900-mile voyage to Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay.

Informed sources in Buenos Aires said that Paraguay had given assurances to Peron's condition that he does not stay too long. Another sign that the nation was getting back to normal was a broadcast Sunday night by Hugo Fernandez Naranjo, leader of confederation of labor which was Peron's main backing, asking workers to stay at their jobs in a disciplined manner and avoid any disturbances which might interfere with the return of normal constitutional government.

Seeking evidence of fraud, corruption, and illicit funds, the new government sealed safety deposit boxes and limited withdrawals from checking and savings bank accounts. An army source said Carlos Ibarguren, a director of many business associates, and his brother Valentin had been seized and questioned. Their safe deposits filled with 16,000,000 pesos—more than $1,000,000. The army source said the Alices were headed for Paraguay.

Persuade GM Office Workers To Stay Away

OSHAWA (CP)—Striking General Motors workers today persuaded some 900 workers at the company's south plant to stay away from work after a picket line incident in which a striker carrying a picket was grazed by a car driven by W. L. Pierson, the company's production and control manager.

Another 500 office workers were permitted to cross picket lines and go into the north plant. Pay offices are located in the south plant.

A union spokesman said a picket captain, whose name was withheld, was struck when pickets refused to open for the car.

Police chief Robert Flintoft ordered pickets to admit the executive but Mr. Pierson said he would not enter the plant at that time. He said he only wants to test the validity of his pass.

Dam Across Bering Strait to Warm Arctic Ocean Is Russian's Dream

LONDON (AP) — The Russians say they are thinking about building a mammoth dam across the Bering strait and warming the Arctic ocean with Pacific waters pumped across by atomic power.

Alexander Markin, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said over Moscow radio this would transform the frozen northern parts of Asia, North America and Europe into habitable areas with a temperate climate.

Markin didn't mention the floods it might cause along most southern coasts by melting the polar ice cap.

The Bering strait between Alaska and Siberia connects the Arctic and Pacific oceans. It is 55 miles wide.

Markin said Soviet engineers visualize damming it and then using hundreds of giant pumps powered by an atomic power station of 2,000,000 kilowatt capacity to pump Pacific water into the polar sea.

3 Business Places Burn; Loss Estimated at $125,000

Twenty-one persons, including several small children, were driven from their apartments in night clothing early Sunday morning, when fire swept through the Star Block on Upper Front street, gutting nine apartments and three business places and causing an estimated $125,000 loss.

Belleville firemen fought the blaze for nearly five hours and at one time had ten lines of hose pouring water into the fire. It was the third major fire in downtown Belleville in the past four years.

Business places heavily damaged in the fire were the Seeway Grill, Keller's Flower shop and a second hand furniture store.

According to fire chief Vance the blaze started either at the rear of the Seeway Grill or in a rear hallway connecting the Seeway Grill and Keller's Flower shop.

Apartment dwellers living on the second and third floor apartments discovered the blaze shortly before 2.30 as smoke seeped into their rooms.

Most made their own way to safety through smoke-filled halls and down rear fire escapes, but a few had to be rescued by the firemen. Mrs. Robert Bell and Mabel Treacy were rescued by firemen using a portable ladder, while Michael Graham was taken off the rear roof.

ROOF BURNED OFF

Fire Chief Vance said heavy smoke was rolling from both the Seeway Grill and the flower shop when firemen arrived on the scene. He said the blaze ate its way up inside the rear wall, then spread to the north, where it was stopped by a firewall.

The roof of the building was burned off and second and third floor apartments were gutted from the weight of water.

Main entrance to the Bowl-O-Drome was blocked by debris but the alleys, in a separate steel and concrete building in the rear, suffered only smoke damage.

Although volumes of smoke rolled from the doomed structure very little flames were visible from the street. Most were concealed by flames shot out from second and third floor windows and were very quickly doused by firemen.

Apartment dwellers lost everything except what they were wearing when they were routed. Apartment dwellers forced from their homes stood huddled in small groups on the sidewalk watching with serious faces as the fire ate its way through the building destroying everything they owned.

Four Canadians Stage Riot In Michigan Jail

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Five federal prisoners, four of them Canadians being held on immigration charges, rioted in the Marquette county jail Sunday. They tore out light fixtures before state police officers rounded them up.

Marquette county sheriff Albert Jacobson said the men got out of their cells when he and a trusty attempted to feed them.

When the sheriff could not herd the men back to their individual cells, he called the police. She heavily armed officers marched in the shouting men.

The prisoners, all awaiting the October term of U. S. district court in Marquette, were identified as Valdo Purificati, Timmins, Ont.; Murray Cahill, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; Richard Aitken, Blind River, Ont., and Robert Arthur, Detroit, and Robert Lukesh, Amberg, Wis.

Wage Increase, Shorter Work Week Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—A Quebec labor arbitration board has recommended a general wage increase and a 40-hour work week for about 2,000 employees of the Canadian Arsenals Limited Shellling Company in northwestern Quebec, it was learned today.

The three-man board was unanimous in proposing the across-the-board wage increase as well as a reduction in the work week to 40 hours from the hours which lose to take-home pay.

The work week reduction, it was learned, is valued by the union at about 14.6 cents an hour.

The employees affected are members of the United Steel Workers of America (CIOCLC), work at Quinaldo's big smelter and mine at Noranda, Que.

Negotiations for shorter hour and higher pay went before the arbitration board several weeks ago. They sought a. 40-hour week and an unspecified but "generous" wage boost. Minimum pay now is $1.13 an hour.

LOCALS IN VOTE

Meetings with management to discuss the award are expected later this week. Meanwhile the union's locals in the Noranda area will vote on it.

The employees were involved in a long strike at Noranda at other companies in the area during the winter of 1953-54.

PICTON RESIDENT ESCAPES INJURY

A Picton resident, Louis Desrouchie, 23, escaped serious injury in Toronto over the week-end when his car burst into flames following collision with another car on the Kingston Road near Scarboro. He managed to bring the car to a halt and jump clear. He was treated at hospital for shock. Police said Desrouchie's car was brought by collision.

MANY TRAVEL NORTH TO VIEW WOODLANDS

Many residents drove northward over the week-end to view Ontario's colorful handiwork as autumn sets in. Many went to Algonquin Park where the forest blazed in glorious colors of red and gold. The great foliage spectacle was at its best with deep valleys and flaming hills showing off to great advantage against still green backdrops.

NOT UTILIZING ISLANDS FOR 'BLINDS'

Two "islands" tufted with bulrushes are anchored midstream in the Moira River between the lower city and CNR bridges. The islands apparently floated down river over the week-end after breaking away from marshy land to "upriver". So far no duck-hunters have utilized them for "blinds".

Otherwise police reported a quiet week-end. Several churches were rounded up and one minor motor vehicle accident at the corner of College and North Front was investigated.

Released by Communist China on Sept. 17, Bishop Alphonsus Marius Ferroni, a Franciscan missionary, is recuperating daily in Hong Kong hospital. Imprisoned by the Reds in February, 1953, and weighing only 70 pounds when he was freed, the bishop was too weak to walk across the border to freedom.

Parent-Teacher Group Meets

St. Michael's High school parent-teacher Association executive held its fall term with a well-attended meeting recently.

Very Rev. L. B. Gervin director, addressed the meeting and paid special tribute to the Sisters on the teaching staff of the High school.

Rev. William McGee, also a member of the teaching staff and director of music, briefly outlined the members briefly what the Pontifical Education course involves and said a new junior football team had been formed.

Rev. Eric Cassidy principal of the school, outlined the obligatory and optional subjects included in the junior and senior matriculation course. Also the commercial course. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. J. Gallagher.

Chairmen of standing committees were announced as follows: membership, Mrs. E. B. Kelly; publicity, research and policy, Mrs. B. E. Burley, social, Mrs. H. P. Ryan; entertainment, Harry O'Neill.

Following an unanimous decision to launch a financial drive for funds for the school and other school equipment, plans were discussed regarding the set up of the drive. Since St. Michael's High school receives nothing in the way of government grants but only grants and functions solely at the expense of the parishioners, it was felt by those present that the parents of students would respond generously to the fund as they have to others in the past.

Salvation Army Wants Clothing, Furniture for Fire Victims

An appeal for clothing of all kinds, bedding and household furniture was made today by the local Salvation Army to aid the burned-out victims of the Front street fire, which early Sunday morning forced 21 persons from their apartments.

All apartment dwellers escaped wearing only their night clothes and lost everything they owned including wearing apparel and household furniture. Only one of the nine families who lost their homes carried insurance on their household furniture and personal belongings, it was learned.

Captain H. Marks of the Salvation Army today said that clothing of all description was urgently required. Several of the families had small children, including one month old infant and two boys aged two years. Another family had boys in their teens.

In view of the fact that so many persons lost their homes and of the difficulty of learning their addresses right away, Captain Marks asked that the fire victims contact the Salvation Army where clothing available and other articles may be apportioned to those in need.

JURY "DOUBTS" WIFE'S DEATH AN ACCIDENT

After hearing conflicting evidence from witnesses, of a love triangle, a coroner's jury at Port Colborne, Ont., found that Mrs. Leonard Trumble, right, 37-year-old mother of three, died by drowning at nearby Nickel Beach on August 18. The jury, however, added that "there was some doubt that the drowning was of an accidental nature." Ontario provincial police constable Ross Charleston testified that when he accompanied the husband, Leonard Trumble, left, to his home after the drowning, he found the Trumble housekeeper, Miss Beryl Harrison, 29, on the deceased woman's bed, dressed only in a slip and lingerie. Mr. Trumble denied reports of a love triangle. —Central Press Canadian).

Security Council Assumes Key Role In U.S. Policies

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government went to work on a business-as-usual policy today despite the loss of President Eisenhower's active leadership for an indefinite period.

The National Security Council now becomes the most important policy-making body in the government. A strong advisory group, it now affords the mechanism through which Vice - President Nixon may act in some degree as a substitute president, and others can share problems which otherwise would be the president's.

Assurances that the domestic and foreign policies and operations of the Eisenhower administration will go forward without a hitch came Sunday from Nixon and three cabinet members who left for Ottawa on economic and trade talks with Canadian officials. They were Stale Secretary Dulles, Treasury Secretary Humphrey and Agriculture Secretary Benson.

Eisenhower relaxes the full powers of the presidency, but many of his responsibilities and much more of the work load that normally would be his can be delegated to others.

The constitution provides that the vice president takes over in case of the removal of the president, his death, resignation or "inability to discharge the powers and duties" of office.

The statute which created the security council eight years ago gave it six members—the president, the vice president, the secretaries of state and defense, the foreign aid director and the mobilization director. But in practice Eisenhower has broadened it to include other agencies and departments whose representatives are invited to discuss matters directly affecting their work.

In the president's past absences Nixon has often presided over the NSC meetings by designation of the president. But at the last council said that this practice would now be terminated while the president is recovering from his illness.

118 Persons Die As Hurricane Hits Two Islands

ST. GEORGE'N, Grenada (Reuters)—Grenada's death toll from last Thursday's hurricane disaster rose to 36 during the night, as reports continued to trickle in from outlying parts of the devastated island.

Last reports also said that 28 more persons were killed on Grenada's "satellite" island of Carriacou, a small dependency 20 miles to the north, when hurricane Janet crushed the area.

Relief workers on Grenada are struggling to get essential services working again and to care for homeless and injured.

Road and telephone communication still are blocked over much of the island.

In Carriacou, hurricane Janet destroyed the island's only hospital, the doctor's quarters, the radio station and its two schools.

MISSES JAMAICA

Hurricane Janet, meanwhile, whipped the mid-Caribbean sea with 110-mile winds today as it clung persistently to a course that would eventually bring it to Central America.

The coastline of Nicaragua and Honduras were some 600 miles ahead of the storm. But a slight northward turn would cause it to miss and then it would have an additional 300 miles of water to cross before it could reach the Yucatan peninsula.

Weathermen at the Miami storm forecasting centre predicted Janet would hold to its westerly course for the next 12 hours. It was moving about 10 miles an hour.

The storm by-passed Jamaica some 240 miles to the south early today. Weathermen said winds more than gale force waves were expected to reach the island.

Toronto Stocks Decline Sharply

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices today took one of their worst beatings since the Toronto stock exchange began keeping indexes in 1934. The industrial index moved off more than 16 points in early afternoon trading. The slump followed news of President Eisenhower's illness and the uncertainty of the political situation in the United States.

While some ground was won back at New York after the initial wave of selling, the reaction did not show immediately at Toronto, where losses in fact increased as trading advanced. At closing however, there was no urgency reflected in the volume of business. At 1 p. m. sales were about average for recent sessions with 2,251,000 shares changing hands against Friday's comparable figure of 3,209,000.

Losses in the industrial group ranged to more than 10 points. Ford A dropped 11 to 139. Aluminium and Chrysler each dropped 8¾, to 105 and 99 respectively. Nesbitt slipped 7¼ to 119 and Eddy Paper 6 to 76.

Other stocks losing two points or more included Abitibi, Algoma Steel, Imperial Oil, Steico, Ogilvie, Minnesota and Ontario Paper, Canada Permanent Mortgage and Traders Finance A.

International Nickel tumbled $1 to 80, leading base metals lower. Gaspe Copper fell 3½, Consolidated Smelting 2½, Hudson Bay 2¼ and Opemiska $1.05.

Ventures led holding companies lower, falling 4¼ to 42¾.

Royalite, Pacific Pete and Bailey-Selburn lost more than $1 each among western oils. Other losses ranged to about 75 cents.

Stock Markets Suffer Slump In Early Trading

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto and Montreal stock markets suffered a widespread slump in prices in early trading today, reflecting the setback at New York that followed President Eisenhower's illness and consequent uncertainty in the U. S. political situation.

Losses in industrials ranged to about $6 and all components of the list were affected. The sell-off was not as marked as that at New York, where unusually large blocks were reported traded At Toronto, first-hour volume was only a little above the average for recent sessions. After the initial wave of selling, the market showed signs of recovering at least some of the ground lost.

At London, Reuters reported news of President Eisenhower a illness affected the London stock exchange with dollar stocks recording falls of up to 6¼ points.

Mr. Sinclair arrived here early Sunday, 31 days after he left Vancouver on a journey that took him on a tour of Russian fishing installations and into Red China. He is expected to meet with Prime Minister St. Laurent to report on his trip.

He appeared to be recovering from injuries suffered when a scaffold collapsed while he was visiting the Siberian fishing town of Petropavlovsk Aug. 4.

Mr. Sinclai did not meet the press during his short stay here, but his executive assistant, Allistair Fraser, told a press conference that Russian specialists believe that there is a good chance of complete recovery from the injuries.

AFFECTED LEG NERVES

The minister suffered a broken left leg, a gash on the right knee requiring 28 stitches, abdominal injuries and a spinal injury that affected the nerves of both legs.

As a result, Mr. Fraser said, Mr. Sinclair finds it difficult to stand for more than five minutes, even with the aid of a cane. His most comfortable position is lying prone; sitting is also uncomfortable.

Mr. Sinclair stumbled and almost fell as he walked down the ramp from Canadian Pacific Airlines' Empress of Mexico.

Mr. Fraser said the touring party was "overwhelmed by the generosity and kindness of the Russians."

The minister was not in a position to issue invitations to the Russians, Mr. Fraser said, but added it was "quite possible that Russia's Soviet fisheries scientist may visit Canada next year."

Five Americans Reach Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Five American civilians arrived in Hong Kong today after long detention in Red China. Of the 41 whose release the Chinese Communists promised during the talks at Geneva, 14 now have reached freedom.

Also returned from Red China to Hong Kong today was Roger Devriendt, a Belgian soldier who went over to the Reds five days after the Korean armistice was signed two years ago.

Some litter! It was $297 in bills, scattered around inside the car.

The Mondellis turned the "debris" over to police.

"Let them figure it out," said Mondelli.

Three Injured When Car Careens Over Embankment

TRENTON (Special) — Three persons were badly injured on Sunday morning when a car in which they were riding failed to make the turn on the Glen Miller Road north of Trenton.

According to the report to police the car travelling north hit two trees and plunged over an eight foot embankment. Describing the damage the constable writing the report said: "Car complete wreck." Only one look at the twisted and twisted model was needed to understand that the statement was not exaggerated. Police estimate the damage at $2,500.

Police believe all three occupants fell out of the careening car. When they arrived the two women were lying on the ground while the driver was wandering about the scene.

CAR HITS SEWER

Frank L. Bulpit, 18, of 30 Metcalfe Street, Trenton, damaged his car yesterday while driving along Stanley Street. The drive shaft was knocked out of kilter and the right rear spring broken when the car hit an open sewer in the road. It will take $35 to put the car back in driving shape again.

CONSTABLE SAVES CAR

George French, a new constable in the department, made a discovery on duty this morning that saved a car belonging to Vincent A. Caissie of 200 Dundas Street, Belleville. The driver had parked the car by a meter in the market square. While he was away the constable noticed meters noticed the car windows fogged and upon investigation found the car was running. He called firemen nearby. Firemen came and put out Mr. Caissie found the rear seat cushion and left rear arm rest burned inside the fire destroyed the sleeve of a woman's coat hanging in the car.

TWO AERIAL FIRES

Trenton firemen answered two afternoon calls over the week-end.

The first to the Hancock Lunch premises at Carrying Place had all the earmarks of a serious fire. Actually it was confined to just in good time to catch smouldering material in the room power plant before any real damage resulted.

Yesterday a garage belonging to Mrs. Arthur Rupert of R.R. 2, Glen Miller, burned nearly to the ground by the time the local firefighters could reach the scene. The flames burning fiercely threatened the house close by. Firemen were in time to give protection to Mrs. Rupert's bungalow and one belonging to her son living next door.

Firemen could find no cause for the fire that destroyed the garage where Ed. Rupert kept his car.

Million Tons Of Sinter Rock Blasted Out

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) More than 1,000,000 tons of sinter rock was blasted Saturday when the largest controlled underground explosion in Canadian mining history was detonated at the Helen iron mine, 120 miles north of here.

The explosion sent rock 600 feet into the air. Although homes surrounding the Algoma Ore Properties Ltd., mine were evacuated, no damage was reported.

Carl Beck, president of the mine, said 1,137,100 tons of rock were unearthed by the tremendous blast. The rocks spiralled upward in a column 100 feet wide and 150 feet thick.

Fifteen separate explosions within one second sent the sinter rock skyward after Tillie Berduzco, 25, of Wawa touched off the first charge. Berduzco was in charge of the project which took 18 months to complete.

REDUCED CONCUSSION

He supervised the drilling of 250 blast holes and then checked the of explosive used is the largest charges in each. The separate blasts were designed to shatter the rock and reduce the force of the concussion.

Ten freight cars were used to transport the 153 tons of dynamite exploded in the blast.

Five months will be required to mine the sinter ore exploded Saturday. The company, a subsidiary of Algoma Steel Corp., ships about 1,000,000 tons of high-grade sinter annually from Michipicoten harbor on Lake Superior. Most of it is used by the American steel industry.

Canadian Industries Ltd., dynamite producers, said the 153 tons single charge on its records.

FOR SALE
Let's talk REAL ESTATE
by F. E. HUSON.
Maybe you think it's a bit odd for me to blossom forth as a newspaper columnist, when my real job is helping people buy and sell property.
But I think it's high time some of us who know the real estate business started giving the general public some help of a different sort — by passing along reliable information on how to buy and sell houses and property of other kinds.
A lot of people buy or sell houses perhaps only two or three times in their entire lives, so it's little wonder that so few of them know the ins and outs of the business.
I've known lots of cases where people would have saved themselves a terrific amount of worry and time — yes, and money, too — if they had only been acquainted with some of the basic "do's" and "don'ts" of dealing in real estate.
So I hope that, through this column, I'll be able to help you prospective buyers by telling you such things as what to look for when you're house-hunting (especially the things that many people overlook until it's too late). And for those of you who expect to be selling property in the near future, I'll have plenty of tips on the best methods of marketing real estate.
This, then, is your invitation to watch this space every Monday from now on.
I can promise you that everything I have to say will be based on practical experience, and I hope you'll find it both interesting and worthwhile.

A UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT SPEAKS

Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, on Wednesday delivered another opening address to the students and staff of "Varsity."

In recent years," he said, "I have spoken particularly of opportunities; I have pleaded with students to be themselves, to be 'characters.' If I speak today more of obligations, that is really the other side of the same coin."

There followed a speech replete with interesting statements of facts and outlines of opinions, climaxed by an impressive conclusion. The last three paragraphs of the text of Dr. Smith's speech contain enough fuel for controversy to last the student throughout the "full sessions" of his entire college career. There is almost no statement in them which will be accepted by everybody. But Dr. Smith probably would be disturbed if all his statements should be questioned. Earlier he had said: "That does not mean that you should take everything your instructors say as gospel. You may question anything and everything. But, before you question, it is a good idea to be sure that you understand exactly what the question is about, otherwise your questions will not make sense."

We hope that we understand what Dr. Smith meant when he said, in his conclusion: "If you neglect your work, you will cheat only you. If you do it well, you enjoy it." This is a statement which is certainly true much of the time, probably most of the time, but is it always true? Does a person always like doing something he can do well? We doubt it. For instance, a soldier may be very proficient at killing, but not all proficient soldiers like their work.

But it is not fair to Dr. Smith, or to readers, to offer nothing but isolated from these three arresting paragraphs. So here is the complete text of them, from which readers can fashion their own debates:

"Your future is a matter of choice, and by inescapable equations your choices will bring you profit or loss. If you choose to work, you will pass; if you don't, you will fail. If you neglect your work, you will dislike it. If you do it well, you will enjoy it. If you join little cliques, you will be self-satisfied: if you make friends widely, you will be interesting. If you act like a boor, you will be rebuffed; if you act like a human being, you will be respected. If you spurn wisdom, wise people will spurn you; if you seek wisdom, they will seek you. If you adopt a closed mind, you will be a dead one; if you show vitality, you will be alive. If you spend your free time playing bridge, you will be a good bridge player: if you spend it reading and thinking, the quality of things that matter, you will be an educated person.

"If you have come here for social prestige, you can get what you are after, but you may not like it much. When you have got it, you will really have done better to concentrate on debutantes' parties. If you have come here to learn to make money, you can get what you are after, but you may find that the possession of money is the your goal; you would really have done better to get into the building trades or the stock market. If you have come here to find a life partner and win friends and influence people, who might get what you are after, but it would have been quicker and cheaper to take a course in salesmanship. If you have come here to prepare to serve your fellowmen as a member of one of the learned professions, you are in the right place. If you have come to study the most important ideas that mankind has received, you are in the right place. If you have come to penetrate the fascinating mysteries and powers of nature, you are in the right place. If you have come to learn of the unfathomable spiritual treasures of the past, so as to stand on the giant's shoulders and see farther, to follow knowledge, like a shining star, beyond the uttermost bound of human thought, you are in the right place. You may never get what you are after, but in the trying you will become what you could never otherwise have been, and these next few years that you spend here will be the keystone of your whole experience.

"Members of the University of Toronto, I welcome you to this goodly fellowship. May your days with us be arduous, challenging, and happy!"

CAR OF TOMORROW?

Automobile manufacturers had better start hiring those aviation experts who are designing automatic pilots and electronic guides for jets. Such seats are going to be needed in tomorrow's cars, if a suggestion by the New York Times is adopted by traffic engineers.

The suggestion has the appearance to taking issue, in a good-natured manner, with Michael J. Quill, "the ebullient president of the Transport Workers Union," who is, it says "known, if ever, as a loss for words, but his words are usually calculated to anger, annoy, amuse or alarm, as the case may be."

On a recent occasion Mr. Quill had suggested that all automobile traffic should be abolished on the island of Manhattan. "Why not lock all the inhabitants out of Manhattan altogether?" asks the Times, "then there would not be a traffic problem at all."

Then the Times goes on observe that when Mr. Quill talked about parking he was on firmer ground. "While abolition of auto traffic in Manhattan is not exactly realistic, abolition of all private passenger-car parking at any time on the streets below, say, Fifty-ninth may not be so far-fetched."

If many cities adopt a permanent ban on parking, it is obvious that the automobile owner has only one solution. He will have to buy a car equipped with an automatic pilot and an ejection seat. Then he just sets the controls to send the family chariot back to the garage in the suburbs and, as he passes the office, presses a button. The car does the rest. If there is some sometimes a slight flaw in the mechanism and he lands in the lap of that willowy redhead at the third desk from the door, perhaps he will not complain too bitterly.

KNOW NOT SPATS

Not many years ago a man could go into a shoe store and buy a pair of spats. They gave his shoes a dressy look and they kept his ankles warm, which was a preventive of colds. Now, it is reported it is almost impossible to buy a pair anywhere. A generation is growing up that knows not what a spat is—except for the eternal husband and wife kind. (St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

Let Russian Women Visit

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

The Russian agricultural delegation which has visited the United States and Canada is not the only fact-finding group that has visited America. But they are unique. They have been their eyes opened to many things which must have made them hope they can persuade the Soviet government to do the same back home.

It would have been interesting, however, if the women had been delegates—if they have wives—or other women had been given the opportunity of visiting the United States and Canada and seen for themselves the difference between the economic status of women in the free countries and "women's" living for themselves and for their homes. Russian women have been told incessantly that they and their menfolk are better off than the men and women of other countries. A visit to the United States and Canada would enlighten them, and show how their political bosses, during the Stalin regime at a high, have been lying to them.

A FEW TOASTS

Here's to us all, no matter what we do,
May every dream of happiness come true.

Here's to our tears. For them let's be prepared.
They prove to all how greatly we have cared.

Here's to the gift of birth, though all are born,
If long life lasts, to suffer and to mourn.

Here's to our memories, wiser than are we.
They cling to joys that might forgotten be.

Here's to the future, as we journey on,
May it hold peace of mind to every one.

Here's to grim death, by no one hailed as friend;
But when it comes, to pain it brings an end.

A toast to love, as everybody knows,
The richest gift which God on us bestows.

Animals Living Longer

(National Geographic Society)

Man's animals, like man himself, show a decided tendency today to live longer and grow bigger.

Dogs, for one, enjoy greater life expectancy. A dog's life two decades ago ran about as it now runs, on eight years. Now, though there are no vital statistics on pets, authorities say that average dog lives 11 to 13 years, thanks to better food and veterinary care.

Scientific breeding and feeding show even more striking results on the farm. Beef cattle are better, sterile cows milkier. Young pigs and chickens grow faster. The entire barnyard stays healthier, boosting longevity.

In only a few cases, and then only very gradually, does a breed as a whole seem to be getting bigger. Thoroughbred horses 200 years ago averaged 14 hands high (a hand's breadth is four inches), Today that same height would officially pass the horse-as-average standard race horse's height is 15½ hands, a growth of six inches.

Whether dogs as a class are growing gradually larger, as one pet-food firm recently asserted, is "impossible to determine," males environment — even dog shows, for instance — have brought changes in a given breed. Popularity of various breeds fluctuates, changing the dog population. But the ancient wolf-like wild dogs that preceded man's first domesticated animal were quite close in size to today's dogs.

Horses are a different story. Eohippus, the first Horse, grew some 45,000,000 years ago scarcely larger than a big tomcat. Its early descendants stood about the size of a fox terrier.

Even the most "prehistoric" horse, the not-quite-extinct wild Przewalski horse of Asia's steppes, is only four feet high—pony size.

It is possible to breed horses—or cattle, hogs, or dogs for that matter—around to size until dwarf animals appear. This is done sometimes for sideshows, sometimes for serious breeding purposes. Small-sized cultivars for small families are increasingly popular, as are hackney ponies for horse shows.

On the other hand Shetland ponies, shaggy midgets because of long centuries on sparse, cold, island pastures north of Scotland, have been developed by generation when transported to greener fields.

Neither dogs nor cats, no matter how they thrive on today's growth feeds, serums and wonder medicines, are apt to become giants or to match man in longevity.

Dogs rarely live beyond 20 years; cats surprisingly enough rarely more often. In 1946 a woman was made for the oldest dog in America. Seventeen years old, found was 28. But one cat-fancier claims to equal the record.

Cat longevity in modern times defeated Mrs. Crowley's Siamese supersition-ridden Dark Ages, when witches were burned with the highest towers of Flemish towns on the night Wednesday to Lent, were roasted alive in cages beside roaring fires in England and treated not quite so shabbily all to do away with the spirits of witchcraft.

Vale of Avoca Faces Change

(Timmins Daily Press)

More than a century ago the Irish poet Thomas Moore sang sweetly in lines since become familiar to generations of schoolchildren, and which became a by-word for the beauty of the world a valley so sweet." The valley was in Ireland, also in southeast Wicklow known as the Vale of Avoca. It is, we learn from the Irish Times, now extensively wooded, but its beauty is somewhat marred by the presence of lead and copper mines, and by the Great Southern Railway," which, the poet called Ovaco, another spelling of the name.

The presence of this potential mineral wealth has been known for a long time and in recent years the Irish Government has spent half a million pounds prospecting the mining possibilities there. The prospecting has indeed over at one time by Ventures Limited, but with copper then at 24 pounds cents per pound the prospect was not encouraging, the grade being considered too low for economic operation. At thirty cents an even-keel mine might be brought in and at forty-three cents profitable according to experts.

Now an other Canadian company, Mogul Mining Corporation is engaged in prospecting and this long dormant copper mine in the productions. It has obtained a ground for twenty-one years, with option of renewal for a further twenty period. The terms of lease include erection of a three thousand ton mill at a cost of two and a millions of dollars, and when it begins into production a royalty is ably could be the end of what the poet described as "the soft music of streamlets and hill," all in the name of economic progress.

Whether Irish eyes will cooper prices are quoted currently at seventy-one cents per pound, and the metal is in heavy demand for a variety of uses throughout the free world. Ireland will thus contribute to the interest being shown in the search for fresh sources of copper supply, in Canada and in many other countries. Known deposits will be carefully examined previously but discarded temporarily for the same reason the Avoca ground was not developed earlier, and the decision given through testings by modern methods and by companies covered.

Reds Scared By Own Bomb

(Montreal Gazette)

Possibly one explanation of Russia's sudden change of attitude towards controlling nuclear weapons is to be found in Prime Minister St. Laurent's recent statement that the Russians seem to be "just as scared of a nuclear war as we are."

It is interesting to speculate how this attitude came about and what are the advantages and its limitations. The new Russian attitude toward atomic war can be traced almost directly to Russia's own first clear explosions.

When the Russians gained the secret of the A-bomb, they continued to boast that in any future war it would be the West which would be laid waste. They would be safe.

Then the Russians exploded a fusion (H-bomb) device. Soon afterward, the tone changed abruptly. Where Malenkov had declared that the next war would mean "the end of capitalism," he now asserted that it would mean the end of civilization." Pravda criticized the change, said it was "politically wrong and politically harmful." There were dark hints that Malenkov might be executed for this political heresy but he is still in power today.

The indications are that the other Russian leaders have come around to his view. The H-bomb experiments have shocked them.

Russia is in the "peace or terror" which Sir Winston Churchill has described as the present world situation. Russia is not the best kind of peace, perhaps, being founded on fear, suspicion and hatred. But it is far better than war.

amply financed for the work.

That is the chief reason behind the decision announced last week by Kamiskotia in Porcupine, where working men in production under less favorable economic conditions and, indeed, chiefly by the new stress of world demands. A somewhat similar condition is reported recently from the Boston Creek district where, to quote a contemporary, "the present price for copper has set two separate companies probing the ground." The curious city of prospectors also has been busy staking claims and they are looking for deposits not yet discovered.

What A Wonderful Mother!

A reader in the deep south writes:

I am gradually being educated in what to expect of this piece of clay that has a padlock on my soul.

I reared seven children, gave them an education, and one of them is now an M. D. Now we are proud of his record, as of our other sons' — we had seven in this past war.

Please send me your pamphlet on . . . You see, the education mentioned is from Dr. William Brady. I have read your column regularly since it first appeared in our paper, and I wish I might have had access to your teachings when I was rearing my youngsters.

(Signed) Mrs. . . . . .

You do me great honor, Ma'am. Your letter is one out of ten thousand that I shall keep in my scrap book. You know, for years I have anticipated the pleasure I'm going to have showing luckless visitors my scrap book when I shall have been gradually and quietly, or as quietly as possible, superseded by now this and next that paper until not enough subscribers remain to keep me in typewriters.

Seven sons in the war! You are more than an institution, Ma'am. You're a Mother. The Milton illiterates with the name of your city, for one monument, a child guidance clinic or playground would prefer. What are the people waiting for?

Offhand I'd say my column has been in your paper for perhaps 15 years. I have never seen the slightest hint of how or whether my stuff is printed in full or in part, occasionally — or regularly, three, five or seven days in the week. Anyway, I regard as kindly flattery your wish that you might have had access to my teachings when the children were little tots.

Now it behooves me to be chary when there's a doctor in the family, but I'm in so deep that I may as well go all the way and hope that the doctor will remember that in all my teachings I am guided by the Hippocratic oath of Hippocrates — Do Good If You Can But Do No Harm.

In token of my admiration, Ma'am, I am sending you A Lot of Little Lessons in the Ways of Health— a ($6) pocket encyclopedia in 13 volumes with my compliments. If you will give me the doctor's name and address I'll send him one, too, from which he may dip occasionally for amusement if not for instruction.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PATIENT THOUGHT

The world owes' to its thinkers more than it can ever repay. They are the ones who have banished falsehood and introduced truth in its naked state for all the world to take note. Sir Isaac Newton, for example, opened up new worlds of scientific thought. He once said: "I had no special sagacity — only the power of patient thought."

Thought takes concentration, a habit of advancing and the courage to express new convictions, regardless of earlier beliefs. If we could only think our way out of problems and troubles we would probably have few problems and no troubles!

I was interested in reading about a conference of men that Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland industrialist, instituted this summer at his home place in Pugwash, Nova Scotia. He sent out invitations to a number of noted scholars and public spirited men meet together there and discuss the problems of the world. I'm curious to learn if anything has come of it where thoughts are born and get together and are instructed to be thought.

Thought can go into all directions if let alone. It's a good thing to have a vacation from it, and not to be patient with it, and keep it on a happy mood. Newton could have left off thinking after the apple had given him a slight jolt on the left side of his head, but that is not what he did. He kept on thinking, and the more he thought the more he had revealed to him until he became one of the great thinkers of the world.

Had Newton lived four more centuries or so, he would have won the Nobel Prize hands down, but he didn't live and needed it to enhance his fame. His thinking did that. Think things out and think things instituted this summer of his home place in Pugwash, Nova Scotia. He sent out invitations to a number of noted scholars and public spirited men meet together there and discuss the problems of the world. I'm curious to learn if anything has come of it where thoughts are born and

By GREGORY CLARK

Being gifted with a little peren-tergency. I lie a necktie around my nical bronchitis as a consequence of a German potion put away back in the 1920's, when my generation was busy making the world safe for democracy, and I've never had a stitch about democracy and my turtle neck sweaters and sweaters. It may only be imagination, but the snug turtle neckband appears to give me some comfort. Thus in cold spring and summer, I wear cotton, wool or silk turtle necks, light ones for the heavy ones for winter. There are two schools of thought amongst head waiters and their accompaniments. One holds that they have a tie.

The other sect insists on shirts, and cares nothing about neckties. They like a turtle neck and shirt. The shirt can be open at the neck, exposing an area of hairy chest about the size of a piece of apple pie. But that is okay. The shirt can be the weirdest color concoction you ever saw. But still there is a necktie, in the neck, am debarred.

Which sect clergymen?" I again demand. "How do you know they've got shirts on? Half the time they're not visible behind pulpits and are wearing only a little dicky with a collar on it.

No matter, I am again debarred. For so far, I have not found a shirt neck girl who likes shirts handy for my poisoned old democrats turtle necks.

However, I eat pretty good, regardless.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE PRACTICAL HUMAN TORCH

In a section of Spain many years ago a noted Spanish scholar encountered a certain valley a group of people who were considerably below the average in stature. The reasons given for their condition was that nutrition did not reach the floor of this valley for a long period every day, and that the water was not fertile as it should be.

This particular scholar advanced the theory — since scientifically confirmed — that the trouble was that these people were drinking water which was too pure. It reached them as drinking water within a short time after it had run off the melting glaciers on the mountain. This meant that the water did not have time to gather up any of the minerals necessary which it would have gathered up had it flowed for a longer time over the ground. These people were being starved, literally, regarding certain necessary food values; hence their diminutive stature.

There is a parallel in the world as too much idealism? No, but there is such a thing as an overlowered life which does not brush against humanity at all and so lacks realism in its connection with and concern for mankind which would make it practical.

Let us have all the idealism we can, but let us make sure that it touches human life in a practical, human way.

POWER TOWN

This is Labrieville, home of the giant Bersimis power development which will soon send 1,200,000 horsepower of Hydro coursing through the transmission lines of Quebec province. Buildings in the long row on the left house parts of the working force. On right, near the Bersimis river, is the permanent part of the town which is expected to have a population of 500 when the project is finished. At present, some 4,200 men are finishing up the job. The Bersimis, once a raging river, was already tamed when this photo was taken because control dams at its source at Lake Casse had already cut its flow. (CP Photo).

EXPLOSIVES MOVE MOUNTAIN

Construction men call this picture an engineer's dream. It shows a small mountain containing about 35,000 cubic yards of rock being torn apart by the simultaneous explosion of more than 12 tons of dynamite placed in holes drilled in the rock. The rock was being quarried for use in the giant Bersimis power development near Labrieville, Que., on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River. (CP Photo).

4,200 Men Will Be Required To Finish Bersimis Project Expected in Fall of 1956

Canadian Press Business Editor

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP)—Creation of a vast new power development such as that on the Bersimis river in eastern Quebec is more than just a matter of water storage, tunnels and power houses, and more than the spending of $250,000,000.

It's people coming to grips with the wilderness; engineers and construction men looking at a maze of mountains, waters and forests and somehow figuring out how they will turn it all into an orderly power-production line; the amenities of city life planted amazingly quickly in the wilds, but with the dangers of the wilds always ready to strike.

Perhaps you'll catch some of the massiveness of it when you enter the granite and concrete world inside the mountains, look down 35-foot tunnels that reach for miles, see 16 drills biting simultaneously into the rock face from huge platforms; 30-ton trucks loading and being turned around on turn tables within the tunnels.

AWESOME CAVERN

Certainly you'll feel awe in the vast underground powerhouse, 565 feet long and 80 feet high, which somehow has the feeling of a cathedral.

Maybe you'll be lucky enough to be present when workers who have started tunnelling miles apart finally meet and break in on one another and find that they are out only a fraction of an inch in their calculations.

Then, in imagination, you may see the mighty rush of waters which will soon fill this space and in their downward plunge create power which will spread hundreds of miles through mining camps, towns and cities to create new industry and provide new comforts.

In the beginning—and the beginning for Bersimis was 1925—there was wilderness and a turbulent river dropping some 1,200 feet in 40 miles through the forests.

In October, 1952, a small group of men hacked their way in. Winter was coming on and the first job was to prepare a site for a power house to supply the project during the construction years.

WORK IN WILDERNESS

A ready-made powerhouse, which had been retired from service, was found at St. Timothee, near Montreal. It was dismantled, freighted down the St. Lawrence to Forestville and, when winter had frozen the roads and covered them with snow, it was hauled to the prepared site at Lake Casse.

By mid-1953 it was in operation with 15,000 horsepower capacity, supplying energy for the building of the 1,200,000 horsepower project.

By December, 1952, the first parties were out of tents, some 300 men were streaming in and all were fed and housed during the winter by Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills Ltd., whose timber concessions are in the area.

During the winter, contracts were let and the huge job of assembling thousands of men, preparing for their accommodation and feeding, got under way.

H. G. Acres, consulting engineers, were early on the job and through 1953 the big contractors arrived in force—Atlas Construction, Carter Construction, Perini (Quebec), Angus Robertson, Dufresne Engineering and Komo Construction.

From mid-1953 the scene resolved itself into a vast construction job with the usual city facilities which accompany such jobs today, and, since then, has continued step by step and will continue until late 1956. Some 4,200 men now are on the job, down from the 5,000 peak in 1954.

NEW-BUILT TOWN

The town of Labrieville—named after Msgr. A. M. Labrie, Roman Catholic Bishop of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, was built near the powerhouse. Partly of temporary buildings which will be torn down when the work is done, and partly of handsome permanent buildings which will house and provide services for those who will look after the project when construction is done.

In addition to Labrieville, other big camps, temporary towns in themselves, were built for the various contractors near the scenes of their operations.

Not the least problem was the feeding of so many people. Two cafeterias at Labrieville can serve 1,300 at a sitting and cafeterias in the work camps can handle up to 500 at a time.

Huge ovens turn out 2,000 loaves of bread a day as well as countless doughnuts, pies and other edibles. A 15,000 dish-washing machine does the dishes.

RINGED BY HILLS

For illness and injuries there is a well-equipped 25-bed temporary hospital, which will be replaced by a 150-bed permanent institution when the construction population leaves.

Labrieville is situated 450 feet above sea level, ringed by hills and mountains rising to 1,500 feet and which now have great bronze swaies across them, legacy of forest fires which threatened to destroy the town this summer.

The parish church of St. Maurice de Labrieville, designed by architect Edouard Fiset of Quebec, is beautiful in its simplicity.

The town is proud, too, of its country-club-style 25-room hotel and the new school which will have about 100 pupils this term.

The estimated permanent population of some 500 will be housed in 117 bright, new houses, many of them already built.

BUSY COMMUNITY

Labrieville has a job to do, to get the Bersimis project finished and then to maintain it, and it doesn't encourage visitors unless they have a real reason for going there.

It is no place for one who easily gets a feeling of isolation, for the nearest big centre is Quebec, reached by 85 miles of road and another 265 miles of either road or airplane. The future, however, may see a 100-mile road cut through to Chicoutimi.

Those who are worried by distance from other centres, leave. But those who stay seem happy. Two young Montrealers said they rarely even think of going outside. They have furnished their two-bed compartment in a bunkhouse attractively, have hobbies, engage in sport and help with local entertainment, pay $1.50 a day for food and lodging, save money and say they were never so happy.

The town is built and maintained and provided with shopping, commercial, amusement and other services by Hydro-Quebec.

Rev. C. E. Robitaille, parish priest, speaking of the problems of a clergyman, perhaps summed up this muted life of city comforts and hovering wilderness for all when he said:

"We have to be ready to face any circumstances. One winter night I was in bed at 11:30 p.m. The telephone rang and by midnight I was crossing Lake Casse to the scene of an accident." Then he added:

"We work and we are happy."

BY-ELECTIONS TO

Today's voting can have little effect on party strength in the Commons which, on by-election eve stood: Liberals 166; Progressive Conservatives 51; CCF 23; Social Credit 15; Independent 4; vacant 6; total 265.

The Temiscouata campaign has seen Jean-Paul St. Laurent called "His papa"—espe's boy. The prime minister himself has taken no part in that or any of the other by-election campaigns.

In Quebec South the son of another prominent Canadian is in a three-way contest, He is Frank G. Power, 32-year-old lawyer and son of Hon. C. G. Power whose appointment to the Senate last July vacated the seat he had held since 1917.

Yvon Tasse, Progressive Conservative, a 45-year-old engineer, and Jean-Louis Plante, Independent, 50-year-old lawyer, are out to upset Mr. Power's hopes of becoming the third generation in his family to sit in the Commons.

Two candidates are seeking election in Bellechasse: Ovide Lamonn, Liberal, a 39-year-old Quebec City lawyer, and Julie Pare, Conservative, 35, and also a lawyer.

Candidates in Restigouche-Madawaska are John Bugold, Liberal; J. C. van Horne, Progressive Conservative, and Frederick L. Prickett, Independent Social Credit.

Mr. Bugold, 49, and Mr. van Horne, 34, both are lawyers in Campbellton, N.B. Mr. Prickett, 63, is a contractor at Robinsonville, N.B.

DOCTORS

Until Sunday noon the president's only nourishment had been fruit juices. Then he asked for and got a bowl of oatmeal—and ate it all.

DOCTOR WAS CALLED

Earlier press secretary James Hagerty reported that the president has slept a good deal in the hospital.

The attack hit the president about 3 a.m. Saturday. He apparently wakened Mrs. Eisenhower, who called Dr. Snyder to the Doud residence.

About 45 minutes later, the White House said, Snyder detected the first symptoms of a heart attack. He later called in Fitzsimons Hospital specialists who made a cardiograph tracing showing performance of the heart. That confirmed that the president had suffered a seizure.

The day before he was stricken, Eisenhower played 27 holes of golf after returning from a four-day holiday at a Rocky mountain fishing camp. He looked the picture of health and was in excellent spirits.

Princess Royal Sails for Canada On 27-day Visit

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (CP) — The Princess Royal, her personal standard fluttering at the stern of the Empress of France, sailed Friday night for Canada and a 27-day visit as guest of the Canadian government.

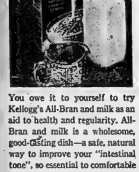
At her request, it was a "no fuss" departure, marked by a civic good-bye rendered by the lord mayor of Liverpool and watched by crowds of dockside spectators who cheered and clapped politely.

Passengers already aboard the Canadian Pacific Liner applauded the Princess Royal as her party stepped up the red-carpeted gangway between floral decorations.

The embarkation process took two minutes. The Princess Royal wore a grey costume and grey hat, and waved cheerfully back at the crowds.

She is scheduled to arrive at Quebec Thursday and returns to Britain next month.

A GOOD WORKER



Her request for no frills at her leave-taking was in accordance with the behavior Britons have come to expect from the grey-haired, somewhat shy only daughter of King George V and Queen Mary. She is one of the hardest-working members of the Royal Family, and in the last few years has come more to the public eye than before.

The 58-year-old aunt of the Queen will also visit Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Kingston and Niagara Falls, Ont., Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria.

Weddings

DABOLL — REDNER

Tall standards of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel rail of Centre United Church, Rednersville, while satin bows designated the guest pews for a lovely autumn wedding on Saturday, September 17, at 2.00 p.m. when Sybil Margaret Redner, of Rednersville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner, became the bride of Everett Orlin Daboll, of R.R. 3, Fenwick, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlin L. Daboll. The Reverend T. F. Townsend, of Belleville, assisted by Mr. Van Wolsem, of the Redner's uncle, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. Robert Barber of Mountain View, cousin of the bride, presided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Joan Wood of Ameliasburg, who sang before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer," during the service, "The Lord's Prayer," and while the register was being signed, "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Ralph Redner, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of Swiss hand-embroidered nylon tulle, featuring a molded bodice with new portrait neckline and long, lily-pointed sleeves. Her veil, tulle illusion, scalloped with Swiss embroidery, was caught to a tiara studded with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white Bible crested with red roses and streamers knotted with tiny rosebuds.

Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was gowned in green diaphanous crystaliette; Mrs. Bev. Gray, sister of the bride and Mrs. Lawrence Foster, as senior bridesmaids were beige and turquoise crystaliette, respectively, while Miss Beverley Pulver, as junior bridesmaid, was attired in gold colored crystaliette. All were fashioned in bandeau styles of autumn leaves enhanced with side cluster of yellow and bronze 'mums, and carried baskets of yellow and bronze 'mums.

The reception was held at Centre Church hall, with the Centre W.A. doing the catering. The bride's mother, attired in cocoa brown crepe with beaded neckline, avocado green accessories, and corsage of yellow roses, received.

Mrs. James Stanley Agnew, Barrie, is pictured with her bridal attendants following her marriage to James Stanley Agnew. Rooke, Barrie, Ont.)

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in black velvet cocktail silk and sequin trim with white accessories, and corsage of Sweetheart roses.

For travelling to Quebec and the United States, the bride chose a green wool suit with black accessories, and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Daboll will reside for the winter months in Cayuga, Haldimand county, and later, on the bridegroom's farm in Welland county.

Guests were present from Fenwick, Hamilton, Welland, Toronto, Oshawa, St. Catharines, Port Hope and Ottawa.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored by several showers and presentations. A clothesline shower was held by Mrs. Douglas Redner and Mrs. William Gerrits at the former's home, with Miss Betty Redner as co-hostess. A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Lawrence Foster at her home with Miss Joan Wood as co-hostess. Hasting county council made the presentation of a purse of money. The Prince Edward Junior Farmers, of which the bride was president, a silver rose bowl, and the Rednersville Women's Institute, of a Wedgwood vase.

AGNEW—MORROW

Trinity Anglican church, Barrie, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stanley Morrow, of Barrie, to James Stanley Agnew, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edgar Agnew of Barrie. The Rev. Allan A. Read officiated.

The wedding music was played by the church organist, Mrs. P. M. Roberts, who also accompanied the soloist, Victor A. I: Knox, in the singing of "The Twenty-third Psalm" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of French imported lace over heavy satin in a bridal blush shade, fashioned with a basque bodice, having a pictorial neckline embroidered with seed pearls, and lily-pointed sleeves of lace. She carried a white Bible with cluster of white gladioli florets and garlands of white stephanotis.

Her attendants were Miss Jean Morrow of Barrie, as maid of honor; Miss Mary Jayne Agnew, Mrs. Earl Winter, both of Barrie, and Miss Linda Anne Morrow of Stirling, as bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in aqua-foam brocade, styled on princess lines, with headdresses and mittens to match. They carried semi-crescents of white and yellow gladioli florets.

Mr. Robert McKittrick of Toronto, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Messrs. Bernard Hurlbutse and Ross Morrow of Barrie.

At the reception following the ceremony, Mrs. Morrow was in rose crepe and lace with navy accessories and a corsage of blue and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother, who also received, was wearing toast shade taffeta with avocado accessories and a corsage of tawny gold roses.

For travelling the bride chose an ensemble of Caribbean blue tie silk with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations. After a wedding trip to Western Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Agnew will be making their home in Barrie.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included many relatives of the bride from the Frankford and Stirling areas.

Woman Hailed As Best Lawyer In Britain

By DONOVAN BESS

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's self-styled "public enemy" No. 1, Jack (Spot) Comer, 42, is back in his books barring the London's Soho district, a free man.

Comer has his freedom because attractive Rose Heilbron left her Liverpool home and came to London last week to handle his defence on charges of wounding a fellow-Italian in a knife-fight.

"She's the greatest lawyer in history," Comer told reporters Friday night as Miss Heilbron laid aside her iron-grey lawyer's wig.

The Comer acquittal added one more victory to the record of this 39-year-old brunette who, London lawyers believe, may become the first woman judge in the history of Britain.

When Miss Heilbron left the Old Bailey Friday night, fans gathered outside the street shouted a new familiar cry, "we want Rose."

HAPPY HOMEY

Despite her courtroom victories and the long, weary battle against male prejudice, Miss Heilbron passionately believes a happy home is the premise of any woman's career.

When not called to the courtroom, she lives quietly in Liverpool with her husband, Dr. Nathaniel Burstein, a cool surgeon from Dublin. She insists on making room for hours of play and comradeship with Hilary, her six-year-old daughter.

Miss Heilbron is one of Britain's two women Queen's Counsels and the first woman given that title. The office, though purely honorary, stamps her as a leading trial lawyer with appropriate costume—wig and silk robes—and income—not less than £10 a case.

In her role of Queen's Counsel Miss Heilbron already has saved four men from the gallows.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'VE ALREADY STOOD TOO MUCH

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

When my husband and I were married thirteen years ago, his mother lived with us the first seven months, as she and his father were separated. I broke a lot of dishes during that time, just to let off steam and to keep from screaming at her for always telling me what to do in my own kitchen. She had to go through our room to get to hers, and she never bothered to knock, so my husband and I never had any privacy. Also, our first landlady asked us to move because of things my mother-in-law was doing whenever my husband and I went away for the week-end. I have been doctoring for years, to overcome troubles which started during those first months of my marriage.

Now my husband's parents are living together again, and for the past several years they have used our house as a week-end home. My husband and I would like to be just our own family, and be able to spend leisurely week-ends by ourselves, inviting his parents over occasionally. But they never wait for an invitation. They just call up and say they will be over. I hate to be rude and tell them not to come, but I'd like to. But I just can't, because I was brought up to respect my elders. I can't say we won't be home, either, because we now have two sleeping rooms, since we had no children of our own, and consequently we have room at all the time.

For a while, they would ask me to dinner one evening each week, but one time when we were there, my mother-in-law treated me in such an insulting way that since then I have refused every invitation I possibly could.

My husband feels as I do about his parents constantly dropping in, and we both agree that we'd be delighted to see them once a month—or less! But how could we go about it without hurting their feelings?

By the way, they are not old—only in their early fifties, and we are in our early thirties.

L. F. P.

Dear L.F.P.:

Needless to say, the very best solution of your problems would be for you and your husband to move far enough away so that his parents would find it less easy to get to your house. I realize that a man's work usually must determine where he and his family live, but if I were you, I would give the subject some serious consideration.

You are in a big city which has many suburbs. Might it not be possible for you to move to one of them on the far side of the city from where your in-laws live, so that they would find it too inconvenient to come to see you very often? Your husband would have to commute, of course, but I would think that to put up with commuting would be less wearing than what you are now putting up with.

Your husband could tactfully explain to his parents that, with two children, you want to be out of the city where they can get outdoors more. If they drew their own conclusions, let them. It might wake them up to the way they've been imposing on you.

If moving seems to be an impossibility, however, then I think it is up to your husband to take a stand, and tell his parents, gently but firmly, that the two of you must have most week-ends to yourselves. He can say, that, after a busy week, you both need the time for rest which are certainly not getting now; for pursuing your own interests and seeing your own friends,. If necessary, get your doctor to order rest for you. Since you have been under his care so much of the time, he no doubt would be glad to do this, on the very logical ground that your health requires it.

Of course, neither you nor your husband want to hurt his parents, but if they are hurt by being affectionately asked to give you a chance to live your own lives, at least a part of the time, then they are very unreasonable and it would not be your fault. In my opinion, you have already stood far more than you should have.

BEAUTY

BEAUTIFUL HANDS FOR THE BUSY HOMEMAKER

Cream, applied to hands and then held under cold water, acts as a "seal," prevents "dishpan hands."

Glance through your favorite magazine and you'll note that the loveliest pictured, within—whether it's the girl on the cover or the girls in the illustrations—all have beautiful hands. Many a busy homemaker has done this and wished up completely frustrated. "If only my hands could look like theirs," she thinks to herself. "but what's the use? Their hands aren't in and out of hot water all day long. They aren't using harsh soaps, cleaning fluids and bleaches every day of the week. They don't . . . oh, well . . ."

But we have news for you. Many of them do. In fact, most of the pretty models who pose for those glamorous pictures are wives and mothers themselves and, when not busy posing in the studio, are taking care of their homes and babies. But, realizing that lovely hands are part of their stock in trade, they take special care of them. They just can't afford to have "dishpan hands."

So what do they do? Well, most of them use work gloves for any jobs involving hot water — doing the dishes, the laundry, etc. And all of them are lavish in their use of hand creams and lotions, which help to keep their hands smooth and prevent roughness and redness. There's one cream in particular they've found recently which models we've talked to now swear by. Available in two formulas, one for wet work and the other for dry, this cream is packaged in handy tubes and is available at your favorite drug store. The preparation is described as a "cream glove" and is really a boon to those who don't feel quite comfortable wearing work gloves. It's application is simple.

For jobs requiring immersion in hot water or other liquids such as bleaching compounds, cleaning fluids and the like, one uses the "wet" formula. The cream is rubbed into the skin, especially between the fingers and around the nail cuticles. When a thorough coat has been applied and well worked into the skin, the hands are held briefly under cold running water, then lightly patted dry to remove the excess. During the three-to-four hour protective period after application, hands can be immersed in liquids as often as necessary without irritating effects.

The "dry" formula, used for such jobs as dusting, polishing furniture, painting, etc., requires no rinsing under cold water. The cream is applied just as any other but it acts as a barrier to the irritants frequently found in household products. This one's also fine for gardening since it helps to protect against grime on hands, knees and elbows.

(If you would like further information about the products mentioned in this column, please send your request, together with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mme. Qui Vive, in care of this newspaper.)

Give Your Fish The French Treatment

By Mary Moore

Our branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club was invited to dinner by the Niagara Parks Commission at the Refectory.

It is one of the most glorious settings in which to eat your dinner in Canada. I sat facing the broad window overlooking the Canadian Falls and in observing the mist and the everlasting torrent I nearly forgot the notice what I was eating. It was a meal worthy of Paris or London: French onion soup, fish with a shrimp sauce, fillet mignon with mushrooms, broccoli, asparagus, shoestring potatoes, celery, ripe olives, radishes, apple pie with ice cream —the latter being the specific request of director Maxim Grey who dislikes "those tall gooey desserts."

It is the fish with shrimp sauce that I want to give a little attention. The French have a great way of handling fish subtly. It seems never to be subjected to rough treatment. We should copy them.

Not long ago I received a letter from a reader saying that she considered a fish dinner an expensive dinner. I won't argue that but I will give you an idea for one that is medium-priced, but delicious, and it is my versions of the fish course served us at Niagara, moved up a notch to the main course.

Steamed Fish with Shrimp Sauce

You may use any one of three white-fleshed fish — cod, haddock or sole (it is good with salmon and many other fish too). Any one of those three though may be bought in any fish store in Canada. Allow at least one pound for each three folks to be served. Wrap fish in dampened parchment paper and place in steamer top or on trivet in large kettle. Steam fillets or steaks 20 minutes or until fish will "flake." A two-pound piece of fish cut from centre will require longer—up to 40 minutes. Carefully unwrap and transfer to hot platter and pour over it.

Shrimp Sauce

This may be made two or three ways.

No. 1. Buy an 8-oz. tin of inexpensive shrimp (or a 1-lb. can and use half for the sauce and half for a first-course shrimp cocktail the next day and another meal.) Drain off the liquid from an 8-oz. can and to it add enough milk to make 1¼ cups. Melt 3 tablespoons butter, then stir in 2 2/3 tablespoons flour, and when blended stir in the liquid until thick. It requires no salt for the shrimp liquid is a brine. Add the drained shrimp or if you want to stretch them, cut each in half and add only half of the canful. Heat through and pour over fish. Many little additions may be made —a drop or two of red coloring to tint it a delicate pink; a pinch of pepper and curry powder.

No 2. (using skim milk powder and egg yolk): To 1¼ cups half-and-half shrimp liquor and water add 1/3 cup skim milk powder and mix until blended. Make sauce same as No. 1 (above) but add the sieved yolk of a hard-cooked egg last. No. 3 sauce, as you see, is rich in protein and flavor. A variation of it is the addition of one teaspoon anchovy paste — it tantalizes the delicate color but the flavor of lip is worth it occasionally.

HOTEL ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a woman signs the register (maybe in a hotel), can the registration card if this is the procedure in this hotel) should she indicate whether she is "Mrs." or "Miss"?

2. And please answer this question (to settle a discussion we are having): When the hotel clerk requests your name, is it proper to correct him?

Reader

1. Yes . . . and this is important. Write your name as plainly as you can (or print it, if you wish to). If you are "Miss," sign Mary Janet Blake. If you are "Mrs." sign Mrs. Arthur Clark (not "Mrs. Mary Clark", unless you are on a business trip and this is the name you use in business).

2. Yes. Pronounce your name distinctly to the clerk, and if he still mispronounces it, graciously tell him the correct pronunciation. It is particularly important that he tell the switchboard attendants the correct pronunciation of your name so you will not miss any calls.

NEW NOTIONS

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Shown here is a set of new accessories culled from the latest collections, and ready to go into the stores. The gathered beret in bright shades of velvet measures up to a smart success and has quite a bit of dash when worn tilted at the back of the head, as in the sketch. Leather straps give quite a tone to this felt handbag which has a bright leather lining and brass buckles. The always-smart pump is back again, this one with a back of tweed grey cloth with black golf for vamp and heel. It has a novelly pointed V effect at the instep.

Fashion Flashes

THE BIG ATTRACTION in coats is the bulky yet slim double-breasted, fur-trimmed overcoat. Natural camel hair is used for one such elegantly casual model, double-breasted, with big shawl collar of nutria tapering down to the buttons.

CAMPUS FAVORITES include Bermuda shorts and jacket of herringbone tweed, the jacket usually a blazer and worn with a tailored silk shirt.

MUCH MORE USEFUL than the usual type of fashion show was one arranged recently by Lily Dache. Her models paraded in colors least suitable for them at first in incorrect make-up, then in the make-up suitable for the color worn. Thus a sallow complexion just glowed, even tho' the model was wearing taupe — and all due to the right make-up!

NEW FOR EVENING is what one designer terms the "Demi-dress." In this, a molded princess bodice spreads smoothly into a full skirt as far as the knee, then stops to show all of the wide, elaborately pleated net flounce of the petticoat below.

WONDERFUL things are being done with color these days. Just starting to make itself seen is a rich, electrified blue, used for belts, scarfs, collars and little hats, and combined with black in dresses. One designer combines it with darkened brown, and the result is striking.

Elegant Era

By ALICE ALDEN

Fashion's keynote for fall is the look of elegance, and this quality pervades every aspect of the sartorial scene. But of course the epitome of elegance is reserved for the big galas that are such a part of the social calendar this year, more than ever. For the ballroom Hannah Troy has created a truly magnificent ball gown in rich, opalescent pink satin. The high, rounded bustline is emphasized by a halter neck treatment and the voluminously full skirt is caught in a tremendous fringed back bow—all very simple but yet very rich.

Art of Decorating Cakes Really Simple Says Expert

MONTREAL (CP)—The fine art of decorating cakes is not really difficult, says Mrs. Helen MacKenzie, whose decorated cakes have won awards in England and Scotland and at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

"Everyone can do it because it's just as simple as baking a pie—once you know how," says this pleasant Scotswoman.

Mrs. MacKenzie has been decorating cakes for 27 years, having started as a young girl. She is a graduate of the Royal Technical College in Glasgow, where she studied baking and confectionery.

CHILDREN ENJOY THEM

Mrs. MacKenzie came to Canada nine years ag and lives in suburban Ville le Moyne with her husband and two children, 13-year-old Elayne and five-year-old Douglas.

"The children even want their pies decorated," said their mother. "Douglas likes ducks on his lemon pie and Elayne demands flowers on hers."

For a 10-lesson course Mrs. MacKenzie is starting at the Montreal YWCA about all the equipment needed is two tubes of icing, at least until the class is ready to try their handiwork on real cakes. By the end of the course the students will be able to make flowers and leaves and other figures and "write" on the cakes. An advanced course would be needed for wedding cakes.

Mrs. Mackenzie says an iced fruit cake can be kept almost indefinitely because the icing makes the cake air-tight, if properly applied.

"I've known people who have made their iced wedding cake last until their 25th wedding anniversary."

Giving Girls Right to Vote In Manitoba Thin Edge of Wedge

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—It all began in 1916. That's the year Manitoba women marched out to vote. They've been marching ever since.

Giving the girls the right to vote was just the thin edge of the wedge. Since 1916 many of them have moved right in to what was once a man's world.

And it's all legal. It says so in an interesting booklet published recently by the attorney-general's department, entitled "laws of interest to women."

The booklet was prepared under the supervision of Mildred B. McMurray, a lawyer attached to the provincial department of health and public welfare.

In a foreword, Attorney-General M. N. Hryhorczuk notes that the "desire of women to know what the laws are and to study how they affect them and how, perhaps, they can be improved, is altogether meritable."

"It is natural result must be in an influence upon their representatives in the Legislatures and in the mine, would be responsible for your support.

On the other hand if you take off and hit all the bars between here and Madagascar, she can legally string you up by the thumbs. Under the Wives' and Children's Maintenance Act she can seek in county court a separation and support on the grounds of persistent cruelty, or desertion without lawful excuse, or habitual drunkenness or wilful neglect to provide reasonable maintenance and support for herself and her children under the age of 16.

EASES WORKER'S LIFE

The working girl's life is made much easier under Manitoba labor laws. Under the Minimum Wage Act no woman is allowed to lift burdens above a certain weight. She may work only a certain number of hours overtime and if she works past midnight the boss has to see that she gets a ride home.

But the girls aren't through driving that wedge. They're campaigning for equal pay for equal work.

And if the Manitoba liquor inquiry commission's recent recommendations are approved by the legislature and the public votes "yes," the girls may soon be downtown bending an elbow with the boys. At present, Manitoba has no liquor outlets where women may drink in public.

At least, men, there's no law that says you have to give up your seat on the bus to a woman. Or is there? Better read the fine print in that booklet.

HOW ACT APPLIES

Say, for example, you discovered the girl of your dreams—one who inherited a gold mine from a rich uncle. You wooed and won her quickly. But that gold mine is still hers. Under the act a married woman can hold in her own name property acquired before marriage and property acquired by her marriage, whether by her own efforts or by outright gift of her husband.

She can even pack her bags and go, leaving you with just the gold dust in your eyes. But if you become a charge on the community she, because she's got all that gold

Wallaceburg Soprano Wins Scholarship at Florence

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP)—Virginia Chambers, 20-year-old Canadian soprano, has won a scholarship to the Pius XII Institute of Fine Arts at Florence, and now is packing to sail for Italy from Quebec on Sept. 28.

To gain a place at the institute, Virginia sent tape recordings of six songs, including Donizetti's aria "O Mio Fernand," from "La Favorita." She also had to show she could sing in French, German and Italian, as well as speak Italian fluently.

Virginia, as it happened, learned to speak Italian through friends who had migrated from Italy. "And am I ever glad," she said. "I'll be taking classes at the University of Florence and the lectures will all be in Italian."

LOVES FLORENCE E

She toured Europe three years ago and saw Florence. "I loved it," she said, "and I've wanted to go back ever since."

Among her musical trophies are the crescendo piano trophy at the 1955 Stratford music festival, where she also won $100 for "most promising" woman's voice; the 1952 gold medal in voice from the Western Conservatory of Music and an associateship from the Royal Conservatory of Toronto.

She plans to visit Paris and Milan before settling down to work in Florence. Her piano and voice study will be under direction of professors at the Chebuhki Institute of Music. In Canada, she has been under the direction of Prof. Alfred Rose.

DIPLOMAT'S WIFE

Mrs. Juan Vasquez-Bello is the wife of the newly appointed Cuban ambassador to Canada. A graduate of the Cuban National Conservatory of Art she had several exhibitions of her paintings before her marriage. (CP Photo).

Wife of Cuban Ambassador Noted Artist

By PEGGY THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Juan Manuel Vasquez-Bell is a Brooklyn-born Cuban with a zest for getting things done.

The wife of the newly-appointed Cuban ambassador to Canada, she had no chance to accomplish anything in her birthplace—her parents took her to Cuba when she was four years old.

But she grew up to become one of Cuba's better known artists, specializing in portraits, and also has left her mark in education and social work in Cuba.

PAINTINGS EXHIBITED

Mrs. Vasquez-Bell is a graduate of the Cuban National Conservatory of Art and had several exhibitions of her paintings before her marriage.

"But now, with a family, I don't have much time to paint," she said in an interview, "I just do art occasional landscape."

Instead, she said, she reads "everything that comes to hand."

Libraries are one of her main enthusiasms and at one time she was in charge of the public library in the Cuban province of Santa Clara where her husband was governor.

"It was one of the best libraries in the interior of Cuba," she said. "I devoted most of my time to setting up a children's section, where they could come to read and look at movies on Saturday."

Mrs. Vasquez-Bello also taught school for 10 years in Havana, the Cuban capital, while she was studying at the National Conservatory of Art.

SOCIAL WORKER

Still another of her interests is social work. While her husband was governor of Santa Clara, she said, she did considerable work among the children of the area, seeing that they had food and clothing and went to school, and "seeing that the teachers went too—in the country sometimes they didn't."

For the last three years, Dr. Vasquez-Bello was ambassador o Costa Rica, which gave Mrs. Vasquez-Bello an opportunity for more social work — staging diplomatic teas for the benefit of local charities.

Mrs. Vasquez Bello has one daughter, 20-year-old Margarita, who promises to be as versatile as her mother. She holds a degree in home economics, is a qualified music teacher and now plans to go to college in Ottawa to study psychology and languages.

Judy Garland Proves Herself Real Trouper

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Judy Garland, proving herself a real trouper made her television debut Saturday night despite a severe case of laryngitis.

Judy, who was in show business as soon as she could toddle, had a case of laryngitis so severe that a doctor sprayed her throat only minutes before the show.

Although she had been so nervous that she had not slept a wink all night and had had several bad vomiting spells, she obeyed the old show business adage that the show must go on.

Millions of TV viewers probably were unaware of Judy's sore throat for the one-time child star did what she had to do back in the days when she was part of her family vaudeville act. She just sang over her laryngitis.

Her voice cracked on some of the high notes but her show business heart carried her through the 90-minute show.

If she was nervous, the audience didn't know it. She gave a relaxed, easy-going performance, belting songs like the Judy Garland of old.

Canadian-Born Lilla Wallace Gives Railway Woman's Touch

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y. (AP) When Robert R. Young was battling for control of the New York Central he did a lot of talking about "the importance of a woman's touch in railroading."

When he got around to make a choice for the huge railroad's first and only female director, Young picked Lila Acheson Wallace, who today, 18 months after taking her seat on the board, will tell you:

"All I knew about trains two years ago was that I liked to ride on them."

Nobody will argue, however, that Canadian-born Mrs. Wallace knows plenty about the woman's touch. For the last 33 years she has used it with deft and happy results as half of the team that founded, owns and edits the pint-sized periodical with the biggest magazine circulation in the world.

STARTED DIGEST

The other half of the team is Dewitt Wallace. Together they started the Reader's Digest in 1922 with a bright idea, a conviction and a borrowed $1,300. Today it has a U.S. circulation of 10,000,000 and another 8,000,000 in 17 foreign editions.

Once Lila Wallace landed on the New York directorate there was considerable speculation among the Digest's 2,300 regular employees that within a few months the Central might erupt in charming bright decors, colorful prints and containers of cut flowers.

Mrs. Wallace has made the Digest headquarters an industrial showplace. Visitors from all over the world take the hour's train trip from New York for a tour of the buildings and landscaped grounds.

Mrs. Wallace does a full-time job as co-editor of the Digest, resembling in no way, however, the accepted portrait of the woman executive. She is small in stature, with a girl's figure and a fondness for spike heels.

Her husband, however, makes no secret of the fact he leans heavily upon her for all kinds of advice.

SIMILAR BACKGROUNDS

Wallace and his wife have similar backgrounds. He's the grandson of a minister and his father, a doctor of divinity, was president of MacAlester College in St. Paul, Minn. Her father, Rev. T. Davis Acheson, had a succession of churches throughout the west and northwestern U. S., and Lila was born when he was a pastor in Virden, Man.

Railroading is very different from co-editing a family magazine.

Although she maintains firmly that she's still learning and listening, director Wallace may be overly modest. A New York Central official said she has a way of asking intelligent and bull's eye questions which draw meaty answers from the experts.

"And," he added, "you've no idea of the effect of an attractive woman at a board of directors meeting. They positively sparkle these days."

"I'm glad if he thinks that," said Mrs. Wallace, "and I'm glad Mr. Young asked me. Of course, I think everything needs a woman's touch."

U.S. Wheat 'Giveaway' Program Being Threshed Out At Top Level of Ministers

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's complaints of a huge and increasing United States wheat "giveaway" program injuring Canadian markets abroad come under scrutiny of four top U.S. ministers today. Well-informed authorities anticipate the Canadians will get a sympathetic hearing.

But they fear that while President Eisenhower's administration may be willing to pledge co-operation in avoiding commercial market upsets, it may not be able to control the program completely.

The U.S. Congress has passed legislation to expand the U.S. $1,000,000,000 food disposal program and has ordered the administration to step up shipments. Some Canadian authorities feel the congressional action will place decided limits on how far the U.S. administration can go in curbing the program.

The whole American food disposal program and its impact on was the economy not only of Canada but of other major food exporters is to be thrashed out today before the ministerial joint Canada-U.S. trade and economic committee.

External Affairs Minister Pearson will preside at the one-day conference. U.S. State Secretary Dulles will head the four-man American delegation which includes Agriculture Secretary Benson, Commerce Secretary Weeks and Treasury Secretary Humphrey. Besides Mr. Pearson, Canada will be represented by Trade Minister Howe, Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Finance Minister Harris. Canada and the U.S. are the world's top wheat exporters. Last year the U.S. took the lead away from Canada.

Mr. Howe complained in the Commons last June that the U.S. giveaway program was injuring some Canadian markets.

Now there is a huge stockpile in Canada estimated at almost 1,000,000,000 bushels. The U.S. also has huge supplies. It appears likely that a sharpening fight for markets will shape up between the two countries this year unless some measure of control can be reached.

Oil and natural gas pipelines also may come in informally.

The U.S. has been moving towards restrictions on oil imports and Canadians feel this may injure the expanding western oil-producing industry. Prospects for a cross-country Canadian natural gas pipeline hinge partly on whether the U.S. will grant import licences for surplus gas.

30,000 Persons Hear Graham At CNE Coliseum

TORONTO (CP)—Nearly 30,000 persons, one of the largest crowds to attend a religious service in Canada, Sunday heard evangelist Billy Graham urge them to live for Christ.

The throng overflowed the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand, filling the stage and track. Police had to clear part of the stage before Graham could begin his sermon.

Although admitting he was impressed by the turnout, Graham warned against premature overconfidence in the success of his greater Toronto crusade.

"We overlook the moment of seeming victory carry us away," the United States evangelist cautioned. "We must continue to work hard lest Satan attack us."

MANY CONVERTS

After his words, 230 persons came from the grandstand to "decide for Christ." The largest group of converts since the crusade began Sept. 18, they brought his total crusade conversions to 1,227.

Returning to the heart stack suffered by President Eisenhower, Graham told his audience it was only a "heartbeat from eternity."

Extra police were called to handle the traffic jam on Toronto's Lakeshore road after the meeting.

On Saturday, his sermon drew 223 "decisions" from a crowd of 10,000 that packed the CNE coliseum.

He predicted Saturday that his crusade would turn into a rising tide of "decisions for Christ." As it continued, Toronto would experience something never seen before in its history.

5 Missing in Barrens Safe But Exposure Kills Leader After Canoes Capsize

By BERNICE MacIVER
Canadian Press Correspondent

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Death watched from the land as six summertime adventurers fought the white water of the Dubawnt river out on the Barrens of the Northwest Territories.

Five of six arrived Saturday at Baker lake, 150 miles south of the Arctic circle, ending an 87-day canoe journey during which a visit with a group of Eskimos was their only contact with other human beings.

The last man...their leader, won't be returning. His body lies under an overturned canoe on barren island hundreds of miles from the nearest outpost.

Frederick Pressle, Jr., of Grosse Point, Mich., remained at Baker lake to assist an RCMP plane to the body. The other four were flown 420 miles to Churchill.

The canoeists set out June 29 from Stony rapids in northern Saskatchewan and headed for Baker lake in the Northwest Territories, a journey of 700 miles.

Arthur A. Moffatt, 29-year-old lecturer from Norwich, Vt., was the leader. The other members were Pressle; George Grinnell, Lanouette, Que.; Leo Paulo, Brazil; Le Farve Preach, 18, Woodside, Calif.

They travelled some 300 miles without mishap. It wasn't until Sept. 14 while cold, cloudy days that tragedy struck. They knew they were nearing rapids but the river was deceptively calm.

"We could see the whole expanse and it appeared quite wide so we didn't draw to shore," LeFavour said.

Moffatt and Lanouette were in the lead. Franck and Grinnell followed and LeFavour and Pressle were at the rear in the third canoe.

LeFavour was watching a flock of ptarmigan when he realized the lead canoe was in trouble.

"The bow went up and a box fell in the river," he said. Then the canoe overturned. He tried to keep going and two waves loomed before us before we knew it. The first hit and water poured into our canoe.

"The second wave slapped us and we were over, too."

The middle canoe did not capsize. LeFavour said the overturned fell in trying to save the others.

Only Franck escaped the ordeal of the cold water.

All managed to reach a small island but the worst suffering—an Moffatt's death—was yet to come. Moffatt died an hour later.

"Crawling to land was slow and we found ourselves barely alive," stand," LeFavour said. "Both Ski (Pressle) and I insisted the others keep moving.

The tents and all but one of the sleeping bags became frozen after they were taken from the water. They were dried over a fire when the only fuel.

The party was forced to wa for two days while the equipmen and clothing thawed and dried su ficiently for them to move.

The five survivors lived in t island for the two days. The took turns chipping melting ice from the equipment, wringing t water from the clothing and pa paring food from salvaged can meats.

Their salvaged rations were su mented by fish caught with the o line saved in the capsizing a ptarmigan shot with a .22-calib rifle.

Ideal weather enabled them start the overland trek over t Marjorie hills to the Thelon riv From there they travelled via A erden and Schultz lake to Bak lake.

Lanouette and Moffatt were t last out of the water after the m ing. They were in about half hour. Lanouette remembers no ing from the time he took his fi steps on shore until he awoke a ceral hours later.

"My fingers swollen down limbs were paralyzed for a time, told of try to restore Moffatt's circulati with tricks from the Hindu art yogs.

"Both my mother and I ha always been interested in yoga and Lanouette and Moffatt were at the rear in the third canoe. and I used a few of the tricks I learned from my last seconds before it crashed into a Canadian Pacific Railway train. The car skidded on wet pavement coming down Durham hill and smashed into the train at the crossing at the bottom of the incline.

Delegates to North American Town Planning Convention Hopeful More to Join Ranks

By JOE MacSWEENY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The men who conduct North America's community planning have started a hopeful convention here—hopeful for more planners.

The conference — with official welcomes today—was told at the outset that one of the world's problems is to attract bright young men and women to the job of untangling towns.

With some 1,200 delegates from the United States and Canada on hand—as well as representatives from other countries—the conference is the biggest yet, officials said.

Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, delivering today's formal address of welcome, was followed by the chiefs of the two convention organizations: the American Society of Planning Officials and the Community Planning Association of Canada.

JOBS OFFERED

The five-day conference opened Sunday with a market in which 215 jobs for budding young planners were offered.

Dennis O'Harrow, executive director of the ASPO, prefaced every offer by the Canadian cities by saying:

"This will be Canadian dollars"—at a slight premium over American funds.

Jobs were listed for planners from coast to coast and as far north as Anchorage, Alaska. The delegates spoke of their cities as so many utopias, where air-conditioning was perfect and the pay terrific. Offer of pay ranged from $4,000 to $20,000 annually.

Official sources said only one-quarter to one-half the offers were filled.

Officials said that although universities are showing increased interest in community planning, the demand exceeds the supply more each year. They said that in Canada only four universities give a degree in community planning—University of British Columbia, University of Manitoba, University of Toronto and McGill.

The Toronto district—the metropolitan commission, the city of Toronto, Toronto townships and York townships—will offered positions. A Hamilton spokesman, speaking of Lake Ontario's "golden horseshoe," joined the Toronto men in seeking planners. Ottawa also made a bid for planners.

After a delegate from Birmingham, Ala., said a job is available in that southern city provided the candidate is a "U.S. citizen and white," H. S. Colebrook of Scarborough township offered a job and said "we have no prejudice regarding nationality or color."

TO APPEAL DEMOTION

TORONTO (CP)—A lawyer said Friday constable Norm Wright of suburban York township will appeal his demotion early this month from cruiser duty to walking a beat. Fairleb Hartt, representing the officer, said the formal appeal will go before the township police commission. Constables Wright and George Lawrence raided a wedding reception last May which chief constable Robert Alexander had ordered all officers to leave alone. It was reported at the time. This month two men were taken off the plainclothes staff and put back in uniform.

Relief Scheme Fouled Up By U.S. Tariff

TORONTO (CP) — An international onion relief scheme has been fouled up by the high United States protective tariff.

Ontario onion growers offered to ship five carloads of onions to hurricane-devastated growers in Orange county, N.Y., to be sold through proceeds going to aid the United States farmers.

Value of the shipment at U.S. prices would be about $10,000 but the high protective tariff would have left little for the U.S. growers.

"We've given up the idea," said Leon van Neck of Blenheim, chairman of the Onion section of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, Sunday.

"Even an appeal to the president by the National Onion Association to the U.S. failed to find a way around the tariff problem.

"Yesterday I got a wire from the National Onion Association thanking us very much for our offer, but adding that nothing could be done. The association also said that this was one time the high protective tariff worked against them."

In the United States J. H. Selby, secretary of the National Onion Association at Winston Harbon Mich., said an appeal to President Eisenhower to waive tariffs has been turned down with regret. No way could be found around the tariff act.

Eisenhower's Illness Seen As Boon to Democrats in '56

By DON WHITEHEAD, 4
WASHINGTON (AP)—A man's heart beat quickens momentarily—and in those fleeting moments a whole political world is shaken to its foundations.

That is what happened when President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack in the early morning hours Saturday at Denver.

First there was the stunning shock of the news that the top political with all its implications. But even in the outpouring of sympathy and prayers for the president's recovery, there was the realization that nothing in politics was the same as it had been before those fateful hours between midnight and dawn two days ago.

There was the reluctant acceptance by Republicans of the probability most of them had refused to admit before—that Eisenhower will not be the Republican presidential candidate next year.

And there was the recognition by the Democrats—half fair, half in an unwelcome manner, had placed them suddenly in a far stronger position to defeat the Republicans for control of the White House in the 1956 general election.

Politics being what they are, both sides must now look at the again.

coming campaign from radically different angles than they had. And this much at least is apparent:

The Republicans no longer can count on Eisenhower as a candidate.

Up to this point, the Republican chiefs have made all their campaign plans on the assumption that Eisenhower would run Now their plans must be re-cast in recognition of the possibility he will not be available. And there is the likelihood the convention which was to be a mere formality may develop opposition will be a battle-ground.

At the moment, Vice-President Richard M. Nixon appears to be in the strongest position to bid for the n o m i n a t i o n if Eisenhower doesn't run. But no one claims Nixon can come close to matching Eisenhower's tremendous popularity and vote-getting appeal, or that he might be nominated without a challenge.

As for the Democrats, the things they have feared most in looking toward the 1956 campaign have been Eisenhower's popularity and the fact he would be hard to beat again. Suddenly there is the strong chance that these great Republican assets can not be turned against them

COLUMNIST ELECTED

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Peter Stursberg, CBC UN correspondent and Montreal Star columnist, Friday was elected first vice-president of the UN Correspondents Association. Stursberg, 42, began his career with the Victoria Times and during the war was one of the first Canadian correspondents to see action. Max Harrelson of The Associated Press was elected president.

EXPECTS BIG INCREASE

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Enrolment in Canadian universities will nearly double in the next five years, Dr. George E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, predicted Friday night. Dr. Hall addressed the eighth annual convention of Northern Ontario Public and Secondary School Teachers Association. He said increased financial support for universities is the only solution to this problem.

Canadians Especially Nice Says Cycling Nurse

"I've found Canadians especially nice," says world traveller Louise Sutherland as she stops off in North Bay, Ontario. The trim 105-pound nurse is shown with her trusty loaded with 150 pounds of her woolly possessions which she has accumulated while cycling over 10,000 miles around the world. Admiral of Hitler's Navy Released from Spandau Prison

BERLIN (AP)—Erich Raeder, grand admiral of Hitler's navy, was released from Spandau war crimes prison Today.

The ceremony was held behind the prison's gloomy walls in an auto mobile in which his wife also was a passenger.

Serving a life sentence for war crimes, the 78-year-old former fleet commander was freed because of his age and feeble health, a prison spokesman announced.

Raeder was the second of the seven top Nazi war criminals imprisoned in Spandau to be freed. Constantin von Neurath, former foreign minister and Nazi "protector" of Czechoslovakia, was turned loose because of age and poor health. Now 82, he is living in retirement in West Germany.

The grim prison is governed jointly by French, British, American and Russian occupation authorities. Each nation appoints a governor and the command rotates from month to month. The Britons are there this month.

Spandau, located in a West Berlin suburb, is an ancient, forbidding like affair which was built to house more than 600 prisoners. Since 1946, however, it has held only the top Nazis.

Raeder was commander in chief of the German Navy until 1943 when he was succeeded by Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz. Doenitz was also convicted of war crimes and sentenced to life imprisonment in Spandau.

Last May the Allies turned down a request from the West German government that Doenitz be released early. He now is 64 and has been reported in poor health.

Besides Doenitz the remaining top Nazis in Spandau are:

Walter Funk, former economics minister, life.

Rudolf Hess, deputy fuehrer, life.

Albert von Schirach, Hitler youth leader, 20 years.

Albert Speer, Hitler's munitions minister, 20 years.

Powell Hopes 'Mr. Roberts' Will Squelch All Rumors

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — William Powell, who was taken in stride everything from silent movies to cancer, hopes "Mr. Roberts" will squelch rumors about his retirement from the screen.

Powell, an actor for 42 of his 63 years, gives one of the most distinguished performances of his career as the pharmacist's mate-ship's doctor in the movie version of the famed naval comedy.

Yet, almost in a man, grilles have mentioned him as coming out of retirement for the role.

"I've never been retired," declares Powell. "The only reason I haven't made a picture in three years is because no one asked me."

Powell married Diana Lewis 18 years ago, when she was a young starlet and Powell a screen veteran. He had been married twice before, and was engaged to many of the lovely actresses in Hollywood's famed platinum blonds, when she died in 1951.

Powell himself almost died from rectal cancer. A new type operation saved him. He was back on the screen in two years.

Variety's reviewer calls Mr. Roberts "A box office gusher and best seller to hit play to click pic—with the film version the topper."

William Powell is just right for the role of ship's doctor, lacking it with an easy assurance that makes it stand out."

That Powell remains in some thing that comes from years of experience. William Horatio Powell, who was born at Pittsburgh in 1892, got his first taste of the theatre at a high school, and by 1929 was a well known Broadway actor. A casual role with movie director got him the role of the villain in "Sherlock Holmes," starring John Barrymore. It was the first of more than a hundred movie roles.

Bill was tipped off to talkies in silent movies. A rich, melodious voice made him a hero in the talkies. He supported in the mount's first all-talkie picture, "The Interference" with Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent.

Individual Is Most Important Fact in World

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Rick Kerwin, chief justice of Canada, told an American audience of 700 judges and laymen Sunday that "the individual is the most important fact in the world and that "the preservation of fundamental rights depends upon an enlightened public opinion.

The commencement address at the Harvard University law school, drew speakers leading justices of nations of the English-speaking world and a high-ranking Free legal authority, in commemoration of the bicentennial of the birth of Chief Justice John Marshall of United States.

Justice Kerwin, discussing "some aspects of the constitution as understood in Canada," said "they do not appear in precisely same form in all nations but profess the unity of man and take steps to hold it."

He added that "I take it granted from what you have heard you are aware that in accordance with Anglo-American jurisprudence we rely on the maxim as to innocence until a jury has found it guilty of guilt."

Cow's 'Hot Foot' Enabled Ranger To Detect Fire

KAPUSKASING. — Forest fire fighters are relishing this story of the cow that got a "hot foot"—or "hot seat."

While investigating settler fires in the Opasatika area, Art Boice observed a number of cows grazing peacefully in a farmer's pasture," reports District Forester F. E. Sider, of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. "Suddenly a cow leaped into the air, high-tailed it to the barn with a series of agonized cries.

"Investigation revealed that ground fire in an adjacent area of newly-cleared land had burned underneath the ground for a considerable distance and had come up under the unsuspecting cow."

Whoopers Will Be Left Alone For Time Being

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. air force emphasized Friday it isn't going to take any action immediately, at least, that will disturb the almost extinct whooping cranes on their Texas wintering grounds.

A request by the air force for additional ground around the Matagorda island gunnery range touched off a controversy earlier this year.

This would extend the range to areas where the big birds spend the coldest months, wildlife experts said. They added that this would seriously disturb these rare birds whose numbers they are trying to increase.

An announcement Friday said a careful study of the record of a public hearing held last month at Port Lavaca, Tex., is being made. Later the final decision on the extension of the range will be disclosed.

Newspaper Advertising Wins Praise

WINDSOR, ONT. — Addressing more than 200 Chrysler of Canada fieldmen at their annual convention here, R. T. Brown, advertising manager of the corporation described newspapers as "the cornerstone of our whole campaign."

In outlining the company's advertising plans for 1956, Mr. Brown announced that Chrysler of Canada will expand its advertising coverage during the coming year, providing increased assistance to its dealers' merchandising efforts.

"The bulk of the increase will go to local newspapers," he said. "for it is at the local level primarily that we must meet the buying public."

During 1955, he added, the corporation's outlay for newspaper advertising was the greatest in its history. Tremendously increased sales of Chrysler-built automobiles throughout the year reflected the value of the program and warranted next year's substantial increase.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Poligent daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Poligent is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.

1. Never use soap or tooth paste! Your denial plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use any harsh cleanser! They can leave film on plates that collects bacteria and causes unpleasant "denture breath."

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, scrubbing of soapy plates that can chip and break. Polident soaks where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

DESIGN FOR LIVING IN A-ATTACK

Designed by the U.S. federal defence administration for use in case of an atomic attack is the underground shelter at top, successfully tested in the Nevada desert, and the basement room at bottom for fallout only. Construction details, it was announced, will be supplied to anyone interested in such A-blast insurance. The shelter, which can accommodate 40, has a roof 21 inches thick and four feet, seven inches below ground. Equipped with ventilation and a generator, it would cost about $15,000. The fallout room consists of enough framework to support bags filled with sand to reduce radiation to a safe level. (Central Press Canadian.)

JOHNSTOWN

United Church S.S. Holds Rally Sunday

JOHNSTOWN — Rally Sunday was held at Johnstown United Church last Sunday with the children's choir and the S.S. organist, Miss Marion Bush, taking charge of the music. The children's voices were sweet to hear, doing justice to the work of Miss Bush.

The theme of the service was "Lord of the Lands Make Canada Thine Own" was followed by the call to worship. The Scripture, Psalm-93: 1-5, was read in unison. A fine reading was given by Rosemary Bush, on "Robert Raikes"—who was the first one to start a Sunday school. The junior choir sang "Land of Our Birth." The Scripture, from Luke 10: 25-37, was read by Evelyn Harry and the second part by Bobbie Ferguson, followed by a prayer of thanksgiving by the S.S. superintendent, with the congregation reading alternately.

Master Donnie Clapp read a story called "Kelly at the Cross-by."

The offering was collected by Master Bruce Stickle and Master Bobbie Ferguson, followed by the offering prayer by the superintendent, Mr. E. Bush.

Mr. Bush introduced the visiting minister, the Rev. A. C. McCallum, who was supplying for the Rev. A. L. Puttenham. The latter was holding anniversary services at Adolphustown.

Mr. McCallum has recently been to Saskatchewan, where in his younger days he spent 25 years in the ministry. He was honored by the Saskatchewan government and this presbytery by being asked to go back to Saskatchewan to help them celebrate their 50th anniversary of the province.

Mr. McCallum mentioned that looking at the map starting from Halifax and going across the vast country to Vancouver, said, "we have a great heritage." He asked if any in the congregation had ever lived in Saskatchewan for a time and there was just one person. He thinks Saskatchewan is a wonderful province.

Mr. McCallum has been in the Ontario Presbytery for 17 years, but has been retired for the past few years.

Next Sunday, Sept. 25th, there will be church in the morning at 11 a.m. with the Rev. T. F. Townsend of Redmersville, officiating, and at 7 p.m. the Rev. Mr. Finley of Smithfield, will speak.

Forrest Dennis New Chairman School Board

CAMPBELLFORD. — Several changes were made in the public school board at the September meeting. Mr. Forrest Dennis was chosen to be the new chairman to succeed Mr. F. E. Frederick, who has moved to London. Mr. W. C. Tatham was appointed vice-chairman, and Mr. H. E. Cryderman, chairman of the Property Committee. Mr. Hilton Beatty was chosen by the board to make the sixth member.

Mr. Dennis reported the board's regret at Mr. Frederick's departure, and also spoke of the fine contribution Mr. Frederick had made to the affairs of the public school during his years in office.

Mrs. Nellie Petherick's application for the supply staff was accepted.

The question of out-of-district pupils was discussed and the secretary for Sidney to notify the parties concerned that the agreements were cancelled.

Representatives from two reliable air-conditioning firms are asked to see the board's air conditioning unit and give advice on overhauling it.

A complaint that the floor of the newly-acquired basement room was damp and that a pipe floor will have to be laid.

Mr. Rothwell, principal, reported an enrollment of 542 pupils, slightly larger than expected. He explained a new registry system being tried out this year among the five top classes. He asked permission to use the tables in the basement for art classes, which are being taught this year by Mrs. Simpson. A new cupboard for art supplies is being built there also.

Regarding the letter from the Municipal Council, suggesting that the matter of temporary accommodation be looked into, the board instructed the secretary to write several places in town to see if any accommodation could be rented and the price for same.

Mrs. Charles Young, I.P.S., was present and spoke briefly. The accounts were studied and passed. It was announced that the next meeting will take place on Wednesday, October 5th.

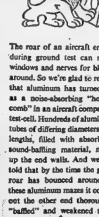
In the afternoon the W.M.S. held its meeting with Mrs. Morley Sine, president, presiding.



There were ten members present and they had been five calls made and two cards sent during the past month.

Several readings were given leading up to the new Study Book, which will be on "Home Missions in Canada." These readings were (1) "If You Ask Me—Panis Means Weakness," by Padre Young. His advice is to "wait on the Lord, be of good courage and He shall strengthen your heart." (2) "Swinging Toward the Light," an optimistic view of the advance of religion. (3) "When the Heart Condemns," human approval is not the test, but one's own heart. (4) "A Short History of Canada," from the earliest settlers, the Eskimos, down through the explorers and the builders to the present day.

NEW WORSHIP SERVICE

The worship service was something new, the theme was a call to discipleship, "Our High Calling." There will be five more such services to be used in conjunction with the new Study Book. There were three separate readings from the Bible, after which the worship leader asked pertinent questions and a lively discussion followed. This brought home to each member the truths that were read.

How HOWL to learn...

The rear of an aircraft engine during ground test can rattle windows and nerves for block around. So we're glad to report that aluminum has turned up as a noise-absorbing "honeycomb" in an aircraft company's test-cell. Hundreds of aluminum tubes of differing diameters and lengths, filled with absorbent, sound-balling material, make up the end walls. And we are told that by the time the giant roar has bounced around in these aluminum mazes it comes out the other end thoroughly "baffled" and weakened to a hum. We expect there are lots of aluminum boosters around their factory!

Rousing Welcome Given Elephant At Granby Zoo

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—Ambika the elephant was welcomed Friday to her new home in the Granby zoo with a rousing celebration befitting a gift from the Prime Minister of India.

Through it all, the three-year-old elephant—who borrows her name from an Indian city — remained calm and impassive. Her solemn eyes acknowledged the cheers of the thousands of school kids and grown-ups that lined the park route from one end of the city to the other.

And Ambika maintained a queer dignity when, in the climax to the day's celebrations, she was presented by a big Indian official's seven- year-old Peter Marmon whose letter to Prime Minister Nehru of India weighed heavily in bringing the elephant to Granby.

COACH NAMED

Danny Cox, former National Hockey League player with the Toronto St. Pats, Ottawa Senators, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers, was named coach of the Belleville TPT senior "B" Hockey Club over the week-end.

TPT officials announced the appointment following a conference with Mr. Cox, who is assistant district manager at Brewers Warehouse Ltd. headquarters in this city.

It was announced that Hub Macey, who starred on the defence with the Memos last year, is expected to return to the club in a player role.

THE BIG DOUGH

One of the easiest ways to make money quickly, or is it, next to a modern barber clipping a "baldy," is to be the heavyweight champion of the world.

Rocky Marciano cashed in for approximately $450,000 for roughly 57 minutes' work. Uncle Sam will take 20 per cent out of the kitty, not to mention sundry expenses such as fifty per cent to manager Al Weill, training costs, etc.

Archie Moore, who has little left but memories of the things that could have been, and a few fights in his own class in the future, drew some $240,000. Uncle Samuel's clutch-and-grab boys, the infernal revenooers, promptly sank their money-hooks into $64,000. Some say what Archie has left will not much more than pay his debts.

Of course it is not that easy. There's a belova lot more to being the heavyweight champion than going in to belt the helapers out of an opponent, then retire and count the coin. There are years of headache, heartache and what-not in the climb to the top. None is more qualified to vouch for that than the venerable Moore. Actually the chin-whakered musician-fighter-philosopher deserved a better deal at the hands of Old Man Fate.

While the take at the Marciano-Moore battle was one of the biggest in years there have been larger ones—by aplenty. And not a few heavyweights have grossed more than Marciano. Rocky, however, will bolster the lining of the Marciano exchequer before he hands over the gelore that he won't even approach the loot landed by Dempsey and Tunney when they were in the heavyweight spotlight. And, remember, Uncle Sam turned a far more lenient eye on purses in those days than he does now.

Dempsey made $2,712,079 in nine fights from 1919 to 1927. After being beaten by Tunney a second time, the Manassa Mauler announced retirement, but just from boxing, not from collecting the coin of the realm.

He made a "comeback tour" which netted little and which ended in Chicago when he fared not too well against Battling Levinsky.

However, Dempsey, unlike Tunney and Joe Louis, cashed in richly on his flatic popularity by picking up at least $5,000,000 as a referee at boxing and wrestling shows or making public appearances as master-of-ceremonies. In fact he is still milking this financial cow. His total earnings up to 1947 were estimated at $5,000,000.

Tunney made $225,000 prior to 1926. He collected $200,000 in his first Dempsey fight and took home (wow) $990,455 as his share of the loot from that memorable "long count" second battle in Chicago. Later he picked up a mere fifth, some $225,000, when he met and defeated the hard rock from down under, Tom Heeney.

Max Schmelling picked up $1,100,000 in ring battles in the United States from 1928 to 1939. He hauled in $80,000 from flight pictures, shapes in Europe, $100,000 from exhibition tours in the 'thirties and $200,000 from exhibitions and fights in Europe. A mere total of $540,000.

The greatest gate of all time was the second Tunney-Dempsey fight in the Windy City on September 22, 1927. The total receipts were $2,658,660. You know Tunney's share. Dempsey hauled in $425,000. The rest went to federal and state taxes, stadium rental and incidentals. The promoter, the famous Tex Rickard, helped himself to a trifling $675,690.

The Louis-Conn fight grossed $1,925,564, the second best on record, with the first Tunney-Dempsey fight in Philly grossing $1,895,733. Over the million-dollar marks were the gates of the Dempsey-Carpentier, Dempsey-Firpo, Dempsey-Sharkey, Louis-Schmelling, and Louis-Max Baer scraps.

It would appear that Marse Dempsey was one, if not the greatest drawing cards in fistic history. In fact the Ole Mauler is still a popular favorite at his day and age.

Major Leagues' Mutt and Jeff Will Renew Old Diamond Feud; Series Named 'Pick-Em Affair'

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Newcombe, the big right-hander who won 20 games for Brooklyn, and Whitey Ford, the little 18-game winning lefthander who helped clinch the American League pennant for New York last Friday, will be the opening-game pitchers when the Dodgers and the Yankees renew their world series rivalry in Yankee Stadium Wednesday.

Odds-makers, who earlier had installed the Yankees as slight favorites, now have changed it to a "pick-em affair" because of Mickey Mantle's pulled muscle, which threatens to sideline the star Yankee centre fielder during the series.

Neither manager would go beyond his first-game hurler but it was expected that manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks would start Tommy Byrne, another lefthander to pitch the second game, also in the stadium. Then, the experts figured, he would come back with his right-hander, Bob Turley, Don Larsen and perhaps Bob Grim, for the three games at Ebbets Field.

Alston was characteristically silent with the series just two days off but Stengel was bubbling with optimism.

"Brooklyn has a good club, too," he said. "But I think we're going to take the series. We have the pitchers to beat them. All of them are well rested and with the exception of Mantle, everyone is raring to go."

The Yankees figure to have a psychological advantage over the Dodgers, whom they've whipped in all five previous world series meetings. In fact, the Yankees have lost all seven world series in which they participated while the Bronx Bombers have won 16 of 20.

Mantle, inactive since Sept. 16 when he pulled a muscle breaking out a bunt against Boston, finally got back into action Sunday as a pinch hitter in each game of the doubleheader against the Red Sox. Although trainer Gus Mauch and Stengel think he'll be ready for the series, Mickey isn't too hopeful.

HASN'T BEEN TESTED

"I haven't really tested the leg yet," he said. "I won't test it until Tuesday but I think it's far from being healed. It doesn't hurt when I bat but I don't think I can run on it."

Mantle's absence undoubtedly would handicap the Yankees, particularly in the three games at Ebbets Field. The short fences in Brooklyn provide a friendly target for the switch-hitting slugger, who led the club in batting with .306 and the Bronx Bombers in home runs with 37.

The rest of the Yankee lineup will be Joe Collins at first, Billy Martin at second, Al McDonald at third, Yogi Berra behind the bat and either Phil Rizzuto or Jerry Coleman at short.

Prodigal Sons Spark American Pro. Grid Squads

NEW YORK (CP)—A pair of returning veterans, Tom Dandenault, joined forces Sunday to spark the most resounding upset of a forbidding opening day for the National Football League season.

Little Eddie Lebaron, who jumped the Washington Redskin roster to play for Calgary Stampeders in the Western Interprovincial Football Union last season, jumped back to the Redskins and put on a one-man show in the quarterback's slot to lead them to a 37-17 victory over the defending champion Cleveland Browns.

Lebaron, who threw two touchdown passes, scampered 13 yards for a third and set up the fourth on a 35-yard pass play, received material assistance from Norb Hecker, an end last season with Dandenault of the Big Four. Hecker took the starch out of the Cleveland attack with two key pass interceptions.

ACE ON THE BENCH

Otto Graham, Cleveland's ace quarterback, had an off day and was replaced in the second half by Dandenault after the Browns trailing 13-3. Ratterman, the one-time Montreal Alouette, threw two touchdown passes to the third quarter.

John Henry Johnson, the 1953 WIFU scoring leader with Calgary, produced a touchdown in a losing effort as the San Francisco 49'ers bowed 23-14 to Los Angeles Rams.

Gil Mains, newly returned to the Detroit line after a brief spell with Toronto, scooped up a red-shot fumble for a touchdown but the Chicago Bears and Philadelphia Eagles 20-17 on a fourth-quarter touchdown pass from Tobin Rote to Gary Knox. It was the first Green Bay victory over the defending eastern division champions in five years.

DEBUT WITH GIANTS

Alex Webster, last year's most valuable player in the Big Four, where he performed for Montreal, was impressive in his debut for size to show up well for a loser.

Making his debut with New York Giants, the hard-running back-fielder carried six times for a total of 34 yards as Philadelphia Eagles downed the Giants 21-17 Saturday night. Webster's first time out he gathered only by a third-quarter fumble which enabled the Eagles to drive downfield for a touchdown which tied the score at 17-17 in the dying minutes.

Allan (the Horse) Ameche, Baltimore's highly touted all-American rookie fullback, scored three TD's yards for a touchdown the first time he got the ball and the Colts rolled on to a 23-17 victory over Chicago Bears.

Canadiana To Retire This Year

TORONTO (CP) — Canadiana, leading money-winning Canadian-bred horse, will be retired at the end of the 1955 racing season.

Canadiana will be returned to the National Farm at Ochawa as a broodmare, her owner, Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor, said Sunday.

Canadiana apparently has shown an inclination recently to leave the starting gate slowly and as a result has had to make too much ground to gain contention.

Taylor planned to race the 5-year-old daughter of Bois and Irebelle until her total winnings reached $200,000. Now racing in the United States, Canadiana has earned more than $165,000.

Dutchmen Take Over ORFU Top Spot Queen's Gaels Lose to Imperials

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen took over top spot in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union standing Sunday with a convincing 21-11 win over Toronto Beaches. It was Toronto's sixth straight defeat.

Kitchener moved two points ahead of Sarnia, in second place with eight points. Each team has played six games.

The game drew only 300 fans.

Imperia Cooke Gilchrist and Bill Tonneguso sparked the Dutchmen attack. Gilchrist scored a touchdown and kicked a field goal and Tonneguso got two touchdowns. Halfback Bill Graham converted all three touchdowns.

Beaches stopped Kitchener twice in goal-line stands in the first quarter, but in the second quarter Tonneguso broke loose on an off-tackle smash and carried 20 yards to the Beaches' goal and carried over on the next play.

DUTCHMEN GOT A BREAK

Both teams filled the air with passes in the second quarter and Kitchener got a break when halfback Ed Leam intercepted a pass and ran it to Beaches' 23. Quarterback Bob Celeri passed to Tonneguso for the touchdown.

Just before the half ended Tonneguso plodded up 30 yards from centre on a nifty running play through the line, and Gilchrist kicked a field goal from the 28, in the third quarter Tonneguso again broke loose and ran 50 yards for a touchdown.

Beaches came to life in the last quarter and Richardson took a 40-yard pass at the Kitchener 25 and ran the rest of the way for a touchdown.

With five minutes left to play, Beaches, from their own eight, moved for another touchdown in four plays. Bell carried over and Smith converted.

In an exhibition game Saturday at London Dutchmen had a bit too much experience for Western Mustangs of the Interollegiate Union as they handed the collegians a 19-1 defeat.

1955 Major Leagues Baseball Season Was Record One For Records

Dodgers Start With 10 Wins End With Flag-Winning Mark; Moon Sets With Home Run

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 1955 major league baseball season started and ended on a record note.

Brooklyn Dodgers, the National League champions, started it by reeling off 10 straight victories, a major league high for wins at the beginning of a campaign.

And when Wally Moon of St. Louis Cardinals hammered a home run off Milwaukee's Chet Nichols in the ninth inning Sunday for an 8-3 Cardinal victory, two more records went into the books. It was No. 1,843 by National League batters and 2,224 by hitters of both leagues for new standards.

Moon, by the homer, also won a game with a home run in his last time at bat in the last game of the 1954 season.

In between the accomplishment of Dodgers and Moon's feat, there were enough other records and highlights to make 1955 one of the most interesting in years.

AN EARLY CLINCHER

Dodgers started their pennant train on Sept. 5, the earliest date in history. And New York Yankees pulled away in the American to enter one of the closest battles in years.

To look at the final day's games, you would think the pennant decided on every pitch.

Of the 10 games Sunday, there were three shutouts, two no-hit performances and the "three two-run games.

Dodgers, warming up their hurlers for the world series opening Wednesday, had Johnny Podres, Ross Meyer, Clem Labine and Roger Craig in shutting out the Pirates 4-0.

Art Fowler of Cincinnati checked the Cubs with four hits while his mates slaoped around three Chicago pitchers for a 13-0 decision. Billy Pierce of the White Sox limited Athletics to three hits in a 5-0 win.

George Suce of the Red Sox defeated the Yankees 8-1 in the second game of a doubleheader after the American League champions had won the opener 9-2 with Bob Turley, Bob Grim and Johnny Kucks sharing the mound duties.

MAYS GETS SIXT

The Giants beat the Phillies 5-2 with Willie Mays hitting his 51st homer and then dropped a 3-1 decision as they were checked by Curt Simmons and Jack Meyer.

Early Wynn, the Chicago Indians in an all-important game during the week, turned his trick again as the Tigers wound up with a 6-2 victory over Cleveland. Baltimore Orioles edged Washington 5-4.

Saturday, Washington clinched the cellar apartment spot in the American League as they lost a doubleheader 3-2 and 1-0 to the Orioles, their closest rivals.

Cleveland, meanwhile, wrapped up second place with a double-header 8-3 and 7-0 behind Herb Score and Hank Aguirre.

Dick Donovan won his 15th victory when he pitched the third-place Chicago White Sox to a 4-0 win over Kansas City. The New York-Boston game was postponed by rain.

The Dodgers dropped a doubleheader to last-place Pittsburgh, 4-3 and 6-1. Dick Hall and Bob Friend each went the route for the Pirates.

Chicago Cubs defeated Reds 3-2 and St. Louis beat Milwaukee 4-3. Rain postponed the Philadelphia-New York contest.

Pt. Anne Blows Early Two-Run Lead, Loses First to Waterloo by 4-2 Score

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Scoring all their runs in the last two innings, Waterloo Seagrams shaded Belleville Combermere 4-3 on Saturday afternoon to take a one-game lead in their OASA baseball final series. The second game in the best-of-three set is scheduled for Waterloo next Saturday.

The Cementmen were coasting along with a 2-0 lead behind Sam Mulholland's homer and superb hurling for Jim Marcle until the eighth. Point Anne were errorless in the field in this game but a miscue by Wade injected new life into the Seagrams and they added two more runs before the third was retired. They added an insurance marker in the ninth, also a tainted run.

Marcle issued his initial walk of the game with one down in the fateful eighth and when Crane hit a possible double-play ball to Wade at shortstop he dropped it with both men safe. Carl Roth followed with a lined single to left, scoring the lead runner. Elliott fired to the plate but too late with Crane going to third and Roth taking second on the throw in.

Ken Tuckwood, then fouled one back of first base, Phil Bennett making the catch, but Crane slid in with the tying run under Bennett's throw. Ray Douglas plated what proved to be the, deciding marker when he lined a terrific smash back at Marcle for a base hit. Muldoon popped out to end the inning.

Right-hander Dan Cressman toed the rubber for Waterloo, turning in a fine performance. He allowed five safeties while fanning five including pinch – hitter, Bert Whalen for the final out of the game. Cressman issued only two base-on-balls and was charged with one wild pitch.

The veteran Marcle went all the way in defeat. He was untouchable until the seventh having allowed only a single in the first and another in the sixth while passing none. Waterloo fattened six hits in all while Marcle whiffed seven, walked two and wild pitched once. Fifteen men went down in order from the first to the sixth.

A neat twin-killing, Koslowski to Muldoon to Thell, halted the Pointer's scoring hopes in the second but Sam Mulholland followed a lead single by Roger Mallory and Gerry Goyer's sacrifice with a home run in the fourth frame.

Loft's crew threatened again in the sixth when Goyer doubled and Green drew a base-on-balls but Mulholland was called out on strikes.

Koslowski scored the winner's final tally, singling to left and coming home when Mulholland allowed Cressman's single to get away from him in centre field. Waterloo stranded only four base runners while the Cementmen left five. Pat Gilmour made several excellent fielding plays at third base to show the way on defence.

Ray Douglas and Carl Roth each had two singles for the Seagram nine while each went to bat Steve Koslowski and Dave Cress-man. Mulholland's homer was the big blow for Point Anne while Roger Mallory got two hits of singles. Gerry Goyer added a double and Jack Elliott singled.

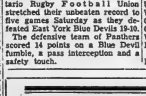
Canada Whips Mexico 5-1



MILWAUKEE (AP) — Canada's Saskatoon Gems stayed alive in the global baseball world series Sunday night as Dennis Grigg scattered four hits to lead them to a 5-1 victory over Mexico. The defeat, Mexico's second, eliminated them from the competition.

It was Canada's second victory against one defeat, the latter suffered Saturday 5-2 at the hands of the Hawaiian entry. The Gems downed Japan Friday night by the same score.

UNBEATEN MARK

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Panthers of the Intermediate Ontario Rugby Football Union stretched their unbeaten record to five games Saturday as they defeated East York Blue Devils 19-10.

The defensive team of Panthers scored 14 points on a safety touch, fumble, a pass interception and a safety touch.

Mighty Nashua Finishes Third In Rich Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Mighty Nashua stepped into handicap company for the first time Saturday and rallied as the King Ranch's High Gun nipped Jet Action by a head in the $106,700 Sysonby Stakes at Belmont Park.

A crowd of 28,685 sent Nashua, the three-year-old king from William Woodward's Belair stud, off as a 3-5 favorite, but he finished third, 1½ lengths behind the Mable Chance Farm's Jet Action.

Fourth in the field of five starters on a track swimming with water and mud after an overnight and all-day rain was William G. Helis Jr.'s Heliscope. This four-year-old star was 3½ lengths behind Nashua while Jack Amble's Mr. Turf trailed the field 22 lengths behind Heliscope.

Leafs Sting Hornets 3-1

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League defeated Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League 3-1 Saturday night in an exhibition game.

It was the second straight win for Leafs who didn't come as easy as the 7-3 whipping they gave the Hornets Friday.

Three of five Hornets who were holding out for more money played Saturday. Goalie Gil Mayer signed his contract prior to the game and forwards Willie Marshall and Gord Hannigan will renew contract talks next week.

Another holdout, forward Gerry Foley, did not play.

Hornets were ahead 1-0 in the second period on Barry Cullen's goal but Bob Bailey tied it up near the end of the period.

In the third frame Sid Smith and Tim Tiggers scored Toronto goals.

Edmonton Unbeaten Tiger Cats, Argos Win in East Eskys, Riders Take West Games

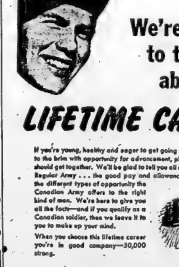
By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's been no secret around the league, but Hamilton Tiger-Cats suddenly discovered Saturday that the formula for success in the Big Four Union this season is the touchdown pass. It brought them the decisive results.

Ticats used it twice in the fourth quarter to take a 22-13 victory over Montreal Alouettes and send them into a first-place tie with the Als who just a week previously clubbed the Tabbies 38-30. Until the week-end Tiger-Cats had scored all their points by kicking or via a ground attack.

The victory, coupled with Toronto Argonauts' 20-10 conquest of Ottawa Rough Riders, made the Big Four championship race interesting for the first time this year. The high-priced Argos and Rough Riders are now deadlocked in third place, just two points off the pace with the schedule heading towards the halfway mark.

It appeared for three-quarters of Saturday's game at Hamilton that the Als were all set to run away and hide on the strength of their lead. Tiger-Cats 13-4 at that point but quarter Nobby Wirkowski found the range in the final frame and they counted two quick touchdowns and the game.



Nobby's passes, both 38-yard efforts, went to import end Frank McDonald and halfback Ralph Howell. Steve Oneschuk, up from the University of Toronto Blues this season, scored the insurance touchdown with a 19-yard around the end just two minutes before the final gun.

Cam Fraser kicked two singles and Tip Logan a 30-yard field goal and two converts to complete the Hamilton scoring.

Quarter Sam Etcheverry, who completed 20 of 34 pass attempts for 302 yards, shot a touchdown pass to Jooy Pal for one Montreal touchdown. He pitched out to Chuck Hunsinger at the Montreal two-yard line for another. Etcheverry opened the scoring with a single in the first quarter and Bud Korchak booted the converts.

Bobby Simpson, 25-year-old native of Windsor, Ont., and possibly the outstanding Canadian player so far this year, shared the honors with teammate Tharp in the Argonaut-Rough Rider game at Ottawa. Simpson went over for two touchdowns, one on a pass and the other on a pass interception and Tharp provided the remainder with their much-needed ground power.

Tharp, cut by Los Angeles Rams last playing his first game in Canada, opened the scoring with a stirring blast around right end just seven minutes after the opening kickoff. Jim Shirley also went around right end for another five-pointer and Bucky Curtis, Al Pfeiffer and Gene Copeland took end-zone passes from quarter Tom Dublinski for Toronto's other touchdowns. Pfeiffer kicked the five converts.

Rangers Whip Quakers 6-1

SASKATOON (CP) — New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, here to play Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League 6-1 Saturday night in an exhibition game before 2,000 fans.

Will Coach Junior Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP)—Louis Passador, 33-year-old assistant scout with the Montreal Canadiens hockey organization, a native of Fort William, has been named coach of the Montreal Junior Canadiens, it was announced Sunday.

Passador succeeds Elmer Lach, former Canadiens star, in the National Hockey League and now coach of Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League.

Passador, a star with the Habs organization four years ago from his job as head of the Detroit Red Wings' junior club, will be the new head. He was assistant to Montreal's coiled sport, Sid Smith.

The Junior Canadiens, who played last year in the now-disbanded Quebec Junior League, are hoping their games this year to some 60 exhibition contests in the Maritimes, Newfoundland, northern Ontario and Quebec and in the western provinces. They will also play in Laurier Trophy games against the Montreal teams and challenge for the Memorial Cup.

Sault Greyhounds Accuse Sudbury Of Tampering With Loop Players

NORTH BAY (CP)—Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds, defending Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior champions, openly accused Sudbury Wolves manager of tampering with players at a southern group meeting Sunday.

The charge prompted a motion being passed later during the heated session to the effect that no teams may dicker with players from other clubs until receiving an official okay by the other team involved.

"The Wolves have been raiding our club, offering salaries considerably exceeding the $150 weekly set-up as laid down previously," said Vic Hatt, a Greyhound representative.

Greyhound manager Russ Ramsay, identified Johnny O'Flaherty, the former Sault Ste. Marie coach who was hired to coach Wolves this season, as the man who has been making the overtures.

NO OFFICIAL GUILTY

"It's all a pack of lies," stormed Jim Price, representing Wolves. "No one from Wolves, with authority to hire players, has been luring Greyhound players to Sudbury. If O'Flaherty is guilty of such accusations, he has no official capacity to sign players."

The five teams agreed there would be no raiding players still under contract in future However, there is nothing preventing teams bidding for players who are free agents as a result of having an automatic out contract.

Discussion centred on the proposed schedule and several changes were suggested. Harry Reynolds, president of North Bay Trappers, reported he had been advised there was little hope that North Bay's new arena would be ready for the tentative opening.

It was agreed that a fixed price of not less than $10,000 be put up all NOHA team franchises. It was also decided that players from one club could not be transferred in the event of a switch in franchise for less than $5,000. This, it was felt, would give the entries better financial protection.

Maryland Upsets UCLA

NEW YORK (CP)—Maryland upset Pacific coast conference champion UCLA 7-6 Saturday as the U.S. college football season got down to serious business.

Ed Vereb's 11-yard dash on a fullback play at the start of the second half provided the only score in Maryland's win over one of their toughest opponents in the fight for the mythical U.S. championship.

After scoreless ending of action a week ago, virtually every team in the U.S. played Saturday. Besides UCLA's defeat, the chief upset was Kentucky's 21-14 victory over Mississippi.

Georgia Tech, ranked No. 2 behind UCLA in last week's Associated Press poll, beat Florida 14-7. Third - ranking Oklahoma came from behind to register their 20th straight win, defeating North Carolina 13-6.

Hopalong Cassady scored three touchdowns as Rose Bowl champion Ohio State downed Nebraska 28-20. Michigan, a slight favorite over Ohio State to win the Big Ten title, swamped Missouri 42-7.

In other midwest games, Notre Dame defeated Southern Methodist 27-0, Miami of Ohio beat Northwestern 25-14 and Kansas turned back Washington State 13-0 to break a 11-game losing streak.

In the east, Army trounced Furman 81-0, while Pitt, Navy and Penn State all won. Pitt beat Syracuse 22-12, Navy defeated William and Mary 7-0 and Penn State shut out Boston University 35-0.

Mississippi State, one of the south's best, defeated Tennessee 13-7 while Georgia edged Vanderbilt 14-13. Georgia Tech beat Florida 14-7.

Shellettes Beaten by Goderich Team Speak Highly of Warm Hospitality

The Belleville Shellettes were beaten by 20-0 in the second game of their OASA intermediate girls' final series in Goderich Saturday but instead of coming home with excuses alibis they arrived with glowing accounts of the splendid hospitality accorded them by the Goderich team, folks and civic officials.

The Dodgers swept to a four-nil win over Shellettes with Kay McKinnon their star hurler whiffing 14, while her mates smashed out 10 hits. Shellettes committed seven errors to help the cause. Joanne Castle paced the winners with a home run, two doubles and three singles. Pearl Emmerton hit two three-run homers.

"We were beaten by a better all-round club, one that is equal to any senior club in Ontario," shouted Coach Leo Luccisla and sportsman Al Osterhout. "It was no disgrace to lose to such a fine aggregation of girls. We are well satisfied."

The fact that the Dodgers have played together as a team for the past nine years eased the blow of defeat for the Shellettes. The Belleville club did an excellent job in reaching the Ontario finals in their first year of organization and they are a credit to sport and to the city they represented.

Shellette officials and players could not say enough in appreciation of the reception accorded them in Goderich. They were met on arrival and whisked away to a hotel where they were guests of Goderich at breakfast.

The Goderich Girls Trumpet Band, CNE winners escorted them to the playing field where both squads lined up on the first and third baselines for ceremonies.

The entire expenses of the Shellettes were borne by officials and the town of Goderich. "It did not cost us one cent" said Manager Luccisla. "It was simply marvellous the way in which we were treated and we cannot express in words our appreciation for the grand team, grand town, grand officials and a grand time."

Hawks Defeat Cleveland 6-4

S. THOMAS (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks under their new coach Dick Irvin, defeated Cleveland Barons 6-4 here Saturday night.

The Hawks got off to a fast start scoring two goals in the first five minutes. Frank Martin and Benny Woit were the marksmen. The Barons came back to score two of their own before the period ended off the stick of Johnny Horvath and Cal Stearns.

In the second period the Hawks went ahead to stay when they outscored the Barons three to two and put the game in the bag with a third period marker.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Kibitzism: Any bidding system, however poor, deserves better treatment than the abuse it gets in a bridge game by some player who stretch it beyond all recognition.

Sent to me by mail was this deal:

NORTH
♠A J 6 5
♥K J 9 5
♣8 5 3

WEST
♠K 9 4
♥Q 10 8
♦K 9 7 3

♥4 3 2
♦Q J 10 6
♣K J

SOUTH
♠Q 7 3
♣A Q 10 9 2

Here is how the bidding was reported:

South	North
1 Club	1 Spade
2 Clubs	2 Hearts
2 No-Trump	3 Clubs
6 Clubs	Pass

The south player must have dug his slam bid in clubs out of a deep hole in the mre. Or learned his bid from a deck of cards with which he once played a game of pedro.

All the high cards he can see in his own hand are a couple of aces and a couple of queens. For all he has learned his partner in north could have as few as a couple of kings in the high bracket.

Where does he expect to find the rest of the aces and kings and queens? Somewhere in the next county looking for a place to park? Or does he have a clear evidence from the field of battle?

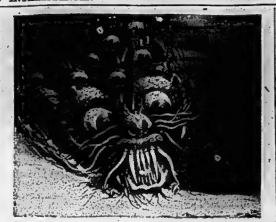
Maybe he thought he was out hunting deer. By shooting at a man he hoped to bring down a buck with antlers. There are inexperienced people who do that sort of thing, you know.

Anyway, there was south in a small slam contract of six clubs! West led a trump and dummy's hand went down on the table. What does he see in the combined hands of his pair?

His final bid reeks from limousines. And where the holes he can see in every suit makes it look like swiss. But what am I raving about? He took his needed 12 tricks. Boy, does this smell.

Red Wings Trim Edmonton 3-0

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—Detroit Red Wings defeated the farm club Edmonton Flyers for the second time in four outings Saturday night by a 3-0 score. Goalie Glenn Hall earned his second shutout in two games.



Dennis Riggin was used in the Edmonton nets instead of Gilles Boisvert and turned in a spectacular performance . Riggin was called on for 38 saves while Hall had only 15

Real Chevrefils saw action in the first period only. He suffered a pulled muscle in the leg early in the first frame and retired to the dressing room.

After a scoreless first period, Norm Ullman scored from Jerry Toppazzini on a drive that gave Riggin no chance. Vic Stasiuk and Lindsay made the count 2-0 late in the same period and notched his second goal midway through the third period.

Stewart — Warner — Houston midgets of Belleville bowed out of the OBA midget playdowns over the week-end when they trekked to Oshawa and dropped two games to the Motor City team. Both games were played on Saturday with Oshawa taking a 4-1 victory in the opening fixture, and wrapping up the series with a 11-5 decision in the afternoon.

Joe Ryan hurled the first game for Belleville and Jack Elliott pitched the second. They had previously ousted Cobourg in their opening round in two straight games. The Belleville peawees are the only Belleville team remaining in the OBA playdowns.

CALGARY HUNTERS IN HIGH ELEMENT

While most Calgarians huddled up in winter clothing and sought warm shelters at home or at work during the recent snowfall, these two enthusiastic duck hunters showed utter disregard for the elements waiting for the birds on the banks of the Elbow River. (Central Press Canadian).

RED LETTER DAY FOR AUSTRIA

September 19, 1955, will be put in the category of "memorable dates" for Austrians. It marked the day when the last Russian soldier left the country in accordance with the terms of the pact which gave Austria its sovereignty. The entire population of Bruck an der Leitha, in Russian occupied lower Austria was at the station to bid Ivan goodby. It doesn't look like a very enthusiastic farewell wave from Ivan as he wends his way back to his Soviet homeland. (Central Press Canadian).

PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A two-car Hudson and Manhattan railroad train plowed into the rear of another which was stalled inside a tunnel Sunday, injuring 24 persons. Six were taken to hospital. Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was drinking his 2nd cup of coffee slow on account of 2 cups being all that's suppose to be good for his helth, and ma said, William, it makes no feel like a wall flower to think that this is the atomic age and I've never even once been up in a plane.

It's not my doing, my dear, I've tried to get you to fly, pop said, and ma said, All of my frends have flown, and they talk as if it didn't meen any more than getting in and out of a bathtub.

If those don't even meen as much, pop said, A thousand people get hert in the bathtub for every one that has an accident in the clouds, he said, and ma said, I know, William, the statistics prove that you're safer in an airplane alone in the sky than you are in an automobeel on a congerted highway.

I'm glad you're willing to go to the facts of modern life, pop said. I'll take a plane on my trip next week.

I'll get there in 2 hours instead of waisting a whole day in a train, he said, and ma said, William, you'll do nothing of the kind. I wouldn't allow it for all the king's money, and I wont hear another word about it. When you fly I'll fly with you, and then neither one of us will have to wait to hear the news if anything happens, she said.

But for Peice sake nuthing is going to happen, you just said so yourself, pop said, and ma said, Yes and I'll say I again, and the simple reason is because you're not going to fly, and I want you to promise me here and now.

I promise, my dear, I'll walk first, pop said.

What every Father should know . . .

A father (especially a new one) must know a lot of things. Among them, how to stretch the budget to make room for the latest addition to the family. Right here is where he gets an "able assist" from Mom. She has long realized that the best way to make her dollars go further, is to know who's selling what and for how much, around town, before she spends a nickel. To this end, she carefully studies the ads in this newspaper. She knows that here is where most stores put their best "buys" forward. Dad is quick to see that this makes sense. Man-like, he even claims it was his own idea in the first place. Now both start ALL their shopping in the pages of this newspaper. Which makes it a good place for you, Mr. Businessman, to advertise . . . if you want to sell in volume to growing families!

Radioactive Lamps Offer Enemy-Proof Lighting Aboard Darkened Ships in Wartime

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tiny radioactive lamps offer possibilities for enemy-proof lighting aboard darkened ships in time of war.

Navy scientists say the lamps, small enough to be carried in the palm of the hand, utilize the same basic principle as the luminous radium dials on some wrist watches, but are vastly more powerful.

They employ some of the new radioactive isotopes produced by the atomic energy program. An isotope, such as radioactive strontium, is mixed with zinc sulphide. Invisible atomic rays from the strontium act upon atoms of the zinc sulphide, causing it to emit visible light.

No electric current is involved, and there are no wires. The lamps are plastic-encased circular "markers" about an inch in diameter. They glow continuously, with a potential useful life of several years.

Here are some of the possibilities foreseen by scientists of the naval research laboratory for the larger, 1¾-inch lamps:

1. As a source of illumination to read maps, orders and instructions "under dark conditions where general illumination is not desirable" —such as on the bridge of a battleship in enemy territory.

"A flashlight could be seen for miles," one scientist said, "but the light from the brightest of these new lamps couldn't be seen beyond 1,000 feet, which isn't very far at sea."

2. As "stand-by illumination" below decks in case of power failure.

The navy says different markers can be made to produce lights of different colors, such as green, red and blue. Green makes for the easiest seeing, but various other colors might be employed in certain operations.

Duke Amused By Boy's Essays On Royal Tours

HOLT, England (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh Monday got an insight of some views on royalty held by young schoolboys.

The duke visited Gresham's, a private school here, and found the pupils busy writing essays on how a royal tour should be conducted."

He picked up one at random which observed that "the magic of preparation which goes ahead of a royal visit is always to a certain extent hypocritical."

The duke turned to the young author and said: "I suppose you think royalty is unable to see through the facade put up for its benefit."

Headmaster Bruce Lockhart later said the duke was so amused by the essays he asked me to send them all to him at Buckingham Palace unvetted (unvetted crossed). "(unexamined)."

West Prepares For Big Four's October Meeting

By A. I. GOLDBERG

NEW YORK (AP)—The British, American and French foreign ministers planned yesterday sessions here today aimed at getting concrete results from the Big Four meeting starting in Geneva Oct. 27.

They will be host to consultations Wednesday by West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano, due here today by plane from Bonn.

Together they plan to map a program they hope the Russians will accept at the Geneva conference arranged at the "summit" meeting attended last July by President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden, Premier Faure and Premier Bulganin.

State Secretary Dulles came back Monday after talks in Ottawa and on United States-Canadian trade to join Foreign Secretary Macmillan and Foreign Minister Pinay for at least two days of concentrated talks.

They have before them a working program of arriving at some kind of European disarmament and security pledges with a drive to start East-West German unity—and to hold Germany in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization despite Russian opposition.

The plans were discussed at consellor levels in Washington last week, with the Germans sitting in. But almost one year to the day the planned parleys here, there were three developments:

1. Foreign Minister Molotov introduced again in the United Nations the Soviet package plan on disarmament—a ban on nuclear weapons, German reunification outside of NATO, and demands for all countries to give up foreign bases.

2. Bulganin sent Eisenhower a letter throwing cold water on the president's proposals for the U.S. and Russia to exchange aerial inspection to avert surprise attack and to provide the first step in building up confidence which might lead to actual disarmament.

3. President Eisenhower had a heart attack.

However, some Western sources said things were pretty well worked out and that there should be no difficulties.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Extensive cloud layers cover most of Ontario this morning as a developing disturbance in Minnesota moves eastward. This disturbance will move through the Great Lakes area Wednesday accompanied by occasional light rain.

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservatives have scored an upset election victory in a once-safe Liberal riding in New Brunswick, Liberals, including a son of Prime Minister St. Laurent, have again been sent to represent three Quebec constituencies in the Commons.

J. C. Van Blarcom, 36-year-old Conservative lawyer from Campbellton, N.B., broke a 25-year Liberal holdon Restigouche-Madawaska in the surprise Monday's four federal by-elections.

Quebec Liberal strongholds of Temiscouata, Quebec South and Bellechasse withstood strong Conservative attacks. But of their winners only Jean-Paul St. Laurent, 43-year-old Quebec City lawyer and victor in Temiscouata, was able to maintain the big leads gained by the party in the 1953 general election.

Frank Power, son of another famous Canadian, retained Quebec South for the Liberals with a lead sharply cut from the huge margin held there in 1953 by his father, Charles G. Power, former cabinet minister and now a senator. The senior Mr. Power had represented the riding since its formation in 1917.

LIBERAL IS VICTOR

Andy Bellechrase, where accurate vote figures were unknown Monday night, was declared won by Liberal Yvon Dupuis with a majority of about 600. The margin was approximately close in a riding which has returned Liberals for 38 years, the last time with a 2,238-vote majority.

Mr. Laflamme's win was announced by returning officer Philippe Plante based on incomplete figures. Conservative candidate Jules Fare, 43, said he could not concede and preferred to wait for the official count, expected today.

Barring a change in Bellechasse, the voting left party standings in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 169; Progressive Conservatives 52; CCF 22; Social Credit 15; Independent 4; vacant 4.

A by-election has been called for Oct. 24 in Toronto Spadina whose former Liberal member, David Croll, was made a senator in July. No vote date has been set for St. Johns - Iberville - Napierville made vacant last July by President of Postmaster-General Cote.

ST. LAURENT COMMENT

Commenting on the results, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday night the Restigouche-Madawaska outcome was a disappointment. But he added: "I am not unreasonably pleased" that voters in the Quebec ridings "have shown their continued confidence in our government."

SAFE CONDUCT FOR JUAN PERON BEING WITHHELD

Lonardi Govt. Disputes Rights of Paraguay

By ALFONSO MAURI

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Ex-president Juan D. Peron of Argentina today was reported nervously chain-smoking aboard a Paraguayan gunboat waiting to take him to exile as Argentina and Paraguay haggled over his fate.

Differences between the new revolutionary government of Gen. Edelardo Lonardi and the Paraguayan neighbor boil down to an argument over diplomatic asylum.

Reliable sources say the Lonardi regime is disputing the right of Paraguayan Ambassador J u a n Chavez to have taken Peron aboard the gunboat before a safe-conduct had been authorized.

SINCE TUESDAY

Peron has been on the gunboat, the Paraguay, in the harbor here since last Tuesday, following the overthrow of his regime. Although the revolutionary government has announced he can depart at will it has refused to issue orders which will permit him to sail 900 miles up the River Plate to Asuncion, the Paraguayan capital.

Peron left the lights of two Paraguayan gunboats—the Paraguay and the Humaita, which will take Peron to Asuncion—and has seen three miles out from Buenos Aires. The Paraguay is a third vessel were believed to be those of an Argentine warship.

The country which Peron once ruled is returning meanwhile to normal after days of strife. The new government gained its first diplomatic victory Monday as shops and factories reopened normally, a sign of confidence in the new regime.

The leader of the civilian underground forces in Buenos Aires during the revolution, Mario Amadeo, was sworn in Monday night as foreign minister. He replaces Air Commodore Cesar Krause, who resigned Monday morning after he and when Lonardi established his government last week.

Ike's Illness Comes as Science Scores Wins Against Heart Attacks

Editor's Note: The amount of work your heart does is almost beyond belief. In a year, it beats 37,000,000 times. Often it goes on and on, until some other disease brings death. More often, it gives up. Why? Medical science doesn't know all the answers, but it is making progress. Week in, week out, doing so unfigured is a series of these articles, of which this is the first.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's heart attack comes at a time when medical science is scoring its first major victories against the continent's leading killer.

Just 30 years ago heart attacks like his killed 50 per cent of the men they struck. Today 80 to 90 per cent survive the first attack.

And best of all, many go back to normal lives and normal or nearly normal work They aren't doomed to life in a wheel chair, like Franklin D. Roosevelt and others; most can live happily for many years.

This radical change was born of new knowledge, new discoveries in laboratories, new understandings of that amazing life pump, the human heart.

Similar advances have supplied the weapons to banish rheumatic fever—the great killer and crippler of children. They have brought new drugs to combat high blood pressure, new surgery to repair defective hearts, even heart-lung machines putting the heart on a holiday; new tips on how to live with the heart that won't quit.

Consider, first, this instrument of life's vitality, an organ the size of both your fists, that will pulse, without stopping, 100,000 times a year. Daily it pumps about 2,000 gallons of blood through 60,000 miles of blood vessels, a distance 2½ times the earth's equator.

It rarely complains. It adjusts blood flow to the demands of your body. But your heart has a secret—it rests between strokes.

Slightly less than half the time is it working. Better than half the time it relaxes.

Why is it vulnerable to the heart attack?

Hopes for Full Recovery Of Eisenhower Are Growing

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—President Eisenhower had a "very good night" and slept almost continuously for more than 10 hours, his hospital doctors reported today.

The bulletin, reporting Eisenhower's satisfactory progress, served to raise hopes for his full recovery from a heart attack another week.

Monday night a note of warning, however, was sounded by one of his heart-specialist physicians.

"For the first two weeks we keep our fingers crossed," said Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston in reporting on the president's condition.

White did say that prospects for Eisenhower's complete recovery within two months from the heart attack suffered Saturday are "reasonably good." He added nothing to lead him to exile as Argentina and Paraguay haggled over his fate.

Differences between the new revolutionary government of Gen. Edelardo Lonardi and the Paraguayan neighbor boil down to an argument over diplomatic asylum.

Canada May Share Policing U.S. Food Giveaway Program

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may soon play a hand in policing the huge United States food giveaway program.

Technical talks are to take place in Washington shortly aimed at setting up machinery to negotiate for closer consultation between the two countries on the sensitive U.S. American program on Canadian markets abroad.

Trade Minister Howe said Monday the technicians, to include members of the Canadian Wheat Board, will attempt to fix the amounts of differentiate between disposal methods that may be legitimate and those that may not.

Canada was particularly interested in the "ground rules" changed on the U.S. wheat disposal program which Canada has charged has interfered with some of her wheat marketings abroad. Agreement on the terms of the talks was reached at a one-day session Monday of eight Canadian and U.S. cabinet ministers, members of the joint Canada-U.S. committee on trade and economic affairs, External Affairs Minister They said in a communique that the talks would be held in Washington if not handled carefully, could injure world trade and agreed there should be "full consultation" in an effort to avoid interference with normal commercial transactions.

Mr. Howe, at a press conference later, said conference discussions ranged from the U.S. to Eisenhower's heart ailment to the disposal problem of infants in Europe. But he indicated that for Canada the big interest was in controlling the American giveaway plan.

World confidence in North American markets could be destroyed if there were no measure of uniform policies, he said. A country that thinks it can get a bargain in Washington week isn't going to buy wheat this week. The U.S., caught in the middle, should be defined some wheat for local currencies and giving other portions away.

Man Is Remanded On Attempted Murder Charge

SUDBURY (CP)—Adelard Pelletier, 35, of Shininggrove, Monday was remanded a week on a charge of attempted murder arising from a shooting incident at Shininggrove earlier this month.

The crown asked for the remand because some witnesses were absent. Pelletier has been held in custody since Sept. 18. Bail was set at $1,500.

Pelletier is charged with "unlawfully firing" .22-calibre rifle bullets, sister, Mrs. Louise Swatt, in the Shininggrove district.

Police accused Pelletier of firing a volley at his sister, who lives across the street, from an 11-acre lot ingtree, 90 miles northwest of here.

SHOTS THROUGH WINDOW

Mrs. Swatt told police that, while she was sitting at a work at a desk, whizzed by her head. She and f r bullets came through the front window, the door.

Pelletier went over after the firing and got a mop across the brows from the sister as he came in the door, police said. A scuffle ensued, in which Pelletier and four others were hurt. One, Lawrence Massey, 24, was flown unconscious into Sudbury. The others hurt were Leo Mailhot, 30, Henry Quirk-, 45, Guy Verreault, 22, all of Shininggrove, and Anthony Arcoin, 35, of Timmins.

Murder Suspect Will Remain In Don Jail Cell

TORONTO (CP) — Lloyd Nashkawa, 22-year-old murder suspect who escaped from Kingston Penitentiary, will remain in isolation in the Don Jail death cell until his trial, G. Hedley Basher, Ontario's deputy minister of reform institutions, said today.

"I consulted Dr. G. C. Brink, head of the TB division of the health department, and we are satisfied that he is properly isolated from other prisoners," Mr. Basher said.

Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto said Monday he would try to have Nashkawa moved to hospital there, where there would be room in the death cell.

Guards at the jail said Nashkawa was a menace to the 400 prisoners and 129 staff members at the jail.

Nashkawa is charged with murder in the slaying of a fruit dealer on a farm near St. Catharines this month.

STRATFORD JURY FINDS ACCIDENT PROBE HAMPERED

Coroner Not Informed Before Child Embalmed

STRATFORD (CP)—A coroner's jury early today found that investigation into the death of a North Easthope township boy was hampered because the boy's body had been released to an undertaker.

The jury was investigating the death of four-year-old Cecil Albert Hatch who died in Stratford General Hospital Aug. 28 nine days after he fell from the back of a moving wheel of a grain separating machine.

The jury's verdict said: "We feel there was neglect in the manner of releasing the body to the undertaker before notifying a coroner, thereby hampering the investigation." Evidence was that the boy's body had been embalmed and a coroner's inquest did not make accurate findings.

The jury also found that "it might have been prevented if antitetanus serum had been administered promptly." Medical evidence was that there had been no indication that the child had about the day before the boy died.

EXPRESSES CENSURE

Censure of hospital and doctors for "negligence" in the treatment of the boy.

Dr. J. C. Jarrott testified that the boy had not been given any immediate injections, but a few days later, after he was given anti-tetanus injections by Dr. H. C. Bowlby. Dr. Jarrott said he gave 40,000- units but hospital clinical records showed discrepancies of 5,000 units. The doctor said the discrepancy could have resulted from a misunderstanding on the part of the nurse who wrote down the figure after he had given her the information.

J. L. Bateman, hospital superintendent, told the jury he did not know who had released the boy's body to the undertaker.

The night supervisor Miss Mae Cardwell said she was with Dr. Hazel when the boy died and never thought she had called the undertaker. She said the undertaker only notified the coroner only if instructed to do so by a doctor.

Undertaker Arthur Gingras said he did not know the boy had been dead for 15 minutes when the coroner asked him why there was no police officer present. He said he embalm the body he replied that it was the usual procedure. He said he knew the effect of embalming fluid in killing evidence of infection.

The importance of inquests and post-mortems was stressed in the crown attorney W. F. Goodwin. He said the law definitely established that there was any question of misadventure or violence that a coroner's jury be advised before a body is released.

At the conclusion of evidence given by the 13 witnesses before Dr. W. C. Pratt of Listowel told the jury: "If you've got quite a mess." He said however that the jury was charged with determining who might be negligent.

Doctors Are Puzzled and Shocked By Way Eisenhower's Case Handled

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The full story has yet to be told of what happened over a span of almost 12 hours before President Eisenhower suffered a hear attack early Saturday in Denver and the public was not informed.

So far only scanty reports have been given to the public about the first hours of the president's illness. Washington physicians say they are puzzled and somewhat shocked by the chronology of events as released. They are asking these questions:

1. If President Eisenhower's heart attack came at 2:45 a. m., while he was being attended by a physician, why was it almost 11 hours later before cardiograph tracings were taken?

2. After the tracings were taken and the heart attack confirmed, why was the president's wife told—even with assistance—to walk downstairs from a second-floor bedroom, across a porch, down another five steps to an automobile in the driveway, to ride a mile drive to the hospital, and then into the hospital?

The prominent Washington physician exclaimed: "I was shocked when I read that the president was permitted to walk to an automobile to be driven seven miles o he hospital."

Other doctors queried on this point say the same thing—and surprise that the president had been allowed to walk from the bed to the ing—even with assistance—when it was known he was suffering from coronary thrombosis.

There is speculation here that perhaps Eisenhower himself refused to be carried from the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud, and placed in an ambulance.

There was some speculation, too, that an initial effort was made for political reasons to minimize the seriousness of the president's illness, but that it soon became impossible.

Eisenhower May Be Able To Golf Again

DENVER (AP)—"It is quite possible."

That remark by a foremost heart specialist here indicated President Eisenhower would have put a side the cigarettes he's smoked for 30 years if he had been there to hear it.

For Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston was asked: "Will it be possible" that Eisenhower will be able to play golf again—provided, of course, he has' a normal recovery from his heart attack.

The doctor then said that all the golf the president has played since his heart attack "today" was tack.

Eisenhower, golf is one of life's joys. His friends have been saying they can't think of anything he would miss more.

Conditions at Police Station Disgraceful Say Aldermen

Sharp criticism of conditions at the city police station which were termed "disgraceful and filthy" was heard at city council Monday evening as several aldermen urged that a clean-up, paint-up campaign until such time as better accommodation could be provided.

Alderman Douglas Moxam as chairman of the property committee notified the council committee of council to act with his committee for condemnation of the city hall and the erection of a new police station.

Declaring that it would be poor economy to spend more money on the present station, Ald. Moxam said plans for a new police station should be prepared. He described the present building as a "coop" with poor ventilation and with poor accommodation for constables.

Alderman Frank Grandame was of much the same opinion but urged that a bit of painting be done while waiting for a new building to be erected. "Even if we decided to take a year to get going," he said, "something should be done" and she was "shocked" that the city of Belleville should have such a building.

"The constables' room is a disgrace, with the toilets in full view even. Instead of using this room for that purpose the constables use the downstairs corridor which is worse."

The alderman went on to say that storage facilities at the present building were inadequate, that the offices were too small and the whole set up was dirty.

She said the matter should be gone into thoroughly with councillors familiar with the building and steps be done. "It will take time to do this, so let's splash a little paint around in the meantime."

Mayor J. Roth doubted that members of the police department felt as dirty as their headquarters has been described. He said he considered the police department is being very efficient.

He agreed that the city needed a new police station but doubted if a new building was the entire answer. "Isn't there supposed to be a caretaker at the police station?" he asked. "There must be lack of housekeeping. Maybe a pail of soap and water would do some good."

"I am not criticizing the police," returned Alderman Forrester, "but if they are so fine we have no right to ask them to live in such surroundings."

Alderman Tice felt that any more money spent on the police station would be like throwing money down a rat hole.

Alderman Moxam agreed with Alderman Forrester that there was no reflection against the police department. "It is the house they live in," he said.

Alderman Art Keegan declared the time had come when the city city had to start thinking about a new police station. "Every time we present building had been set up as temporary quarters for a police force of six or seven and the department now had 26 or 27 men. Any time somebody is arrested downstairs corridor which is worse."

The alderman went on to say that storage facilities at the present building were inadequate, that the offices were too small and the whole set up was dirty.

She said the matter should be gone into thoroughly with councillors familiar with the building and steps be done. "It will take time ating is carried on in such a way as to constitute a nuisance or an unlawful assembly or a trespass, it is done wrongfully and without lawful authority."

CIVIL COURT ACTIONS

"The great proportion of picketing cases, however, arises in the civil courts. In these courts, injunctions to restrain picketing and actions for damages can give some cure or compensation for the loss suffered by an employer if such is the case, and if an injunction is illegally issued against a labor dispute, then if there is disobedience to it, contempt of court punishable by fine or by jail sentence can follow."

Professor Roberts, an established wrong in an incidence of picketing, may be remedied ordinarily by the criminal law if there is sufficient grounds for such a procedure," or in civil actions through injunctions and damages.

However, the facts of each individual case are the governing factors, he said. Facts relating to the wording of signs, the number of pickets, their actions, use of force, blocking of entrances, intimidation or nuisance and the weighing of actual utterances — as to whether they amount to threats — all these must be related to the circumstances and each individual case to be properly comprehended.

One of the most difficult features of picketing for determination by a court is the question of civil conspiracy, Mr. Roberts continued.

"Here you have on the one hand a possible combination of several persons out to injure a person in his trade in order to gain certain ends, and on the other hand, a perfectly lawful act by an important counter-element in the same combination and it will often be easy may tend to have that effect but which can also be said to be justified in forwarding or defending the trade of those who combine in that action."

Here the court must determine which of these two elements predominates dominates. Whether that of a common intent of the pickets to injure the employer or on the other hand to gain a common benefit for themselves.

UNDERSTAND RIGHTS

"I believe that the law now is comparatively clear. I have great faith in our courts and I believe that the leaders both on the side of management and on the side of labor comprehend what their rights and their limitations are in connection with this subject, and there should be no need for some of the violent outbreaks which on occasion have characterized the attitudes of leaders on both sides in the past."

With the reported decisions of the Ontario courts providing clear indication of the law in these matters, Mr. Roberts said, there should not be "too much difficulty" on the part of those who engage in a dispute in knowing their rights, duties and obligations.

Mr. Roberts, a native of Belleville, was warmly welcomed by the club. Before he launched into the text of his address, he spent some moments reminiscing about his early days in Belleville. He was introduced by Magistrate T. Y. Wills and thanked by Alan Sprague.

Outline of Laws Governing Picketing In Ontario Given by Kelso Roberts

Picketing of premises is governed both by the civil and criminal code, Ontario's Attorney General reminded an audience here Monday.

According to law if there is no unlawful purpose, act, or method picketing is legal and to determine if such factors have action this or facts of each particular case must be analyzed, stated Mr. Kelso Roberts.

"If a person deems himself aggrieved as a result of any picketing out of picketing, he can, if the facts establish sufficient justification for the action, lay a charge vexader the criminal code, or, as is more frequently done, take action by asking the court to grant an immediate injunction and then proceed to trial to establish the right to the injunction, if that is needed, and for damages."

Mr. Roberts was addressing the Belleville Rotary club and three days after United Automobile Workers pickets on the General Motors Canada plant blocked office workers from entering the plant.

His address was an outline of the laws governing the act of picketing in Ontario.

THREE FACTORS

Said Mr. Roberts "Its (picketing) legality depends on three factors: (1) The purpose of 'the picketing; (2) the means permitted during the picketing; and (3)..the results of the picketing."

Quoting criminal code he said it is an offence if an individual "unlawfully and without lawful authority" pickets the residence or business premises of another or compel him to abstain from "doing anything he has a lawful right to do, or to do anything he has a lawful right to abstain from doing ..."

"But," added Mr. Roberts, "there is a very important qualification and it will be in each wording: 'A person who attends at or near or approaches a dwelling-house or place, for the purpose only of obtaining or communicating information, or watch or beset (picket) within the meaning of this section."

"There is therefore a common law right of peaceful picketing and that right is affirmed in the criminal code itself."

In Ontario the Labor Relations Act, while having no specific provisions in regard to picketing, does provide that no union or council of union shall call or authorize an unlawful strike he pointed out.

The act empowers the Ontario Labor Relations Board to declare a strike unlawful, he added.

"There have been very many criminal proceedings in connection with this topic," he said. "The leading Canadian authority on the criminal law of picketing is a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in 1926 in which it was held that if pick-

CNRAA CONTEST No. 33
Commences October 21st

Council Considering Move To Reclaim Old County Home

Alleged failure of the Belleville Properties Ltd., and Mr. Samuel Goodman to fulfill its agreement with the city with respect to renovations of the old county home building purchased from the corporation two and a half years ago featured some spirited discussion in city council Monday evening with consensus of aldermen being that something should be done about the matter.

And that something is that council will seek an opinion from their city solicitor regarding the legality of the city re-possessing the county home property, with the services of higher counsel to be secured if deemed necessary by the finance committee.

A recommendation from the finance committee, asking that a bonus be paid to the amount which would be realized if the building was assessed at $50,000 be demanded from Mr. Goodman, was withdrawn pending the solicitor's report by solicitor.

AGREED TO RENOVATE

Alderman Gerald Hyde, as chairman of finance, said that when the county home property was sold to Mr. Goodman and The Belleville Properties-Ltd., back in 1953 that Mr. Goodman had agreed to commence immediately on the renovation of the building into a modern hotel at an estimated cost of $150,000. Mr. Goodman had completed the renovations within two years.

Ald. Hyde pointed out, however, that there was no building covenant included in the sale agreement with Mr. Goodman.

Also in his agreement with the city Mr. Goodman promised to build two motel units, one worth $100,000, and the other $60,000. The first motel unit has been completed.

WANTS $2,500 MORE

Alderman Hyde said the difference in taxes sought by the city from Mr. Goodman would amount to an additional $3,200 annually.

Alderman Doug Moxman and Art Keegan stated that this matter be tabled for two weeks to allow Mr. Goodman to appear before council, but other aldermen and Mayor J. Roth felt the city should show Mr. Goodman no special consideration.

Mayor Roth said that the city had in the past re-possessed property for failure of the owners to live up to their covenants and asked "If we have one law for the rich and another for the poor?"

Alderman Graham commended the finance committee for trying to do something about the matter but said he was not entirely in agreement with the action being taken. He suggested the matter be held over, with legal opinion obtained as to whether the city could take back the property.

Mayor Both finally brought in the recommendation calling for legal opinion on the matter and when this was carried Alderman Hyde withdrew his motion. Committee's recommendation until the solicitor's report was received by council.

Objection to Members of Council Accepting City Work Jobs Voiced

Objection to the principle of a member of council accepting a working contract from the corporation was voiced by two aldermen at city council Monday evening when aldermen voted to award contracts for Bath, Ald.

The contracts in question were to build a sidewalk on the south side of College street and building of a concrete culvert on Dundas street.

Alderman Ben Safe as chairman of public works, made the objection in principle to members of council receiving work contracts from the corporation. Although opposed in principle, the alderman voted to award the two both contracts to J. Both Ltd., approving of one because it was the lowest tender and the other because it was the only tender received.

Council concurred in a resolution from the city of London perpaining to jurisdiction with respect to assessment appeals.

Mayor Roth was authorized to proclaim Fire Prevention Week starting October 9 and the mayor authorized to plan a civic welcome to Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir on their visit to the city as for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment re-union in mid-October.

Acting building inspector Adam Slark was named acting building inspector and chief clerk of the engineers' department at a salary of $2,600 per year, retroactive to April 1st.

Authority was given to the public works committee to plow, harrow and sow grass seed on Churchill and Bayview Heights at an estimated cost of $200. It was pointed out that the parks board had no funds to carry out this work.

Council approved of no parking on the east side of Sidney street between Catherine and Benjamin street; on the north side of Catherine street between Pinnacle and Church streets, and on the south side of Station street between Foundry and Ashley streets.

Alderman Tice claimed that no parking regulations would soon create accidents and suggested that areas outside the main business section of the city, but Alderman David as chairman of traffic said the moves had been recommended by the police and Constables bottlenecks.

Purchase of a new floor washer and waxer was authorized by council as was the expenditure of up to $400 to put a terrazzo floor in the rotunda of the city hall.

Charged with an attempted break-in, Ronald Andrews, 394 Bridge St. East, was given two years suspended sentence by magistrate's court by Magistrate T.Y. Wills today.

New Dog Pound Is Approved By Council

The city of Belleville will have a new dog pound if the recommendation of a special committee appointed to inquire into existing conditions at the present pound is carried out.

The committee headed by Alderman Effie McCabe recommends that a new building costing an estimated $4,000 be erected on city-owned lots on East Moira street, the building to be owned by the city but operated by the Belleville Humane Society.

Council approved the recommendation calling for a new dog pound and when the site construction will be called after plans and specifications are drawn by the city engineer.

Council also approved a $400 per annum salary for dog catcher Charles Thorn, the allowance to be retroactive to January 1st of this year. Records of each animal picked up by the dog catcher will be kept with one dollar of the dollar fee for each animal to be retained by the city to help defray expenses of the pound maintenance. The other 50c will go to the dog catcher.

Alderman Jane Forrester said the building proposed would be of cement block and about 16 by 24 feet and would be in accordance with the dog pound owned by the city of Kingston. Such a building would have space for about 17 kennels.

Members of the local humane society attended the council meeting and have given recommendations approved by aldermen.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices swung upward in first-hour trading on the Toronto stock exchange today following Monday's heavy slump. Gains ranged to about four points with some of Monday's heaviest losers winning most ground.

The first-hour rise in industrials, though not large by comparison with Monday's steep fall, represented just over three points on the industrial index, normally a fairly sharp advance for one hour's trading. A few stocks showed pronounced declines, particularly such issues.

Motors, refining oils and papers were stronger. Selective demand appeared for utilities, liquors and steels. Ford A and Weston's were top winners, each adding $4. Two points ahead were General Motors, Aluminium and Moore. Lesser gains went to Canada Cement, Consolidated Paper, Dominion Magnesium, Great Lakes Paper and National Steel Car.

International Paper headed the lowers with a five-point drop to 110.

Base metals gained though some senior issues, including Noranda and Hudson Bay, lost as much as $1. Gunnar was the swung up 50 cents, leading better uraniums. Golds were mixed with changes mostly small. Most leading oil companies gained but Ventures eased $1.

Narrow advances put western oils a little ahead.

Cannifton Man Wins $1,300 In Sweepstake

"Roman Festival", a horse which didn't run a step last Saturday paid $1,300 to Jack White, 31, of Cannifton.

"Roman Festival" was a scratch entry in the St. Leger stakes on Sept. 7th. On Sept. 6th the Quebec Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans sweepstake committee notified Jack that his ticket had been drawn on Roman Festival.

The horse failed to start Sept. 7th. The draw, however, was worth $1,300. The money arrived Sept. 20th.

Jack, who lives with his mother, Mrs. Jack White, at Cannifton, "put the money in the bank." He has no immediate plans for the windfall other than the collection of bank interests. He already owns a house and a car.

Council Votes Against Joining Regional Development Assoc.

On a split vote city council Monday night turned down a recommendation to join the Lake Ontario Regional Development Association at an annual cost of $1,400 to the city.

The recommendation for the city to join the Association was brought in by Alderman Jane Forrester who pointed out that last June the matter had been referred to a special committee to report at the first meeting of September.

"Belleville and Stirling are the only two centres in the entire region which have not joined the Association," she said. "I think this city should go in at least on a trial basis for three years.

"The special committee of Mayor Bell and Aldermen Pearce, Cabe, Smith and Safe had not shown sufficient interest in the matter to make a report as directed by council," she said.

Mayor Bell replied he was opposed to the development association, stating that he objected to any part of it.

"If anybody could show me how Belleville could gain from the Association then I might agree," the mayor went on, "but why should we pay to join, when the association manager is to direct where industry is to go. If Belleville has any wish or hope to spend it should be in hiring an industrial commissioner."

"Just going along for the ride is not good enough for me," he said.

MIGHT MISS BOAT

Aldermen Art Keegan and Enos Dawld felt the city might miss the boat by not joining the association, stating they thought it would be a good investment.

"By joining the Association the city would receive much information as to what industries are on the move," noted Alderman Keegan.

Alderman Safe was opposed and termed the whole thing a political association, which would only lead to more political appointments.

Alderman Bram Humphreys said that the $1,400 suggested as an annual cost to the city "would only be a beginning."

Aldermen Hyde wanted to know if the special committee appointed had actually met. The question but Alderman Forrester answer but Alderman Forrester noted the committee had "not been sufficiently interested to bring in a written report."

Favoring the recommendation calling for the city to join the Association were Aldermen Forrester, Mozam, Graham, Grandy-sinn, Hyde, Keegan, and Tice, while opposed were Aldermen Clarke, Humphreys, McCabe, Mozam, Safe, Smith and Both.

Wall St. Bargain Hunters Push Stock Prices Up Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Bargain hunters swarmed into the street today in a backlash to Monday's stock market tumble, pushing prices upward again.

Gains ran $1 to $4 a share in the first hours of trading as much of the ground lost Monday when nearly $13,000,000,000 was wiped out in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York stock exchange.

The ticker tape, which records stock transactions within seconds, ran 19 minutes behind at one time, greatest delay since it fell behind 27 minutes at the start of the Korean War in June, 1950.

The tape lagged for three hours, 16 minutes before catching up in early afternoon, then fell behind once more as the market strengthened. Board of trade officers were swamped with telephone calls.

WORST IS OVER

"I feel the worst is over," said Martin Gilbert, analyst for Bache and Co., one of the biggest Wall street houses, referring to Monday's revolt linked to President Eisenhower's illness.

Good news from Eisenhower's sickbed, renewed confidence in the six-year-old bull market, the temptation of "cheap stocks," a big rush of small investors and a renewal of buying by big investment trusts were some factors involved in the upturn.

Trading volume in the first three hours was 2,760,000 compared with 4,430,000 Monday when the day's total was the highest since 1933.

Lower Car Insurance to Teetotallers Planned by Temperance Federation

SIMCOE (CP)—An automobile insurance company, which will sell insurance at reduced rates to teetotallers, hopes to start up for business within the next few months.

The firm, supported by the Ontario Temperance Federation, is being organized by several members of the Norfolk County Temperance Federation.

It plans to sell car insurance at premium reductions of 15 to 40 per cent to persons willing to sign a pledge not to drink any alcoholic beverage while the policy is in force.

The company will interview character witnesses to prove the customer's claim to be a teetotaller before issuing the policy. If the customer takes a drink after the policy is granted, it will be can-

Proposed rates, based on those charged by a similar company in the United States, will be 11 per cent under the usual for the first year. For every accident-free year of driving up to a total of five, the policy holder gets a five per cent "merit dividend."

At the end of five years, the policy rates could be 40 per cent lower than usual.

Magistrate R. G. Groom of Tillsonburg, one of the promoters of the plan, said its purpose is to "fortify" teetotallers in their philosophy and to persuade others to accept abstinence.

Rev. W. G. Rigers, another promoter of the scheme, said cheaper car insurance will show people "it pays to abstain."

Young Seagull Takes a Look At Main Street

MARMORA (Special) — Something akin to the comic strip reaction of "It's a plane! It's a bird! It's Superman," was heard over this town's streets yesterday morning.

Reason for the consternation among residents here was a strange bird which came winging in from the south to skim up the main street about three feet above the pavement.

Arriving in front of the Royal Hotel it parked itself near the front door to be identified as a young seagull.

Three minutes later it took to the air again and alighted near a local dairy. A momentary pause and it took off again, returning as mysteriously as it came.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police spent a quiet night watch last night.

Only routine matters were carried to the attention of city headquarters while OPP officers reported no incidents in the district.

An unruly prisoner in the county jail cells gave wardens on duty at the time a hectic few moments. He was finally quieted down after a hurried call from the jail brought two officers from city headquarters to assist the wardens.

Charged with careless driving was Digby Wyatt, 49, of Toronto while a charge of being intoxicated also was laid against Dora Wyatt after the couple was picked up from their car on Bridge St. West and taken to headquarters.

Well, we've had two bad ones, but we're still smiling.
The telephone is still the same number and, while we are working under handicaps, we would be glad to take care of your orders for flowers. By next week we hope to be operating right across the street in the old fire hall on Front Street.
It hurts — but we keep grinning. Many thanks to the many people who have phoned offering help and condolences. It has certainly been a comfort during the trying days.

CHINA WILL PROMOTE BIRTH CONTROL

A recent development which may be of more than minor significance is the announcement that women's societies in Communist China are about to start propaganda in birth control.

This prompts the Manchester Guardian to observe that "until recently Communists have taken a different line from the rest of the contemporary world about the blessings of population. The idea of over-population they laughed to scorn because in a Communist world the factors of production would work so gleefully that it was almost impossible to imagine a population of a size which could not be provided for."

The Manchester Guardian thinks that last year's census figures, which showed that China had a population of 600,000,000, may have surprised the government as much as they did the outside world.

"Perhaps now that the main interest of the government is in industrialization it has been made aware that the more efficient propaganda in favor of birth control will be evident.

There is another possible explanation of this apparent change of front. Communism was not originally wedded to the theory that filling cradles was an essential activity for a Heroine of the Soviet Union. Although the Manchester Guardian probably rightly thinks it outstanding that the dialectical materialist believed that the Communist state would always be able to produce enough to feed and clothe its citizens, there were no strict rules in Russia about the size of power. While free love was encouraged, abortions were permitted. It was only later that the Soviet Union prohibited abortions, made divorce more difficult and encouraged large families. The memory serves us right, the first country to enter the baby marathon was not Russia but Italy, where Mussolini was anxious to obtain more cannon fodder. It was only after the Fascists began the race that Stalin started actively promoting Russia's birth rate.

The reason behind the change of front is more people is fairly obvious. It was as much an armament program as the building of tanks or planes.

One might argue, therefore, that China's present plans to promote birth control are a disarmament measure. That, however, is stretching the argument too far, in view of China's already vast population and the fact that the atom bomb and the hydrogen bomb have sharply reduced the firepower of the cradle.

Perhaps, in this case, the change has nothing whatever to do with the size or the plans of the general staff. Maybe the Chinese people have just decided that their country is getting uncomfortably crowded.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF IMMIGRANTS

The current issue of "Commercial Letter," published by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, contains an interesting analysis of Canada's population puzzle. Included is a survey of recent estimates of what might be termed "desirable" population in Canada within the next generation; a review of past forecasts and a comparison of these predictions with actual population figures; and reference to "fundamental economic and social conditions approximating those at present," which, the "Commercial Letter" says, might be within a range of 185,000 to 200,000 immigrants annually.

Then the "Commercial Letter" continues:—"The number of persons available from abroad for absorption into Canada is of no less importance and many of the factors that govern the territory movement of its impetus is post-World War Two years are now subsiding. The immigrant of today differs in most essentials from the newcomer of the years before 1914. For the most part, have come assets, the majority have some skills, trade or profession, and they pay their fare. They are often leaving homelands with legislation is making great advances and, in the United Kingdom for example, where trade to grave security is assured and there is virtually full employment, the number of emigrants approximating those in Canada. It may take them's day, or a week at most, to reach this country, and if conditions do not meet their expectations, they can return just as easily. It would seem, therefore, that the onus of attracting and holding immigrants rests, and will rest to an increasing extent, on what Canada can offer in the way of employment, living conditions and opportunity.

This is a vastly different picture of the immigrant from that in the immediate post-war years, when we were being asked to open our doors to displaced persons; it is different, too, from the earlier migrations, when the poor and persecuted sought a new homeland across the seas.

Perhaps we ought to remember that, while everything the "Commercial Letter" says about the immigrant of today is true, there is still a vast multitude of the displaced, the poor and the persecuted, without assets, skills, trades or professions, who have never heard of the term social security and have enjoyed none of the advantages of social legislation. They would be only too willing to emigrate to Canada—if we would let them and would help them to do so.

MAN'S NEEDS

Hello!" "Good-bye" are sweet to hear.
Man needs their comfort at his side
No one smiles when he draws near
The charm of home exists no more.

Man needs to hear a loved one speak.
There's nothing mute and cold as things.
There no one greets him, home is bleak

Despite its costly furnishings.
The books are silent, left unread.
To pictures laughter is denied.
Stars may be shining overhead
But all is dark and dull inside.

Both fame and fortune he may know,
And-though the world may laugh at beds,
A sweet "Good-bye," a glad "Hello"
A man to be contented needs.

Boy Hunter's Urge to Kill

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

A 14-year-old boy, who is the son of a manufacturer of buttons at Scarsdale, N.Y., has just removed from a big game hunt in Africa, and reports that, during his three-month safari, he killed 700 animals. The boy, Stanley Schur, has always been interested in hunting and guns, and possesses 15 rifles.

Presumably the boy—and his father—are proud of this record but we do not share their pride. Admitted it takes a certain amount of courage to enter an area where there are many wild and dangerous animals; but it is regrettable that a mere child should be brought up to feel that the greatest sport on earth is to hunt and kill. Most wild animals have short lives, and while it might be disastrous if they multiplied to an extent that their very existence became dangerous to mankind, Nature keeps the numbers down by the inexorable law of the bigger, faster and more powerful killing the others, all the way down the line, for food.

A great many people go to Africa to kill animals—not for food, but just for "sport." If all of them were as wanton in their killings as Master Schur, the most interesting animals would become extinct. What child seems to have developed a trigger-happy complex, and no matter what he wants, whether it be a bird, deer or the woods of his native State, the urge to kill everything that moves or flies will obsess him.

In many places there are quotas for killings—we have them in Ontario—and we think this trigger-happy business is about over all the game he might be entitled to in a lifetime. At this rate his father will have to build a special museum in which to exhibit the heads and hides he brings home. But we feel that if this boy wants this kind of vocation an annual event—and no other kind might satisfy him—he should try to persuade him to do his future shooting with a movie camera.

Customers Are to Blame

(Edmonton Journal)

A common complaint, both among Canadians and visitors, is the dull, unimaginative and sometimes downright poor quality of the meals served in the many restaurants in this country. The president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, Mr. Sven Erickson of Lethbridge, has now come to the defence of his colleagues. He puts the blame on the Canadian customer himself who refuses to eat anything different, even when it is on the menu.

Mr. Erickson undoubtedly has a point. The average Canadian is a very conservative eater who sticks pretty closely to the traditional meat and potatoes and apple pie, and turns up his nose at anything off the beaten path. This must be the greatest country in the manager or chef who yearns to serve favorite French, Italian or Scandinavian dishes, or new recipes of his own creation.

A FRUIT THAT RIPENS

More than a century ago, Ralph Waldo Emerson, the New England sage, wrote these words: "Punishment is a fruit that unsuspected ripens, within the folds of the transgression, and when it falls, it falls to the ground." And this life, there is no escape from justice. In one way or another, we must pay for what we receive.

Though we often try to deceive ourselves and others, we cannot escape the consequences of our deeds. Sometimes at last we bring ourselves to confession, but even then we are not free. We have to face the consequences of our deeds. Sometimes we observe God's law of sowing and reaping in the drunkard proclaim his weakness to everyone except himself. Our improvident and speedthrift acquaintance overtakes at last into bankruptcy. The daily paper is never without some new item of a thief, embezzler, or murderer who was finally tracked down.

We all know this. What we some-

New Cause for Mutiny

(By Harold Weir in the Vancouver Sun)

The story must have been badly told on the press wires. For millions of readers are going to find it hard to believe that 26 future sailors in Her Majesty's Navy actually mutinied and walked off their training ship at Portsmouth because a few girls were aboard.

There may be, there must be, some other explanation for the whole incident. But the way we heard it, 26 boys of 16 and 17 were just up and left and found haven in a Salvation Army hostel when they found a handful of girl Sea Rangers sleeping behind a canvas screen on the deck of their training ship and some of them even running around in their pyjamas, the hussies.

This was their chief complaint. The second complaint was that they got no instruction in—knotting, sailing and navigation.

So there you have it. Twenty-six boys went on strike because there were too many girls and not enough work.

Please pinch me, somebody, so I'll know I'm awake and living in this 20th century when almost every serious-minded gent full of beef and good works spends his spare time worrying off about juvenile delinquency.

One could reconcile this demand for fewer girls and more work with the spirit of young men who had forsaken all to take up the Navy life in a recruiting office, but could even imagine such a thing happening in a school for young morticians who must eschew the appearance of levity and assume a gravity of the most solemn proportions by mommy's sweet sake.

But in the Royal Navy?

Is this the frame of mind that has been built into mighty Spain by the first Elizabeth's day? Read the sea sonnets and plays of that age and figure out what kind of fun those boys could have been found then in all England as walk away from pyjamaed maidens.

Understand, please, that there is no conflict of interest here. I have some virtue The question of virtue and girls aboard Her Majesty's ships Sea Rangers were highly respectable young ladies who were on that training ship at the call of duty. So there's positively no implication of immorality or anything unspeakable like that.

It's just that the thought of 26 red-blooded boys running away from girls in pyjamas comes as a shock. Did they never hear of little walks in the moonlight and the squeezer of hands and the innocent nature of the sea?

And they call this the atomic age.

The terrific impact of this incident on the human mind can be clarified by a knowledge of our more glorious naval traditions. In the face of such an exhibition as this, what becomes of the rollicking tar who was a girl in every port? What becomes of practically all the Illustrator of the sea?

What becomes of the great Nelson tradition? Can anyone imagine Nelson scuttling off the Victory to take refuge in a Salvation Army hostel?

Particularly Nelson. For in Nelson's day naval traditions were carried women on their regular complement. Let no evil-minded person get the idea that Nelson was about it either. The women were there just to darn socks and read the boys to sleep and, mix their grog and make them mind their language.

Women were carried on British warships from the early part of Queen Victoria's reign, when that fat frump ruled the waves. Nowadays to see one of them dodging about a deck at a royal naval review, after the manner of the Duke of Edinburgh's wife, Victoria had a low mind. She went ragging back to Buckingham Palace and, with shaking hand, dashed off an order that henceforth women would keep off her ships.

Twenty-six boys at Portsmouth were perhaps carrying out the Victorian tradition a bit too bligotedly. At any rate it's nice to know that whatever nuclear fission may do to the future, it certainly will never suffer the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah through lack of 26 righteous young men.

Algeria's Growing Pains

(Written by Edmond Delage for the French Information Service)

Algeria is in the public eye. Never before have the representatives of the government and French policy devoted so much time and reflection to it. However complex the problems to be solved are not insoluble with will and goodwill.

The French mind dominates these questions as a whole is the enormous rise in the Moslem Algerian population, so that France, whom some people would accuse of breeding the races under her guardianship, both in Asia and in Africa, is becoming victim of the prodigious progress which has been made possible by her medical science and by her presence and the measures of population, by the peace ensured by her arms. This progress is especially in the matter of hygiene and social organization.

The results of the last census taken in 1954 have not yet been completely established. But if we compare them with the earlier census, Jean Blottiere, of a book recently published on "The Algerian" says Terres Lointaines series, published by Marabout et Colonelats, Paris), he points out that the census figures taken in 1948, we find that at that time the total population of Algeria possessed a population of 8,682,000 inhabitants, showing an increase of 1,500,000 in 6 years, that is, 120,000 per year. But this rate has been considerably increased at an estimated 2.5 percent per year, and it is practically certain that the total population of Algeria is today not less than 10 million. At the rate of increase possible, the population will reach 15 million by 1970.

The distribution of this population depends, as in almost all countries, on the resources it may draw from the soil; and the main sources in North Africa are dependent on climatic conditions and rainfall. Thus we find the population decreasing as we go from the coast to the desert. The density of Constantine that the rainfall is greatest, is the region called Tell. This is therefore the most densely populated. In 1948 it had 1,108,000 inhabitants. The department of Algiers comes next with 1,766,000. The department of Oran comes in the mountainous region of the Tell Atlas, and the further south one's order, the population is barely 2 million.

The basis of native society is the family. The woman is completely subordinate. Above the family exists the clan, then the douar (or village), the tribe and, in some cases, the confederation, a grouping which is the result of ancient or French occupation the population is divided into communities, or ter-tribal wars, famines, epidemics, improvidence and lack of hygiene. It should that the Algerian Musulman population barely increased 1,500,000 in 1914. Increased fourfold between 1872 and 1948.

This massive increases raises difficult problems, not only for every subsistence of the institutions, whereas production of cereals is not forwarded to allow for export, it is hardly sufficient to feed the population. Similarly has time to turn around in figuring out what to do.

WISH HARD ENOUGH!

Many years ago I had as a friend Dion J. Arnold, a great engineer, with a national reputation. He worked his way through college, in Michigan, and he did not forget those days of ambition and struggle. I met him years later on the street in New York and congratulated him on the notable success he had achieved. "Well, I'll be told me, was that when he wished hard enough. Neither he had that it "hurt!"

Things happen to people who wish hard enough. I believe that they own stimulated energy—energy that fills them with desire and makes them wish for things that seem beyond their reach—but not their possibility! Wishes hard enough brings notable events in one's life into full bloom. People who without a wishing desire have no idea how thrilling it can be.

I recently read in August Reader's Digest a most interesting article by Cecile Lindsay Cook. Nothing could be more tragic than her childhood days, but she de-

I have been reading and profiting by your articles for a long time. If anything new comes out I wait for your comment on it. If you say it is not good, I feel that you save me a lot of time.

Yahbut . . .

I started taking vitamins 25 years ago, as you suggested, and I never knew what it was to feel as well before — vite, you call it.

Last winter I broke my heel and had my leg in a cast for 6 weeks. Incidentally I am 63, my hair has been white over thirty years, I have had store teeth about the same length of time and I have worn bifocals for nearly thirty years.

Walk a minute! There's nothing tragic about a woman at her peak having a white hair — after all, isn't that the type of beauty the peroxide users strive so vainly to imitate?

But store teeth at 33? The very thought of it appalls me, Ma'am. No only is the loss of one's teeth at such a tender age deplorable but your casual reference to it does me great chagrin, for I am an inveterate reader of better than average intelligence and not barred even for the first lesson in the way of health — I wonder whether it Pretty games, eh? Well, that's interesting, but those artificial teeth still hurt my pride.

For perfect healing of the fracture I give the credit to calcium and "D" which you suggested as part of my daily regimen (Ray-D).

After a lapse of 14½ years I had another child (8½ pounds, the heaviest of four). I had had two major operations in the meantime too. In spite of all those indications of age, I got along the best of any time during pregnancy — no swelling of feet, very little heartburn, the minimum of discomfort, and the quickest recovery of vigor of any of the four. And why? Because I was in better physical condition due to better nutrition. And so I say again God bless you, Dr. Brady.

Very sincerely,

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In very large areas of Canada and the United States, the motor car has lately become a place of efficiency and is now on the down grade. It is not quite as it used to be, that it may be some years yet before the public discovers how completely unsatisfactory the motor car has become as a means of transportation. The industry probably has time to turn around in figuring out what to do.

With very minor exceptions, the new model cars are identical, in all important respects, with the cars manufactured ten or even fifteen years ago, when the Fords, in fact, efficient because there was room for them. The manufacturers are going right ahead producing big, fast cars that were ideal some years ago when traffic was light, parking space ample and highways had no congestion. The new model cars are still ideal on the Saskatchewan prairies, and for remote districts in other provinces where people living in small towns and villages off the beaten path find that they handle motoring quite place to place comfortably and fast, and the vision of parking does not appear as a problem. As for farmers, the modern cars are for efficient, because they are too low slung to operate effectively on muddy roads and deep snow. But the industry, can't be bothered taking such questions into consideration because they are not vital to the past. It is still bewitched by the vision of long, lovely, streamlined cars with chrome and bewitched spirit, for we see the comic spectacle in the second half of the twentieth century of ten thousand beautiful machines crossing the down-town section of the city in about three hours when it would have taken a horse and buggy.

Eisenhower Has Good Night So New York Stocks Rebound

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market recovered today as news came that President Eisenhower had a good night.

The tape was late with a heavy rush of buying orders to pick up bargains resulting from Monday's tumble, linked directly to Eisenhower's heart attack and uncertainty about the future.

Kennecott Copper gained $2.25, Royal Dutch $1.25, Goodyear $1.25, and General Electric 50 cents—all on substantial opening blocks.

Some stocks continued to lose, however, such as Sears Roebuck, down $1 at the opening.

$13,000,000 WIPED OUT

Monday's washout was calculated to have erased nearly $13,000,000,000 in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York stock exchange.

Two heavy selling waves in Wall street caused leading stocks to decline five to 15 points but a late rally cut extreme losses for most pivotal stocks by about one-third.

Tumbling prices on the Toronto exchange sent the industrial average down more than 17 points and some losses went as high as $10. But here a mild rally was also experienced and some issues closed a bit above their lowest for the day. Total volume on the Toronto exchange for the day was 4,839,000 shares.

Montreal's industrial list, suffering its worst decline since the Korean War, registered losses up to nine points at worst.

HIGHEST IN 22 YEARS

The heavy onslaught of the New York selling waves pushed trading volume for the day to 7,720,000 shares — highest in 22 years.

The tumble sent the Associated Press 60-stock average down $11.40 to $170.10, only the second biggest drop in history. On Oct. 28, 1929, the AP average dropped $15.40 to $109.70. Proportionately, however, Monday's drop was less severe because the average now is so much higher than it was at the time of the big crash.

Cause for the tumble, after a general steep climb in the market for the last two years, was attributed by most to uncertainty only. The current business boom in the U.S. showed no other indications of slowing down but brokers watched developments carefully. They emphasized that there has been no basic change in the economy and noted that there was a buyer Monday for every seller.

STUNGS IT UP

One analyst, Martin Gilbert of Hache and Co., one of Wall street's biggest brokerage houses, perhaps summed up the feeling of many in the street.

"This has been an Eisenhower market," Gilbert said. "It always has been and always will be."

He pointed out that news of a doctor's optimistic report on Eisenhower's condition prompted Monday's rally and said he saw no reason why prices should not resume their upward course if "fairly good news" continues.

OTTAWA COMMENT

At a press conference at Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe was asked for his comment on the plunge. He said the stocks affected were mostly those which had recently climbed rapidly. The drop, he said "doesn't seem too serious."

But U.S. Treasury Secretary Humphrey appeared deeply concerned. He called on experts to get him the latest reports and finally issued a statement from his Washington office to reassure the market.

He said the president's illness was a cause of sadness but not of alarm. U.S. government policies were firmly established and there was no reason to anticipate any change.

Israel Will Reject Truce Chief's Plea

JERUSALEM (AP) — Authoritative sources today said Israel in effect will reject the United Nations truce supervisor's request that she immediately pull her troops out of the 25 Arab demilitarized zone.

Maj-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, head of the UN truce supervision organization, asked both Israel and Egypt Monday night to get their troops out of the area, along the Egypt-Israel border 90 miles south of Gaza.

Israeli sources said their government would inform Burns that Israel would get out of the zone only if Egypt did the same and moved its other obligations under the armistice agreement" for the area.

There was no immediate Egyptian response to Burns' appeal, but the Egyptians previously had said they had no troops in the area.

Typhoon Louise Boils Steadily Toward Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Louise, the year's most violent storm in the Pacific, boiled steadily toward Japan today as air force technicians worked to repair the U. S. base on Iwo Jima, flattened by the storm Sunday.

Air force weather spotters reported the storm, with howling winds from 130 to 170 miles an hour, roaring west-northwest at 14 miles an hour.

One Tu present course, Louise would slam into southern Japan, where much of a bumper rice crop has not been harvested.

Three air force planes took food, mail and equipment to repair shattered buildings on Iwo Jima, a mercy plane Monday found the base under desertion.

However, the 300-man air force and coast guard garrison escaped with minor injuries, the air force said.

Release Father Of Dead Child

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Police Monday night released Fernand Desbien, 28, about 48 hours after his son, Ronald, died en route to hospital.

Desbien was held on a vagrancy charge while police investigated the circumstances surrounding the death of the 11-month-old boy.

The child died Saturday night after what the father describes as injuries received in a fall from a high chair. Desbien was alone in his home with the child at the time.

Coroner C. V. Mills said a brain hemorrhage was the direct cause of the boy's death. He said there were also "numerous bruises" on the body.

Crown attorney Bruce J. S. MacDonald studied reports on the case Monday afternoon and the order to release Desbien came several hours later.

Parry Sound Boy Killed by Blast From Own Gun

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Police said Carl Cochran, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cochran of Parry Sound, died Monday of head injuries suffered from a blast from his own 20-gauge shotgun while duck hunting near Seguin Falls, 12 miles east of here.

Police said Cochran's companion, Lloyd Wiley, 19, also of Parry Sound, told them that Cochran was carrying his own gun when he was shot. They said that although he was within eight feet of Cochran, he did not see what caused the accident.

Seaway Gives Planning Experts Big Opportunity

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence seaway is giving experts an excellent chance for model community planning.

This was a topic for discussion today as an international conference of community planners, with some 1,000 delegates, went into panel discussion on the big project.

It was the third day of joint meetings, bringing together the American Society of Planning Officials and the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Monday, the conference was told that North America's rapid growth demands metropolitan-government in urban districts but the problem remains of how to carry out a satisfactory plan.

FROM MANY POINTS

Observers are attending the five-day meeting from Japan, India, Jamaica, Hawaii, South Africa, Europe and Mexico as well as the United States and Canada.

Besides the metropolitan question, the conference discussed traffic and zoning, with authorities criticizing zoning evidence, particularly in the U.S., where political influence was charged.

F. Houston Wynn, New Haven consulting engineer, said he was surprised to find in a U.S.-Canada survey that Montreal has fewer cars per capita than eight of the 10 largest cities in Canada.

"Perhaps the cultural atmosphere of the French-speaking population has de-emphasized the material importance of car ownership so evident in the rest of Canada and the U.S.," he said.

WINDSOR LEADS

Windsor leads other Canadian cities in the use of cars, while only Quebec City eats Montreal's dust, he said.

Frederick G. Gardiner, Toronto municipal chief, said there is no doubt that metropolitan government will work—Toronto had it for two years." He added, however, that the system would never have succeeded without assistance from the Ontario government.

Carlo governments.

Keith Callard, associate professor in social science at McGill University, said the "sanctity of municipal boundaries must go." Specific districts are to provide proper services to their people.

ETHICS CODE FOR PRES

BOGOTA (AP)—President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla lifted censorship on the Colombian press Friday night, but substituted a government-decreed code of ethics providing fines up to 10,000 pesos ($4,000) or imprisonment up to six months for violations.

Bowling News

The bowling season in this district is fast drawing to a close and the local club has had excellent results both in the district, provincial and national afield. A team of Fred Harper, Jim Hanna, Gordon Edwards and Gerry Hyde and a double pair, Gordon Watkin and Bruce Miller went into the zone finals at Oshawa with Watkin and Miller emerging with the double championship. This ring proceeded to Kitchener and brought home the provincial championship and the red jackets. This was a signal success for the club. The team then went to the Dominion finals sponsored by the G. and W. fires and became runners-up to the winners. There is one more tournament in the district this season, that of the Snowbird Nursery at Kingston next Saturday. On Wednesday triples will be played at Madoc and Belleville.

In a doubles tournament at Stirling on Saturday, Walter Elliott and Bruce Miller won threegame high while the other entry of Claude Tice and "Scotty" Johnston won the first two games and was defeated by Al Newburn and Jack Mallory on the third game, who won the two-game high. A team from Campbellford won the one-game high score. There were only ten rinks in competition due to the threatening weather, but the greens were good and the bowling excellent. The women's section of the club served a dinner at the end of the second game.

The women's section of the local club held their Trading Cup tournament at the greens Thursday with Ella Easton, Aline Patterson, Ruby Bullock and Mrs. Carm Mott as skip, were runners-up, while Mrs. Winnie McKeen, Mrs. Grace Clapp and Mrs. Beryl Vince were in third spot. Some excellent bowling was witnessed during the three games.

The members, both men and women are requested to keep the date of October 8th open for on that evening the annual meetings of both sections will be held and which will be preceded by a banquet. A strong committee has been formed to look after the arrangements and a large turnout is expected. All-the reports will be given at the meetings, which will be held separately, and the officers elected for each group.

Mrs. D-didn't know

When Mrs. Ellis lost her husband, she was faced with so many complex problems she didn't know which way to turn.

Jim had planned the future with her — in conversation — and he had promised: "I'll see that everything is put in writing." There were days of anxiety searching for a Will. No Will was found, and the plans she and her husband had talked about vanished into thin air.

Alarmed, she hurried to Jim's lawyer. He explained: "Your husband left no Will, Mrs. Ellis. Now the Law must take over. The Law is made to meet average situations. It has to be rigid and cannot be varied to meet your wishes, or your needs. I'm afraid that Succession Duties will be substantial, even more than the amount coming from life insurance. It will take very careful planning to safeguard Jim's business while providing for payment of the duties."

Mrs. Ellis bit her lip. "Whatever shall I do?"

"See a Trust Company, Mrs. Ellis. They have facilities and the experience to give you the help you need."

Mrs. Ellis sighed. "I wish I'd insisted on Jim making a Will appointing a Trust Company as Executor. I feel so confused, and helpless."

"Too many men put off making a Will, Mrs. Ellis, until — well, I wish more wives would take an interest in this."

"I understand," said Mrs Ellis. "I just didn't know."

Weddings

WALLACE—TUMMON

Saturday, at 3 p.m., in Armour Heights Presbyterian church, Toronto, Arline E. Tummon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clayton Tummon, Stirling, was united in marriage to Samuel Roe Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wallace, Northern Ireland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a heavy peau de soie gown with a scooped neckline edged with Chantilly lace and sequined appliques. The peau de soie overskirt revealed a bouffant Chantilly front lace opening with appliques in iridescent sequins. The low scooped jacket was highlighted with long fitted sleeves ending in lily points over the hand. A circular pearl crown held her double tulle shoulder veil and she carried a cascade of white bridal flowers of stephanotis, gardenias and lily-of-the-valley and a touch of coral sweetheart.

The maid of honor, Miss Kathrine Clayson, was attired in a waltz-length gown of toast-colored crystaline with a feather hat. The bridesmaids, Misses Sandra Brown and Pohanie Wallace, both of Toronto, were gowned in waltz length shrimp colored dresses with feather hats.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Scott Duncan while the music was supplied by Garth McCreary, Belleville. Best man was Douglas Moncrief while ushers were Daniel Wallace, Toronto, the groom's brother and John Carswell, Belleville.

Following the ceremony the reception was held at the Four Winds Country Club where guests were present from Toronto, Niagara Falls, Belleville and Peterborough.

For the honeymoon trip the bride donned a brown-flecked suit with tan accessories and a corsage of flame-colored Sweetheart's.

On their return the couple will reside in Toronto.

HADDOCK—GLADWELL

Christ Church was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Saturday, when Lorraine Evelyn Gladwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Robert Gladwell was united in marriage to Frank Haddock, Toronto, son of Mrs. Haddock and the late Thomas Kirk Haddock. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan officiated.

The bride was attired in a gown of white slipper satin overlaid with imported hand-embroidered lace, falling into a tulle full cascade skirt and train. A simple neckline and short sleeves added the finishing effect to the lovely ensemble. The bride carried a white prayer book crested with roses and stephanotis.

The bridesmaids were dressed in dark emerald green crystalette gowns of the princess line with empire jackets. Headbands of fresh ivy completed their ensembles.

Matron of honor was Viola Gill, Belleville, attired in shrimp, while the bridesmaid were Barbara Bowden, cousin of the bride, Toronto, and Doreen Haddock, sister of the groom, also of Toronto.

Eight choir boys added to the solemnity of the occasion with their singing of "O Perfect Love" during the opening of the service and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" at the signing of the register.

Groomsman for the ceremony was Jack Haddock, brother of the groom, while ushers were Lloyd Gladwell, brother of the bride from Windsor, and Raymond Hodgson, Toronto.

Following the nuptials, a reception was held at the Club Commodore, where the bride's mother received the guests, attired in beige silk crepe with matching hat and brown accessories. Assisting her the groom's mother was dressed in navy crepe with pink accessories. Both wore corsages of orchids and stephanotis.

Shortly afterwards, the couple left on their honeymoon trip which will take them to Washington and other centres in the U.S. For the trip the bride was attired in a navy suit with pink accessories.

After they return from their honeymoon, the couple will reside in Toronto.

Guests were present for the occasion from Toronto, Windsor, Montreal, Beaconsfield, Quebec; Picton, Ottawa and Kingston.

Debbie Reynolds, Eddie Fisher Exchange Vows

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP)—Singer Eddie Fisher and movie actress Debbie Reynolds were married Monday night in a brief ceremony at this Catskill mountains resort where Eddie embarked on his career to stardom.

Six years ago Eddie was introduced by Eddie Cantor to a night club audience here as a "young man who will be one of the country's most important singers."

Monday night county judge Lawrence Cooke united him with the blonde, diminutive actress in a three-minute ceremony attended only by some 30 relatives and close friends.

DELAYED ANNOUNCEMENT

The definite wedding plans were not announced until Monday afternoon. The announcement was made public last December and a June wedding was forecast. When the wedding did not take place then, Eddie and Debbie said professional engagements had interfered.

The ceremony again was postponed until last night because of Yom Kippur, Jewish day of atonement. Eddie is of the Jewish faith. Debbie is a Protestant.

Cooke, wearing the robes of his office, said:

"Almighty God has blessed you both with great talent. But your richest gift will come from the joys and happiness that will flow from this marriage."

The newlyweds smiled through out most of the ceremony except when they repeated their marital vows.

Eddie kissed his bride with gusto and she gave out a loud sigh. This was the first marriage for both the 26-year-old Eddie and the 23-year-old Debbie.

Woman Wants Pink Automobile Licences

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Licence plates to match your car? Police Sgt. Keith McKay says he's heard everything now.

McKay was on the desk Monday when a worried woman called.

"I've just had my car painted pale pink," she said, "and the yellow numerals on the licence plates clash so badly with the color scheme. It's all right if I paint the tag numbers pink too, isn't it?"

"No, it isn't, ma'am," replied McKay. "That's against the law."

"That's ridiculous," snorted the caller. "I see cars with different-colored plates every day."

She hung up before the officer could suggest that perhaps the other plates were on cars from somewhere else.

Argyll I.O.D.E. Holds Meeting

The Argyll Chapter IODE held its September meeting in the Belleville Armouries recently.

Some 33 members were present for the meeting, opened by the Regent Mrs. Everett Fairman.

A rummage sale to be held in the armouries was discussed while pictures of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were shown to the members before being forwarded to the Quinte Secondary School.

Invitations were extended the chapter to attend a semi-annual meeting of chapter next month in Ottawa and also to take part in a turkey dinner with the Stirling chapter at the end of the month.

Uniondale W.I. Holds Gathering

The September meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Morley Sine, 6th concession of Sidney, with a large attendance.

Mrs. George Striker, secretary-treasurer, reported a good day at Belleville Fair, also a free lunch had been given the crippled children on Uniondale Day.

Discussion on club work decided Wallbridge be paid toward club work. A radio survey was taken under the leadership of Mrs. Ross Fleming. A five-minute talk on the Hand Book was given by Mrs. George Burkitt.

Mrs. C. Herrington introduced Mrs. L. Rogers of Stirling, who is the new district president. She was thanked by Mrs. K. Faul.

A half hour program followed consisting of a recipe for home-made shampoo by Mrs. Morley Sine, a report of the Folks School by Helen Burkitt, piano solo by Mrs. Keith Fox, a display of the exhibit from Peterborough and Belleville fair by Mrs. Frost, which won her first place at both fairs. This was a clothing display for young women. A piano solo by Helen Burkitt and short readings by Mrs. Howard Richards, "Wallen"; Mrs. Frank Lester, "Just as Long"; Mrs. Fred Farmer, "Outdoor Cooking by Barbecue and Open Fire Place."

Fashion Flashes

Such sumptuous clothes as are being shown for evening wear at home! Radio listening was never like this, now that television and record-playing parties are so popular. For such events, one designer has done a long skirt of pale blue-green corduroy embroidered, satin-fashion, with gold elasticized thread. The wide mid-section of the skirt is similarly embellished. With it a shirt of matching honey corduroy with push-up sleeves.

Amusing notion, and one that is useful, too, is a scarf clip, a poodle done in fox, in various shades and tones, with jeweled touches.

Riding high atop the prettiest heads is the beret — in fabric now; in fur later. One designed does a rakish beret of snowy white ermine, pulls it to the side and weights it with a cluster of topazes.

Most appealing is the mother and daughter fashion, the design well adapted to the generation back and white herringbone tweed is used for one such duo. Mother's coat is an officer's coat, double - breasted, boxy, and with a shawl collar of black Persian lamb. Little daughter's coat, also double - breasted, is flared, trimmed in black velvet and lined in corduroy.

Going out, except for the very young and the die-hards, is the bouffant skirt. This is especially so in better price departments and in fine specialty shops. The slim line is most marked in day-time dresses. For evening the percentage of full skirts is slightly higher, but in all categories the slim line far out-distances the full line.

The easy, slim line, set off by big collars, is the world on the defensive for coats, with the tent-type definitely out, just as for fabric coats. In some models the coat can be worn loose or fitted to the torso, with an inner elastic band doing the trick.

Separates make good theatre this season, with many sives showing charming pieces that add up to attractive evening suits. Black velvet is used for a long, easy jacket banded on the stand-away collar and down the front with finely ruffled, narrow grosgrain ribbon. Skirt is slim. With it is a high-necked, camisole-top - over-blouse of the velvet.

We just can't tell whether some blouses are overblouses or tunics, for so many models are getting longer all the time, after having started out as waistlength jackets. Anyway, overblouses are prettier than ever and are available in all sort of materials, including fur.

Back to school clothes are nicer than ever, real morale-boosters! Black Watch chinchilla is liked for coats at the popular price tag level, with overcoats favored, especially the man's type, double-breasted model. Out in the suburbs the station wagon coat does well.

STEPPING OUT AFTER FIVE?

Touches of gold or silver, easily sprayed on, transform a wordaday hairdo into a glamorous coiffure.

Not the least of a working girl's problems is what to do when she receives an unexpected invitation for the evening yet has no time to get home and make the complete change of costume which will transform her from a "career girl" to a "glamour girl." A little forethought and clever management can eliminate such problems, however.

The first thing to do is to be prepared always. Then no invitation, however unexpected, can "throw you." We'll take it for granted that when you go to business in "I, I" morning, you've dressed appropriately. No frills, no fussy clothes, subdued make-up. You're wearing a basic dress or a tailored suit. Your hat is simple and smart, your other accessories equally suitable for a 9-to-5 job.

From this point on, the rest is easy. All you have to do is to keep some little "extras" in your desk drawer or your locker and you'll be set for anything. A good neck jersey blouse or halter, a fur-collared sweater, a flatteringly frilly blouse that's non-crushable will transform your workaday suit into an attractive dinner outfit. A couple of pieces of costume jewelry—a necklace with matching earrings, for instance—will glamorize your basic black!—especially if the jewelry is of the glitter type. A dressy little veil will do wonders for your hat; the high-heeled shoes in your bottom drawer will send you on your way with a buoyant stride.

So all you really have to think about is your make-up and your hair. A cosmetic kit, properly fitted, will do the trick. In it you can keep, besides your brush, comb, powder, rouge and lipstick, some mascara and eyeshadow which, while unsuitable for working hours, are So glamorous for date wear. Add to these items several of the exciting new hair finishes now on the market and you can transform an unruly mop of hair into an alluring coiffure in a matter of minutes. You'll have no time for pin curls, of course, but that doesn't matter. First brush your hair thoroughly to remove any surface dust. Then, if your hair becomes unruly or starts to lost its set, a hair spray in an aerosol can do a wonderful job of getting it back in shape. It will be easy to push the curls and curls in place with your fingers.

Now for the glamour touches! The new hair finishes, that will make your hair literally sparkle all evening, come in compact little packages that fit easily into your beauty kit and are easily applied. To streak or tip your hair with gold or silver, as is fashionable now, another hair cosmetic in an aerosol can comes with a little slotted cardboard shield. Pull wisps of hair through the handy slots in the shield, spray on, and presto, change—you have golden streaks 'n' tips exactly where you want them.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE HAD AN AFFAIR—CAN HE TRUST HER?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

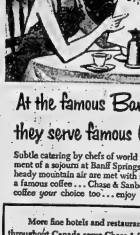
I was married rather young to a man several years older than myself.

When I found out that he was being unfaithful to me, I was going to leave him, but he begged me not to and promised to reform. Because of the children, I did stay, but my love for my husband was killed by what he had done.

Later on, when I found that he was continuing his unfaithfulness, I decided to try the same thing. But after having an affair with one man, I decided that was no good; that if I continued that kind of thing I would eventually ruin my reputation, and that my husband wasn't worth that.

A few years later, I met a man through whom, for the first time, I found out what real love was. So I divorced my husband and married him. He asked me if I had any affairs before my divorce and I told him the truth.

Now I am wondering if I did right to tell him. I can see his point in thinking that if I did a thing like that once, how can he be sure I wouldn't again?



I've tried to convince him that when a woman really loves a man, and is happy with him, she doesn't even give a thought to another man; that any woman who is loved, and knows it, and really loves her in turn, is bound to be a faithful wife. I know a lot of women make the same mistake I did in marrying men they only think they love, and if we all had sense enough to wait for the real thing, and believe me, you know it when you have it, there would not be so many back street affairs.

Can you tell me any way I can convince my husband that I am, and always will be, faithful to him as long as we have the kind of love we have now? — T.H.

Dear T.H.:

Your experience makes very clear the point I try desperately hard to get over to women who write me that they think the only way to handle an unfaithful husband is to "get even" with him by having affairs themselves. It is simply invariable warning to unmarried girls who want to have affairs.

What I am talking about, of course, is your statement that your husband wonders if, having had an extra-marital affair once, you can now be counted trusted never to have another one.

The one-piece dress that manages a two-piece look crops up in every direction, in every store, and at various price levels. This middy type design is in light-weight sheer, brown, with green and blue nubbed flecks. Brown velveteen does the honors for the trim at collar, for the bow and for cuffs. Buttons, as are most of the new frocks, this one is seaming to good advantage through the torso.

For this is the rock on which many a romance has split up, breaking the hearts of girls foolish enough to believe that to have affairs with men they thought they loved was the sures way to "prove" their love and make certain of marriage.

It is greatly in your favor, and certainly increases your chances of building up your husband's confidence in you, that you are mature enough, and intelligent enough, to understand how he feels. And I think your wisest course of action is, not to keep arguing the question with him, but simply to say that you know actions speak louder than words, and that you are sure it will be evident to him, as your life together goes on, that he is the only man in your life, and that he need have no fear of anybody ever taking his place in your heart. No doubt you have told him, as you have told me, that you can understand the fears and doubts he might have, and this alone should go far toward giving him confidence in you. Your courage and honesty in telling him about the affair in the first place, instead of trying to conceal it, should add to that confidence.

So if, from now on, everything you do is a living demonstration of your devotion to him, all should be well. Personally, I have faith in you, and believe it will be.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"NO PRESENTS, PLEASE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is there any way for us to celebrate our Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary without having the occasion seem like a bid for gifts? Our anniversary date is in several weeks, when it will be too cool to have the party in our garden. We have a small house, with a small living room that seats eight people comfortably. Can you suggest something simple we could do, inviting our closest friends to help us celebrate the day? But no gifts.

Also, my husband's parents will have their 50th Wedding Anniversary in a very few weeks after we have ours. They live in a trailer in the country. To be invited would be 35 people, their children and grandchildren. How could we go about celebrating for them?

In both cases our biggest problem is having the guests not bring gifts. — M.

Let's first face the problem that seems biggest to you: asking the guests not to bring presents. Since you (and apparently your husband's parents too) feel so strongly about this, approach it straightforwardly and as graciously as possible . . . today so many people do this by telephone or write notes of invitation, it's easy to say, "We want us very much to have you both with us on this important day of ours . . . but please, please don't bring presents." And if you write cards of invitation, you may write "Please, no presents' or "No presents, please" in the lower left corner.

Buffet service would be, I should think, the answer to giving both anniversary parties. A few simple, delicious foods with the merry, informal serve-yourself idea. Fear — a fine anniversary cake . . . you and your husband to make an important ceremony of your cutting the first slice of the cake and sharing it with each other, while the guests gather round and sing "The Bride Cut the Cake" (to "The Farmer in the Dell.")

The same general plan for the Golden Wedding Anniversary party of your husband's parents. Since of course grandchildren are to be invited, consider having the party on either the Saturday or Sunday of the actual date, a day probably more convenient for all. I can't help saying that I do hope the devoted guests at the Golden Wedding party won't feel too disappointed if you don't bring a present to this so-important occasion.

party is holding an Open House for them. She thinks that instead of each guest bringing an individual present of silver, it would be much wiser to give them a set of flat silver, which they need. She has asked me to make the money-collection for this. The guests of honor are modest people, and the guests will range from two or three people living on small pensions to extremely well-to-do farmers. Would it be completely out of order for me to include a note in each invitation? Should I take the guest list and write to each one? I'd prefer, of course, having the guests will not be known to me, personally? — A

I I would, I think, make your money-collecting assignment easier for you if you telephone each guest to explain about the plan . . . and the fact that you do not know some of the guests whom you'll be telephoning makes no difference whatever. I suggest too it might be kindly considerate" if you and the prospective hostess consult together as to what would be a modest sum to suggest to the no-so-well-to-do guests as their contribution. For example, "Would you like to contribute one or two dollars, say,

A chic example is this clever model inspired by the designer's recent trip to the Orient. It is called "Rice Bowl," not because it has that shape, but because the headgear influenced the delicate motif and is a very pale beige that will go with almost any costume.

TO OPEN HOUSEWARMING GIFTS WHEN PRESENTED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are now telling 12 couples to our housewarming which we are giving soon. Do we open the gifts as they are handed to me? — M.M.

If it is convenient (and with this number of guests I believe it will be), this is the most gracious thing to do. Shows an alert and warm enthusiasm for the friendliness and the generous gesture.

Crabapples—Spiced And Jellied

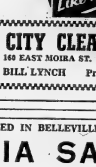
By Mary Moore

Something went wrong with the oil pressure in the car and the garageman told me I had "sludge in my breather". Later when we were having dinner at my brother's house he said the "grummets were gone" in his car. Then Dora (Bev's nickname for her grandmother) came along very indignant over some unruly boys which she called "counternatious ratchets". Is it any wonder I'm rattled, what with sludge in my breather and my brother with grummets under his bonnet and the woods full of ratchos?

To keep the plague out I shut all of the windows and doors and decided to do a little preserving—me included.

The mother of Peter van Nostrand (a medical student buddy of my Pete's) had sent me a basket of crabapples from their farm so I tipped the whole basket into the sink and hove to.

SPICED CRABAPPLES



Wash 8 lbs. sound crabapples, leave on stems, but with point of paring knife cut out blossom-ends. Make a syrup of 8 1-2 cups granulated sugar, 4 cups vinegar, 2 cups water, 2 3-inch sticks of cinnamon, 2 tablespoons each whole cloves and whole allspice. Tie spices in muslin bag loosely and add them to the sugar, vinegar, water mixture and bring to a boiling and boil five minutes. Add the prepared crabapples and boil ten minutes. Remove from heat and allow to stand covered overnight. Pour off the syrup, remove spice bag and pack crabapples immediately into hot sterile jars. Bring syrup to boiling point—pour over fruit to completely fill jars and seal at once. These amounts make about five pints. The skin on most crabapples was so red the finished products looks as if I had added red coloring.

Firm, sound crabapples (firm slightly underripe tart ples) make excellent jelly wi added pectin for they have p of their own.) (See below i want to use pectin.) Egypt Accepts Russian Offer To Supply Arms

LONDON (AP) — Egypt has informed Britain that she has accepted a Russian offer to supply her with arms and military equipment, the foreign office said today.

Foreign Secretary Macmillan will discuss the development with State Secretary Dulles during their meetings in New York, a spokesman told the daily foreign office press conference.

The United States, Britain and France are bound under a 1950 declaration to maintain the military balance of power—and to prevent an outright arms race—between the Arab countries of the Middle East and the state of Israel.

GIVES NO DETAILS

The foreign office spokesman said in answer to a question:

"Our ambassador we told by the Egyptian government Monday night that it has accepted the Russian offer to supply arms.

"The secretary of state (Macmillan) will discuss both the Russian offer and the Egyptian acceptance of it with the American secretary of state in New York."

The spokesman said he could not give details of the precise nature of Russia's offer, nor of the arrangement which Egypt has accepted.

The foreign office disclosure came only 24 hours after the state department in Washington had confirmed that the U.S. had agreed to sell weapons to the Egyptians. The state department said that agreements for arms aid by Middle Eastern countries are "solely for the purpose of equipping these countries to maintain internal security and to defend themselves against aggression."

Times Editorial Says Meeting Was Overdue

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says Monday's meeting of the United States-Canada committee on trade and economic affairs was overdue.

Commenting on the meeting of eight U.S and Canadian cabinet ministers at Ottawa, a Times editorial notes that 18 months have passed since the first meeting of the group, although, when it was formed in November, 1953, it was designed to meet "once a year, or more often."

The Times observes that a gathering of the U.S secretaries of state, treasury, agriculture and commerce and the Canadian ministers of external affairs, finance, agriculture and trade is "as close to a joint meeting 'at the summit' as you can get without the presence of the American president and the Canadian prime minister."

"Economically and strategically Canada is literally vital to our prosperity and security," the editorial says.

There would be less occasion for complaints, the editorial concludes if the joint committee met more often, affording an opportunity for plain speaking on both sides.

NOT OPTIMISTIC ON IWA

While he was sure the conference talks will bear fruit, Mr. Howe was none too optimistic on the future of the International Wheat Agreement, which also was discussed, along with U.S. legislation on import curbs, potato trade, and American customs simplification plans.

The current three-year, 47-country wheat pact expires next July. Mr. Howe indicated that whether Canada enters a new agreement will depend on the U.S. and British. The countries open preliminary negotiations in Geneva next month.

Mr. Howe said he thought U.S. Agriculture Secretary Benson was friendly toward a new pact, but Mr. Benson told a reporter the U.S. has not made up its mind. He observed that there was a lot of sentiment in the U.S. against the arrangement but intimated he would be more favorably inclined if Britain agreed to join. Britain, the world's biggest wheat buyer, walked out of the pact over a price squabble in 1953.

RESTRICTIVE LEGISLATION

Mr. Howe said Canadians raised the issue of the U.S. legislation empowering the president to restrict imports if they interfere with national security.

He said the Canadian ministers received no assurances on how the legislation will be used. Neither did the Canadians get any assurances as to whether a bill to simplify U.S. customs procedure will get through Congress.

When the U.S. party arrived in New York later Monday night, Mr. Dulles said they had "a very good meeting and a very good agreement." Mr. Benson, who described the talks as "friendly and constructive," said "we agreed there is a need for working closely together."

"In the interests of stable wheat markets we'll continue working together," he added.

Mine Workers Will Sever Ties With Congress

HALIFAX (CP)—The Chronicle Herald quotes an official of the United Mine Workers of America as saying the union has no intention of paying its per capita membership tax to the Canadian Congress of Labor.

If the decision sticks, it means that UMW locals in Canada will be unable to attend the CCL convention in Toronto Oct. 10.

The newspaper says John Owens, international secretary-treasurer of the UMW, made the statement in a telephone interview from Washington. It quotes Mr. Owens as saying it was "okay" to quote him as laying down union policy in the matter.

UNION MEN SURPRISED

It was the first official statement from the coal union on its stand regarding the Canadian labor organization. It came as a surprise to union leaders in Nova Scotia's Cape Breton industrial belt, who feared such a move would spell the doom of the Nova Scotia Federation of Labor and the Cape Breton Labor Council. And the end of the UMW's District 26 association with the CCL.

The two Nova Scotia labor bodies are affiliated with the CCL although the UMW, headed by John L. Lewis, is an independent union in the United States. Under CCL rules, its failure to pay the membership tax would bar union delegates from attending the 1955 CCL convention.

This is the meeting that will discuss merger of the CCL and the Trades and Labor Congress.

The UMW has been prominent in affairs of the congress and under the CCL constitution is entitled to about 40 delegates at the convention.

Tourist Assoc. Wants Wider Tax Concessions

STE. ADELE, Que. (CP)—The Canadian Tourist Association decided Monday to ask the federal government for wider tax concessions for Canadians and United States tourists travelling in Canada.

Delegates to the association's annual meeting at this Laurentian resort town agreed to present at brief to the royal commission now investigating Canada's economic situation to outline their views.

Tax concessions would promote more spending in Canada, they said, and might resolve the present situation where Canadian tourists spend more money in the U. S. than American visitors to Canada.

His statement made no direct reference to his son, Jean-Paul.

Conservative leader George Drew in Prince George, B.C., kept in telephone contact with party headquarters here. William Rowe, the party's national organizer, quoted Drew as saying he was overjoyed and that it was "a tremendous victory in many ways".

It is previous by-elections in the life of the present Parliament there was one Social Credit win, when CCF won Selkirk, Manitoba, from the Liberals last Nov. 8. Liberals retained six other constituencies—all but one with increased majorities. Conservatives retained three and Social Credit one.

ENJOYS EDGE

When vote counting ended Monday night, with 30 of 132 polls still to report, Mr. Van Horne had 11,178 votes—an edge of 1,391 over the 9,385 total for Liberal John Bugold, 49-year-old Campbellton lawyer who had received heavy support from federal cabinet ministers in his campaign. An Independent Social Credit candidate, Frederick L. Prickett, 63, was trailing with 601 and lost his deposit.

Restigouche - Madawaska had elected Liberals since 1933 and two years ago gave the late J. G. Boucher, Liberal, a margin of 5,542. The vote then: Mr. Boucher, 13,266; Dillon Arsenault, Progressive Conservative, 7,724; Paul Dube, Independent Liberal, 4,317; O. R. Cole, CCF, 1,187.

Monday's result recalled the 1952 provincial general election when Restigouche and Madawaska each elected three Conservatives to the legislature, upsetting Liberals.

FATHER-SON COMBINATION

Jean-Paul St. Laurent's win in Temiscamata, which has been Liberal since 1896, creates the Commons' first prime minister-and-son combination since 1896.

In that year Sir Charles Tupper, Conservative prime minister for 69 days, headed a cabinet which included his son, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, as justice minister.

Then in 1891 Hugh John Macdonald entered the Commons little more than a month before the death in office of his father, Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister.

Jean-Paul St. Laurent led by 3,999 votes over Progressive Conservative Jean-Paul Berube, 35-year-old former crown attorney at counting ended Monday night with only two of 121 polls still to be heard from. The count then was 12,063 for Mr. St. Laurent and 8,064 for Mr. Berube.

The margin was only 52 short of the plurality won in 1953 by Jean-Francois Pouliot, Liberal holder of the riding for 31 years before he was named a senator. The 1953 vote was: Mr. Pouliot, 19,670; Antoine Frechette, Progressive Conservative, 6,624; J. A. P. Gravel, Independent Liberal, 1,152.

CLOSEST FOR PCs

In Bellechasse, the announced Liberal majority of just 600 was the closest Conservatives have come since 1911, when they won the riding.

Conservative Jules Pare, 35-year-old lawyer, actually led in early counting. But 3½ hours after polls closed the returning officer announced that, Mr. Laflamme, 28-year-old lawyer from Quebec City, had won.

The returning officer said he was basing his verdict on figures he had received and on returns telephoned to Liberal campaign headquarters at St. Charles, Que. He said he did not understand how the returns had gone to the Liberal office.

Bellechasse's former Liberal member, Philippe Picard, had been returned since 1940—the last time with 7,124 votes compared with 4,866 for J. E. Roy, Progressive Conservative.

Frank Power, winner in Quebec South, had a plurality of 2,798 over Jean Tasse, Conservative, a 45-year-old engineer. The edge compares with the 12,367-vote lead given his father, in 1953.

Mr. Power, 37-year-old lawyer in his father's Quebec City firm, has also been his father's political lieutenant since 1949 but was making his first bid as a candidate himself.

He was among members of the Royal Rifles of Canada captured by the Japanese at Hong Kong at

Audio-Relay System Goes Into Operation

TORONTO (CP)—Audiences in at least three other Ontario cities will hear the Billy Graham greater Toronto crusade when a special audio-relay system goes into operation next week.

Crusade officials said the system, used effectively in Graham's Scotland and London crusades, will take the evangelist's voice to Streetsville, Brampton and Kingston during his nightly 8 to 9:15 p.m. meetings in the Canadian National Exhibition coliseum.

London, Ont., also is reported to be interested in making use of the plan. About 700 persons will hear the broadcast at Stratford, 1,000 at Owen Sound and 1,200 at Kingston.

The system is being used on a two-night trial basis.

Beginning next week, the crusade's Toronto audience will be increased when a special closed-circuit television hookup will permit an audience to hear Graham from an adjacent CNE building.

MEET THE COACH

If a wealthy, healthy experience in playing, coaching, refereeing and a general all-around know-how of hockey are adequate assurance then the Belleville TPT management made a ten-strike in naming the services of Danny Cox as coach of the 1955 edition of the senior "B" entry.

Even that estimable judge of men and athletes, Mr. M. J. Rodden of Kingston, east 'o here, put the stamp of approval on Danny. Some months ago, shortly after Danny's arrival in the city, Michael J. in one of his correct prognostications, predicted that Danny would be the coach, adding "He would be a fine addition to the Memos' master-minding brigade."

As a matter of fact Don Miguel signed Danny to his first professional contract with the Toronto St. Patricks. Says Mike: "He was the kind of player any coach would be proud to have on his team and was a top referee and a coach, too."

Danny told this department that he was a little hesitant in accepting the coaching job of the TPTs. "I am a little rusty," he said, "but I am willing to do all I can to help bring hockey honors to Belleville. The boys are to be commended for their stand in maintaining senior "B" hockey in the city. They deserve a lot of credit and all the support that is possible."

While Danny, as he says, might be a little "rustry", it takes a long span of years to wipe out the experience and knowledge gained in an ice-lane campaign such as Danny possesses. He is not out of official harness a scant three years, as a referee-in-chief, that is, so it is obvious that the new coach has been keeping a lively finger on the changing vagaries of the sport.

It was perhaps a good thing that no "Spud Islanders" were in the stands when we asked Danny where he was born. He smiled almost out loud and came back with "the biggest little island in Canada. That was a poser, at least for us, but we eventually deduced he meant Manitoulin Island. To be specific, Danny first saw the light of day in a place called Little Current.

Danny was recently transferred to Belleville as assistant district manager of Brewers' Warehousing Company and has purchased a home in the city. He came here from Sudbury.

Danny is one of those rare ice-lane notables who starred in practically every phase of hockey: player, coach, referee, he came up with efforts that earned the respect and esteem of his puck-chasing fellows.

Briefly, Danny left his beloved island when a youngster, winning his first hockey spurs with the Port Arthur Juniors when 17, moving up to the senior Bearcats before he was 21, and helped them to two Allan Cups.

In 1926 came his big moment . . . when he signed with Toronto St. Pats, from which team sprang the present Toronto Maple Leafs. He played in a two-game quintet until '29 when Connie Smythe sent him to Ottawa in the big deal for Frank Nighbor. From the Capital City, Danny went on loan to Detroit and Wings, then back to Ottawa. From there it was New York Ranger chain, with a year in the Big Town, thence to Minneapolis as coach, and on to Philadelphia Ramblers as playing captain. A jaunt out West saw him with the Seattle club and in '39 to Kansas City, thence to Seattle and back to Philly again.

But the old gent with the scythe began to breathe down Danny's neck. He had been working off-seasons at Brewers' Retail Store at the Lakehead, first with its manager, J. J. Aitken, and with the company take-over under District Manager W. J. Riddell. In '52 he became group stores manager, and was later transferred to Sudbury as A/D/M, moving to Belleville in January.

While at the Lakehead he was appointed referee-in-chief of the Thunder Bay Amateur Hockey Association, a job he held for six years and officiated in two Allan Cup series as well as two Memorial Cup finals. So you see he never lost his love for the game.

Mrs. Cox is the former Ella Wilson, a native of Aberdeen, Scotland. Daughter Helen is a chartered accountant, while young "Danny-boy" Cox is a flourishing replica of the "old man," at something over six years of age.

EIGHT IN A FILE

It might not be the Third World War, but it has the earmarks of a reasonable facsimile of a rasslin' miniature of it. For no less than six, count 'em, pachyderms will meet in combat at Memorial Arena's wrestling wind-up Friday night. And standing by ready to toss their pinkies will be a pair of referees. Yassuh, the two Vons, aided by Irisher Tommy O'Toole, clash with Fred Atkins and Doug Hepburn and that promising young man from Quebec, Lionel Baillargeon. It should be a whirlwind. You know what kind of didoes six of 'em cut up last Friday. And in addition there's another main attraction, the Battle of the Pals. Joe Fraley will tangle with amateur Fanagan in an hour-limit two-of-three fall embroglio. That's all there is. Should be aplenty.

FIGHT PICTURES

The screen version of the Marciano-Moore heavyweight fight left no doubt in this observer's onipon as to who was, and will remain, the champion. It was, while it lasted, an action-packed ring drama, one that made one wonder in several of the rounds just what caused Moore to remain upright. The devastating non-stop fury of the champion is clearly pictured while an aged boxing craftsman is shown gamely trying to stave off the inevitable. It is one of the best fight pictures seen here in a long time and boxing fans should not miss it. The film is being shown at the McCarthy tonight and at tomorrow's matinee and evening shows. Don't pass it up.

BEATS PHILADELPHIAN

HALIFAX (CP)—Richard (Kid) Howard of Halifax scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Basil Marie of Philadelphia in the feature bout of Monday night's boxing card here.

Howard, Canadian lightweight champion, showed the slashing attack that carried him to the Canadian title as he got the nod from the referee and two judges in all but two rounds.

Howard weighed 140, Marie 140½.

WINS DECISION

Rivers weighed 155¾, Dawson 153½.

There were no knockdowns although Rivers shook up Dawson several times.

Reported to Be in Top Shape With Exception of Mantle; Alston Confident, Unperturbed

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Even though manager Casey Stengel doesn't know who is going to play, his New York Yankees today remained steady 12-10 favorites to win the world series from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The first game is scheduled for the Yankee Stadium at 12 noon, EST, Wednesday, and Stengel may not decide on his lineup until 11.30.

"I don't know what my infield or my outfield is going to be," moaned Stengel, "and I won't know until just before the game. All I know is that I have a couple of starting pitchers ready—Whitey Ford for the first game and Tommy Byrne for the second."

The forecast is for rain all day Wednesday, and possibly Thursday too. If the opener is postponed, the elements would work in favor of the Yanks because Mickey Mantle's ailing leg would have additional time to heal.

At the moment, Mantle, the Yanks' leading batter and home run hitter, is far from optimistic. In fact, if the first game goes on as scheduled, he probably won't start.

HASN'T TRIED IT

"It feels better," said Mantle, "but I still haven't tried to put any pressure on it."

If Mantle is unable to make it, Irv Noren probably will move from left field to center field, Bob Cerv or Elston Howard then probably would move to left field.

Except for Mantle, the Yanks are in fine shape. Stengel's only other doubtful spot is shortstop where it's a tossup between Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman. Yogi Berra will catch, Joe Collins play first base, Billy Martin, his army leave has been extended, second, Gil McDougall third and Hank Bauer right field.

Brooklyn manager Walt Alston, as usual, has been going about his job in strictly a businesslike manner—no fuss, no indecision, no turmoil. Long since he had decided on his series lineup and for the next 24 hours he was ready to hope his men stay in top shape.

FURILLO HAS COLD

Right fielder Carl Furillo has a cold, but he's reported he's expected to be ready for action.

Alston met Monday with his board of strategy to talk over the Yanks' weaknesses and reported he was "very pleased" with the conference.

In answer to an observation by a reporter that he must have had some trouble keeping his clubup" for almost a month — he Brooks clinched the National League pennant on Sept. 8 — Alston replied:

"No major league ball player has to get 'up' for a world series. They all know this is what they've been fighting all year and they are not going to stop now."

Alston also asked if the scouting reports of Al Campanis, who has been hounding the Yanks for some time, were encouraging or discouraging.

DID GOOD JOB

"Neither," he answered, "but I'm satisfied our scouts did a good job and it won't be their fault if they don't win. The theory of pitching to hitters is one thing and executing it is another. Our job is to capitalize on what the scouts found out."

Perhaps the only big question mark on the Dodgers is their pitching staff. Big Don Newcombe, who goes in the opener, is the only flinger on whom Alston could count on day in and day out through the regular season.

When the others—Carl Erskine, Johnny Podres, Karl Spooner, Billy Loes and Clem Labine — are right, they're hard to beat. But they've all had miseries of one sort or another recently.

Two other factors that probably make the professional oddsmakers lean toward the Yanks are 1, Brook left fielder Junior Gilliam never has played the shadowy garden in the Yankee Stadium and 2, the Brooks' right-handed power hitters may have trouble getting the range of the spacious left field bleachers in the stadium.

The Dodgers' line-up, in addition to Furillo, Gilliam and Newcombe, will have Roy Campanella behind the plate, Gil Hodges at first base, Don Zimmer at second base, Pee Wee Reese at shortstop, Jackie Robinson at third base and Duke Snider in center field.

After Newcombe, Alston probably will start Loes in the second game, and follow with Erskine for the third game, Podres or Spooner for the fourth and come back with Newcombe for the fifth.

After Byrne in the second game, Stengel probably will send Bob Grim against the Brooks in the third game, then Bob Turley in No. 4 and Don Larsen in No. 5.

This will be the Dodgers' eighth time in the series and they never have won one. The Yanks had won five straight under Stengel until the Cleveland Indians broke the pennant-winning streak last year.

A sellout crowd of about 70,000 is expected at the stadium for the opener. All reserved seats in his section have been sold, but 14,000 bleacher seats at $2.10 each and standing room in the grandstand at $4.20 per copy will go on sale the day of the game at 9 a.m. EST.

The series will be televised by NBC and broadcast by Mutual.

GARDENS' OPEN HOUSE

TORONTO (CP) — Maple Leaf Gardens, home of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, will celebrate its 25th anniversary Oct. 5 with open house—the first time the public has been able to inspect the arena from top to bottom.

On view will be four escalators, constructed this summer at a cost of $200,000. They will carry patrons to and from the first-level luxury seat sections. From there, stairs lead to the higher levels.

Leafs Send Seven to 'Peg

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Hap Day, general manager of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, said Monday seven Leaf-owned players will report to Winnipeg Warriors, new entry in the Western Hockey League.

The much-publicized line of Barry and Brian Cullen and Hugh Barlow, which sparked St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League to the Memorial Cup in 1953-54, will be among those going to Winnipeg for the 1955-56 season.

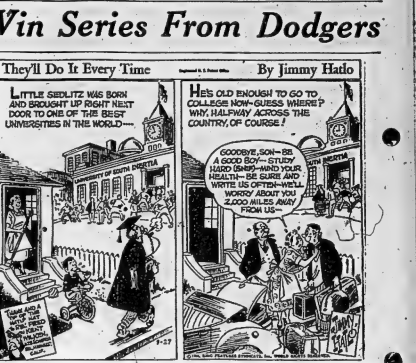
Barlow and Brian Cullen were with the American League Pittsburgh Hornets, Leafs' farm team, for most of last season. Brian also saw considerable action with Leafs. Barry played with Teepees last year.

Ed Chadwick goalie for Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association last season, Mike Nykoluk and Gary Aldercorn, graduates from Toronto Marlboros of the junior ranks and Bill Bureea, defenceman with Hornets in 1954-55, will also leave for Winnipeg.

Players Ask Rules Changes

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball players' representatives asked their owners Monday for improvements in rules involving bonus players, winter baseball and pension monies.

Meeting with their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, the players drew up the following resolutions:



1. That each major league squad be limited to two bonus players and these not be included in the regular 25-player limit.

2. That players be given a chance to deal directly with the South American and Cuban winter leagues instead of the negotiations having to go through the owners.

3. That service in the armed forces be counted in the players' favor for pension purposes.

4. That the owners be forced to consult with player representatives before completing deals for radio and television for the world series and all-star games. This is now handled by the commissioner's office.

Lane May Go To Pittsburgh

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Lane Monday aimed some criticism at baseball's National League circuit over the Pittsburgh Baseball Club to lend support to speculation that he will be named the Pirates' boss.

The dynamic 39-year-old executive, whose resignation as general manager of Chicago White Sox is effective Oct. 15, may have lopped his hand at out joining the Bucs during a question-answer series as guest speaker at the Chicago American quarterback luncheon.

"The trouble in Pittsburgh," said Lane, "is that they have been charging major league prices for minor league baseball. . . I understand the Pirates have lost $2,000,000 in the last five years. . . .

"No one officially has talked to me about going to Pittsburgh, or to the St. Louis Cardinals, or anywhere. But it is well known that I have been a close friend of Mr. Galbreath (Pirate president John Galbreath) for years.

"Maybe, in two or three weeks I'll get a job. Right now I'm going to leave for the world series."

Eskys Twist Lions' Tail 15-0 For Tenth Straight Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos, 1954 Canadian football champions, have made sure of a berth in the 1955 Western Conference playoffs.

The split-T Esks, coached by Frank Pop Ivy, gagged their 10th straight win this season in the Western Interprovincial Football Union by trouncing British Columbia Lions 15-0 Monday night at Vancouver.

Edmonton could lose its six remaining games in the 16-game regular schedule and still grab the third and last playoff spot ahead of Winnipeg and Calgary. Winnipeg, in fourth place now, already has suffered seven losses and the last-place Stampeders have lost 8 times.

Edmonton's victory boosted their unbeaten streak to 15. In addition to winning all 10 league starts this season, Esks won the WIFU playoff first game last season, defeated Kitchener — Waterloo in the Dominion semi-final, edged Montreal in the Grey Cup game and started off the 1955 season by defeating Big Four teams in two pre-season exhibition games.

Lions' loss prevented the B. C. team from going into a second-place tie with the idle Saskatchewan Roughriders.

At Winnipeg, quarterback Buddy Leake counted 15 points for Bombers, carrying the ball for a touchdown and kicking two field goals, three converts and a single.

The other Winnipeg scorers were fullback Lorne Benson and halfback Leo Lewis, each with a touchdown.

Calgary's touchdown was scored by halfback Bob Meyers and the convert was kicked by end Tom Miner.

Edmonton point - getters were fullback Normie Kwong and quarterback Jackie Parker, with fourdowns and tackle Bob Dean with a field goal and two converts.

Thoroughbreds Leave Old Woodbine Close Continental Era of Racing

TORONTO (CP) — The thoroughbreds leave old Woodbine today.

Canada's oldest race track closes ending an historic era of racing in North America, a period created by traditions and prestige at the track ends with the running of the fourth race.

The Ontario Jockey Club is moving to a new multi - million dollar plant—one of the classiest on the continent—near Malton airport, 18 miles northwest of here.

It will leave behind what has been known as the Ascot and Churchill Downs of Canada. For 73 years it was the site of the $20,000-added Queen's Plate, the oldest continually-run event in North America.

To mark the closing today, the public was admitted free.

The move, the umid threats of expropriations, and discussions between politicians and town planners which have been going on for years.

The future of the picturesque lakefront property is not certain. The only sure thing is that harness trots will continue at the east end track on a half-mile oval and the OJC will consider "any reasonable offer that comes along".

The city has expropriated nearly three of the track's 80 acres to provide an extension to Toronto's lakefront throughway. Other plans call for housing developments and preservation as a park.

While planning continues and contractors worked to keep construction on the new track on schedule for next spring's opening, many veteran horsemen remained philosophic to be brief. Right into nostalgia.

Remember the day Horometer won the plate here," said Col. R. S. McLaughlin, owner of Parkwood Stables and president of the Jockey Club and chairman of General Motors corporation of Canada.

He added, Col. McLaughlin said:

"Ah yes, Horometer was the sweetest horse I ever owned, and he was a champion. He won a lot of them. He was what I called a real honest to God horse. By comparison, Kingarvie, a fine horse too, was full of the devil. I remember one day Horometer got beaten too—by Crofter. That was the only time he ever lost. It was a disappointment, but you expect disappointments in racing."

The track this year saw the 86th running of the Queen's Plate. The only other big meeting to be held on a race in Canada sat in Woodbine's Jewelers Ball in 1939 when King George VI and Queen Elizabeth saw the 50 Guineas won by Archworth, owned by the late George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Brooklin Trims Madoc 16-5 To Even Series

MADOC — Aided by eight Madoc errors, Brooklin trounced Madoc Juveniles 16-5 here on Saturday night to even their two-of-three OASA Juvenile "C" series at one game each. The third, and deciding fixture will be played in Peterborough some time this week.

The homesters took a one-run lead in the first inning with Tufts' single and Johnson driving him in with a double. They added two more in the third on Batemans's single and Johnson's homer. Johnson also drove in Burnside in the fifth with his third successful two-bagger to be counted for the final marker in the eighth.

Brooklin had a big fourth frame, plating eight aides on five hits, two errors and two walks. Pascoe's double was the big blow.

Pascoe hurled for the victors, allowing eight hits, fanning 10 and pasting Wayne Bateman, went the route in defeat, surrendering 16 safeties while whiffing six and walking three.

W. Redshaw paced the winners' attack with a home run, double and two singles, while K. Carson gathered a trio of singles and Pascoe tripled and doubled. Johnson was top for Madoc with a homer, double and single to drive in four runs. K. Bateman claimed two hits with one each for Tufts, Burnside and Devolin.

King Krol Returns to Argos Strictly in Kick Capacity

TORONTO (CP) — King Krol has returned to Toronto Argonauts. He'll be strictly a kicker this time.

Argonauts, loaded with high-priced American imports but a tilted-run team in punting, Monday called on the foot of Joe Krol, one of Canada's all-time football greats to pull them out of a jam.

Joe, a 35-year-old father of two boys, comes out of retirement to take the job in the Big Four Football Union. He retired in 1953 because of a knee injury.

"A mutual friend of myself and Harry Sonshine suggested I call Harry," said Joe. Sonshine, team manager of Argos, said he was going to call Krol but that Krol reached him first.

HAD BEEN GOOD

Alex Poniatowich has been doing most of the punting this season but his results have been poor. In 26 punts he averaged 33 yards.

At practice Monday, Krol was booming the ball between 45 and 55 yards on an average and one kick went 65 yards.

Krol's return to Argos will once again reunite him with his partner in the Royal Copeland, now a pass-receiving halfback.

Copeland was Krol's main target for passes in the middle 40s before American imports began invading Canada in droves. The two became known as the "Gold Dust Twins" and were instrumental in Argos' Grey Cup victories in 1945-46-47.

WAS BENCHED

Then, when Frank Clair was appointed Argo coach, Krol sat on the bench except for kicking duties and Copeland was converted to a defensive half.

Krol started his career in 1939 with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs. The deceptive running half later joined Hamilton Wildcats and in 1943 was a member of the Hamilton Grey Cup championship team. In 1950 and 1952 he was on Argonauts' Grey Cup teams.

In 1944, while with Wildcats, and in 1946 as an Argo, Krol won regular schedule on 24 victories and 27 ties, include centre Bob Bailey and leftwinger Parker MacDonald. The defence probably will be unchanged this year. Tim Horton, who suffered a leg and jaw fracture in the last season, is ready to go. Jim Thomson, a 10-year veteran with Leafs, Jim Morrison and Hugh Bolton will be back. Either Larry Cahan, the extra defenceman last year, or Bob Solinger, a rookie up from Pittsburgh, could wind up with the fifth rearguard job.

In goal will be Harry Lumley, a solid performer since he was acquired by Leafs in a trade with the Red Wings three years ago.

Where will Leafs wind up this season?

"First or fourth," says Clancy.

'Guts, Goals and Glamor'

Leaf Boss Day Non-Committal Clancy Says 'First or Fourth'

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)— This is the year of "guts, goals and glamor" for Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League.

In the words of Leaf general manager Hap Day: "You've got to have guts, goals and glamor! I'll guarantee we'll supply the glamor."

Leafs, seeking to build their first Stanley Cup championship team since 1950-51, have been working on Day's "Guts-goals-glamor" theory at their training camp here. They have been impressive, but the Leaf brass has yet to go overboard on them.

DAY IS CAUTIOUS

"I don't care to say right now if we're as good as last year's club," Day says. "The boys look all right in training but I want to see them in a few games first. That's the only way to judge."

Day will get his first look at Leafs in action this weekend when they start exhibition games in preparation for the opening of the NHL's 70-game schedule Oct. 6, when they open the season at Montreal against Canadiens and open at home Oct. 8 against Detroit Red of a pleasant 30-mile swim with Wings, defending Stanley Cup champs.

It's no secret that Leafs must make changes. Although they made the Stanley Cup playoffs last season, they were the lowest scoring club in the league. Critics said Leafs were so defence-minded that they took all the color out of the game.

Day admitted some of the experiments were "freak affairs." That's when he decided on the switch.

NEED GOOD FIVO

The biggest job is to find an able replacement for Ted Kennedy, 28-year-old centre and captain who retired after Leafs were knocked out of the Stanley Cup semi-finals by Detroit in four straight games las season.

The retirement of Kennedy was supposed to be a crippling blow to Toronto. However, Leaf officials particularly coach King Clancy, aren't so sure now.

They have brought up a promising young rookie in Bill Harris, standout in training on the top line with leftwinger Sid Smith and rightwinger Eric Nesterenko. Harris led Toronto Marlboros to the Canadian junior hockey crown last season.

"Harris could turn out to be our best centreman since Kennedy," Day said. "I certainly hope so. He looks good."

Another junior getting plenty of raves is leftwinger Dick Duff. He had a three-game trial with Leafs in the playoffs last season and has been working well on a line centred by George Armstrong. Ted Sloan is the rightwinger. Armstrong and Sloan switched positions near the tail-end of 1954-55 and have been playing there since so far in camp.

Then there's Earl Balfour, a leftwinger who saw limited action with Leafs last year when he was brought up from the farmhand Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League. Centre Rudy Migay and rightwinger Ron Stewart are two holdovers who seem assured of retaining their positions on that line.

Other players from last year's club, which placed third in the Red Wings Whip Minneapolis 8-4; Take 3-2 Lead

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rochester's Jungbost Red Wings today stood one step from the pinnacle of minor league baseball, the little world series championship.

The International Leaguers dumped Minneapolis' American Association champions 8-4 behind Ellis Cot Deal Monday night for a 3-2 edge in the playoffs, and can take the title with a victory tonight.

Minneapolis, against the axe for the first time in post-season play, has small choice but to start its ace righthander Al Worthington tonight against fast-baller Gary Blaylock of the Red Wings. Worthington has only a day of rest but holds the Millers' two victories of the series.

Deal recorded his fifth straight triumph since Rochester scraped into playoff competition by finishing third during the regular season.

He had to pitch the ninth inning in a downpour but neither the rain nor Miller bats could do much damage by then.

Catcher Ebba St. Claire, a weak hitter with the Millers a year ago, headed a 6-hit Rochester assault on three Minneapolis pitchers with three hits, one of them a third inning homer off starter Jim Constable.

Rochester led 3-0 before Bob Lennon reached Deal for a two-run homer in the fifth. Two more Rochester runs in the eighth and three in the ninth off Bud Byerly, Millers ace reliever, ended the inning homer for Minneapolis in consequential. Deal struck out seven and allowed as many hits.

FORD TAKES TOURNEY

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—National PGA titlist Doug Ford, a fierce, confident competitor from Yonkers, N.Y., turned in his four-straight sub-par round Monday to win the $4,000 Massachusetts Open by one stroke over lanky Ar. . .all of Pocono Manor, Pa.

Ford, who entered the final round of the 72-hole competition with a two-stroke lead, carded a three under par-69 for a winning total score of 276. In previous rounds he toured the 6,431-yard Charles River Country Club course in 70-69 and 68.

With Wall and Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the non-practicing dentist from Memphis, Tenn., hot on his heels in the race for the $7,000 top money, Ford needed to be at his best—and he was.

Sam Snead's Golf School

High up among the essentials at a good golf swing the rule that the head must be kept from moving better up and down, or sideways, throughout the swing. You hold the head in fixed position and the hip and shoulder pivots turn the body around with the head, and the feet as fixed base. The golfer who sways his hips to the right as pictured in the dotted line, inevitably moves his head to the left in this operation and usually produces a left-side collapse. Such head-shifting makes it almost impossible for the player to bring his clubhead back to the ball, in the downswing, with either accuracy or timing. The head-shifter also is apt to lose balance and fall forward out of position when attempting to follow through. Hold your head steady throughout the swing as pictured in the solid line figure, for this is one of the cardinal points of golf.

Figuring The World Series

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the world series:

For anyone who thinks the Yankees are going to lose in four straight games: The Yanks have lost four world series, but never have they been swept. They've dropped two classics in five games, games, one in seven and the other in eight 1921.

Versatile Jackie Robinson will be playing his fourth defensive position in his fifth world series for the Dodgers. Robinson was at first base in 1947, at second base in 1949 and in the outfield in 1952 and '53. He'll be at third base Wednesday.

You can bet Hank Bauer will be trying to change his world series luck. In 1952 and 1953, the hustling Yankee outfielder is batting only .163 with 13 hits in 80 at bats. He has had two extra base hits, both triples.

This could turn out to be quite a series for hitting pitchers. Don Newcombe of the Brooks wound up with a season's batting average of .359 with seven homers and 23 runs batted in. Don Larsen was the Yankees' only home run leader among pitchers with two.

This series will see the two home run hitlingest catchers in baseball history in action. Roy Campanella of the Brooks broke the home run record for catchers in the National League during the regular season and Yogi Berra of the Yanks did the same in the American League. Campy finished the campaign with a lifetime total of 209 four-baggers and Berra had 208.

Manager Mayo Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies, in town for the world series, had this observation today: "I'm not sold on all the various today" ... Yankee pitching contest. I think Brooklyn pitcher Clem Labine is going to be one of the most important men in the country in the next few days. He's the Dodgers' best."

The first two games are in the Yankee Stadium and they don't get over to Brooklyn until Friday, but one fellow has camped outside Ebbets Field since last Saturday. This is the second straight big week for New York hotels and restaurants ... You couldn't get a hotel room before the Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore fight and they're at a premium again.

Whitey Ford, who is to start the first game for the Yanks Wednesday, said Jackie Robinson is the toughest batter he ever faced ... "But I feel real good about starting against the Dodgers—in the stadium," added the Yanks' No. 1 hurler ... Yank second baseman Billy Martin, who is due to be discharged from the army right after the series—he's on terminal leave now — said he watched Brooklyn games on television all season ... "And I notice that Campanella still is tagging them high," he cracked. "What's the matter—is Campy spike shy?"

Veteran Ready For Opener

NEW YORK (AP)—The salami is holding out, and so is Ralph J. Bercore as first man in line for a bleacher seat at the opening game of the world series.

The 43-year-old Chicago carnival worker arrived at Yankee Stadium bleacher entrance Sunday, 12th year in a row he has been first in line for a world series opening game.

Sale of bleacher tickets starts Wednesday.

For a bed, Belcore has cardboard cartons lined with newspapers. For food, cheese, salami and bread.

Second in line was Charles Kiera, 61, an Auburn, N.Y., fireman. A veteran of 28 world series, he showed up Monday night.

"The Yankees won 16 in a row games," the two fans agreed.

SIOUX ARRIVES HOME

VICTORIA (CP)—The destroyer Sioux, last Canadian naval vessel to serve under the United Nations command in Korean waters, came home to a warm welcome here Monday. 1,000 persons at nearby Esquimalt Saturday. "It's been a long haul," said Cmdr. A. H. Rankin, the destroyer's skipper. "There's a very much activity around there (Korea) now."

Mothers-in-Law Should Train For Role Says Spring Byington

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Spring Byington has a suggestion for mothers-in-law:

"Take aside your son-in-law or daughter-in-law and say to him or her, 'What may I give you for Christmas?' What can I stop doing that I have been doing, or what can I start doing that I have not been doing?'"

Miss Byington, spring-like in spirit as she nears the autumn of age, speaks as a television mother-in-law and also as a woman with two married daughters. Next Monday (Oct. 3) she returns to CBS-TV in "December Bride," a comedy series centering on the escapades of a mother-in-law.

The whole subject of mothers-in-law fascinates her.

"Primarily mothers-in-law have a bad name because they haven't been trained for the role. When a son or daughter marries, mama is fired. She never was given a notice. A woman should begin preparing for the job of mother-in-law when she's young and raising her children. She should realize that after they're grown and married she can expect a good 20 to 30 years of vitality. She must say to herself while still young, 'I must think now what I'm going to do then.'"

Never before have so many sponsors paid so much money to buy weekday time. That's what seen as on the "Mickey Mouse Club" series, coming up on ABC-TV. Merely on the reputation of Walt Disney, ABC sold a total of 1,040 commercial quarter-hours on a 52-week non-cancellable basis, or a total of about $15,000,000 for time and talent.

Intended for youngsters of all age levels, "Mickey Mouse Club" will premiere on the ABC-TV network Oct. 3 at 5 p.m. in all time zones from coast to coast. It will be presented Monday through Friday.

A Double Lace Job For "1900" Figure

The exaggerated "hour glass" figure as displayed by Julie Adams in her starring role with Jeff Chandler and Rock Hudson in Universal-International's Technicolor "One Desire," now showing at the Odeon McCarthy theatre, made necessary one or the tightest corset-lacing jobs ever performed on a film player.

Special nylon and dacron corset designed by Costume designer Bill Thomas required 'both front and back lacing laced by a pair of wardrobe girls. And because of the extreme tightness of the garment, Julie had to be given a set of regular half-hour periods to avoid breathing complications.

Also showing are the Rocky Marciano vs. Archie Moore official heavyweight champion fight pictures.

HOME ROBBED, BURNED

BRAMPTON (CP)—More than $7,000 is reported missing from a wall safe in a home south of Brampton after an early morning fire. Police said the home of Frank Demarce was robbed and then set on fire. Four empty gasoline cans were found at the rear of the home. Fire damage to the house is estimated at $15,000.

'Blackboard Jungle' Released By MGM Blasted on All Sides

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — MGM, once the citadel of escapism, has developed a split personality in recent years.

The studio's films once presented no greater problems than whether Joan Crawford should or should not submit to Clark Gable's charms. But now MGM makes two kinds of pictures: The Musicals, comedies and adventures that require no thought power to enjoy; 2. Dramas about real problems in society.

Hollywood used to stimulate public opinion with films on social injustices, racial problems and so on. Now MGM is the only studio that regularly takes on sich issues.

'JUNGLE' HOT TOPIC

The most recent case was "Blackboard Jungle," a story of brutality in a school. It was blasted from all sides. The climax came when ambassador to Italy Clare Booth Luce protested that it be removed from the Venice film festival because it assertedly did not show the United States in a good light.

Her action drew a strong protest from Dore Schary, MGM production chief. Schary said: "We need only quote Lord Beaverbrook's paper, the London Daily Express," the Express has a responsibility to present a true picture of America's greatness."

"And that's true," said Schary. "If think people understand the intelligence of foreign audiences. We don't see a picture like 'Bicycle Thief' and then presume that all Italians steal bicycles. And I don't think foreigners see juvenile crime films and think the United States is overrun by gangsters.

"That pictures of social problems can be made is answer to foreign people who criticize Hollywood's skill the expression of opinion here.

"The Russians have learned our lesson. Recently I heard that Russian movies will now be allowed to criticize certain phases of that country's life. The reason for the change is that their films were having no effect. They showed everything in Russia as good."

MGM has another blockbuster in "Trial." While the picture often lacks logic, it is a stirring reenactment of how Communists try to take over the cause of a Mexican boy accused of murder. It is bound to arouse controversy.

play of this seemingly hopeless contract. I've said some mean things about the bid and I'm glad.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, Sept. 28, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A favorable day for seeming hard or stubborn tasks, deals. Do not be discouraged or too trying since, with patience and extra effort you can come through successfully.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Most personal matters dealing with home, loved ones will bear close study. Your keen perception can bring results. You have ability and intelligence; use both well.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Rather friendly stars are encouraging for worthwhile endeavors, seeking promotion, bettering your status, employment favored. Watch investments, securities.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Most opportunities will have to be uncovered by shrewdness, keen penetration. Think first; act only after due study. Disposition and outlook important in all things.

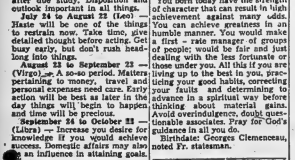
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Haste will be one of the things to restrain now. Take time, give detailed thought before acting. Get busy early, but don't rush headlong into things.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — A so-so period. Matters pertaining to money, travel and personal interests need care. Early action will be best as later in the day things will begin to happen and time will be precious.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Increase you desire for knowledge if you would achieve success. Domestic affairs may also be an influence in attaining goals.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Scorpio may have some weighty problems to handle on this mixed sort of day. But realize your capabilities, grasp an opportunity and your day should be satisfying.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Check tendencies toward extremes and an overactive imagination and do not strain mental or physical faculties. Use your gifts well but don't wear yourself out.



December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — This day's vibrations indicate that you will have to be "up to snuff," alert to ascertain in what direction to move. Illumove rightly and you will achieve handsomely.

January 22 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Note Mercury influences; they could well be applied to your day's activities. Express yourself where you really know that you have a sure point or idea to follow.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Habits, good or bad, influence results, and today you'll probably notice flaws that could be troublesome. Avoid impulsive judgment, haste in speech. Be kindly in spirit; help others.

You born today have the strength of character that can result in high achievement against many odds. You can achieve greatness in an humble manner. You could make a first - rate manager of groups of people; would be fair and just dealing with the less fortunate or those under you. All this if you are living up to the best in you, practicing your good habits, correcting your faults and determining to advance in a spiritual way before thinking about material gains. Avoid overindulgence, doubt questionable associates. Pray for God's guidance in all you do.

Birthdate: Georges Clemenceau, noted Fr. statesman.

Longer Post-Natal Periods Urged

TORONTO (CP)—An expert on obstetrics and gynecology says women need a longer post-natal period in hospitals.

Dr. Marion Kerr, dean of Women's College Hospital, said Monday night the 4½- to five-day stay instituted when bed shortages hit hospitals must be scrapped in favor of eight to 10-day periods.

Other specialists, Dr. Marion Laird of New York's Presbyterian Hospital and Dr. Chant Robertson of Toronto, said the shorter period is too short to allow women to learn how to handle babies well.

The doctors were participating i a panel discussion.

U.S. Steel Firms To Pay 3 Billion For Canadian Ore

MONTREAL (CP)—United States industrialists have concluded a multi-billion dollar deal for the purchase of iron ore concentrates from the Acnic Mining Corporation of Montreal, company president Joseph Beaudry announced Monday.

The agreement involves the sale of some 500,000,000 tons of ore concentrates from the company's iron deposits at Nitashquan, 530 miles northeast of Quebec City, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river.

A group of U.S steel and industrial companies has contracted to buy 10,000,000 tons of the concentrates a year for the next 30 years at between $6 and $6.37 a ton, Mr. Beaudry said.

The money involved would be some $60,000,000 a year and $3,000,000,000 over the next 50 years, Mr. Beaudry said. The contract also provided that Acnic's profit be at least $3 a ton, giving the firm some $1,500,000,000 over the 50-year period.

Provinces' Return To Direct Taxation Plan Proposed

Cabinet to Consider Scheme In an All-Day Session

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial tax structuring that tax rental pacts are difficult to justify in an era of peace, has placed a new plan before the cabinet to bring the provinces back into the direct taxing field.

The scheme, to be considered by the cabinet at an all-day session today, could give rise to a jungle of different federal-provincial taxes on personal and corporate income, comes.

But a vital part of the federal plan, it is understood, would be to offer the provinces security and tax collection machinery in exchange for uniform tax rates. And the federal administration would vacate—up to a certain point—the portion of the tax field taken over by the provinces to prevent a boost in taxes.

TO ONTARIO LEVEL

In addition, the central government would grant the less wealthy provinces "equalization" payments to bring their revenues perhaps up to the level of the richest, wealthiest province in proportion to population.

Thus if all aspects were acceptable to the cabinet and the provinces, the federal level there still would be one collector—the federal government in Ottawa—but collect for itself and the provinces, too.

Federal authorities already have thrust aside any hope that Ontario would buy such a plan. However there is some hope here that other provinces might accept.

Quebec, which consistently has refused to rent its tax fields to Ottawa, levies provincial personal income and corporation taxes. Federal tax deductions are allowed for Quebec but since provincial collections are different from those of Ottawa, some persons there pay more taxes and others less than in other provinces.

ST. LAURENT FAVORS

The scheme is understood to have the support of Prime Minister St. Laurent. If approved by cabinet, it will be placed before provincial premiers at the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa Oct. 11.

Today's cabinet session may be the last major meeting of the ministers before the conference begins.

The plan, if adopted, would end the federal-provincial tax rental agreements. The current five-year pacts, negotiated in 1952, expire provinces except Quebec, expire in March, 1957. Ottawa officials believe prior to that this era of peace there is nothing to justify keeping the provinces out of the tax fields. Some provincial offices have criticized the rentals as too low for because they say the pacts tend to centralize power.

Spy's Radio Transmitter Turns Out To Be Device to Rig Dice Games

CLARESHOLM, Alta. (CP)—Claresholm's brief encounter with cloak and dagger ended today with a secret agent shrinking into a tinhorn gambler.

The spy hunted when a Claresholm garage man bought an abandoned radio for storage space beneath the floor he discovered what was identified as a radio transmitting and receiving set.

The barn, it turned out, was built about 1910 and was the start of the Second World War.

During the war thousands of students trained here under the Commonwealth air training plans.

And, from Lethbridge, Alta., a report came that similar equipment had been found hidden in walls under floors in a prisoner-of-war camp when it was dismantled several years ago.

But Tuesday night RCMP came to the end of the search. They said the mysterious apparatus wasn't a radio but simply an innocent gadget device for rigging gambling games.

The equipment operated on a simple principle. Tiny pieces of metal were inserted in one side of the dice. During a game, a button was pressed and a powerful magnetic field was set up, attracting the bits of metal and guaranteeing that the dice came up the way the gambler wanted them to.

The same system could also be worked by remote control.

Also uncovered was a large electric coil apparently shipped from Salt Lake City, Utah, in a cardboard carton filled with copies of the Salt Lake Tribune, apparently used as packing. The latest date on the papers was Feb. 28, 1953.

RCMP, who based their findings on examination by radio experts, said they are trying to track down the identity of the crooked gambler or gamblers.

Eisenhower Was Allowed to Sleep After Attack

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Nearly 11 hours elapsed between President Eisenhower's first symptoms of a heart attack last Saturday and the taking of cardiograph tracings because he was being allowed "important and essential sleep."

That explanation was given Tuesday by press secretary James C. Hagerty in answer to questions raised by Washington doctors.

The Washington doctors had inquired (1) why that much time elapsed between the initial symptoms of a coronary thrombosis and the cardiograph tracings which confirmed it; and (2) why the president was permitted, after his confirmation, to walk down with assistance from a second floor bedroom, across a porch, down five more steps and to a car which took him seven miles to Fitzsimons army hospital.

As for Eisenhower's walk to the waiting car, the press secretary repeated an earlier remark that the doctors felt it was "in order" for him to walk with help rather than be carried on a stretcher.

Red Delegates Leave Seats In UN Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and other top Communist delegates today when Nikolai Pegist China's foreign minister, George Yeh, took the floor for a policy speech.

Indian delegate V. K Krishna Menon also left the room as Yeh began his declaration in which he told the assembly that any improvement in East-West relations is not due to Soviet goodwill. It is due, he said, "to the policy or strength adopted by the free world."

It was recalled that last year when similar delegates quit Britain to the late Soviet delegate, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the Nationalist Chinese were absent.

Only the heads of the Soviet, Polish, and Czechoslovak delegations, and Menon, left the room. Other members of each Soviet bloc delegation remained in their seats.

URGES CAUTION

Yeh told the assembly that collective security measures in Europe and Asia have served as the main basis to the advance of world communism.

He urged the free world to weigh carefully the Communists' latest peace offensive and "be sure that the Soviet rulers have not a calculated effort to capitulate on the world's longing for peace and He abhorrence of war as a means of further extending Communist rule over the world."

In a reference apparently to India, Yeh said "some Asian nations are playing into Communist hands by following a policy of 'neutralism.'"

TALKS RESUMED AFTER GM CLAIM HEARD BY BOARD

Company Believes Strike Is Illegal

TORONTO (CP)—Talks aimed at settling the strike of 17,000 General Motors of Canada workers at five Ontario plants were to be resumed today following a hearing Tuesday of a company application to have the strike declared illegal.

The Ontario labor relations board Tuesday night reserved judgment on the application after a 5½-hour hearing of arguments by lawyers for the company and the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL).

Following the hearing, union and company officials said talks covering the entire dispute between Oshawa workers and the union will resume.

Leslie G. Seaton, director of labor relations for General Motors Corporation of Detroit, began negotiations between the company and employees of the diesel locomotive plant at London, Ont., and the Fisher body plant in Toronto, might get a boost next week.

ST. CATHARINES PLANT

Only one meeting was held Tuesday between the company and union, effecting a group of skilled workers at St. Catharines.

The union has filed a "hard-core" item separate the company and union at the Fisher plant.

However, he and George Burt, union president, said they will work following the early Monday walkout of General Motors employees.

David Lewis, counsel for the union, and T. D. Delamere, counsel for the company, were On key figures in the General Motors application for a strike vote declared illegal.

Mr. Delamere said the company believes the strike is a contravention of Section 49 of the Labor Relations Act of Ontario. The section says where a collective agreement is in operation, no employee bound by the agreement shall strike, and no employer bound by the agreement shall lock out such an employee.

Union Members Present Brief To Premier Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Leaders of about 30,000 unionists in southern Ontario today appealed to Premier Frost to establish a provincial unemployment insurance assistance and a comprehensive health insurance plan to supplement the federal scheme of Dominion and provincial premiers.

A labor delegation, led by A. F. MacArthur, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor (CCL), and S. S Hughes, head of the CCL Canadian Congress of Labor, met Mr. Frost to present the brief.

The labor leaders said from 150,000 to 1,750,000 of the province's 5,000,000 population are not covered by existing private hospital, surgical or medical plans.

"The unemployment crisis in the present inadequate, costly and makeshift system of health services is a most compelling reason for universal health plan," the brief said.

NEW YORK (AP)—A bright sun shone down on Yankee Stadium today as New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers clashed in the opening game of the world series before 68,000 spectators.

Robbery Suspect Appears In Court Wearing Black Mask

MARMORA (Staff) — A man accused of the armed robbery of $5,400 from the Toronto-Dominion Bank in Marmora last June 23 appeared in police court in Trenton wearing a brown hood and a black "masquerade" mask.

Following a long debate between the crown and defence counsel Kenneth G. M. Ross of Belleville, Magistrate R. C. Jackson ordered James Orval Ross, 32, to remove the mask from his face.

Defence counsel contended that the mask was justified in protecting the accused because bank employees who saw the bandits at the robbery failed to be able to furnished a detailed description of them and because their brief descriptions based on the appearance of the accused in court.

Mr. Ross unmasked.

Roy Charles Edwin Moss, the bank's accountant, identified him as "the smaller man" of the two who held up the bank.

Two witnesses, OPP Cpl. Reg. Rackham of the Belleville detachment, and Moss were heard during the morning session which adjourned at 12:15 p.m.

Photographer Rackham, the first witness, presented photographs and scale drawings of the bank's interior and exterior. He stated that he found no fingerprints of the accused either in the bank or on the bandits' getaway car, a 1946 Plymouth owned by Thomas Cullon of Peterborough.

Accountant Moss, who lives over the bank, testified that as he was on his way to work that morning two men sitting on the steps approached him to the bank door. Before entering he was asked by Miss Wilma McKinnon, a stenographer in the bank.

As Moss opened the door he said the smaller of the two men said, "I understand you have been having difficulty with your plumbing."

"Yes," said Moss.

The same man said that they had been sent from Stirling to repair the plumbing.

Moss admitted that the bank had been having trouble with the plumbing and that repairmen from Hatton's Hardware in Stirling had been doing the plumbing the day prior to the robbery.

PLANNERS TOLD SEAWAY WON'T BRING UTOPIA

Neither Will it Bring Disaster Says Director

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—An international meeting of professional planners was told here Tuesday that the St. Lawrence seaway will bring neither Utopia nor disaster.

The seaway will not bring Utopia to the great lakes region any more than it will bring disaster "to our seaboard cities," said Harry C. Brockel, Milwaukee port director and member of an advisory board of engineers which reported on seaway in 1954 to study seaway problems.

Mr. Brockel stepped into the lion's den with a charge that planners are falling down on the job—and worse—where the seaway is concerned.

MADE THEM SIT UP

Delegates to the annual conference of the American Society of Planning Officials and Community Planning Association of Canada sat up and took notice when Mr. Brockel declared:

"In most of the principal Great Lakes metropolitan areas, the local planning professional planners have been cynical or indifferent about the St. Lawrence seaway, and have been hostile to commercial development of waterfronts."

Mr. Brockel, who met with George S. Mooney, director of Montreal's city planning bureau, yesterday, also stressed that the seaway—scheduled for completion in 1958—will bring benefits but probably no spectacular, sudden changes.

"All the towns on the Great Lakes will not become seaports overnight," said Mr. Brockel. "All along the route of the seaway, from Sept-Iles on the lower St. Lawrence to the Lakehead on Lake Superior, every city and town and every waterfront hamlet is envisaging great things to come."

Assoc. Wants Source of Funds For Campaigns

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto ratepayers' organization Tuesday night sent a resolution to Premier Frost urging the province to pay provincial government to make it compulsory for all candidates for provincial elections to file publicly their campaign expenditures and source of their funds.

William Temple, association president, said Mayor Nathan Phillips spent about $30,000 to get elected.

Mr. Temple also said he believes the mayor received his campaign money in a brown paper bag.

Mayor Phillips commented later on Mr. Temple's remarks:

"I'll shake hands with a crackpot allegations. I never received as much as a penny from a brewery."

"The $50,000 mention is utterly ridiculous.

Wonder Drugs Bring Victory In Treatment of Rheumatic Fever

Editor's Note: Slowly, medical science has attained widest use rheumatic fever, a greater threat to children's health than polio. Once speedily, it is starting to control high blood pressure. How these two forms of heart disease are being fought is described in this second of four articles.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—In backstage drama, medical science has achieved practical victory over a heart disease that probably crippled more children in every year than polio.

The disease is rheumatic fever, a silent saboteur of heart valves. Wonder drugs have brought this victory in one of the brightest successes in heart research.

Other drugs are scoring successes too, against another major killer—high blood pressure, often a contributing factor in heart attacks such as that President Eisenhower suffered.

Rheumatic fever is a disease of aches and pains and fever that involves the heart, often scarring vital valves to make them leaky, to make the victim a heart cripple.

It has been as tragic in impact as it is subtle. Just once, it incurs no visible badge, no withered arm or leg, no brace, no obvious epidemic striking fear into parents' minds.

But the victims knew. The listless, pale child who couldn't play ordinary games. Young adults who had to limit their work.

Rheumatic fever, doctors found, followed infections with a vicious type of germ, a type of streptococcus. Germs from a sore throat. Rheumatic fever can kill or cripple. It is estimated 500,000 American children and as many adults are its victims.

Medicine has found the method of prevention: It is to treat any strep infections promptly with penicillin. And to give one of the wonder drugs continuously to the pair vulnerable to prevent future attacks.

Kidnapped Baby To Back Up Story Told To Teasers

'Pregnant' Said Fat Woman, Then Dieted, Stole Child

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — A grief - stricken woman who kidnapped a baby because she deceived her husband with a story of motherhood surrendered 11-day-old Robert Marcus to a Roman Catholic priest today.

Officers said she confessed stealing the baby from the nursery of a San Francisco hospital nine days ago.

Police chief Jack O'Keefe said Mrs. Betty Benedict, 27, of Stockton delivered the baby to Rev. Alan McCoy after telephoning Dr. Sanford Marcus, the infant's father in San Francisco and instructing him to meet her there.

The baby is in excellent condition and police said there is no question he is Robert Marcus.

CHECK FOOTPRINTS

Dr. Marcus, 34, grinning for the first time since his son was stolen, said: "We feel as though a load is off. We are 99 per cent certain. But we will await footprint checks and blood tests."

Marcus and his grief - stricken wife, Hanna, 28, who have been in a state of near collapse since the kidnapping, made the 80-mile trip to Stockton by car. They arrived police car in 75 minutes.

Chief O'Keefe said Mrs. Benedict, who is described as normal and near hysteria when taken to the Stockton police station, was booked on suspicion of kidnapping.

Mrs. Marcus, in appeals to the kidnapper for safe delivery of Robert, had promised he would not be prosecuted. She said that today, he said:

"Now the woman is a psychologically disturbed person. I myself have no further concern with the woman, other than to offer my thanks for the baby's return."

Chief O'Keefe quoted Mrs. Benedicto, wife of a prosperous publisher of a Filipino weekly newspaper, as saying she took the child because she had convinced friends, including her husband, that she was pregnant.

O'Keefe said Mrs. Beendicto sobbed out this story:

She began gaining weight several months ago and pretended to be teasing her about being pregnant. To stop the teasing, she said, she was—and convinced her husband along with others.

When the approximate time came for a baby to arrive, she left to Los Angeles to visit her mother. Her mother put her on a diet. She lost 30 pounds and returned to Stockton. Her husband asked where the baby was. She told him a fake baby had died but could get him in a couple of days.

When the baby arrived, she flew to Los Angeles, then to San Francisco, looked over the Marcus baby, and then chose that one because Marcus was her husband's first name.

Chrome Deposit Reported In Northern B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Discovery in northern British Columbia of a major chrome deposit "of tremendous importance" was reported Tuesday by the B.C. and Yukon chamber of mines.

Tom Elliott, chamber of mines secretary, said the discovery was reported to him by five prospectors who returned here from a three-month expedition in the Jennings lake area, about 40 miles south of the Yukon border.

Mr. Elliott said the men—a doctor, a geiger counter salesman, a sculptor and two farmers—made their find July 28.

"If this is as good as we believe it to be, it will be of tremendous importance both to B.C. and to Canada," he said. "From all descriptions, nothing like it has been found in this country before."

Chrome is one of the metals in a number of steels, Canada has no known deposit of commercial quality chromide ore, Ma, Elliot said.

Russia Remains Responsible For Access to Berlin

NEW YORK (Reuters) — The Soviet Union remains responsible for guaranteeing the West free access to Berlin, a spokesman for an agreement ending the Berlin blockade in 1949.

While the British, French and U.S. foreign ministers were meeting with German Foreign Minister Dr. Heinrich Von Brentano, an authorized statement was issued referring to reports of agreements between the Soviet Union and the East German Communist government under which the Soviet Union is accepted to transfer to the East German governments the regulation and control of Western traffic into Berlin.

The three Western foreign ministers stated: "They wish to emphasize that these agreements cannot affect the rights and responsibilities of the Soviet Union under agreements now in force between the three powers and the Soviet Union on the subject of Germany and Berlin.

The Soviet Union remains responsible for carrying out of these obligations."

Careless Driving Charge Is Laid After Accident

One major and three minor accidents were investigated by city police Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning.

David Bernard Shanks, 20, of RCAF Station Trenton, was charged with careless driving following an accident at the corner of Victoria Ave. and William Street in which three people suffered minor injuries and damage to two vehicles was estimated at $650.

Treated for minor injuries were Mr. and Mrs. William James Hultquist, of 189 Station St., and their son, James Jr., age 6. Mr. Hultquist suffered bruised ribs, Mrs. Hultquist had cuts over her left eye and a swollen ankle, while James Jr. had a cut over his right eye.

Shanks was proceeding north on William St. and is charged with failing to stop at Victoria Ave. His car struck the Hultquist car which was proceeding west on Victoria Ave.

Lawrence Roy Le Drew, 18, also of RCAF Station Trenton, and a passenger in the Shanks car was not injured.

Damage to the right side of the Shanks car was estimated at $400 while damage to the front end of the Hultquist car was estimated at $250. The accident occurred at 8:05 p.m. Constable D. K. Richardson investigated.

At 6.50 p.m. Tuesday, a car driven by Charles Albert Bromay, 20, of R.R. 5, Belleville, was in collision with a dump truck driven by Donald McLeod, 33 Valleyview Crescent. The accident took place at the corner of Pinnacle and Station Streets. Damage to Bromay's Chevrolet car was $70, while no damage was reported to the dump truck.

CAR HITS VERANDAH

At 8.50 p.m. Robert William Kent, 16, of 388 East Moira St. piloted a car into the corner of a verandah on the home of Mrs. Ed. Kellaway, 17 Bridge St. West, causing damage to the car estimated at $50 and to the verandah, $30.

Kent claimed that a car entering Bridge St. from Everett St. forced him to swerve to avoid a collision.

Damage to the car was estimated at $150. The truck sustained no damage.

The provincial police office reported that "everything was as it should be" during the night with nothing serious transpiring.

Foremen's Club Hears Talk On Seaway Power Project

The St. Lawrence power project generated a powerful lot of interest at the Quinte District Foremen's Club meeting in the YMCA Tuesday evening.

W. A. Wall, Ontario Hydro representative, using slides, delivered an illustrated lecture on the power phase of the St. Lawrence project to more than 65 club members. Following his talk he answered a barrage of questions on the planning, construction and rehabilitation phases of the great scheme.

Statistics on cost and energy output of the power phase of the project, being shared equally by the Ontario Hydro and the New York State Power Authority, are impressive. Total cost of the project is estimated at $800,000,000. Each power authority will generate 1,100,000 horsepower from 16 generators. The power house, 162 feet above the foundation and 2,300 feet long, will act as a gravity dam.

The Long Sault dam will be a concrete curved-axis spillway 2, 250 feet long with a maximum height above foundation of 145 feet. Structures on both Canadian and American sides of the river will require 2,700,000 cubic yards of concrete, 1,800,000 cubic yards of sand, 2,300,000 tons of coarse aggregate, 11,600 tons of steel, 21,500 tons of gates and control apparatus. Also the structures will include 4,205,000 cubic yards of earth and 417,000 cubic yards of rock.

Some 17 miles of earthen dikes will be constructed. 50,000,000 cubic yards of dry earth and 30,000,000 cubic yards of wet earth moved, 30,000 acres flooded. Approximately 6,500 persons on the Ontario side will be rehabilitated.

TRACKS MUST BE MOVED

Flooding will necessitate relocation of 45 miles of Highway No. 2 and 35 miles of the CNR main line tracks.

One of the most gratifying features of the work from the Canadian standpoint is that all the hydraulic engineering, including the American portion of the project, is being done by Canadian engineers working with the Ontario Hydro.

Mr. Wall stated that Hydro expects to generate power at the project site for the first time in the summer of 1958 and that the complete installation will be in operation in 1960.

By that time Ontario Hydro's power load will take almost the entire capacity and we will be just meeting demand," said Mr. Wall. He predicted that with the completion of the St. Lawrence project, "the last major hydraulic power source in southern Ontario," that higher power projects would be atomic.

Pictures of the measurement of water flow in the project area, construction of coffer dams, completion of tunnels beneath the Cornwall ship canal, and excavation of the exposed river bottom proved to be most interesting.

Mr. Wall was introduced by H. Gray and thanked by A. Fusterci.

During the meeting president-elect Paul Geary was presented with the president's jewel by Jim Dalgleish. Past president scrolls were presented to H. G. Jones and J. Dalgleish.

Parks Board Member Urges Citizens to Play Bigger Part

An appeal for citizens to accept more individual responsibility in the parks program of the city was issued here yesterday by parks board director Jack Devine.

Speaking to the Kiwanis Club, Mr. Devine stated the laxity of the community in leaving the entire share of beautifying the city to the board without undertaking to its aid in any of its programs.

"Here in Belleville we are all too willing to go (to the parks board) and say they will you do for us!' and then kick like steers because our parks don't look like our favorite park-in Vancouver," said Mr. Devine.

"I would appeal to the service clubs and to each of us as individuals, if we are going to make Belleville a nicer place and a better boasting-ground for all, responsibility is ours as individuals and as members of the community."

"In the six years I have been on the parks board I have never had anyone come to the board and say: 'Is there anything we can do to help the parks board?'" he said.

He contrasted this attitude with that of Vancouver, where he recently attended a nation-wide parks convention. Here, he recounted, citizens requiring a community centre formed themselves into community leagues to raise money for the project.

"When they have raised the majority of the money they come to the parks board and say "We have got the money. Now put your share in."

"Do you know there are some organizations in Belleville that put in the sum of $1 a year to have a really exclusive club on park property," he asked.

In Vancouver Mr. Devine also said he found out "that in some of the communities there is no distinction between the recreation and the parks commission" while here in Belleville the duties of both separate commissioners are. Also in Belleville the parks board has been saddled with the upkeep of recreational facilities.

"I found they have an operating budget but no capital expenditure taken out of that budget. The yearly grant is purely for maintenance and I think that is the way it should be."

In a community such as ours it was found there is a terrific overlap in the duties (of both commissions) and in the results of the work that was carried out."

"I think our recreation commission and our recreational director, Lloyd Dexter, are doing a terrific job in this city and I do not think people appreciate that as much as they should," he added.

Concluding, said Mr. Devine: "It strictly a co-operation between us all. I do hope we've got it."

Mr. Devine was introduced by Bill Slovin and thanked by Bill Wills.

Town Purchases Thirty Acres From CNR for New Street

TRENTON (Special) — At a special meeting of the Trenton council yesterday the agreement to purchase 30 acres from the C.N.R. for $2,700 was finalized.

The property was subjected to the Gothard gravel pit operated by the VanAltine Construction Co. This strip acquisition of land will allow the town to proceed with plans for a new street connecting west Trenton with north Trenton through a cut in the railway line. Councillors Gerald Weaver and Claude Graham comprised the committee recommending the purchase. Jay Raymond, Industrial Commissioner for the C.N.R. was present at the meeting. The railroad agreed to pay the cost of the survey of the property as well as to provide for park, industrial and municipal uses.

Woman Risks Life to Pick Up Boarder's Cheque

TRENTON — (Special) — Mrs. Mabel Pekar risked her life last night to pick up a boarder's cheque from a drawer in the flame and smoke filled kitchen of the Pekar home on R.R. 3 Trenton.

Earlier Mrs. Pekar lighted the furnace to take the chill off the place owned formerly by Jack Long. She was washing the evening meal dishes when her six-year-old son Jimmy cried: "What's cracking momma?" When she went out into the adjoining hall to see she found smoke pouring out from underneath the door to the cellar.

Mrs. Pekar was hit with a blast from the raging inferno when she opened the doorway leading to the cellar. She tried to douse the surging flames with four pails of water carried from the kitchen sink. She saw that the fire was still moving forward so she abandoned the pail and ran to the telephone in the upper part of the house to alert the Trenton fire department.

Next Mrs. Pekar saw that her two children, Lois, 8, and Johnny, 6, were safely out of the burning house. Then she remembered the roomer's cheque and went back to get it. Her hair was singed by the flames but by this time, carried by a draught roared up the stairway into the living quarters.

Trenton firemen arrived on the scene in the meantime. They played two hoses of river water on the fire in a stubborn battle they managed and while the flames gave ages to confine them to the cellar and the first floor. However, the facts upstairs on the second floor however were damaged by smoke

Harry MacKenzie Zone Chairman Of Navy League

The East Zone includes sea cadet corps in Belleville, Trenton, Port Hope, Ottawa, Peterborough, Oshawa, Kingston and Cornwall with a combined strength of nearly 1,000 officers and cadets.

Mr. MacKenzie's appointment, confirmed this month, makes him responsible for liaison between the corps and Navy League headquarters. His duties include inspection of each corps' facilities and accommodation as well as assistance to local committees in their efforts to marshal support for the corps.

Mr. MacKenzie joined the Ottawa sea cadet corps at the age of 12 and has been associated with sea cadets or the navy ever since. He joined the Royal Canadian Navy in 1945 at the age of 17 and for the next five years served on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts and at sea in the Atlantic and Caribbean.

Following discharge in 1950 he joined the Ontario Provincial Police detachment at Belleville. In 1950 he was appointed sports and training officer of RCSSC Quinte and became commanding officer in 1952. He resigned as CO in 1954.

"I hope to be able to continue the fine work Addison Lloyd has done for sea cadets and the Navy League for the past four years," said Mr. MacKenzie in taking over as zone chairman.

"I admired the job he did when I was commanding officer of the Belleville corps."

One of Mr. MacKenzie's first official duties will be his attendance at the annual meeting of the Ontario Branch of the Navy League being held in Toronto's Royal York Hotel this coming Friday and Saturday.

Train Derailed, Four Men Hurt

HAMILTON, N. Y. (AP) — Four men were injured when a two-unit diesel engine leaped more than 100 feet down a railroad embankment Thursday night, strewing its seven freight cars about a coal yard. The engine landed right side up.

All the cars on the New York, Ontario and Western train were derailed. The coal yard was damaged heavily.

The two men in the engine, Oliver Wrench, 61, and Frederick Lewis, 54, were taken to hospital, where they were reported in good condition. Leslie Viddeler, 60, and Fred Jaycox, 45, who had been riding in the rear of the train, were treated and released.

ing Berra ahead of him. It was his second of the game and fourth in world series competition. It also was the fifth home run of the game for both sides, one short of the record.

Reese threw out Howard. Martin slashed a triple over Gilliam's head. Newcombe replaced by Don Bessent, a right hander.

ROBBERY

After the four people entered the bank Moss locked the door and the larger man pulled a silver-barrelled revolver from his pocket, told Moss and Miss McKinnon: "this is a hold-up. Watch yourselves and you won't be injured."

Moss said the bandits herded himself and Miss McKinnon behind the counter, blindfolded them and tied their hands and feet with ropes and tape. Moss said he later worked his blindfold free and saw some of the things the bandits did.

Moss said the bandits asked about the size of the staff and when staff members came to work. They also asked who held the combinations on the safe and on the vault.

Miss McKinnon held one combination which she shut off before being blindfolded.

At this point one of the bandits turned on the lights and pulled down the blind. By a coincidence a bank signal to the police that "everything is alright" for the morning of June 29th, was a drawn blind.

ALL TIED UP

As the other members of the staff arrived for work they were tied up. Those trussed by the bandits were Ronald Henry, teller; William Cook, junior clerk; Joan Shannon, stenographer; Alex. Fraser, teller, and manager Carl McKay.

McKay, who fainted when told of the holdup, was not tied up by the bandits who even brought him a drink of water in a metal pot.

Bill Cook, Joan Shannon and McKay all knew parts of the combination on the vault and safe and were told to shut them off.

McKay told the bandits that should the combinations would not make any difference to them, because the time lock on the vault was not due to go off until 9.45.

Moss said the bandits became nervous as time ticked by. They said that they had "another job to do" in Marmora. Moss said that the bandits said they "wanted to get a man who had been responsible for sending them to Kingston."

Several attempts to open the vault failed. Finally, in desperation, the bandits tried the safe at 9.50 and opened it. They took the money from cash, put it into a burlap bag, tied it.

Then they untied the bank employees, locked them into the furnace room, tied them up again and left. Moss said the bandits left the bank at 10.03 and that bank employees forced their way from the furnace room at 10.07 and called police. Police advised them to carry on bank business as usual.

DESCRIPTION GIVEN

Moss then gave a detailed description of the two bandits.

He said "the larger man" was wearing a brown peaked cap, sun glasses, a red, white and black-checked shirt, faded tan gabardine jacket, work pants, cotton work gloves, brown shoes. He was about 5 feet 10 inches in height, 165-175 pounds in weight, 40-45 years of age, clean-shaven, full faced and brown haired.

The "smaller man" he described as wearing faded blue and white checked shirt, black leather gloves, black work boots.

He was about five feet, eight or nine inches tall, weighed about 145 pounds, was 30-35 years of age, clean-shaven.

Crown Attorney Gordon Robertson then asked Moss if he saw either of the two bandits in court and Moss identified the accused as being "the smaller" of the two armed robbers.

Court adjourned at this point and was scheduled to resume at 1.30 p.m.

It was suggested that the trial might continue until Friday.

WONDER DRUGS

In the last five years new drugs have been found that help control many cases of high blood pressure (hypertension in medical terms), blamed as the direct killer of 93,000 Americans annually, and of bandmaiden of death directly or indirectly in another 150,000 fatalities. More than 8,000,000 Americans have some degree of it.

Only in a small percentage of cases, such as certain kidney diseases and adrenal tumors, is the cause of hypertension known. Nerves and emotions can play a role. So perhaps can peculiar chemicals in the kidneys and brain.

The greater pressure can damage blood vessels, leading to hemorrhages. Such bleeding from damaged arteries brings strokes that can paralyze or kill.

Now there is an amazing array of drugs, which help bring hypertension under control for long periods in at least one-third of patients.

The list includes extracts from the Indian snakewood plant, rauwolfia serpentina; veratrum from the green hellebore; synthetics such as hydralazine and hexamethonium and pentapyrrolidinium. A drawback is that they may produce undesirable effects, such as nausea or drowsiness.

EISENHOWER — INDISPENSABLE MAN?

"The concern with which the whole world learned of the heart attack suffered by President Eisenhower of the United States reveals a widespread conviction that here is an "indispensable man."

A moment's reflection tempts one to scoff at this conclusion. Of course no man is indispensable. Death makes in the ranks of mankind. We are, we tell ourselves, none of us indispensable.

Yet a more leisurely study may convince us that the peculiarities of the present international situation and of the United States constitution have combined to make Eisenhower as close to being indispensable as a mortal man can be.

If there is to be peace on earth, it is essential that the giants who are abroad in the world in these days, the Union of Soviet Republics and the United States of America, should trust each other.

Trust between nations has its birth in trust between men. There is today nobody in the Soviet Union whom the Americans trust; but it appears that Eisenhower has at least made a start in winning the trust of the Russians. It is today but a little bud on the tree of peace. If it is shrivelled by the frost of death, it may be many seasons before another such bud appears and without such a bud there can be no peace.

The Russians are not entirely unrealistic in placing such a great emphasis on the personality of the president of the United States. No other nation has a constitution which, at the same time, gives the head of the state such wide powers, yet grants to others who may succeed him such freedom in the exercise of power.

A dictator wields much greater powers than those enjoyed by Eisenhower, but a dictator's successor, unless he arise out of the chaos of armed revolt, is almost certain to come from the same political circle surrounded by the former ruler. He is, therefore, likely to think like the dead dictator; if he did not, he would not have been in line for the seat of power.

A parliamentary democracy is likely to replace a dead prime minister by a man of similar views, for the successor is almost certain to have been a member of the dead statesman's cabinet and, as such, would have concurred in the policies this cabinet had followed.

In the United States, on the other hand, the executive is not subject to the parliament or the people's elected representatives to the same extent as it is under the parliamentary system followed in Canada, Britain and many other lands. The president, therefore, has much more personal power than has a prime minister. Yet, at the same time, the democratic tradition of the U.S. permits those in line of succession to hold vastly different views from those of the president. For instance, it is theoretically possible for the president and the vice-president, who succeeds to the presidency on the president's death, to be members of different political parties. While this situation is possible in theory, it does not arise in practice. But there is no unanimity of opinion amongst the members of a political party in the U.S. The president and vice-president, while nominally members of the same party, may hold views which are poles apart.

It may well be, therefore, that Eisenhower's recovery is indispensable to the world's welfare.

COINING A PHRASE

Opinions about slang differ. Some detest it; others like it. Those whose knowledge of the language has been acquired by dint of hard study are likely to fall into the former category. Those to whom slang includes many who are just too lazy to learn the many words which are already in the dictionary. Every so often, though, a slang word or phrase appears which has a character all its own. When it does, it is loved by those who have a feeling for the language.

We are not at all sure that the expression "dirty bird" qualifies for such affection. It is, we understand, the brain child of a certain popular television comedian. To understand its precise meaning, one would need to have been a witness to his birth and have kept an eye on it in its infancy. It is now long past the diaper stage, romping lustily in widely differing gatherings.

Slang purists, however, have a habit of wedding themselves quite early in life to many admirers and the resulting offspring vary greatly.

The other day we were termed a "muddy robin." It was a moment before the ancestry on that term was evident. This child of "dirty bird" has a charming manner. There is a ring of affection about it, which takes away any sting which might be characteristic of its parent.

On the other hand, "muddy robin's" half-brother, "filthy sparrow," is quite obviously a detestable little brat, product of an egg which, with better fortune, would have proven addled.

The London Telegraph reports that "fan mail" for celebrated London police dogs "has assumed large proportions." None of it catty, we hope.

SUMMER'S END

There's a cowboy in the den;
And a little girl of four
With some paper and my pen
Directin' of all-tough men
Floor.
There are broken toys brought out
That I promised I would mend,
But I'm glad to hear them shout.
It's the summer season's end.

It is dull to dine alone
Now I've company for tea.
Since the loneliness has flown,
Home is as it used to be.
So shout and shed your tears.
Fill the room with angry shrieks,
That is music to my ears
That I haven't heard for weeks.

There is noise I wouldn't stop
Since so long they've been away.
"Can we have some soda pop?"
And I answer: "Yes, you may.
There'll be cherries in it, too.
Three or four or five or ten."
Now with loneliness I'm through.
They're at home with me again.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hagerman entertained a large group of friends on Sunday, Sept. 27, at their home on the Trent Road, in honor of Mrs. Hagerman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rodgers on the occasion of their 56th wedding anniversary. Mr. Rodgers has passed his 80th birthday and Mrs. Rodgers has passed 58 years; both are quite active and enjoy good health. They were both born in Rawdon township in the vicinity of Stirling. Mr. Rodgers is a son of Robert Rodgers and his wife Margaret Brown, who came to Canada from Ireland and settled on a farm near Stirling. Mrs. Rodgers was born a short distance from her husband's home, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Craig, who came from Nottingham, England, and his wife Barbara Gordon, who came from Aberdeen, Scotland. Other Side of the Boom
(Montreal Gazette)

It is easy to speak of the vast economic development of Canada. And vast it most certainly is. But when the figures are analyzed, they suggest that Canada is getting less than the full benefit from her economic boom.

From the Canadian point of view, we would be getting the biggest if we were processing our materials in our own country and reselling out the finished product. But the figures show that this is exactly what we are failing to do. As far as processing goes, we are not even holding our own. The bigger the boom, the less processing we are doing to get the most out of it.

A striking analysis of the figures appears in an article by Richard E. Edsell, in the current issue of Canadian Business, the monthly magazine published by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Back in 1938 (the last full year before the war) 49 per cent of Canadian exports were fully manufactured goods. Last year just under 40 per cent were fully manufactured goods. This means that Canada is falling away from the processing of her products to be processed in other lands.

If these figures concerned exports only, they would be disturbing enough. But the same picture appears up in the country's own fully manufactured goods. They offered little or no opportunity for further processing in the country. But by 1954 the percentage of fully manufactured goods in the total of Canadian imports had risen. It was up almost one-third over 1938.

In other words, more than three-quarters of all goods that Canada could bring into the country are fully processed, while much less than one half of those we export out of the country is fully processed. Evidently, we are not getting the full benefit of our resources and storehouse of raw materials. We are far from self-sufficient. And we are even slipping back from the position we had before the war.

Viewed in this light, our economic boom is largely a boom for other nations, who find in Canada a source of supply, and, in many cases, sell back to us goods made from the materials we have supplied to them.

The question, of course, is complex. In great part, it is a penalty Canada pays for her comparatively small population. There is not in this country a big enough domestic market to enable many industries to compete with the mass production of the United States.

But the fact that we have taken increased by attempts touse U.S. wage scale as the standard) takes no little account that this is not a mass production country. In this respect the advantage of the United States are still further increased, and of course, the competitive position with regard to low-wage producers elsewhere in the world becomes even more overwhelming in favor.

Some experts say that Canadians should not worry too much about buy from others if we are to sell over others' counters the products of trading pattern that natural law would impose on us.

But it is hard to become altogether reconciled to the fact that as the years pass we are, as far as percentages are concerned, being forced back into doing processing or manufacturing nation. For materials are not inexhaustible, and a country mean that lower prices are realized and fewer jobs are provided. And might observe that is the case.

But it, in turn, means that we will be relatively slow in building up the larger domestic market that we must have if we are to become, to a greater extent, a manufacturing nation.

Mr. Massey's Watch-Chain
(Ottawa Journal)

Mr. Raymond Massey as a stage and screen star must be aware of fashion trends and we are grateful to see he has encouraged his brother photographed wearing a vest with a watch-chain properly draped through a special buttonhole.

Watch-chains now are relatively rare and with their passing has gone the opportunity to judge a man quickly. The prosperous merchant in another day had a chain of stout gold links spread across an ample corporation. The sentimental husband had a "chain" made of his wife's hair tastefully garnished with bands of gold. The joiner had a chain weighed down by emblems of fraternal association. The poor man had a leather chain and the gay dog had a very narrow chain of precious metal, as tender as a spider's web.

It is not that men have become shy of display. Every day we see wrist-watch bands as blatant as golden bracelets or the anklets of an African dancing girl. Our suspicion is that, as soon as non-skid shoes begin to wear key-ring chains that touched the ground, sober men began to feel a chain meant they were either antiquated or juvenile. So they discarded watchchains — and vests — and we are delighted to see the fashion return. Mr. Massey, a man who dresses with authority, leading us back to sanity, tests and conservatism.

Are Skirts Market Clue?
(Financial Post)

There are those who assert that trends in women's skirts preached their high in 1929, and their subsequent fall in the middle a few years later during the low-point of the depression.

Adherents of this theory will be interested to note that the bib fashion news for fall is the bib-like skirt. This garment was last seen in the period 1905-06 — a period of rapid growth in the Canadian economy, and of particularly active movement in real estate values.

We doubt frankly, if the bib-like skirt will hobble today's woman as effectively as it did her predecessor. Investors should not, therefore, expect the revival of this fashion to be a clear indication of an economic trend.

Do Not Dislike School
(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

One commentator, making reference to the reopening of the schools said the "Heads of young-sters are bowed." It is the old idea that children don't like going to school. Some don't. A great many do, and were happy to see teacher and the inside of the classroom.

Beware The Bad Heart Obsession

Five years ago I told here, or at least I wrote for publication here a story about two men who, some months following coronary thrombosis, achieved outstanding athletic records, one in mountain climbing in Switzerland, the other in a marathon in South Africa.

Not that such extreme physical effort is advisable for every one who has had one or more coronary accidents. I cited these achievements merely to show that a person who has or has had one or another kind of heart trouble is not thereby barred from working and playing.

I say to the individual with heart trouble, if you're not a malingerer, a tramp or a low-grade moron, by all means avail yourself of the remedial effect of graduated exercise, no matter what interesting contrary medical authorities thought about it.

Whenever I see a poor geek who has or has had some kind of heart trouble walking on eggs I feel about the same as I do when some reader sends me a clipping of a newspaper report or story, in the traditional humorous style, of the wholesale homicide perpetrated on an entire family or at least upon the defenceless concerned.

children in the family; or when some guillotine customer describes his suffering he or she endured for several days following the clamps and cautery operation for piles. I feel mad, I grit my teeth and I still have a full complement of teeth in good working order, most of them my own — and I swear (mentally). Pigeon take such dumb doctors, I exclaim, to slaughter.

For many years I have told you timid souls that heart trouble, no matter just what kind of trouble it may be,should not handicap any one person or prevent him or her from doing moderate work, walking, dancing, playing golf, bowling, gardening, skating, swimming or engaging in any ordinary physical activity.

In my opinion any one who claims he or she is totally disabled by what heart or head disease should be given the alternative of going to work or submitting to examination by an independent professional opinion or two or more competent physicians whose judgment would be considered.

Such an unemotional way of dealing with the bad heart obsession would be a blessing to all concerned.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PRINTER'S INK

I have no idea how many tons of ink have been used to allow me to have a library of several thousand books that have brought joy, solace, hope, information of all sorts and a feeling of fellowship with an unseen host of human beings. And created in like manner as myself. But this is the least of our books newspapers, magazines and all manner of printed material — all because printer's ink has made such a condition possible.

What a debt we owe those who first invented the type and made it possible to spread this ink all over the civilized world. I'm glad I'm a printer's ink. I like its beauty when attractively used to the many fonts of type. Just think of the great amount of ink that is used daily in getting out the average newspaper! I am thrilled to stand before one of the monstrous printing presses and watch that ink spread itself over the newspaper that I read so eagerly day after day.

What a changed world this would be had no ink ever been invented! What a multitude of blessings are derived from its having been brought to them! Now we have beauty scattered everywhere in newspapers and magazines giving color, something we looked upon as impossible a few years ago. And there is improvement ahead. Never will the ambition of man grow cold to something better.

I love beautifully printed books. But this is not my greatest love of art. I like to have them in my library and look at them, but I would pet a beautiful dog or smell a perfect flower. Printer's ink is not to be classed with perfumes. Billions in wealth is devoted to attractively printed publications of all kinds. The designing of book jackets and magazine covers has daily its getting out of newspaper attendance. It is a same attention that a beautifully dressed woman does. Said Galsworthy: "Ink is cheap, and man disposed to prejudice, to restless change and to error of judgment. Ship. He lets loose currents of ink beyond his ken or his control."

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Some men, when they wash in a fundamentally untidy, thoughtless, lavatory, lean down so close, keep careless and be-damn-to-everyone fashion. Socialism would cure it. It calls for an innate sense of discipline and a natural consideration. I am willing to bet that you could spot the washroom of a sleeping car, in that leather seat over which hangs the notice "passengers are requested not to smoke" while others are using the washroom," and, by inference, not splashing habits of the passengers, determine within ten percent the political inclinations of them all. The socialists would barely splash the outer perimeter of the basin. The anti-socialists would all to standing in puddles. And there would be ten times as much soap on the floor as the state of the washroom floor, by the time the train arrives at the destination.

An Ottawa scientist is working on a synthetic substance which we use soft soap will be interested in this, but nobody could be delighted if he could come up with a formula for edible "crow."

Single Shot Ruled Limit
(Brantford Expositor)

A news item from Stratford, Ontario, recounts that a Blanshard township farmer, who had a fox in his haughit he was shooting a fox residing his henhouse but shot a neighbor's pig instead, was given a year's suspended sentence by the Magistrate and ordered to pay $50 compensation to the porker's owner.

This seems to us to be pretty rough on the Blanshard marksman. After all, it was his chicken-roost, and if he missed a pig he got a fox, he might plead darkness as the cause. The odd part about however, is that while the defendant might have believed the pig to be a fox, Reynard to begin with, the first blast from his double-barrelled shotgun brought down from the pig and, thus apprised, the farmer should have refrained from discharging the second barrel.

This no doubt involves interesting technicalities in the matter of mistaken identity and, since we make bee-lines for what we have learned in the law, we hesitate to approach the court's grounds for judgment.

It does occur to us, however that a man should be permitted to shoot his own property and that, in respect to trespassing animals, the old wild sort, the onus in the matter of what happens to them when they wander into someone else's property is on the owner. To this principle the magistrate evidently adhered, for he told the deceased trespasser, after he'd keep his livestock at home henceforth.

The point involved therefore, seems to be that a man in whose chicken coop the pig was an unwelcome visitor went too far in firing his second barrel. It is a matter of backstairs thinking, but might not defence counsel have argued that his client did, indeed, recognize the animal as such and having been entitled to pay rather than by a fox, but let fly with the second and lethal lot of pellets because, being a humane man, he could not bear the prolonging squealer out of its misery.

Trouble For Peers
(Christian Science Monitor)

It may have happened before—certainly it has often happened since, but we mean trouble for the British House of Lords and by "since" we mean the time when that "Chancellor unwary" with "badinage so airy" found he was not talking to the "proprietor of a ladies' seminary" but to an "influential Fairy."

Those intervening years have passed since this exchange first took place in the premiere of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe." And the wand of time has wrought (or should it be wreaked?) many changes in (or on) Britain's upper chamber. But the one none has been more revolutionary than that recently demanded by one of the peers themselves, Lord Salisbury.

He has given peerless members to attend meetings! At least it would drop those who never ("what, never? No, never, and never") being the hardly-every pretty uncommonable too.

Such a motion seems unappreciative of peers who may feel they are performing a public service by keeping off the premises. Some of those affected by such a ruling now sit in the House of Commons as it is decent to get. There is one, for example, a British Columbia rancher in Alberta; a third is believed to be in India, and one in Africa is reported to have changed name changed so that it begins with "Mc" and ends with "Donald," so the door in the faces of people who do not belong. It is fantastic to shut and keep such a distance. And the move seems inconsistent with a recent ruling of the House of Lords which prevented a young man from renouncing his title so he could enter the House of Commons.

But perhaps that is the one reason on the proposed rule could be adopted: it would help keep the British Constitution unexplainable, especially to foreigners, and thus help the Britton's feeling of national security.

Strength for the Day

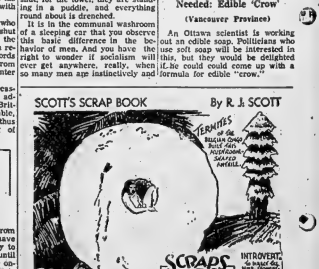
HERE AND NOW



A great many of us are convinced that we could do much better in life if only we were someone else. "If I were in his position," you hear someone say, "I could do many things hum around here." Or else, "Just give me his income, and I'll show you what generosity really is." "No wonder he's so successful," someone else says. "Look at his background and training."

Predictions are dangerous, but a safe one is that if we wait until our ship comes in to make the big decisions, we may not be able to make it. One of the greatest lessons of human life some of us never learn; success comes from living hard with what we have where we are. It is too easy to waste our lives marking time until we can make a new start. The only way to make a new start is to start.

Perhaps this is nowhere more than in our moral and spiritual lives. We would like to do better. We would like to be more Christlike. We are sure that when conditions are right, we will do better. Meanwhile, right here in the present — pull—well, what can we do?

Moses gave the Israelites words to Moses: "The place whereon Thou standest is holy ground."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK — By R. J. SCOTT

Safe Conduct Promised Soon For Juan Peron

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Authoritative sources today said Juan D. Peron, still aboard a Paraguayan gunboat in the River Plate, probably would receive his long-awaited safe conduct to exile during the day.

The deposed Argentine dictator took refuge on the gunboat Paraguay nine days ago. Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi, who led the revolt which ended Peron's 10-year sway as Argentina's strong man, said correspondents Tuesday night that Peron was free to begin exile in Paraguay at any time.

But the piece of paper granting him safe conduct to Asuncion, the Paraguayan capital, was still not forthcoming immediately, Lonardi, replying to questions, said only: "The moment of the departure of Gen. Peron is a problem that concerns the Paraguayan government."

RUMORS START

The delay set off a wave of rumors.

One unconfirmed report said a segment of Paraguay's armed forces objected that Peron's presence in their country would cause difficulties between Paraguay and other western hemisphere powers. This report said President Alfredo Stroessner would limit Peron's stay to 48 hours, after which he would continue to London.

As conditions in Argentina approached normal today, the curfew imposed after the revolt was lifted.

Armed soldiers and marines who have been guarding many key spots in Buenos Aires were removed.

More key men in the Peron regime were rounded up. Orlando Santos and Pedro Bonanni, former ministers of industry and housing, were jailed at the national penitentiary "at the disposition of the authorities."

UNDER HOUSE ARREST

Rear-Admiral Albert Teisaire, Peron's vice-president, and Rear-Admiral Luis J. Cornes, ex-minister of the navy, were put under house arrest.

Police sources told tall tales of vast wealth being uncovered in a search of Peron's two residences in the capital. One informant close to government investigators claimed searchers had found $20,000,000 stowed away in cash in the presidential palace. The informant could not explain why Peron left the transportable cash behind.

Other sources said the investigators found 14 boxes of gold table utensils, two boxes of gold money, and 18,000,000 pesos ($1,305,000) in Argentine currency in the residences.

CHARGE IS LAID

SMITHS FALLS (CP) — Harry McElroy, 63, of Delta, has been charged by Ontario provincial police in connection with an accident about eight miles west of here. McElroy, who will appear in Brockville court Oct. 5, faces a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. Morton Horowitz, 20, of Toronto suffered abrasions when hit by a car.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has granted recognition to the new Argentine government, it was learned Tuesday. An external affairs department spokesman said the Canadian embassy in Buenos Aires has been instructed to recognize the new government there.

50th Wedding Anniversary For Mr., Mrs. W. J. Martin

Potatoes at 25c per bag; coal $4 per ton and butter at 14c per lb. were the prices recalled this week by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Martin, 92 South George street, who over the week-end celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

"People maybe didn't have as much money then as now, but they were a lot happier," Mr. Martin asserted, as a young man he recalls working as section hand on the railway for $1.10 per day.

Born on the Mohawk Indian Reservation, Mr. and Mrs. Martin were married 50 years ago at the Mohawk Reserve council house by the late Rev. F. Creeggan, father of Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of Christ Church. Mrs. Martin is the former Laura Thompson. She is 78, while she is 69.

FORMERLY FARMED

Formerly a farmer, Mr. Martin worked as section hand and as section foreman with the G.T.R. and C.N.R. for 25 years. The couple has lived in the city for the past 32 years, where following his retirement from the railway Mr. Martin was employed at the liquor store on Bridge street. He now has a part time job as caretaker at the Kiwanis Centre.

One of Mrs. Martin's pet peeves is her husband's use of tobacco. "I don't approve of smoking, but if it does them any good I'm glad they have it," she says.

FAMILY DINNER HELD

Saturday evening the Martins were "at home" to approximately 30 friends, while Sunday evening a family dinner was held in honor of the golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin have two sons, Carewin of Montreal, and Jack of Belleville, and three daughters, Mrs. George (Beatrice) Westlake and Mrs. John (Marjorie) Merhey, both of this city, and Mrs. Jack (June) Wilson of Toronto. There are seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mrs. Ray Rowley gave a most interesting report on the recent activities at School for Leaders held at Ontario Ladies' College at Whitby this summer and urged all to attend if at all possible.

Mizpah benediction closed the meeting and a social half-hour

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The September meeting of Plainfield W.M.S. was held in the church with an attendance of 13. Mrs. Fred Hall opened the meeting and Mrs. Will Sills had charge of the worship service the theme being "The Call to Commitment". The Scripture passages were read by Mrs. Jack Skelly, Mrs. Blanche Emerson, Mrs. Clarence Hall and Mrs. Charles Treverton. Mrs. Sills led in a discussion of these Bible readings which proved both interesting and helpful, also gave a meditation on the importance of Christian discipleship.

Roll call was answered by "a verse about a man in the Bible". Treasurer reported $112.37 having been raised for the year. Mrs. W. Bradshaw gave an invitation to the members to attend an open W.M.S. meeting in Foxboro United $4.05.

Three Students Given Bibles Ere Departure

A number of the girls of the Christ Ambassador class of Calvary Temple, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kelly, 29 Station Street, to wish God speed to three girls of the Temple, Louise Harris, Jean Kelly, and Ruth Phillips, who are planning entering Eastern Pentecostal Bible College at Peterborough, early in October.

Bible quiz was conducted by Mrs. Arnold Valleau who was a very capable mistress of ceremonies. She presented a corsage of Talisman roses to each of the freshmen and to Joyce Valleau, who is entering her second year at E.P.B.C.

An impressive ceremony followed in which each student lighted a white candle and gave 1 verse of Scripture. Each of the girls' mothers then gave a suitable word of thanksgiving to God for directing her daughter's life to follow Him in studying the Bible and being led by His Spirit to do His will.

Vivian Wood of Frankford, a senior of Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, gave the girls address on life at College. She said she wished that this were only her first year as she had enjoyed the course so much, but she warned the girls to practise patience in dealing with other students and she told them that occasionally they would suffer pangs of homesickness.

Mrs. Valleau read a very touching farewell address and presented each freshman with a beautiful white New Testament.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Valleau. The centrepiece of the table was a beautiful cake with the inscription "God Bless You, Joyce, Jean, Louise, Ruth," flanked by the four white lighted candles.

The party closed with prayer by the four mothers of the students. Everybody joined hands and sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

BEAUTY "BARGAINS" CAN PROVE COSTLY

Bargain day aftermath—a vanity filled with partly used jars and bottles and the one thing she really needs is missing.

When is a bargain a bargain? Obviously, only if it's something that you can use. Too many women, however, are inclined to go on buying sprees when it comes to cosmetics and other beauty aids. There's a sale on at their favorite drug or department store and off they go buying up everything in sight—all in the cause of loveliness. Which would be just fine if they'd use them. And finish up with one jar or bottle before buying another. But, no, just a few days later there's another sale and off goes our beauty-conscious lass to stock up again. The result is usually a vanity completely cluttered with partly used creams, lotions and what have you—most of them never being used.

Actually, the average woman needs only a few aids to keep her lovely and she could save herself a lot of money if she'd keep this fact in mind. It's a good idea, of course, to try the new products that come on the market since there are almost daily improvements in cosmetics. But why not finish up one jar before experimenting with another? That's just good sense.

Here's a list of things you really do need, however, and if you're "fresh out" of them, you write a memo to yourself to replenish:

For cleansing purposes, one good cream or lotion is sufficient. A nice, bland soap, too, if skin is inclined to be oily. If you have dry skin, you'll need a night cream. A skin-toning lotion is also essential and a good body lotion will help to keep skin on hands and legs as smooth as your facial complexion. Add a cream mask for your once-a-week facial and that should round out the items needed for complexion care.

Where make-up is concerned, a foundation is a good investment since it protects your skin against the weather and gives your face the smooth, mat finish over which powder can be best applied. You'll need rouge if you're the pale type. Perhaps not if you have vivid coloring. Three or four shades of lipstick, preferably matched to your nail polish, should do nicely. And for evening make-up you'll want mascara and eyeshadow.

A good manicure set is a "must" and at least one fragrance belonging on every dressing table. If you can't afford perfumes, settle for a delightfully scented cologne or toilet water—and use either lavishly.

There are less glamorous items you'll need, too—deodorant, shampoo, toothbrush, toothpaste, mouthwash, hair and nail brushes, eyebrow tweezers, talcum and dental floss—but these you probably don't overstock. It's those luxurious creams and fragrant lotions that fill your vanity drawers to the bursting point. Which, as we said before, would be just fine—if you'd only use them!

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUR ONLY WAY OUT IS TO ACCEPT THE CONSEQUENCES YOU HAVE INVITED

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a young man just out of college, and have my first job, I am very happy at it, and make good money, but I have got into trouble that I think will just about change my whole life.

Before I went to school, there was a certain girl I used to take out. They never were real dates, I just picked her up whenever I couldn't find anyone else. She was only 16 years old then, but she was very happy at drinking and staying all night. I knew she wasn't a nice girl, but she was all mixed up, and she tried to be nice when I was around her. I used to try and defend her when the other guys talked about her. She would run with her own crowds that I never went around with, and some of them were pretty awful.

My folks used to try and get me not to take her out. She would call my home, and they wouldn't even talk to her.

Now, she are both in our twenties, and since I have come home, I have picked her up at a party or other place and taken her out again. She still drank as much as ever, and was an awful dirty talker. When my father heard about me taking her out again, he gave me a good talking to about girls like her.

Now, she is going to have a baby, and she says it is mine. She calls me up at my job all the time, and even goes to my friends and relatives and tells them she is going to have my baby. She wants money, and she says I don't have to marry her if I'll just give her money. She makes fun of my religion, too, and says my family think they are so smart, but that she'll take them down a peg. She says either I give her money or marry her, or she'll go to court and sue me.

I have told my folks about this trouble, and they say it's up to me now. I know I've hurt them, and I feel very bad, I'm old enough to know what is right, and I know I can't blame anyone but myself. I've a mother is just wonderful, and I want her to be proud of me some day.

If I only knew it was my baby. If it was, I would want to take care of it.

What shall I do? I have been to a lawyer, and he says it is hard to prove what girls are in court.

— J.C.C.

Dear J.C.C:

You are quite like that last sentence of yours. Is "what girls are" any worse than what young men are who run around with girls they know they shouldn't associate with? As you say yourself, you know you're to blame for the bad trouble you're in. Why not face that fact squarely, all along the line? It's not a very pretty picture to see a young man deliberately expose himself to trouble by going out with the wrong kind of girl and then, when the trouble he invited does come, turn around and "throw stones" at her.

You have a good family background, and got trouble despite it. Have you stopped to think that perhaps the lack of the kind of family you have might be responsible for this girl's character and behavior?

Don't misunderstand me, I fully appreciate, and am sorry for the serious plight in which you find yourself. But, frankly, I think you should be man enough to refrain from slurring the girl. Moreover, on the practical side, your attitude toward her may determine whether or she makes things as difficult as possible for you, or can be persuaded to be less vengeful.

I think your best chance of the latter is to show yourself ready to accept responsibility for the child.

Judging from the few girls I've asked and the meals I've eaten away from home, I think tomatoes, both ripe and green, are not being used enough as a cooked vegetable, while they are abundant.

There is a lovely way of serving fried tomatoes, either ripe, half-ripe or green, with cream gravy that Missourians use. It is Gerry that I am thinking of in particular. They are perfectly delicious with fresh caught panfried fish. I know because when we were poor students we used to catch catfish by the basketful in the Cherrion river, and skin 'em and take them to Doc's as our contribution to supper. Gerry would "whomp up" some fried tomatoes in cream gravy while I fried the fish, and the whole tribe would have a feast.

FRIED GREEN OR RIPE TOMATOES 'I CREAM GRAVY

Six large ripe or half-ripe or green tomatoes, washed and stemmed, 4 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 1-3 cups milk (or half and half evaporated milk and water), 1-2 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Cut tomatoes in halves crosswise. Do not peel. Sprinkle with mixture of 1 tablespoon of flour, 3-4 teaspoon of the salt and the pepper combined. Saute in the butter gently until golden brown and just tender on both sides. They cook very quickly. Arrange the 3 slices on a hot platter. Stir the remaining flour into the butter and tomatoes left in pan. Also add the remaining 3-4 teaspoon salt and all remaining ingredients. Pour over tomatoes and garnish with parsley.

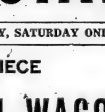
Lunch-packing mothers are often after me for sandwich spreads. Here is one that they can make from green tomatoes and stow away in the refrigerator. It may even be sealed in pint jars and stored on your fruit shelves. To 1 ground meat may be quickly added for sandwiches for the children's lunch boxes.

GREEN TOMATO SANDWICH SPREAD

Two cups ground green tomatoes, 2 red sweet peppers, 2 green peppers, 1 teaspoon salt, 6 medium-sized sweet pickles. Wash, drain and grind tomatoes. Drain them well. There must be 2 cups of tomatoes after the liquid has been drained off. Grind red and green peppers too and sprinkle the salt over the mixture and let stand 15 minutes. Again drain off all liquid. Add the ground sweet pickles to mixture and cook over medium heat for 10 minutes. Now stir them into this

DRESSING:

1 cup each sugar and sour cream, 2 tsps well beaten, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1-2 cup vinegar. Mix all of these ingredients and bring to a boil stirring. Add tomato-pepper mixture and cook stirring for ten minutes after boiling point is reached. You must stir it constantly. Store in refrigerator in covered jars or seal in sterile pint jars. Delicious alone in sandwiches—but if they are for lunch keep ground meat or chopped nuts should be added.



There is no easy way out of a situation like this. Your lawyer has already told you that, I advise you to let him take complete charge of the whole matter. He may be able to make an arrangement by which you see the girl through financially until after the baby's birth, and then it might be put up for adoption. I doubt very much if she is the sort of girl who would wish to keep the baby any way.

You should have a talk with your pastor and another with your doctor. They might have some helpful ideas.

Face up to this like a man, now, and accept the consequences of your shameful folly, whatever they may be.

You say you want to make your mother proud of you some day. Well, you can't build a groundwork for that by the way you act right now.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"HOUSEWARMING" IS A HEARTWARMING WORD

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We have just purchased a lovely new home. I want to have a cocktail party as soon as possible, and invite all our friends. My husband insists that "housewarming" should not be used in invitations because it looks as if we were asking for gifts for the house. Doesn't "Open House" imply the same thing?

2. I want to use plain white informals, with the words "We've Moved" on the top sheet. Do you approve? If you do, will you please suggest the correct form for the invitations?

3. Do I open gifts (and I know the guests will bring gifts, no matter what I call the party!) as each one is given to me?

4. Would it be proper to insert a news item regarding our "Open House" (or whatever you think we ought to call it) listing the names of the guests? — Reader

1. High congratulations and friendly felicitations on your new home! Housewarming is such a heartwarming and come - hither word that I hope your husband will be willing to have you use it. Of course "Open House" is quite all right to use . but there will be many times when you can use this phrase, whereas "Housewarming" is appropriate only for this very special occasion when you bid your friends welcome to your new home. Reckon them to come for their first look-see.

2 No, I don't approve of using "We've Moved" on the first page of the informals . Instead write Housewarming or Open House in the center; or write your names in the center, the new address in the lower right corner (perhaps your new telephone number in the lower left corner). Then the invitation itself on the inside pages.

3. Yes . . . this is the gracious and appropriate thing to do. The giver-of-a-gift doesn't want any holding-back gesture, any awkward postponement of enthusiastic appreciation and comment.

4. Yes . . . quite correct to send news of the housewarming to the local newspapers, and with the list of the guests.

WHEN ENGAGED GIRL DOES NOT LIVE WITH HER PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son has just become engaged to a girl who does not live with her parents. There was some misunderstanding between her and her parents, and she lives with her married sister, although she visits her parents. It is my understanding that the fiance's parents either invite the girl's "family" to come to see them, or have the young man ask when his parents may come to see them. Now please solve our problem: Whom shall we invite first, parents, with whom she doesn't live, or (2) her sister with whom she lives with whom she makes her home? — Kl.

What a dilemma! This is such a personal situation that I think you should ask your son to take it over and find out from his fiances what her wishes in the matter. I judge that you know your son's fiancee? If you don't you should of course either telephone her or write her, letting her how happy you are about the engagement, welcoming her into your family, and saying how very much you would like to have her come to your home. Under the unhappy circumstances I'm sure she won't wish you to invite her parents first, with her, but your son could find out if she would like the mayor you invite her sister and brother-in-law as "representatives" for her family. You can't follow the rule-book about this; you should abide by the wishes of the girl.

HER COSTUME SHOULD GIVE COMPLIMENT TO SISTER-IN-LAW'S WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister-in-law is to be married soon. A church wedding at 7:30 in the evening, but not a large wedding. She will wear a white wedding dress and is to have maid of honor and one bridesmaid. Since my husband and I will also be guests (not members of the wedding party), do you think I would be proper if I wear a suit, tailored suite of brown tweed? — F.B.

I would very much tha. it would be appreciate for you to wear this tailored tweed suit to the evening wedding. The fact that the bride-is your sister-in-law should mean, I think, that you would like to dress to show proper honor to this relationship. Also even if, as you say, it is not to be a large wedding, it is evident, from the fact that the bride is to wear a while wedding dress and is to have attendants, that she is planning her wedding to be somewhat on the formal side, at least semi-formal. So you should wear a dress, street-length or) somewhat longer length, of an afternoon type or a simple dinner-type, of a shade not too light: with a small, close fitting evening hat or other head covering if the determination of the church demands "head-covering."

W.A. Holds Fall Bazaar

RAWDON— Springbrook W.A. sponsored its annual autumn bazaar and tea in the Orange hall, recently.

Guests attended from Marmora, St. Thomas, St. Mark's Stirling, Carmel, Hoard's, Wellman's, Bethel, Mount Pleasant and other points.

Mrs. Delbert Fleming, president of Springbrook W.A., welcomed the gathering. Mrs. Carman Sine was pianist and Mrs. H. Beare conducted the devotional.

Mrs. Gordon Webb introduced Mrs. Arthur Pyear of Carmel, who is president of Hastings and Prince Edward W.A. in the Belleville Presbytery.

Mrs. Pyear said the Ladies' Aid was primarily organized to furnish church funds and this is still true in many places. However, today the W.A. group have a wider vision of service and a more spiritual outlook.

The devotional is centred around a special booklet for the use of W.A. women throughout Canada, motto of which is "Let your manner of life be worthy of Jesus Christ."

The Citizenship is centred on the theme "For more of us liveth unto himself."

The Youth department urges training young people for church work.

The National Evangelistic campaign in 1956 is now being planned by the general charge and a special rally is being held in Belleville early in October.

The Christian church exists for those who are not in it and its chief aim is missionary, Mrs. Pyear said.

Friendliness is a valuable asset and the W.A.'s are promoting the social cup of tea. Women banded together in millions could be a great factor in preventing another war. Each W.A. should help to maintain good Christian standards in their community remembering their real service rendered is honorable.

The Rev. H. Beare thanked Mrs. Pyear. He then opened the bazaar and those in charge did a thriving business.

Tables were filled with a large variety of aprons, crochet work, embroidered articles, children's wool knit mitts and cushion tops. A large array of homemade candy, cakes, and garden produce, was displayed and sold.

Springbrook W.A. then served afternoon tea.

WMS Meets At Mount Pleasant

RAWDON — Mrs. John Holmes was hostess on Wednesday for Mount Pleasant Women's Missionary Society.

Some 27 members and guests attended.

Miss Ruth Linn was pianist while Mrs. Frank Jeffs presided.

The Bible-centered worship services planned for six months and outlined in the Missionary Monthly are to be the basis of the special study.

Mrs. Will Potts conducted the first of the series based on "The Call to Discipleship." The Various Bible passages were read by Mrs. W. G. Fletcher. Mrs. Will McAdam read a message and Mrs. Ira Divid read a paper.

Mrs. Will Jeffs sang and Mrs. Ernest Spencer gave a reading. Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report.

The offering was dedicated with a hymn. The president read an article from the Monthly on "The work of our port women in caring for the newcomers to Canada." The rally will be held October 14 at Trenton Grace Church with Mrs. Margaret Brown as guest speaker. Delegates will be appointed at the next meeting.

The next meeting will be held October 11th at the home of Mrs. Grant Hubbs. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Percy MacMullen based on "Thanksgiving" and the new study books "Coming our Way" and "The Wardship Race" will be introduced and studied.

Mrs. Lloyd Cooney read an article on "Schools in Korea."

Mrs. Herbert Smith concluded the study on "The Church in India".

The last chapter dealt with the future of mission work in India".

Mrs. Frances Wrightman assisted Mrs. Smith with a quiz which brought out a few special phases of mission work in India.

Many Canadians are finding for the first time in their lives that there is a world beyond Canada for which they have at least a share of responsibility. The New Testament teaches that our basic needs are common to all and Christian people are challenged to practical and concrete vision.

Mrs. John Mulheron closed the study on India with a prayer that we may fully realize the work of others and be willing to share.

Following the Mizpah Benediction the hostess served refreshments.

Johnstown Church Has Anniversary

JOHNSTOWN — Johnstown held its anniversary services recently.

The service opened with quiet music by the pianist, Mrs. W. S. Harry and the choir entering singing with the congregation joining in.

The guest minister, Rev. Townsend of Redmerville, led in prayer.

The text was found in Proverbs 23, "As a man thinketh, so is he." Mr. Townsend said, "We make our own future, the way we think. Our thoughts help to build our personality. Too much self pity leaves its mark on us and wrong thinking has a bad effect on our health.

What does Christianity stand for? It is the only secret to a happy future.

Religion helps build a happy future and is for daily use, causing use to lose our fear, said Rev. Townsend. Religion should not be dull. All religion is not Christian, plants have to have the sunlight or they die, so we must have God for one cannot possibly be happy without Him.

Without God there is no life. Think on the good side of life rather than the bad side. As one goes along the street and sees a terrible looking person, instead of remarking on his looks, pray for that person, said Rev. Townsend.

NIGHT SERVICE

The night service at 7.30 was opened with quiet music with the choir again walking up the aisle singing with the congregation. Rev. Mr. Puttenham led in prayer.

The Scripture reading was found in John 16 by Rev. Finley of Smithfield. Rev. Puttenham welcomed Rev. Finley of Smithfield to Johnstown as guest speaker. Rev. Mr. Finley said he was pleased to be at Johnstown and that they had a lovely church and a fine choir. Psalm 104 was chosen to speak on by the minister. He said the psalms were what a man thinks of God. The rest of the Bible is God talking to man. The best way to speak to God is to speak simply or a little child.

A fine congregation was present.

RENAME SHIP

LONDON (AP) — The 12,627-ton Argentine cargo ship Eva Peron became the Uruguay Monday. Shipyard workers burned off the old name. The action was in accordance with the new Argentine government's policy of erasing traces of the regime of deposed president Juan Peron and his late wife, Eva.

Specialist Prescribes Inactive Duty for Eisenhower

Summoned to the side of ailing President Eisenhower, noted heart surgeon Dr. Paul Dudley White, left, is escorted to the Fitzsimmons hospital in Denver, Colo., by James Hagerty, presidential press secretary. Flying from Boston for specialized care, White almost became a casualty himself when the four-engine C-118 blew a tire on landing at Lowry air force base in Denver. The pilot managed, however, to taxi the plane to a safe stop. After examining the president—who was stricken with what was first thought to be a "digestive upset" — while visiting his mother-in-law in Denver, Dr. White announced the heart attack was a moderate one. His prescription was a couple of months of inactive duty. (Central Press Canadian).

PROVINCES'

Cabinet advisers, who have developed the new plan, are thinking in terms of the provinces levying a personal income tax of, say, 10 per cent of the federal tax and a corporation charge of seven or eight per cent, similar to the one in Quebec.

PREVENT DOUBLE TAX

The federal government would reduce its charges by a similar amount to prevent double taxation. A federal deduction of 50 per cent would be allowed on succession duties if a provincial toll is levied. All provinces except Ontario and Quebec have routed the inheritance field to Ottawa.

The cabinet advisers believe the scheme would add little if any extra burden to the federal treasury. Last year the tax rental pacts cost the treasury some $323,000,000 and officials estimate the fields yielded about $275,000,000. They reason the government paid the provinces some $48,000,000 more than it got. They say the plan would cost just about that amount—$48,000,000—or a little more.

STORM TOLL RISES

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP)—Mexico's unofficial death toll from hurricane Hilda and accompanying floods has mounted to 297. Twenty-five bodies were recovered Monday from a freight car blown into the Pamuco river. Officials said the victims had sought refuge in the car during the storm a week ago.

TALKS RESUMED

Mr. Seaton said the company is seeking to take advantage of what it thinks is a valid technical point to brand the union and its 17,000 employees as lawbreakers.

"That is the purpose of this application," said Mr. Lewis, "It is a base propaganda move and the board should not lend itself to it."

He said the company wrongfully interpreted a section of the five-year contract signed in June, 1950 which included a provision that the agreement could continue from year to year after June 11, 1955, if neither the company nor union gave 60 days' notice to terminate it.

Mr. Lewis said the clause is contrary to Ontario law because union contracts of less than one year are prohibited. The 60-day termination made it a contract of less than one year.

The union gave the usual notice that it intended to amend the agreement and had gone through lengthy negotiation and conciliation procedure required by the act, Mr. Lewis told the four-man board.

CLAUSE NOT IN EFFECT

Mr. Lewis said the agreement was not in effect Sept. 19 and suggested the company knew in May or June that the union intended to seek conciliation. The company now was claiming that the agreement was still in effect.

He said the UAW and all unions in Ontario believe that strikes are legal when called seven days after the conciliation board report is given to the minister of labor.

Mr. Seaton's said letters exchanged by company and union officials were the only possible notices that might be construed as signifying intention to terminate or modify the existing agreement.

However, he said as early as Aug. 9 the union was notified by the company that it considered the contract still in effect. The company's position was made clear at a conciliation board hearing.

PLANNERS TOLD

"Some will be disappointed. Some will reap large development and growth. The fleets of all the seven seas will not be anchoring in Hamilton bay nor will the Queen Mary be berthing in Toronto harbor.

"But there will be port activity. It will be progressive. It won't happen all in one shipping season. It will come gradually, not ahead of but in response to the new and expanding industrialization of cities and towns."

The discussion came at a panel meeting on the third day of the Dye-Day ASPO-CPAC conference.

Mr. Brockal said:

"It is no coincidence that many of these representative public port developments have made progress in the entire Great Lakes basin. They are at Toronto, Hamilton and Milwaukee. All three cities long ago created port bodies to plan and develop their harbors aggressively. . . Other cities which relied on so-called owner-all planning are confronted with major problems and obstacles in trying at this late date to overcome the inertia and planning errors of the last 40 years.

"This blind spot in the minds of land-use planners in the lake region, their indifference to the opportunities of the seaway, their lack of contribution to port and transportation planning, and their open resistance to port development in half a dozen major cities, will be a fascinating but puzzling phenomenon."

Park H. Martin of Pittsburgh was elected president of the American Society.

Sir Brian Dunfield of St. John's, Nfld., was re-elected president of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

REJECTS CURFEW

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto city council Monday night rejected a motion to fix a midnight curfew on its meetings. Alderman Miss Jean Newman made the motion which was not supported but controller Joseph Cornish suggested council meet more frequently than twice a week.

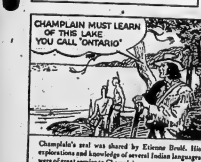
Champlain was eager to explore the new land. He spent much time seeking the financial support of French noblemen and merchants.



In 1608, his third trip to Canada, Champlain builds on the site of Quebec. The founding of a great city!

Guided by the friendly Hurons, Champlain in 1615 makes his way from Quebec up the Ottawa River to Georgian Bay. His enthusiasm for the country grows.

Champlain's zeal was shared by Etienne Brulé. His explorations and knowledge of several Indian languages were of great service to Champlain.

Champlain fought tirelessly to gain support for his struggling colony in Quebec. Finally, Cardinal Richelieu at the French Court set up the Company of New France. Champlain had succeeded!

He explored, he built, he administered wisely. Father of New France, he was tireless in laying the foundations of the Canada we know today.

Champlain depended on the support of patrons — men like de Monts, Montmorency, de Caën. These men understood the value of his work, and were proud to invest ships, equipment, supplies and money to help Champlain make the promise of a new land come true.

They were his partners in helping Canada grow.

Today, the banks and lending institutions of Canada are partners to men of initiative and ambition. And you have a share in this nation-building partnership.

Charges CHMC Adding to Cost Of New Homes

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto contractor said Monday the government-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is adding $500 to $1,000 to the price of each new home by imposing a long list of construction rules.

At a meeting of the 600-member Metropolitan Toronto Home Builders Association, Louis Lang said rules and regulations imposed by the CMHA are forcing buyers to pay for unnecessary trim and causing costly delays.

Harry J. Long, Toronto, national president of the Home Builders' Association, said CMHA trains its inspectors to find infractions "even where no infractions exist."

He said CMHA inspections are curtailing building to the extent that it will cause "considerable unemployment" during January and February.

A TALL TALE

MEREDITH, N.H. (AP) — A retired professor, Carl C. Colby, said Monday he and his wife have a sunflower 17 feet tall, possibly a world record.

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ann Cooke (Mother of 5)

"It's unfair to compare" Good words and true when it comes to baby, because there just isn't one child in the world exactly like any other. That all-too-common neighborhood pastime of comparing baby achievements can be upsetting for you—harmful for your child. So try not to be either envious or boastful where baby's accomplishments are concerned. If he's temporarily outdistanced, he'll catch up. If he's ahead of the game, chances are he'll keep it. Champion and cherish him as he is and he'll thrive in his own sweet and individual way.

An unusual relationship has developed between Suzy, a cat owned by Mrs. W. E. Hill of Winnipeg, and Thumper, a nine-da-old rabbit. Thumper thinks the cat is his mother and enjoys having his face washed by Suzy. Thumper was brought home by Mrs. Hill's son and has been sleeping on a hot-water bottle and drinking milk from an eye-dropper. (CP Photo).

James Sinclair Has Jaundice, Spine Injury

VANCOUVER (CP) — Doctors here said Tuesday night Fisheries Minister Sinclair is suffering from jaundice and a compression fracture of the first lumbar vertebrae.

Alistair Fraser, assistant to the federal minister, said a preliminary diagnosis of jaundice was confirmed by a team of doctors.

Mr. Sinclair, 47, who was on his way to Ottawa after returning from a tour of Russian fishing installations, was taken from the train Sunday five minutes before scheduled departure time.

Mr. Fraser said Dr. G. A. McLaughlin, in a quick examination at the railway station, diagnosed a case of jaundice, which causes a yellow-coloring of the skin, and recommended Mr. Sinclair remain here for further investigation.

RESULT OF FALL

The compression fracture is a result of a fall while inspecting a Russian fishing village Aug. 4. Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Fraser and a group of Russian officials fell about 18 feet when a scaffold on which they were standing collapsed.

Mr. Sinclair, most severely injured of the group, suffered a broken left leg, a severe gash on the right leg, the spinal injury and minor internal injuries. A team of Moscow specialists was flown 7,000 miles to treat the minister.

Doctors here said Tuesday they do not believe there will be any permanent effects from the spinal injury, and said x-rays show the left leg is healing satisfactorily.

BITER SENT DOWN

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Tsai Chih-yun, 38, was sentenced Tuesday to six years in prison for biting off the tip of the nose of his neighbor. She refused to marry him.

Thunderbird styling with new low roof line and distinctive new grille are some of the distinguishing style changes on the 1956 Ford Victoria, shown above. New styling of the protective chrome rub rails on the car's side emphasizes its changed silhouette. The Vitoria is one of 17 models which will be built in four series for 1956 —Fairlane, Station Wagon, Customline and Mainline. The Victoria is powered by a "Thunderbird Y-8" engine with 292 cubic inches displacement, with four-barrel carburetor and dual exhaust. To be displayed publicly on October 3, the 1956 Fords are equipped with new "Lifeguard" safety features offered for the first time by any automobile company.

Hurricane Janet Roars Across Gulf of Mexico

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Janet, whose victims include two Canadian newspaper men aboard a U. S. Navy plane which penetrated the storm's eye Monday, roared across the thinly-populated Yucatan peninsula today.

Forecasters said she would still be "lightly wound and potent" when she slashed into the Gulf of Mexico about noon EST.

The hurricane, 10th of the season, took many lives in the Barbados and Grenadine West Indies islands. A U. S. Navy hurricane hunter which flew into the storm Monday morning with nine navy men and two Canadians has been missing ever since.

The Canadians, Alfred O. Tate, 44, and Douglas Cronk, 30, reporter and photographer for the Toronto Daily Star, were doing a feature story on how the navy keeps track of hurricanes from the air.

HONDURAS HIT

There were no immediate reports of what happened in northern British Honduras and the southern part of Mexico's Quintana Roo province which took the full fury of Janet's 115-mile-an-hour winds late Tuesday night and early today.

Forecasts indicated the main coast of Mexico is in for another disaster.

Hurricane Hilda, which followed a course a little to the north of Janet, hit the Mexican mainland near Tampico Sept. 19 and triggered floods that killed more than 300 people. At that time, Tampico was just struggling out from under the debris of floods touched off by hurricane Gladys two weeks earlier.

On her present course, Janet would strike the Mexican mainland south of Tampico, between Vera Cruz and Tuxpan.

SIGN "LUCY" WRITER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — NBC-TV came up with the coup of the year Sunday in luring Jess Oppenheimer the creator, head writer and producer of rival CBS' "I Love Lucy" show. Fred Wile Jr., vice-president in charge of NBC's west coast TV programming, said Oppenheimer will join NBC in the spring of 1956. His seven-year contract with CBS and Desilu Productions will expire then. Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz long have given Oppenheimer much of the credit for the fabulous success of "Lucy."

Broad Outline Of New Program Now Emerging

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The broad outlines of a new long-range Canadian defence policy now are emerging here.

The new policy comprises two main factors: the stationing of more American forces in Canada and a proposed buildup of forces of the RCAF.

The new policy is based on the belief that North American defence now is the key to defence of the entire Western world.

Canada and the U.S. officials say, must be considered as a single area for defence purposes. In the age of the hydrogen bomb and jet bomber, Canada could not hope to defend this country alone.

BEAR ARCTIC POLICY

The Canadian government already has adopted the policy of permitting American troops and construction in Canada. There are fewer than 2,000 American servicemen in this country, not counting some 15,000 at the three leased air bases in Newfoundland. The U.S is building and paying for the $250,000,000 DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line across Canada's Arctic.

Intensive study is being given in general terms to a northward expansion of North American defences but details have been worked out.

There are indications it will be some time before the emerging defence policy is actually in the action stage.

Ottawa is anxious to ensure against a preponderance of American forces in Canada. It wants this country to keep carrying the same proportion of the North American defence load.

This will mean finding more Canadian aircrews to man fighter squadrons at home. Officials say there is no present intention of reducing or withdrawing the RCAF 12-squadron air division in Europe but that there is no doubt this policy will be reviewed.

5,000 CHICKENS DIE

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Five thousand broiler chickens died Tuesday in a barn fire at nearby Salstor Centre. George Zaloba, the owner, said 125 were saved. Damage to the barn and its contents was $7,900.

A roof line one and one-half inches lower than last year's model, and a distinctive new V-sweep grille are offered on the 1956 Meteor Victoria shown above. New styling of the side trim emphasizes the car's new dramatically low profile. The Victoria is one of 14 models which will be built in four series for 1956—The Rideau, Station Wagon, Niagara and Meteor. With Mere-O-Matic drive, the Vitcoria is powered by a 202 horse-power overhead valve V-8 engine with four-barrel carburetor and dual exhaust. To be displayed publicly on September 30, the 1956 Meteors are equipped with new "Safeguard" safety features offered for the first time by any automobile company, such as double grip door latches, "Safeguard" steering wheel, special backing for rear view mirrors, stronger seat mountings and optional seat belts and crash cushioning for instrument panels and sun visors.

Murder Suspect Will Be Moved To Sanitorium

TORONTO (CP)—Lloyd Nashkawa, 22-year-old Indian murder suspect suffering from tuberculosis, will leave his isolation room — a death cell in Don Jail—for a sanatorium today, it was reported here.

Under guard he will be taken to Niagara peninsula sanatorium in St. Catharines. The guard will be constant until Nashkawa is well enough to stand trial for murder in the stabbing of a fruit picker Sept. 3 on a farm near St. Catharines.

Government officials said Nashkawa's treatment in Don Jail was adequate but guards said he was a health menace to the 120-member staff and the 400 prisoners.

Whitedog Falls Will Be Site Of New Project

A new hydro-electric generating station at Whitedog Falls on the Winnipeg River has been authorized by Ontario Hydro to meet the growing power needs of the Provinces northwestern area.

The plant is scheduled for service at the end of 1957, with a capacity tentatively set at 71,700 horsepower. Whitedog Falls station, the site of which is approximately 30 miles northwest of Kenora, will be incorporated into the Commission's Northwestern Division by construction o fa 115,000-volt transmission line from the new generating station to a new transformer sation to be establisd near Kenora. Preliminary work on the required access road is now under way and construction of the actual power project will begin early in 1956.

Whitedog Falls G.S. will be the Commission's fifth new power source to be undertaken in Northwestern Ontario since 1945.

Janet Strikes Yucatan Coast Terrific Blow

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The season's 10th and most powerful hurricane slammed ashore on the desolate Yucatan coast shortly before midnight Tuesday night with a terrific wallop riding on 135-mile-an-hour winds.

Janet drew a bead on northern Central America and the Yucatan peninsula after completing a destructive course through the Caribbean sea. Winds and tides were on the upsurge this morning all along the coasts of British Honduras and southern Mexico.

The hurricane already had claimed about 200 lives in the Caribbean. Perhaps nine United States navy men and two Canadian newspaper men were among them. They were aboard a hurricane hunter plane which flew into the storm Monday morning and has been missing ever since.

DOING A FEATURE...

The Canadians, Alfred G. Tate, 44, and Douglas Cronk, 30, reporter and photographer for the Toronto Daily Star, were doing a feature story on how the navy keeps track of hurricanes from the air.

Last word from the missing plane came at 8:30 a. m. Monday when the pilot, Lt.-Cmdr. G. E. Windham, radioed that he was "commencing penetration" of the storm's wall of winds at an altitude of 700 feet.

The plane apparently went down in the most violent area of winds.

Janet is following the same general path taken by hurricane Hilda a week ago. Hilda hit the Mexican coast near Tampico, killed more than 300 and created a disaster.

WINDSOR (CP)—Service station operators from all parts of Ontario were welcomed Tuesday by Mayor Michael J. Patrick at the opening of a three-day convention here.

C.D. Howe Speaks As CIL Opens Millhaven Plant

millhaven, ont. (CP) — The challenge facing the Canadian textile industry is how to deal with synthetic fibres, Trade Minister Howe said today.

'No longer does the textile industry work almbst entirely with such natural fibres as wool and cotton whose behavior pattern has been known over the centuries'," he said. 'It is concerned with making practical use of the results of scientific discoveries created by the best brains in the world."

Mr. Howe said that in his view the textile industry has made significant progress in acquiring up-to-date machinery to meet the challenge and meeting competition from foreign producers.

He spoke at "a opening of a new $22,000,000 plt ,f of Canadian Industries Limite,, in this small town 12 miles west of Kingston. It will produce a new , synthetic fibre called terylene, said to have a wide variety of purposes as a fabric and an industrial material.

Mr. Howe said the plant's eventual capacity of 11,000,000 pounds of terylene a year will have "a major impact" on the Canadian textiles industry.

Mr. Howe's remarks were contained in the text of a speech issued in advance of delivery.

Tension in U.S. Letting Up As Eisenhower Is Improving But Second Term Unlikely

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER (AP) — Tension over President Eisenhower's illness appeared a bit more today as a continuing succession of hospital bulletins reporting satisfactory progress "without complications" cheered administration officials and the president, too.

A medical bulletin issued at 7 a.m. MST by Maj.-Gen. Howard Snyder, White House physician, and Col. Byron Pollock, chief of heart services at Fitzsimmons army hospital, said:

"For the second consecutive night the president slept comfortably throughout the night. He went to sleep last night at 8:30 o'clock and awoke refreshed at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

"His progress continues to be satisfactory without complications."

"Get well" messages continue to pour into Fitzsimmons Army hospital from all over the world.

As the president's physicians cautiously continued to report him moving slowly along the recovery road after Saturday's heart attack, the political impact of his illness came in for more attention here.

The general feeling ever since Eisenhower was stricken has been that the attack would cause him to decide against running for re-election. The president himself had said earlier that the state of his health next year would be a factor in his decision.

When the stunning word came that Eisenhower had suffered a coronary thrombosis, it raised a question, of course, as to whether he would be able to serve out his first term.

Personal friends of the president have a growing conviction, in the light of his medical progress, that he will be able to complete his term expiring in January, 1957. But they also feel he then will retire to the role of "elder statesman."

They are convinced that he will not be pressured into running for a second term. On the basis of doctors' most optimistic forecasts, they hope Eisenhower will be able to resume close to full-scale duties in about two months, hold conferences in three to four weeks, and start reading and signing documents after next week.

Both Attorney-General Herbert Brownell and the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty now say it may not be necessary to delegate any of the president's powers.

The White House had felt at first that Eisenhower's illness might require such action, and so asked the justice department for a legal opinion as to what extent they could be delegated.

Hagerty said Tuesday, however, that nothing has come up since Eisenhower was stricken that has required his personal attention.

As for Eisenhower's foreign program, Hagerty said in effect that State Secretary Dulles is so familiar with the president's views in that field that there is no cause for worry.

The increasing optimism about Eisenhower's condition was reflected in the decision of his son John, an army major, to fly back to Washington today.

Tuesday night the president slept again in an oxygen tent "as a routine rest measure." He spent about 9½ hours outside the tent Tuesday, compared with only an hour and a half the day before.

Until Tuesday afternoon, press conferences and the release of bulletins on the president's progress were utterly serious affairs. But then roaring laughter swept away some of the tension when Hagerty announced that Eisenhower had been served fresh fruit cocktail at lunch—and a reporter inquired puckishly whether there was a comma between "fruit" and "cocktail."

In addition, a record player was installed for the president Tuesday at the hospital, and a messenger delivered several records.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who has been staying at the hospital close to her husband, found time to relay word through Hagerty that she is "deeply grateful" for the prayers of "people throughout the world" for the president's recovery. She told Hagerty she knows these prayers "have helped the president" and sustained her.

Revisits Ottawa For First Time In Twenty Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The Earl of Bessborough and his attractive countess have revisited Ottawa for the first time in 20 years. The earl noted a few changes and told a few stories.

Lord Bessborough was governor-general from 1931 to 1935 and he liked this country. He founded the Dominion drama festival and left behind many friends.

But he never returned previously, he explained in an interview Tuesday before flying back to England, "because a governor-general is not supposed to return. It's an old rule."

The earl noted that the capital's traffic has thickened considerably since he lived at Government House.

To illustrate another change, he told a story about a former CPR president, Ian Hosie, who had met during his first visit to Canada in 1902. The railway executive in those days was in the habit of sending for the prime minister whenever he desired a consultation.

"Well," said Lord Bessborough, "I inquired the other day at the Canadian Pacific and they assured me it is quite the other way these days."

TO OPEN LAB

OTTAWA (CP) — A central laboratory building will be officially opened Thursday at the Defence Research Board's big experimental station at Suffield, near Medicine Hat, Alta. The five-storey, $1,500,000 building includes in its equipment an electron microscope which magnifies objects 20,000 times their actual size.

WILL FOOT BILL

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the city council will foot the bill for everything but the train tickets when they make a two-day visit to Montreal next month, city clerk George Weale announced Tuesday. The proposed trip sparked several debates at council meetings as to whether the entire cost of the trip should be paid from municipal funds.

First Wheat Conference Under UN Sponsorship Will Meet in Geneva

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold said Tuesday a world wheat conference under UN sponsorship will meet in Geneva Oct. 26 to consider renewal or replacement of the present International Wheat Agreement.

The current 47-nation pact expires at the end of July, 1956. It fixes import and export quotas for each of the member nations and floor and ceiling prices.

Hammarskjold's announcement explained the meeting will give an opportunity to review the present position and to reconsider the question as to the best arrangement for dealing with the international wheat situation.

This is the first time the UN has ever called a world wheat conference. It acted at the request of Britain's F. Steed Anderson, chairman of the International Wheat Council.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson said in Ottawa Monday the United States was still undecided on whether to join any agreement.

He explained that the current pact is not particularly significant for the United States since only about 30 per cent of American wheat is moved through its machinery.

Benson was in Ottawa for talks with Canadian ministers.

The UN announcement said officials expected a draft of a new agreement might be prepared during next month's talks.

If this is done, a second session might follow early in 1956 in which the draft could be completed and other questions, such as prices and quantities, be settled. Any new agreement then could be adopted in time to enter into force by Aug. 1, 1956.

Under the current agreement, the United States, Canada, Australia and France are exporting countries. The remainder of the 47 members are importers.

Aconic Mining Suspended From Canadian Exchange

MONTREAL (CP)—Aconic Mining Corporation of Montreal was suspended from trading on the Canadian stock exchange Tuesday shortly after a published announcement of a big iron deal with United States interests.

Officials of the exchange said they are "waiting for the company to show substantial proof of the authenticity of the contracts."

Aconic president Joseph Beaudry announced Monday that the company had closed a deal for the sale of 500,000,000 tons of ore concentrates from its deposits at Natashquan, 300 miles northeast of Quebec City. He said the contract, with a group of unnamed U.S. companies, called for payment of $3,000,000,000 over a 50-year period.

The stock, which closed at 13½ Monday, rose to 15⅝ before it was dropped by the exchange. In over-the-counter trading late in the afternoon it was selling for $3 bid later rose to close at $7.50 bid and $9 asked.

In another development, Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau of the Quebec Superior Court announced that he has resigned from the bench to serve as an intermediary between Aconic and the U.S. interests.

Aconic officials declined to reveal the names of the U.S. firms involved in the transaction.

They said only that negotiations were conducted with J. M. Blair, a consultant in United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, and Pittsburgh Steel. Mr. Justice Cousineau said he has met officials of the U.S. companies involved in the deal.

New Federal Prisons Planned By Federal Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—Three new federal penitentiaries are being planned to provide better segregation of prisoners and ease overpopulated institutions, it was learned Tuesday.

Two of the new penal institutions will accommodate between 400 and 600 men each at sites still to be selected in eastern Ontario and in western Alberta or eastern British Columbia.

The third, for women only, will be located in the Kingston area. Women penitentiary prisoners now are kept in a section of the Kingston penitentiary.

The government, an official said, plans to ask Parliament at the next session for funds to start construction of at least one penitentiary, probably that in western Canada.

GOOD SUBMISE

The official described as "fairly good surroundings" reports from Edmonton that the western Canada penitentiary will cost at least $2,000,000. However, he declined to give any figures.

The penitentiaries for men will be located near communities where staff can be housed and where facilities such as hospitals and power are available. In both cases there probably will be enough land acquired to provide a farm for the institutions.

In eastern Ontario, the new penitentiary would be used for prisoners in crowded Kingston and St. Vincent de Paul, Que., near Montreal. The Kingston penitentiary has 946 prisoners and St. Vincent de Paul 1,294. Peccologists claim the ideal size of a penitentiary that lends itself to proper rehabilitation methods is between 400 and 600 prisoners.

The Kingston women's penitentiary would be relocated in a new building. The present building would be used either for a small core of incorrigible criminals or to accommodate newly-arrived prisoners. There now are eight federal penitentiaries with a total prisoner population of about 5,500.

When Pearson Visits Russia He May Try Convince Hosts NATO Aim Purely Defensive

OTTAWA (CP)—What will External Affairs Minister Pearson talk about with the Russians?

It seems a fair bet that Canada's foreign policy chief, who leaves here by air Friday for a week-long Russian visit, will want to discuss Germany's partnership in the North Atlantic alliance.

Mr. Pearson will be in the USSR as a guest of the government from Oct. 3 to Oct. 12.

He has said that Russia will have to be persuaded that participation of a reunified Germany in NATO won't act as a spur to German aggression but instead will effectively limit and control German action.

Officials here at the moment foresee scant hope for the Big Four conference in Geneva next month because Russia has made it plain recently it won't agree to German reunification except on its own terms, which don't include German membership inNATO.

If Mr. Pearson should have success convincing the Russians of NATO's purely defensive intentions it is possible he might thus enhance the Big Four's chances of success at Geneva.

Writing in the current issue of Foreign Affairs, U.S. quarterly magazine, Mr. Pearson says:

"In what the Soviet government fears most almost Germany her potential threat in the future rather than the actual political and military measures authorized under the limiting and restrictive clauses of the London and Paris agreements.

"If so, assurances and guarantees would be worked out which would serve to remove any such fears.

"These safeguards might cover such matters as Germany's east-ern borders and the level, deployment and equipment of NATO and anti-NATO forces in central Europe.

"There is room for negotiation for bargaining, if you will, over reciprocal concessions of this kind —provided it is clearly understood that both Germany and the other members of NATO are free to choose the kind of international association they require for the collective protection of their security. . . ."

Evangelist Faces Largest Indoor Crowd of Drive

TORONTO (CP)—Billy Graham Tuesday night spoke to the largest indoor crowd yet gathered in his current greater Toronto evangelistic crusade.

Speaking on the Eighth Commandment—Thou shalt not steal—the United States evangelist addressed more than 11,000 people. Capacity of the 10,000-seat Coliseum was increased by 5,000 with a closed-circuit television hookup leading to the building's east annex.

Spurred by Graham's denunciation of neglect of the Bible and failure to attend church as "robbing God," 173 persons recorded 'decisions for Christ" at the close of the service.

"Everyone here, including myself, has broken the commandment," he said. "We are all sinners; we have stolen—stolen from God.

MUST BE CLEANSED

"To reach heaven, we must be cleansed. And to be cleansed we must accept Christ."

Graham said that people must not only believe but also receive Christ and turn over their lives to him.

"We rob God of daily devotions we rob him of that which is right fully his. By not giving a tith (ten per cent of one's income) an contributions beside that, we are putting our hands into God's pock ets and stealing."

"Robbery is rife on Sunday," h said. Those who should be i church are meditating are takin auto trips, watching TV, and othe wise desecrating the Lord's Day.

Aroused Public Forces Govt. To Launch Probe

By RANALD MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters)—An aroused public Tuesday forced government and police officials to launch a probe to determine how British justice was thwarted by a bloody stiletto fight in London's cosmopolitan Soho district.

Last month two men duelled in broad daylight in a crowded street, were wounded and brought to trial. Yet juries in the last week have acquitted both for lack of evidence. During the trials there were suspicions that witnesses had been intimidated.

Britons are demanding o know what happened.

Newspapers led the clamor for a full-scale inquiry. The mass-circulation Daily Sketch screamed: 'Where are we living—in quiet, safe London, or Chicago?"

SEES FULL REPORT

The home office Tuesday called for a full report from police headquarters.

Involved in the Soho brawl were 43-year-old Jack (Spot) Comer, burly bookie who once described himself as London's "Gangster No. 1." The other was Albert Dimes, 40, another bookie, known in Soho's dingy bars as "Italian Albert."

One theory was that the fight started because of rivalry between the two bookies over betting pitches at race tracks.

Comer and Dimes were brought to trial, together and separately, o charges of "making affray," possessing an offensive weapon, and wounding. Each pleaded self-defence.

They were acquitted of all charges.

Chicago Dentist Wants to Drive Through Russia

MOSCO W(AP). — Dr. Berthold Schulz, a Chicago dentist, blithely parked his British jeep outside the Kremlin walls Tuesday, strolled into the National Hotel and diabergasted Soviet tourist officials. He told them he wanted to drive he jeep through the Soviet Union and come out by way of Iran or Czechoslovakia.

Schulz had driven to Moscow from Helsinki, Finland—first foreign tourist since the 1917 revolution to do so—apparently unaware of the stir he was causing.

The tourist officials just didn't know what to do when presented with the request.

"They seemed puzzled," Schulz reported.

This failed to surprise foreigners who live in Moscow. They are not accustomed to jumping into an auto and driving around the Soviet Union at will. The majority are unable even to obtain Soviet driving licences.

The greying, 42-year-old dentist got a 30-day Soviet visa in Washington and went to Britain, where he bought the cream-colored Land Rover jeep.

When he arrived at the Finnish-Soviet frontier, the Finnish guards scurried for an interpreter, who asked him "Do you really want to go to Russia?" Schulz replied he did.

The Finns shrugged their shoulders, but they raised the border barrier and let him go.

A lone Russian sentry was on duty 20 feet away. He fired his rifle twice into the air and a corporal of the guard came running up.

The two held a long consultation and then telephoned to Vilpuri, 36 miles away. An officer finally arrived from that base and, after a six-hour delay, Schulz crossed into the Soviet Union.

He speaks not one word of Russian but said he did not need road maps—he just followed the signs.

Five Children Will Be Forced To Separate

MONTREAL (CP) — Five children, orphaned by a railway cross ing crash at suburban Laval-sur-le-Lac last month, will have to be separated despite efforts to keep them together as a family.

Mrs. Jean-Paul Samoisette of Laval-sur-le-Lac said Tuesday for the sake of the youngsters—whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvares Chevrier of Charlemagne, Que., were killed in the accident—it has been necessary to find new homes for them all."

He said a subscription campaign to aid the children had already climbed to more than $750 and that the money will be distributed among them.

Also killed in the accident Aug. 31 when a Canadian National Railways ballast train struck a car were Mrs. Armand Beausoleil, 29, of Mimow Lake, Ont., and her three children. Her husband, driver of the car, was the only survivor.

Mayor Samoisette said two children, Yolande, 16, and Real, 15, will live with separate families at Charlemagne, Que.; Marcelle, 19, will live with her uncle, Alpha Bibeau of Windsor, Ont.; Claude, 8, will live with his aunt, Mrs. D Ranger of Montreal; and nine-month - old Richard has been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Piette of Sudbury.

DID NOT STOP

SARNIA (CP)—Mrs. E. Seguin, 62, of Sarnia, was killed late Tuesday night when struck by a car which did not stop as she crossed Christinia street north.

Taconite Tests Have Proved Satisfactory

HAMILTON-(CP) — Officials of the Steel Company of Canada say first tests of taconite, a low grade iron ore, have proved satisfactory.

The ore, previously considered too expensive to mine, will be tested at the Steico plant here. In its first tests i was used in a 40-60 rato with high grade ore.

The use of acnolite in pig iron production will open up formerly neglected mining districts, officials said.

A new "jet piercing" drilling method — employing flame and steam to drill a 48-foot blast hole— is being used to mine the highly abrasive metal.

Mrs. M. Power Takes $32,000 On TV Program

NEW YORK (AP) — Grandma Myrtle (Myrt) Power, the baseball sage from the south, has taken her $32,000 and retired from big-league play on television after a perfect five-week season.

Urged by her children and a host of well-wishers not to take the risk, the 71-year-old widow passed up a chance at the grand prize Tuesday night on "The $64,000 Question," CBS giveaway show.

Mrs. Power, a baseball fan for 60 years and a Brooklyn Dodger rooter, said: "My Dodgers have won lots of pennants and I feel like I won a pennant, and they never won a world series and I don't want to beat them to the draw."

Before Mrs. Power stepped out, another baseball whiz advanced through the $8,000 question in his chosen category—also baseball.

He's Patrick Keough, 62, of St. Louis, a baseball fan for more than 50 years. He can try next Tuesday night for $16,000.

PC National President Takes Govt. to Task

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—George Mees, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, said Tuesday night the federal government had committed "unbelievable bungling" in its handling of the ferries William Carson and Bluenose.

The text of his speech to the St. John's Progressive Conservative Association, was released to the press before delivery.

He called construction of the ferry Bluenose to ply between Yarmouth, N.S., and Bar Harbor, Me, "another example of a comedy of errors."

"The almost unbelievable construction delays which have cost Nova Scotians many thousands of dollars in lost tourist trade 'this summer have now become a bitter joke among people who live in that province."

"This fiasco, together with the almost unbelievable bungling of the William Carson affair, makes it obvious that the government's entire machinery for handling shipping and ship building should be overhauled and brought into line with modern efficient business practice," he said.

The William Carson was built to fulfil a Confederation agreement for a ferry service between North Sydney, N.S, and Port aux Basques Nfld. F ac i l i t ie s at Port aux Basques were not ready when the Carson was completed and she now is hauling freight between North Sydney and Argentia, Nfld.

Mr. Mees said the original estimated price of the Carson was $7,-000,000 "but by the time it was completed in a Montreal shipyard on a cost-plus basis the cost had risen to $11,243,000."

"The government has made no effort to explain why this contract was let on a cost-plus basis instead of on a tendered price," he said.

The 24,000-ton, 640-foot luxury liner Empress of Britain, he said, was now being completed for the CPR in Great Britain for $14,000,-000 "or only $2,750,000 more than the 8,000-ton, 350-foot William Carson."

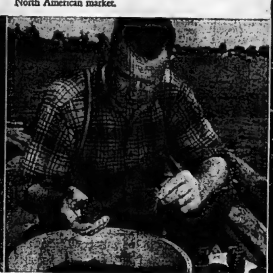
Lake Nipissing Caviar

Lake Nipissing's fishermen are reaping a rich reward from the rubbery-looking sturgeon. Though Nipissing's piscatorial product finds little favour on the domestic market, Canadian sturgeon fetches sirloin steak prices in New York. And the fish is only a by-product. As caviar, the fragile sturgeon eggs are worth over five dollars a pound to the fishermen, and rival even the Russian product as choice of North American gourmets. Here, a lake fisherman holds a sturgeon which will be cleaned, weighed and crated for shipment to appreciative North American market.

National Film Board Photos



Fresh from Nipissing's waters, a catch of rubbery-looking sturgeon is cleaned (below) and the roe removed. Out of catch of fifty fish, three might contain roe, accounting for high retail price of $16.00 a pound for this delicacy. Average daily catch sees some 30 to 60 40-pound sturgeons boated.

Netting profits, Roy Cockburn and son Bill (left) use gaff to haul in lake sturgeon. Each year some 200,000 pounds of sturgeon steaks are shipped across the border, bringing prices up to one dollar a pound to fishermen and $3 per pound to restaurants from the Bronx to the Bamry.

Fragile sturgeon eggs, which find a ready market in the U.S. are gently packed in four-ounce jars for retailing. Demand for northern Ontario caviar far exceeds the supply; last year's harvest of 2,000 pounds of sturgeon roe netted $11,000 for Lake Nipissing's commercial fishermen.

Demand for Nipissing sturgeon was predicted years ago by Roy Cockburn, of Sturgeon Falls, shown packing jars of caviar. Today, supplying gourmets both above and below the border is big business for Cockburn and others who have followed his lead to the sturgeon spawning grounds.

Gardenville

GARDENVILLE. — Those attending the United church service Sunday afternoon heard a stirring message from the Rev. E. V. Cook, on the responsibilities of a Christian to his church and community.

Taking his text from Nehemiah 2:4—"So I prayed to the God of Heaven."—Mr. Cook outlined Nehemiah's plan for rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem, his beloved city, while a captive—first prayer to God, then careful planning followed by firm resolve and unceasing effort. Just so, concluded Mr. Cook, in this very part of God's vineyard, Christians must pray together for God's direction and help; must plan together carefully, and then let nothing halt their efforts to keep building the Kingdom of God.

Responsibility for Sunday school teachers, choir members and workers for every department of the church should weigh heavily on the true Christian's heart, for only by service do we prove our devotion to the Master.

Sunday school met with the superintendent, Mr. Jack Baxter, conducting the worship service, around the theme "The Value of Little Things." Mrs. Baxter was organist.

Attendance was thirty-four.

Newspapers will be collected on Saturday and Christmas cards are being sold by the pupils to aid in their several projects.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Grounds returned home Saturday from a pleasant ten-day holiday with relatives in Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. Stan Hart, Miss Gwen Hart, Miss Mary Dymond, R.N., and Mrs. Jack Baxter, attended the very interesting fashion show and tea in Batawa on Thursday evening, sponsored by the Women's Association of the United church. Each guest was presented with a rose from Mr. Bill Jardine of Flower Lane, Belleville, who was also creator of the lovely corsages worn by each model. The formal fall wedding, which concluded the show, was very striking and beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Carscallen and Mr. and Mrs. Art Reid and Janice, all of Kingston, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baxter. They also called and visited at the homes of Messrs. Douglas and Jack Baxter.

'Life, Legend of Wyatt Earp' Is One of Western Stories

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The western galloped a good day's ride forward on television this week with the appearance of Worthington Miner's "Frontier" on NBC-TV.

The first of this adult western series ahead of this department's second favorite, "The Life and Legend of Wyatt Earp" (ABC-TV), and left "Gunsmoke," the BCS-TV entry in the big networks' western sweepstakes, wrapped in the smoke of its own gun.

When Miner, executive producer of "Frontier," announced the series he said it would be concerned with "real stories of average people who went west."

"Out of the 200 years of our history of exploration and settlement many legends have grown up. They have grown too big. Often we have come to accept a romantic untruth for a more arresting truth. Truth, we believe, will create the unique drama of the stories on "Frontier."

HOW TO VIEWERS

The premiere program made a bow to the tastes of viewers who apparently are convinced that the story of the west is the sory of gunplay. I told of a 23-year-old who was Bartlett Cole a feared gunman, 'the Colfax Kid,' through imaginary stories of his shooting prowess written by a newspaper reporter. Finally the Colfax Kid began to believe the stories written about him. He challenged famed gunman Clev Allison to a duel—and was killed.

This was, in short, a drama of character. Its western background was done with flawless care to make the story credible. The story's concern with people rather than gunfire was what lifted it above the old level of westerns. Future programs promise great variety and shooting with a purpose, instead of just shooting to excite the kids.

The concern for truths of character as well as truths of history that marks "Frontier" is found also in "The Life and Legend of Wyatt Earp." Earp was an actual western marshal who took up the cause of justice reluctantly and died in bed in his 80s. The truth of its background shines through. Due to the nature of its subject, however, it is full of gunplay, a pastime which palls on an adult audience after too much exposure.

"Gunsmoke," more imaginatively filmed than the third-rate package jobs pouring out of Hollywood, is nevertheless the same old western story line about a good marshal and the bad guys who cross his trail.

TO INCREASE SERVICE

TORONTO (CP)—Only seven Ontario counties or districts now lack juvenile or family courts, the provincial director of probation services said Saturday. D. W. Coughlan addressed the annual meeting of juvenile and family court judges at the University of Toronto. He said there now are 85 probationary officers in Ontario and several more are expected to be appointed by next Jan. 1.

Coffee Break May Be Means To Cut Crashes

TORONTO (CP)—That old urban standby, the coffee break, may be the means of cutting the rural accident death toll.

The National Safety Council, alarmed at figures showing farm accident deaths are twice that of tradesmen, feels fatigue is causing most of these fatalities.

Farm machines drone on, it says but the farmer becomes tired and careless. This is the time when accidents happen. Many plant and office employes reduce fatigue by coffee breaks in the morning and afternoon.

Even if the farmer doesn't like coffee, the rest will do him good, the council says. He will probably go back to his fields feeling more alert.

'High Gun' Fires Last Racing Shot

NEW YORK (AP)—High Gun's racing days are over. The King Ranch colt, who last Saturday whipped the likes of Jet Action and Nashua, was retired to stud unexpectedly Tuesday.

Owner Robert J. Kleberg made the decision after conferring with trainer Max Hirsch.

Original plans called for the brown four-year-old colt to retire after the coming Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont. But Hirsch had noticed High Gun was showing signs of ankle trouble and "we just don't want to take any chances."

The retirement came on the heels of one of High Gun's most exciting victories. He beat Jet Action and Nashua, the great three year old who never before had been third, in the $106,700 Sysonby.

It was High Gun's third major stakes sweep of the year. Earlier he took the Metropolitan at Belmont and the Brooklyn at Aqueduct.

Last year, when he was voted the three-year-old champion, was High Gun's biggest. He won the Belmont Stakes, Peter Pan, Sysonby, Manhtan, Dwyer and Jockey Club Gold Cup while earning $314,550. All told, he's returned $486,025 for King Ranch's $10,200 outlay in the Keeneland yearling sales.

MUSTANGS GET HELP

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The University of Western Ontario's sputtering offence got a couple of additional sparkplugs this week as the Mustangs prepared to face University of Toronto here Saturday in the opening senior intercollegiate football game of the 1955 season.

Johnny Metras revealed Tuesday that his two top-rated fullbacks, Ralph Simmons and Dale Creighton would be ready for Saturday's battle against the defending champion Blues.

Both have been sidelined with injuries for the two pre-league games with the Sarnia Imperials and the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen but are now fit and ready for action.

World Series Battle Between Yankees, Dodgers May Be Hitting Affair

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

COULD BE!

The Yankees are favored to win the 1955 World Series regardless of what happened in that inaugural tussle today. As this is being written prior to the end of the game we do not know the outcome. Regardless of the fact we have news for Dodger Fans.

If it is any comfort to "rouse guys," the records show that most of the upsetting in the World Series has been done by National League teams.

One of the reasons, of course, is that the National Leaguers, more often than not, have been the underdogs in the pre-series favoritism, but there have been times when they actually revelled in the role.

Going into the 1954 big payoff, the National Leaguers had won 11 World Series and eight of these had come only after they had endured the arena distinct second choices. Look at 1954. Who, frinstance outside of a Coogan's Bluffer with a million in the mint would have bet the Lady Luckeroos from the Polo Grounds would have scalped the Cleveland Indians four in a row?

Even the form on the suds in Flatbush bistros was tinged pink as "Dem Bums" sturdy burghers from the Gowanus roared hiney support to the warriors from the banks of the Ohio in view of the fact they were battling the hated enemy from the Polo Grounds.

On the other hand the American League registered only five upsets. Their 37 titles materialized in series in which the sentiment was either even (5-5 and take your pick) or so close to that that there was no appreciable favorite.

Biggest upsets, based on pre-series favoritism were recorded in 1906, 1914, 1948, 1946 and 1954, in each of which the toppled favorite stepped up to the plate carrying 2-1 odds or approximately that.

In 1914, the year of the "Miracle Braves," the Athletics' price ranged from 10-7 to 2-1. And it was 10 to 1, the soothsayers said, that the Braves would not win four straight. And that was the year the Braves did just that—win four straight.

And listen to this. The Yankees were 3-5 favorites when the St. Louis Cardinals beat them four straight in 1928 and again the Bronx Bombers were betting tops in 1932 when the Giants did the same and swept in four. Those with the Giants' sweep of 1954 are the only instances when the underdog accomplished the supreme insult of not allowing the favorite better than even money in a game. Each time, you'll note, the underdog was from the National League.

The stretch from 1923 through 1939 might be heralded as the "golden year" for the favorites. In that run of 17 series there were 18 pronounced pre-series hot boys and 13 of them came through. The 1928 Cardinals and the 1933 Senators were the only ones to go by the board. The Senators and Giants in 1924 and the Cards and Yankees in 1926 were even money bets.

There were two periods when times were really tough for the bettor with the pre-season hobo. . . Starting when the series business was in its toddling stage in the 1905, and the Boston Red Sox rose up to overthrow the mighty Pittsburgh Pirates, five of the first eight series went to the second choices.

The beaten 1906 Chicago Cubs were 8-5 favorites over the White Sox; the next year the Cubs were the underdogs and upset 8-5 favored Detroit, and in both 1910 and 1911 the Athletics upset out mighty the Cubs and Giants but the betting gentry.

The early 1940's was another tough year for favorites. the 1940 Tigers, the 1942 Yankees and the 1945 Red Sox all being knocked off. Since then the favorites, up till last year have held sway. It's time the underdogs made it two in a row.

SHOULD BE GOOD!

Operation "Sardine," which will tee off at Memorial Arena Friday night promises to be one of the most furious condensed melees of rasslin' ever seen in this hamlet. One ton of pachyderms on the hoof is expected to mill around in a melange of mix-up glory when the wired up the season in a blaze of bloody glory. The Vons, Erich and Schober, Handsome Hoppy, the strong man, Feroshus Freddie the H'Atkins from Austryiia, Leapin' Lawrence the Kangaroo from Ole Keebec, and Terence the Terrible O'Toole from Erin, be gob, will go at one another with all ethics barred. Should be a battle royal of the ould school what with the referees in there trying to keep the gladiators in order. Should be a diller-thriller. The Pair O' Pats, Fraley and Flanagan, will add a touch of pre-bout Irish to the main fray in an hour-sidrmish. . That will end the season.

Dodgers Hold Statistics Edge, Could Be Decided by Bullpens With Labine, Grim as Heroes

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Two contrasting, consecutive streaks were on the line today as baseball's 52nd world series was unfurled at Yankee Stadium with the New York Yankees seeking their 17th world championship and the Brooklyn Dodgers their first.

Despite rain in the early morning hours, a near-capacity crowd of 67,000 was on hand for the opener.

Big Don Newcombe, a 20-game winning righthander, was expected to be on the mound for Brooklyn. He was to be opposed by Whitey Ford, a compact little lefthander, whose 12 victories this season ranked Casey Stengel with his sixth American League flag in seven years.

The game, to be viewed and heard on television and radio, was slated to start at noon EST.

ALSTON IS CONFIDENT

Walter Alston, going into his first world series in his second year as the Brooklyn helm, was confident the Dodgers would capture their first series title since they came to Flatbush in as many attempts since they won their first pennant in 1916. In their last five failures, it was the Yankees who turned them back.

Despite the statistics against them, the betting boys were stringing along with the Yankees, who have won 16 world championships in 20 attempts, since 1921, including their last seven in a row. The two clubs' makers have installed the American League champions as 13-10 favorites to win the series and 6-5 to take the first game. This, despite the contention that Dodger Manager Mantle, the Yankees' top hitter, would be able to play only part of the series because of a torn muscle in his right thigh.

Mantle worked out along with his Yankee mates at Ebbets Field Tuesday afternoon and circled a couple of balls into the outfield seats but he couldn't run without pain.

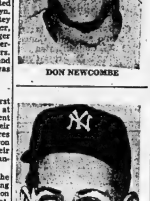
"I'm not hopeful of playing—at least not the first two games at the stadium," he said dejectedly. "It doesn't affect my hitting but I know I can't run on it."

LEG IS IMPROVING

Mantle said however that the leg was improving a bit each day since he injured it while beating out a bunt Sept. 16. He has been on the sidelines since except for two little pinch hitting appearances in Boston Sunday.

Mickey's reduction to the status of pinch hitter would deprive the Yankees of their leading hitter (.306) and the league's leading home run hitter (37). Stengel, who has said he would not make up his mind about Mantle until game time, indicated by his statement that Jerry in Mantle's spot in center field and play the lefthanded hitting Irv Noren in left against righthanders. Against a lefthander, he will use Elston Howard in left in place of Noren.

Stengel was set in all other positions including shortstop where he finally decided on Phil Rizzuto, the grand little veteran of right world series. Alston had no reservations about his lineup, he stuck to the same one he announced Sunday.



KILLERS ALL GONE

The Brooks had seven righthanded hitters to fire at Ford who, in his only previous world series start against the Dodgers, was lasted early. In fact, there isn't a pitcher on the Yankee staff who gave a worse than triumph over Brooklyn. The three big Dodger killers—Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddie Lopat—are all gone. On the other hand, Carl Erskine has beaten the Yankees twice and Billy Loes once in world series competition.

Based on performance in their five previous meetings, this should be a hitting series. The Dodgers hold the edge in the statistics in that category, with a team batting average of .271 to .260 and 201 homers to 175. With only Newcombe, Ford and Bob Turley, the Yankees' speedball righthander, turning in more than 10 complete games, the series could be decided by the bullpens. That means it likely will be Labine vs. Grim in battles between relief aces Clem Labine of Brooklyn and Bob Grim of New York.

Series Notes

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — They talk about "cold" clubs going into the world series . . . This Brooklyn team probably is one of the coldest on record, maybe not as cold as the 1950 Philadelphia Phillies, who lost four straight to New York, but mighty cold. Duke Snider and Roy Campanella, the Brooks' two long-ball hitters, are hitless. The Duke of Flatbush hasn't hit a homer since Labor Day and Campanella hasn't hit one since late in August. . . Today's starter, Don Newcombe, won only two of his 20 victories through August and September. . . Carl Erskine hasn't thrown a good curve since June and Johnny Podres has been knocked out of the box 12 straight times!

Clem Labine, the solid man of the Dodger hurling corps, still shakes his head at the thought of Billy Martin's series winning hit in the '53 world series . . . "He hit the ball on the ground, which was my intention," said Labine, "but it was just plain luck that no one could field it . . . five feet on either side and it would have been a double play."

Ted Williams picks the Yanks to win the series because of their bench, while Chuck Dressen, Walt Alston's predecessor as Brooklyn manager, likes the Yanks on superior power. The players' shares probably will be less this year than in '54 because of the small seating capacity at Ebbets Field. Yankee Stadium can cram in close to 70,000, but if the Brooks tried to get more than 33,000 in Ebbets Field, they'd be hanging from the rafters. . . Still, the winner's share should hit about $10,000.

Jackie Robinson, Brooks' third baseman, has lost 20 pounds in a little over a week. Incidentally, this will be the fourth position he has played in series competition. He already has played first base, second base and left field in previous series. . . Gov. Averell Harriman of New York was on hand for the opener. . . A piped-in music outfit, which services offices, factories and restaurants, will announce the score at the end of each inning, meaning some 50,000 workers in New York area, who otherwise wouldn't get a chance to follow the progress of the games, will get a break.

Alston's final before - the - battle statement: "Listening to the way the boys talk, it is evident they are confident about this thing. That makes me confident, too. They certainly aren't overawed at the Yankees and I see no reason why they should be."

Millers Square Little Series; Edge Wings 4-3

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A line drive home run in the 10th inning by George Wilson, his second of the night, earned Minneapolis Millers a 4-3 victory over Rochester Red Wings Tuesday night and squared the little world series at three games apiece.

Wilson rescued the Millers in the eighth inning when he lobbed a leadoff homer into the right field screen off starter Gary Blaylock to tie the score at 3-3. Blaylock, who had been coasting with relative ease until then, left for a pinch-hitter in the ninth and righthander Tony Jacobs took over for the International League playoff winners.

Jacobs got through the ninth frame unscathed but with one out in the 10th Wilson smashed his screaming, 350-foot drive to settle the issue.

HIS THIRD VICTORY

Big Al Worthington, pitching superbly in relief over the last three innings, gained credit for his third victory of the series for the American Association champions. Worthington yielded only one hit, a single by Vern Benson in the ninth inning.

Miller starter Alex Konikowski was moving placidly until the sixth when Blaylock opened a lead-off double over the right field wall. Howie Phillips doubled and Konikowski himself threw wildly on a third-base play on an attempted force play. Manager Bill Rigney lifted the right-hander at that point and sent in Jim Constable. A single by Allie Clark gave Rochester a third run of the inning after Phillips had scored on Konikowski's error.

The Millers had taken the lead in the second inning on Carl Sawatski's homer and added another in the fifth on a walk to Eddy Bressoud and Ozzie Virgil's double.

Fiery Ex-Manager of Giants Quiet Conservative Exec.'

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher bade farewell to baseball Tuesday after 30 years. He took an executive job with the National Broadcasting Company at a reported $25,000 a year.

Durocher resigned Saturday as manager of New York Giants, a job that paid him an undisclosed salary, reported in the neighborhood of $50,000 a year.

NBC unveiled the fiery ex-manager at a press conference as the new "quiet, conservative" network executive. He will negotiate with talent and help in programming. He also will fill in from time to time as a sports commentator, but will not be a regular broadcaster. His contract is for one year.

"I reserve a woman's prerogative to change my mind, but right now I'm definitely through with baseball," he told the press conference.

"It's hard to sit here and say you're happy about it after 30 years in baseball, but I have been contemplating it, and right now I can say I'm very, very happy."

NEEDS TV

DETROIT (AP) — Pro football needs television to survive financially, Nick Kerbawy, general manager of Detroit Lions, declared Tuesday.

Speaking to the Michigan Football Writers Association, Kerbawy said television revenues to National Football League clubs at one-sixth of their gate receipts.

"And that is more than the margin of profit for a club," he said.

Press Boys Rate Yankees 2-1 Favorites

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees were almost a 2-1 favorite to whip Brooklyn Dodgers in the world series among baseball writers polled by The Associated Press Tuesday.

Of the 49 writers, representing newspapers 'fled wire services, 31 picked the Yankees. Only 18 figured the Dodgers finally will break the ice and win their first classic.

Most of the experts concluded it will be a six-game series. Only two—Joe Williams of the New York World Telegram and Sun, and Jack Cuddy of The Associated Press—guessed a four-game sweep, and both picked the Yankees.

Approve Sale Of Four Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York state racing commission approved Tuesday the sale of the state's four running tracks to the Greater New York Association, Inc., for $16,018,750.

By its action, the commission opened the way for the GNYA to take over the operation of New York tracks on a non-profit basis, and the redistribution of the assets of the properties.

Plans for a new super track and other improvements are being drawn up by a committee headed by Alfred J. Vanderbilt. Major work is expected to be done at Aqueduct, Belmont Park, and the reconstruction at Saratoga Springs. It is expected that when the work is completed, Jamaica will be sold, for a real estate development.

Hawks Brilliant In New Uniform Glory

WELLAND (CP)—The Chicago Black Hawks will have a new look Saturday as well as in manpower as the coming National Hockey League campaign.

New road uniforms, bearing changes in design, were donned here Tuesday and they made a hit with the observers.

Body of the sweaters is bright red. The complete has been dropped from the front where solid decoration is a nine-inch tan-colored diagonal stripe. Feathers sparkle in green, yellow and gold, and the arms have wide black and white stripes and the letter "C" is a gossed tomahawks superimposed.

The Chicago uniforms were formerly red, white and black.

The Hawks have red-and-white piping at the sides, but not on the leg bottoms, as previously. Stockings are red. New home sweaters will be solid white, except for the Indianhead and red-and-black arm stripes.

Tuesday, coach Dick Irvin said the next 24 hours will bring de-limit.

cision in regard to player combinations and assignments between the Hawks and the Chicago farm club, the Buffalo Bisons.

"We'll be making up our minds from what we see in tonight's workouts," said the coach.

The Hawks Tuesday night defeated Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League 4-1 in an exhibition game.

Chicago goals were by Eddie Litzenberger, Pierre Pilotte, Harry Watson and John Wilson.

TURN OUT FOR CATS

HAMILTON (CP)—Tom Lauderback, 235-pound import tackle, is working out with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union.

Recently cut by Washington Redskins of the National Football League, the six-foot-two lineman may go against Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday.

ARGOS FREE THREE

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts Tuesday night released three players, including veteran tackle Lorne Parkin, from their Big Four Football Union team.

Also cut was import tackle Ed Fouch and Ron Cox, a 21-year-old end from the University of Western Ontario last season. Fouch's departure leaves Argonauts with 18 Americans in camp.—De Big Four.

Woodbine Bets

TORONTO (CP) — Racing fans attending the meet at Woodbine track this year bet a total of $7,444,189, Tuesday, the last day of the meet and the last three days oughbred racing will be held on be mile track there, $343,998 was wagered.

The total was $567,376 more than mutuel play in 1954. Total attendance for the meet was 155,850, an increase of nine per cent over last year.

Frank Lane New Manager Of Cardinals

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Lane is in as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and Harry Walker is out as field manager of the Redbirds.

Eddie Stanky, who Walker succeeded as St. Louis manager last May, may be back in baseball as manager of the Minneapolis Millers, farm club of the New York Giants in the American Association.

These choice items were learned Tuesday night as the baseball folks gathered at world series headquarter on the eve of the opening game at Yankee Stadium.

At least one proposed deal fell through. Paul Richards' plan to step down as manager of the Baltimore Orioles and name George Kell of the Chicago White Sox as his successor was vetoed by the Baltimore board of directors. The board insisted that Richards live up to his three-year contract calling for the dual role as field and general manager.

HAVE CONFERRED

Lane, who resigned as White Sox general manager last week, already has conferred with Dick Meyer, executive vice-president of the Cardinals. They were to meet again either today or Thursday when Lane is due to take charge and an official announcement will be made. Lane's salary is to be $50,000 a year for three years with the understanding that he is to have a free hand in running the club.

The informant said that Lane already has a successor to Walker in mind but would not identify him other than to say that he is 'class guy.'' The Cardinals were in fifth place with the Walker regime but from Rochester to replace Stanky around Memorial Day. They finished seventh, 19 games below .500.

Moore Fights Randy Turpin In London

LONDON - (AP)—Archie Moore, whose bid for the heavyweight title was thwarted last week by champion Rocky Marciano, agreed today to defend his world light-heavyweight title against Randolph Turpin in London on Jan. 10, 1956.

Promoter Jack Solomons, who made the announcement, said he arranged the bout in transatlantic telephone negotiations with Charlie Johnston, Moore's manager.

The fight will be held in Earls Court, the 18,000-seat arena in which Turpin won the middleweight title from Sugar Ray Robinson in the summer of 1951. He lost the title to Robinson in a rematch at New York's Polo Grounds 64 days later.

Turpin holds both the British and Empire light heavyweight titles.

Before meeting Moore, Turpin will meet Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Ont., in a 10-rounder in London, Oct. 18.

No Blankets For Officials

VANCOUVER (CP)—A few officials who review the Grey Cup parade here Nov. 26 will have electric blankets in case it's chilly.

There was a report that all 500 officials on the reviewing stand would be swathed in the blankets. However, Al Williamson, public relations officer for the parade, said Tuesday the basis of the report was a tongue-in-cheek remark made by parade chairman Frank Baker at a Grey Cup committee meeting Monday.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Here's b-back view of a player making a long shot with wood. His weight is forward so that he is able to swing down strongly, advisorily. Notice that his left shoulder is rising rather perpendicularly thus permitting his right shoulder to pivot under his chin while he keeps his eyes fixed on the ball and his head still both in the horizontal and vertical planes. At impact, as pictured, notice that his hips and shoulders are both almost parallel with the line of flight. But the left hip pivots back away from the line just a trifle, taking the body out of the way for a full smooth, follow through. And notice the player's feet are well anchored to the ground so that he is in no danger of losing his balance and thus spoiling his shot, as he pours clubhead power into the ball.

SPORT IN BRIEF

FEP BEATS GAULT

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — Wily Willie Pep, former featherweight champion from Hartford, Conn., scored an easy unanimous 10-round decision over Henry (Pappy) Gault, one time North American bantamweight king, Tuesday night.

Pep weighed 125½ for the 202th bout of his professional career, Gault weighed 124. There were no knockdowns and though Pep was belting Gault in the eighth round with telling combinations, the South Carolinan never was in danger of going down.

Pep scored his 138th victory against six defeats and one draw.

WOULD GIVE UP TITLE

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Archie Moore said Tuesday he would give up his light heavyweight boxing title to gain a June rematch with Rocky Marciano.

He was knocked out by Marciano in the ninth round of their heavyweight title fight last Wednesday.

"Any fight I might have before Marciano would dull a title fight," Moore told reporters. "I could box Harold Johnston again or go 10 dull rounds with Bob Satterfield but who would care?"

Moore said he would beat Marciano if they fought again.

Bobby Jones Feted By Golfing Pals

ATLANTA (AP) — About 600 friends Tuesday night paid tribute to Bob Jones, the golfer and the man, at a stag dinner commemorating the 25th anniversary of the day he won the U.S amateur to complete a grand slam unique in the annals of the sport.

Jones received an ovation when he entered the banquet room at the Atlanta Athletic Club in his usual modest fashion and later spoke quietly of his achievements.

A letter of congratulations from President Eisenhower was read. It was written several weeks ago.

Harold Sargent, secretary of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, praised Jones as the greatest golfer and sportsman of all time."

Jones defeated Eugene Homans 7 and 6 in the Amateur Sept. 28, 1930, to become the only man ever to hold the U.S Open and Amateur and the British Open and Amateur at the same time. He retired two months later.

Quiet Marks Woodbine's End

TORONTO (CP) — Racing officials gathered quietly in a small, old building near a muddy running strip to reminisce Tuesday, Woodbine's ancient one - mile track passed into history.

Black clouds hung low and rain pelted down for this, the last day of flat racing over Woodbine's one-mile oval. Next season, the Ontario Jockey Club will operate out of a swish $12,000,000 plant at Malton, on Toronto's northwest outskirts.

Ceremonies planned for the closing were cancelled because of heavy rain. Instead, racing met men in the old quarters that has served for decades as headquarters for the OJC and talked about the good old days.

A $1,500 claiming race marked the end of thoroughbred racing over the track—scene of the $20,000-added Queen's Plate for the last 94 years. True Lover crossed the finish line in the eighth race and paid off at 4-to-1 odds.

However, racing will not leave Woodbine altogether. An older, shorter track will be retained for harness racing and possibly flat racing.

CANADA OUSTED

MILWAUKEE (CP) — Canada's Saskatoon Gems were eliminated from the global baseball world series Tuesday when they took an 8-2 drubbing from the unbeaten United States entry, Wichita Boeing Bombers. It was the Gems' second defeat of the tournament.

Hawaii, which defeated Colombia 13-0 in Tuesday night's second game, will meet the Bombers in the final tonight while the Gems play Colombia to decide third place.

Willie Marshall Signs Contract With Toronto

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Centre Willie Marshall will get a chance to try out with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Marshall criticized Leaf officials last week for not inviting him to their training camp. General manager Hap Day Tuesday called him up from the American Hockey League Pittsburgh Hornet camp at Niagara Falls, Ont.

At the same time, Day said Marshall has signed a contract for the 1955-56 season. Terms were not disclosed but Marshall said he is "quite happy" with it.

Marshall had said he was returning to his home in Kirkland Lake because Leafs refused to give him an NHL tryout this year.

In a recent game with Hornets against Cleveland Barons of the AHL, Marshall scored all three Pittsburgh goals in a 3-1 win.

Marshall forced us to promote him," said Day.

Dutchies Sign Three Goalies

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series have lined up three goalies for the 1955-56 season.

Chosen to represent Canada in the 1956 Olympics, the Dutchies have signed Dennis Brodeur, Keith Woodall and Don Oliver.

Brodeur, winner of the Turofsky Trophy as top senior A goalie last year, tried out with Cleveland Indians but returned to the K-W team because of the Olympic jaunt.

Woodall substituted for Brodeur during last year's finals against Windsor when he was injured. Although he is not expected to turn out for him his employers have made arrangements for him to be free for the Olympics.

Oliver is up from the Kitchener Siskins of the Junior B series.

Miss Chadwick gave up her third attempt of the year early Tuesday when freshening winds drove her out of the water after four hours.

Joan Caulfield, Barry Nelson Now Going Separate Ways

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What happens when a comedy team goes sour?

In the case of Martin and Lewis, it turned out all right. They reconciled before millions of television viewers, embracing each other and singing a sentimental "Side By Side." Chances are they'll be better than ever.

Another TV team broke up with a big scene, but their differences could not be resolved. They were Joan Caulfield and Barry Nelson, stars of "My Favorite Husband." Both are going their separate ways.

Two years ago, Joan and Barry were chosen to play in the TV version of "My Favorite Husband," which Lucille Ball did on radio until she found her present gold mine. The show was proclaimed a hit from the start. The clever writing and bright acting by the stars combined to beat "Your Show of Shows" in audience ratings. This helped hasten the breakup of another team—Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca.

TROUBLES ARISE

But things went wrong on "My Favorite Husband" last season.

"I guess the same thing has happened with every team except Amos 'n' Andy," Joan explained. "Friction has to arise, because one member of the team is bound to get most of the comedy. Either you patch it up, or you quit.

"In 'My Favorite Husband,' the comedy arose because of the girl; she was a slightly wacky character, Barry thought more of the show should be directed at him. He pouted.

"To keep him happy, they aimed a show at him. Then I'd be just as miserable as he was.

"It was awfully difficult trying to play comedy with somebody who wasn't happy with the show. Finally one day we had our blowup. He was silent through a rehearsal and I finally exclaimed, 'Barry, what on earth is the matter with you?' I really let him have it. He merely replied, "It's nothing personal." They cancelled the rehearsal for that day, and of course the story of the fight spread through CBS like wildfire.

BARRY'S BACK

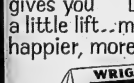
The show was further dampened by an interview in which Nelson said he was fed up and had handed in his notice.

But here's the switch: Nelson is back doing the show and Joan isn't.

But she remarked that it has all turned out well for both her and Barry. She's active in films again, and is up for a big spectacular in her favorite role, "Voice of The Turtle."

"And Barry should be happy," she added. "Now it's 'The Barry Nelson Show'—with Vanessa Brown."

In reply to Miss Caulfield's comments, Nelson explained that he disliked the way his character was treated in the series. He felt his had been treated as a smart character in the first season but had been turned into something of a dope.



Because of this and a chance for a Broadway show, he wanted out. But CBS exercised its option on him and now he feels the character is being molded to its original conception.

Lumsdon Gives City's $1,000 To Swim Club

AT THE BELLE — Lana Turner and Edmund Purdom as they appear in "The Prodigal", M.G.M.'s powerful spectacular love story, co-starring Audrey Dalton and Louis Calhern, in CinemaScope and color, arriving today at the Belle Theatre.

TORONTO (CP)—Swimmer Cliff Lumsdon said Tuesday he will turn over a $1,000 gift from the city to the Lakeshore Swim Club of which he is manager.

The city voted to give the 24-year-old swimmer a cheque in recognition of his 32-mile swim at the Canadian National Exhibition two weeks ago.

Lumsdon said he will give it to the club to help in its work among handicapped swimmers.

Lumsdon, who announced recently he and swimmer Joan Cooke will be married Nov. 5, made another decision Tuesday—to correct the spelling of his name.

Newspapers picked it up incorrectly when he first started swimming and called him Lumsden and he went along with the spelling. Now he's decided it's to be Lumsdon again.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Thursday, Sept. 29, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Situations in the news tend to govern your attitude toward's day's activities. Review significances of offerings, your problems. P. M. better possibilities than usual; be alert, ready to grasp opportunities.

April 21 to June 21 (Taurus) — New and unusual events probable; all matters will need smart decisions, thoughtful management. Note opposites around you but do not let it deter your progress.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A lively day, practically made-to-order for you alert thinkers. But don't be too anxious to get on with things. If day is properly paced its impetus could bring high achievement.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Follow the right path and avoid anything savoring of a questionable nature and you will build strongly for your future. Guides something different if it shows sound possibilities.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Interviews, conferences for the purpose of devising better methods, for business, social affairs favored. Don't force your ideas on others unless sure you are right.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — You will enjoy the fruits of your efforts if you are consistent and act accordingly to properly established rules. Don't be too conservative or timid abut taking fully progressive steps.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Though you may encounter stiff opposition, there are chances to break through for fresh gains, doing the unusual. Heart interests favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Opportune for shipping farming, science, many business activities and personal affairs. Domestic and social matters have a high place among favored activities.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — The influences are inspiring, but are better for some matters, such as sound investments and dealing in staple commodities than they are for the purely speculative. The unusual could do well.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Some restrictions now. A conservative attitude will be your best protection until you have considered the best way to progress. Tighten the purse strings; don't spend recklessly.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — You don't fool anybody but yourself when you think you can handle undertakings without thought of study. Today promises good results from constructiveness, solidity, balance.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Many diversified aspects today. But you may find a tendency toward impatience, nervous tension. Calm thinking, action needed more than ever, also confidence and sincerity.

YOU BORN TODAY are capable and make excellent companions. You are artistic and practical in the same breath-something not everyone can boast. You heartily dislike discord and contention. Be careful about companions and what you do in free hours. Don't overdo at work or at play. You are innately lazy, trustworthy. Reach for top goals. You can achieve them. Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows changed the name of the Tru Adventurers Club to the Tru Adventurers Club for an excuse to keep Sam Cross out of it, him being the most famous liar around and this afternoon we had a meeting around Hitler's bean in the circus and sed on the brake. I remember it a plane to day. Wow, was that exciting, he said.
I'll never forget my 4th birthday. I said, I'm having a party for all the kids and the house next store caught on fire, and we all ran out and watched the firemen squirt their hoses through the windows, I said, and somebody said, Aw, what's so exciting about that!
Being how Sam was older here, and we said, Hay, scram, beet it, we'll keep back out of the way.
I voted myself back. Sam said, Wait till you hear what happened to me when I was only 6 months old. I remember the date exactly cuz the next day was my 1st birthday. I was drinking milk out of my baby bottle, and I noticed a bum taist, and I yelled and threw the bottle on the floor, and got mad and took it around to the drugstore to have the milk inspected, and it was full of poison because my nerse was the welch's weral baby killer, and she's still in prison right now just on account of my quick work, he said.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both— Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, every healing improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne® is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H. suppositories. Or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

1st and 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigades Will Change Places

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The 1st and 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigades have been packing for a move that will transport between continents 18,000 persons—a number equal to the population of Fredericton.

The brigades sail shortly—the 1st from Europe to Canada, the 2nd from Canada to Europe—and the army says they'll be settled in time to hang their stockings for old St. N' k.

For several weeks beginning Sept. 29, the Atlantic will be crowded with 10,000 Canadian soldiers and 8,000 dependents as Canada rotates her North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe.

TWO-YEAR STINT

The 5,000 men of the 2nd brigade, many of whom saw action during the Korean War, move from Canada to Soest, in West Germany, for a two-year hitch as the Canadian NATO army force.

The 1st brigade, with an equal number of men who have served under NATO command in Europe for two years, returns to Canada as this country's mobile striking force, a role held for the last two years by the 2nd brigade. The battalions returning from Germany were the first Canadian units to fight in Korea four years ago.

Wheels have been turning for months as the Canadian army prepared for the change of roles of the two parachute-trained brigades of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division. The 3rd brigade remains in Canada.

An advance party was sent to Germany several weeks ago to take stock of equipment being turned over to the 2nd brigade and generally prepare for arrival of the main body of troops.

FAMILIES GO LATER

The men of the 2nd will travel to Europe alone, their wives and children following about two weeks later. About 3,000 dependents are making the trip.

Once at their stations in the Soest area some of the men will take over furnished married quarters provided by the Canadian government and allotted before the brigade leaves Canada. Their own furniture will be stored at government expense in Canada. Others will have to find their own billets.

An army spokesman at brigade headquarters here said the plan is to allow the officers and men to move in and have time to prepare the welcome mat for their wives and children.

The movement schedule allows plenty of time for the men and dependents to be well settled before Christmas.

In the case of the 1st brigade's return to Canada, the army will—wherever possible—let the men, their wives and children travel together. Nearly 5,000 dependents are returning.

The spokesman said this plan was worked out with the view that returning men will go on 60-day leaves and will have places to stay when they arrive home.

The 2nd brigade sailings start from Quebec City Sept. 29 when brigade headquarters units and three service units, totalling 600 men, will embark. The 1st will start moving out of Germany as the 2nd arrives.

The second draft—800 officers and men of the 1st battalion, Royal 22nd regiment, and the advance party of the 1st field squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers — will leave Oct. 5.

On Oct. 11, some 600 members of the 1st battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will leave, and three days later a draft of 85 men embarks—including a company each from the PPCLI, Royal 22nd and 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, A-squadron of the Royal Canadian Dragoons and a battery from the 4th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Four more ships will follow Oct. 26, Nov. 1, Nov. 8 and Nov. 12, carrying 1,264 officers and men of the brigade's remaining arms and service units.

Six Atlantic crossings will be made for the 3,000 wives and children going to Europe and nine vessels will return men and dependents of the 1st brigade.

VETERAN OF NORMANDY

The 2nd brigade is under Brig. Roger Rowley, DSO, 40, of Ottawa, a veteran of the Normandy fighting during the Second World War, who took over as commander in December, 1954, following study at the Military Staff College and Imperial Defence College in England.

Brigade units are scattered across the country and officers and men began in mid-September returning to home stations from 30 days' leave for embarkation concentration.

The 4th field regiment, RCHA, is under Lt.-Col. T. R. Gemmell and based at Camp Utopia, N.B. Maj. A. E. Ballantyne commands the 1st field squadron, RCE, at Chilliwack, BC, and A-squadron of the Dragoons is under Maj. G. Fawcett at Petawawa, Ont.

The 2nd battalions of the PPCLI, RCR and Royal 22nd, which make up the main body of the 1st brigade under Brig. W. A. B. Anderson, 40, of Montreal, will return to their units' home stations following the return to Canada. The 2nd battalion PPCLI, will move from Calgary to Edmonton sometime in 1956.

Tear Gas Is Used To Quell Rioters In Cyprus Cities

One-Day General Strike Touches Off Street Fights

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Violence erupted throughout this Mediterranean colony today as British forces repeatedly used tear gas to beat back Greek Cypriot demonstrators armed with stones and bottles.

Street fights, heightened by shouts of "throw the British out," raged in Nicosia, Paphos and Limassol at the start of a 24-hour general strike against British rule.

In Limassol, on the south coast, results for down the British flag flying over the local hospital and smashed police telephone booths with stones and bottles. Church bells rang out at the start of the rioting. An 8 p.m. curfew later ordered them silenced.

ORDER RESTORED

At noon today, after hours of rioting, British troops and police restored order in the three cities. Police commissioners flew in from over this capital to check on possible new outbreaks.

Anti-British demonstrations also broke out as retiring governor Sir Robert Armitage left aboard the Italian ship Filippo Grimaldi. He is being succeeded by Field Marshal Sir John Harding.

Meantime, tear-gas barrages opened up in several areas of Nicosia to drive back the demonstrators. Owners of food stores and restaurants, ordered to stay open, hastily shut up their premises to keep out the fumes. There were screams from frightened babies as their eyes smarted.

BATTLE THROUGH STREETS

Police dogs were used to help in dispersing Nicosia rioters.

Youths screaming "long live Enosis"—the banned underground terrorist organization—rode on bicycles through the crowded Greek quarter ahead of the advancing forces as acrid tear-gas fumes filled street after street, dispersing assembled crowds.

Club-swinging troops and steel-helmeted police with batons and tear gas fought hide-and-seek battles with groups of Greek youths. Gas parties pushing forward under hails of stones fired grenade after grenade at retreating demonstrators, driving them into narrow side streets. But as one group was dispersed another reformed in the next street yelling for Enosis —union with Greece—and Eoka.

A proclamation was issued declaring the town of Nicosia to be thoroughfare out of bounds to civilians. Troops armed in full with barbed-wire barricades. A proclamation against all assemblies and processions was issued.

Organizers of the strike, including right and left-wing student leaders, called on Cypriots to "bring the island to a complete standstill" in protest at the United Nations' refusal to debate the Greek claim for self-determination.

The stoppage is also to protest against Britain's "military and police rule" in Cyprus. British says she must keep the island for the defence of the eastern Mediterranean.

CHURCHILLS REMANDED

LONDON (Reuters)—John Spencer Churchill, nephew of Sir Winston Churchill and brother-in-law of Prime Minister Eden, has been remanded again with his wife on a charge of behaving in a disorderly manner while drunk. At a previous hearing three weeks ago the couple pleaded not guilty.

Finds Proof Glacial Man Lived On Lake Huron Isle in 28,000 B.C.

SHEGUIANDAH, Ont. (CP)—An anthropologist says he is convinced glacial man lived on Manitoulin island in Lake Huron some 30,000 years ago.

Tom Lee, 42, of the National Museum of Canada, said Wednesday excavations near this island community have yielded over 700 artifacts which predate all previous finds of Canadian antiquity. After four years work, he says he is satisfied his estimate of 30,000 years is "well within reason."

The area was swept by at least five known glacial deposits. But the artifacts—quartzite tools, stone knives and scrapers—were found in soil laid down before any of the known glaciers.

Mr. Lee's theory is that the artifacts were covered by two glaciers that preceded the great Mankato glacier, first of the five known glaciers to move over the area. The Mankato has been dated at from 10,000 to 12,000 years ago.

Mr. Lee and other geologists maintain that it would have been impossible for man to exist here later than 30,000 years ago. The Wisconsin ice sheet, greatest of the glaciers, would not permit it, he said.

BRITAIN AND U.S. SHOWING INTEREST IN HELLER TANK

Number Lent to U.S. Army for Trials

OTTAWA (CP)—Britain and the United States are showing a lively interest in the Heller, the Canadian Army's new tank - killing weapon for infantrymen.

The Heller has been demonstrated for senior American officers and a number have been lent to the U.S. Army for trials. The British Army also is putting the weapon through tests.

There is a good chance, it was learned Wednesday, that the U.S. Army, if it does buy this safety bell Crewmen working with him were unable to bring him to the ground.

An immediate call to the fire department brought the aerial ladder. Latta was brought down the ladder by the combined efforts of Fire Chief Hall, firemen workers and artificial respiration was started immediately at the base of the pole.

Robert Latta, PUC Lineman, Electrocuted on Bridge St. E.

Robert Latta, 29, of Wallbridge, a lineman with the Belleville Public Utilities Commission for five years, was electrocuted at 4.00 p.m. Wednesday while working on 2,400-volt line at the corner of Bridge St. E. and George St.

Hundreds of students on their way home from Belleville collegiate gathered at the scene as firemen, hydro and utilities crewmen worked in relays to revive Latta.

Latta was pronounced dead shortly after 8.00 p.m. after four hours of artificial respiration and massage failed to revive him.

Latta was working at the top of the pole with H. Forest when the accident occurred. They were making a permanent splice in a line damaged last month by the violent wind storm that marked the passage of Hurricane Carol through this district.

It is believed that the wire struck a metal buckle on Latta's work joint.

He slumped away from the pole was then by his safety belt Crewmen working with him were unable to bring him to the ground.

An immediate call to the fire department brought the aerial ladder. Latta was brought down the ladder by the combined efforts of Fire Chief Hall, firemen workers and artificial respiration was started immediately at the base of the pole.

The charge burned Latta on the chest and on both feet.

Doctors Austin Walters, J. H. Forsythe and M. Metcalfe were on the scene within minutes. Engineer Cooke, of the local Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario was other Utilities commission crews brought relays of men trained in artificial respiration and they continued an uninterrupted attempt to save Latta.

Workers on their way home from downtown offices and from factories joined the artificial respiration teams.

Rev. Dr. M. Davis of Bridge St. United church and Rev. P. Murphy of St. Michael's were called to the scene. It was learned later that Latta was an Anglican and a member of Christ church.

Police blocked off Bridge St. E. between Church and George Sts. re-routing traffic during the rush hour.

The determined fight for Latta's life ended shortly after 8.00 p. m. when he was pronounced dead. Dr. J. Loynes, who arrived at the scene about 6.00 p.m., took a special interest in Latta's heart shortly after 7.00 p.m.

Latta is survived by his wife, the former Iris Risher of Belleville.

A preliminary inquest into the death of Robert Latta was held at the Belleville Burial Company funeral home and the coroner's jury here Coroner Dr. R. W. Tennent. The hearing was scheduled for Monday, October 3rd.

Sick and Hungry Human Hearts Being Repaired by Brilliant Surgery

Editor's Note: No advances in medicine are as dramatic as heart surgery. Skilled doctors have made immense strides in the past decade in operating room techniques. The day may even come when you can trade in your sick heart for a new healthy one. These advances are described in this third article of a series of four.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sick and hungry human hearts are being transformed to health by a new era of bold, brilliant surgery.

Surgeons, dreaming of things once considered impossible, were pioneering so that today:

Delicate heart operations can bring renewed life and strength to hearts damaged by attacks.

Heart-lung machines can put human hearts and lungs on complete vacations. Empty of blood, the heart can be opened so surgeons can see just where a defect is, and repair it.

The blood circulation of a sick child and healthy adult can be joined temporarily so their hearts and lungs do thework of the two. Then the child's heart is opened and exposed for repair.

Spare arteries taken from dead humans, or even animals, are used to replace damaged or missing sections of living persons' arteries.

Some persons have plastic valves substituting for their own damaged heart valves. And new techniques permit amazing repair of hearts defective or mixed up since birth.

Most of these surgical advances have blossomed within the last 10 years.

Naturalists Hear Talk on Snakes By Thos. Stovell

On Monday evening at Queen Elizabeth school the members of the Quinte Field Naturalists met for the first meeting of the fall season. Plans and arrangements were made for the Charles Broley lecture on "Birds of Prey" which is to be held in October. Mr. Watson was appointed member of the Film Council in place of the president, Mr. James.

A motion to write a strong letter of protest to Mr. W. H. Harkness, head of Fish and Game Service, Department of Lands and Forests against the shooting of mourning doves was heartily seconded by everyone present.

Mr. James introduced the speaker, Mr. Thomas Stovell, of the Entomology Laboratory, Mr. Stovell's talk was on Herpitology — the study of reptiles and amphibians.

In Ontario there are 15 varieties of snakes, six of which may be found in or around Belleville —small brown snakes, one of which has a red underbelly, garter snakes, water snakes, and milk snakes. North of Belleville may be found the harmless but large fox snake. Near Bracebridge, the ring-neck, a rare snake, has a vivid yellow band around the neck and also the black variety may be seen. The only harmful snake in Ontario is Massiuga rattler found in the Bala area. The bite of this snake may cause a painful swelling but is not fatal to humans.

HIGHLY SENSORY ORGAN

The tongue of the snake is a highly sensory organ. Fangs when broken off have new ones ready to drop in place. The young are born alive. Snakes shed their skins. Color, pattern and protection makes do not swallow their young and also snakes do not milk cows.

There are eight types of frogs —six of salamanders and six of turtles. Among the eight types of frogs are the leopard and pickerel, spotted much alike, bull frogs, blue mottled, swamp, tree, spring peeping, wood and chameleon which change color to match their surroundings.

Specimens live and otherwise added much to the interest of the talk. Mr. James thanked the speaker for his fascinating talk, as indeed he was. Mrs. Fleming's group served refreshments.

New CIL Plant at Millhaven Is Officially Opened

An aerial view of the $22,000,000 "Terylene" plant of Canadian Industries (1954) Limited at Millhaven, Ontario, which was officially opened on Wednesday by the Right Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade and Commerce. The plant, which took two years to build, stands on a 1,500-acre site on Lake Ontario midway between Napanee and Kingston. It produces polyester fibre for Canadian textile industry. It is converted into a wide variety of fabrics for men's and women's clothing and for many industrial end uses.

CIL's Marvel at Millhaven Is Viewed by 350 Visitors

(By DICK PAYNE)

Hey Walter, Walter Reuther! Have you been giving any serious thought about the coming of automation in the U.S. automotive industry?

You ought to come up to Millhaven and see automation arrived in fine, Canadian textile industry. Or should it be chemical industry? Well, anyway in the terylene industry. What's terylene? A polyester fibre. What's this polyester fibre? Well partly of anti-freeze—ethylene glycol to you chemists—and partly from dimethyl-terephthalate. And what are the anti-freeze and DMT made of? Petroleum, coal and petroleum!

Back to start at the beginning. Canadian Industries (1954) Ltd. officially opened its new terylene plant at Millhaven, midway between Napanee on the Old Bath Road, and Kingston, Wednesday. The opening was staged with a flourish. So invited guests heard speech addresses by H. Greville Smith, president of CIL, J. R. Whinfield, English inventor of the polyester fibre, Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade and Commerce and Minister of Defence Production, R. B. Winsor, general manager of CIL's fibres division, and H. M. Sherwood, works manager of the Millhaven plant. Hon. L. O. Breithaupt, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, was also in the audience, as were leading textile industrialists, particularly those interested in the chemical and the textile fields. After the speeches, the visitors toured the plant in groups. It's another marvel of production at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club Millhaven plant.

Another visitors' day will be staged Thursday. This time the invitations will be sent to CIL employees, each of the 400 workers in the plant having the right to invite one person.

PLANT A SHOWPLACE

Mr. C. D. Howe was his usual enthusiastic and optimistic self. He said that the plant was a showplace that he believed the $22,000,000 and two years spent in building it had been time and money well spent.

It is a showplace, alright, from the marble staircase in the entrance to the research building right back to the cafeteria-style mess house.

Mr. Howe was optimistic about the future of Canada. He quoted figures to prove that in the last 10 years Canada had the most rapid rate of real economic expansion yet experienced by any nation in the post-war years."

CIL must have faith in the future of Canada also. Otherwise it would not have built a plant capable of producing 30,000,000 lbs. of terylene. Half the machinery which the plant contains was installed. Half the installed machinery is normally in use. There are at present 400 employees. But employment will be 800. It appears, therefore, that CIL could quadruple its output by doubling the number of employees.

WIDE OPEN SPACES

And that brings us back to automation. Perhaps this is not automation. At any rate, Millhaven uses the term. But casual visitor is amazed at the wide open spaces by the fact that only a few workers can be seen at any one department. One of the guides explained that only half of the machines normally in use were in operation. Perhaps this was because supervisory personnel had other duties for the day acting as guides to the visitors. But is it not also possible that some of the dial-watching, button-pushing chart-carrying white-collar men who were in evidence were looking a little busier than usual? Perhaps not. But on a normal day, be leaning back in a chair instead of studying their charts?

Just what happens between the time when petroleum products start being machine-handled and the time terylene ends up in the warehouse ready for shipment to a textile mill is too complicated for comprehension by your did not provide the answer. Nor was it possible for the visiting layman-gencer's reporter was the lone man in a group of ten ladies any banish this quote of questions of the public. C. D. Howe said that he would-be interested in inspecting the plant not only as minister of trade and commerce but as an engineer. Getting Engineer Howe through that plant in an hour must be ranked as a major miracle, to match the terylene production process itself.

One thing is sure. Millhaven may not be the acme of automation— but it is a safe bet no other industrial plant has a more beautiful site, looking out across the blue waters to Amherst Island. And the grass there is kept cut back out and turn around with ease, with no danger of bumped fenders.

That's what CIL has at Millhaven. The plant is the first of two, perhaps of many, which it will build in the area.

Of the present employees, from 15 to 20 per cent are technicians or supervisors. The remainder have been recruited in the area. Most have some experience in highly skilled. Others—well one apparently had a job skin in holding the skein while Grandma winding a ball of wool. In the research laboratory the proportion of skilled technicians is probably higher. But one girl was asked whether it had taken her long to train for the job. "I had no training before I came here," she said, "and I picked it up in a few days."

That may not be automation, but it will do until the real thing comes along.

Will Increase OPP By Hundred Men

TORONTO (CP) — In a joint announcement Wednesday, Attorney-General Roberts and Provincial Treasurer Porter said the Ontario treasury board has decided to increase the Ontario provincial police force by 150 men.

The increase, requested by the attorney-general, has been under consideration for some time, the announcement said.

"The growing demands of highway and social duties of the provincial police force have grown to such an extent that this increase is deemed to be necessary," it added.

Mr. Roberts said the increase probably will cost well over $500,000 and will bring the number of provincial policemen to about 1,700 and the total staff to about 2,500 persons.

Bata Kitchener Store Fights Closing Law

KITCHENER (CP)—A city bylaw regulating closing hours for stores Wednesday was attacked on five points in court here by Bata Principal Investment, Ltd., Toronto, on behalf of one of its Kitchener Plaza tenants.

Decision was reserved to Oct. 12 on the case in which the Bata shoe store in the shopping centre is accused of breaking the hours and shoes by-law of 1931 by staying open after 7 p. m. Aug. 25 Specifically charged is the manager, Charles Hoffman.

The case is considered by many merchants and by Kitchener council to be a test case.

Six other stores, four of which are located in the new centre, also have been charged with staying open late. Decision to go ahead with their cases likely will rest on the outcome of the Bata trial, authorities said.

SICK AND HUNGRY

There are two main techniques for helping some victims of bad heart attacks such as the coronary thrombosis suffered by President Eisenhower. In these cases a clot blocks one or more of the branches of arteries that bring nourishment to the heart muscle. Recovery depends upon expansion and circulation of other arteries, or growth of new arteries, to nourish the area deprived of blood supply.

STIMULATE MUSCLE

One remedy is to irritate the heart, stimulating the heart muscle to create a new blood supply. Sterile talcum powder or asbestos powder is put inside the sac surrounding the heart.

Secondly, the heart hungry for blood can, in effect, be given a new artery. A piece of vein can be taken from the arm, then hooked in on the heart so some blood being pumped from the heart is fed into the heart muscle.

Dr. Arthur Vineberg of Montreal says an artery runs down through the chest, swings one end of it over and buries it in a tunnel of heart muscle. It becomes a third artery feeding the powerhouse of life. In time, he says, an additional network of little blood vessels appears, distributing the new supply of blood.

Hospital Building Fund Gets Cheque

Cost of Hospital Additions Above Original Estimates

A. McLean Haig, chairman of the building fund campaign for the Belleville General Hospital, said Wednesday that cost of the new additions would exceed original estimates and that the addition of other arteries, or growth of new arteries, to nourish the area deprived of blood supply.

STIMULATE MUSCLE

Mr. Haig made these statements at the annual Fall Tea of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary following acceptance of a cheque for $10,000 in payment of the auxiliary's pledge to the building fund. The cheque was presented by auxiliary president, Mrs. Lennox Smith, during the tea held at the home of Mrs. Philippa Faulkner.

"Cash on hand is nearing exhaustion," said Mr. Haig. He stated that at the present pace of construction approximately $50,000 a month is being spent. Cash on hand prior to the presentation of the auxiliary's cheque was $148,000.

"It is most important for those who have pledged and are in arrears to bring their pledges up to date as soon as possible," he said.

"Those associated with the campaign are disappointed with the pledges. We have done everything to get pledges in and up to date. If you know anyone or are in contact with anyone behind with his pledge see to it that the pledge is paid as promptly as possible."

EQUIPMENT COSTS MORE

"We are going to be over our estimates because of the cost of equipment," continued Mr. Haig. "Tenders received for equipment so far are in excess of the architect's estimates."

Mr. Haig explained that a committee from the board of governors would have to approach the city council in the near future to arrange financing of construction because, he said, financing of the construction is the city's responsibility. The city will pay its pledge when it will have made the final arrangement to meet costs.

Mr. Haig concurrently stated that one payment of the provincial government's grant of $135,000 has been paid and a second payment was expected shortly. First payment of the federal government's grant of $125,000 is expected at the same time as the second provincial payment, an arrangement that is customary in paying hospital grants.

In accepting the auxiliary cheque on behalf of the hospital's Board of Governors, Mr. Haig told the women that "frankly I do not know what the Belleville General Hospital would do without the support of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary."

HOSPITAL'S 'BEST FRIENDS'

Turning to auxiliary president Mrs. Lennox Smith he said, "You and your members are the hospital's very best friends."

Mrs. Smith, in presenting the cheque, said, that "at the time we made this pledge it seemed like a tremendous chore before us. Now that our aim has been achieved, and I might add in two years instead of the three year period originally planned, I can say with pride that it has been accomplished only through the untiring efforts of the women associated with the auxiliary."

"I would be remiss if I also failed to pay tribute to the citizens of this community. Through their support of projects put on by the auxiliary they also had a part in this afternoon's drama."

Public Relations Problem Facing Entire Drug Industry

Correction of erroneous impressions about pharmacy, pharmacists and the cost of producing and dispensing pharmaceutical products is the number one public relations problem facing the entire pharmaceutical industry.

This was the contention of D. L. Menzies, president of Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association and president of Mead Johnston and Co., of Canada Ltd., who addressed 80 members and guests of the Quinte District Pharmacists' Association at the Shrine club, Wednesday evening, on the subject, "Public Relations and Pharmacy."

"The public knows precious little of the true facts concerning pharmacy—and believes that the cost of drugs is too high," he said.

He contended that because pharmacists belong to a profession which has been opposed to publicising itself the public has been forced "to form its own opinions about pharmacy" and has had to fall back on inaccurate and superficial impressions."

Surveys of public opinion towards professions show pharmacists rank 11th from the standpoint of business prestige, ninth from the standpoint of intelligence required, and fifth when it comes to charges for professional services rendered.

Mr. Menzies stressed the importance of the "written and spoken conduct of the individual pharmacist as the key of professional advertisements to create a true picture of pharmacy and pharmacists.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE

Mr. Menzies said that because of poor public relations the public "shows a shocking lack of knowledge about the cost of products dispensed." He said that surveys show that 38 per cent of the public thinks penicillin is responsible for the high cost of drugs while 25 per cent blame the manufacturer.

He stated that the cost of producing penicillin was well over $20,000,000 and yet 24 per cent of the public thinks penicillin is a patent medicine. He stated that "...

"The future of pharmacy depends on the confidence and good will of the people of Canada. We must give the people the information about our profession and our industry," said Mr. Menzies.

The speaker was introduced by Bruce Lattimer, district representative of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, and was thanked by Wayne Simmons, of Trenton.

Following the address members of the association held a brief session on problems confronting pharmacists.

William Moffat of Mead Johnson spoke briefly on Civil Defence planning as it pertains to pharmacists.

Chairman of the meeting was association president Cleo Colling. Members from Belleville, Trenton, Bancroft, Marmora, Stirling, Wellington, Picton, Madoc and Colborne attended the meeting.

HUNTERS NOT EFFICIENT

Hunters already decimating the duck population of North America will be joined in a few weeks by deer hunters.

This civilian army, numbering millions, will occupy the marshes and woodlands of Canada and the United States for varying periods from a day to six weeks in different regions. Millions of rounds of ammunition will be fired and inevitably there will be casualties.

Just how good are North American marksmen? The continent's top gunners are almost perfect. Sports page coverage of major trap shooting matches reveals that winners usually break about 245 of a possible 250 targets. In rifle competitions scores at 100 yards are practically perfect and even at distances of 300 and 600 yards there are more bullseyes than misses.

Relatively few gunners—an infinitesimal number of those actually using shotguns and rifles—belong to this select company. The others? They are terrible.

A researcher analyzing the kills, misses and alibis of game hunters found that those who fired less than 30 per cent of all hunters bring home anything; 50 per cent of them get a shot at something and of these 70 per cent miss. Of those who miss nearly 30 per cent blame the gun, the ammunition, shooting conditions, anything except themselves.

This is a remarkable indictment of the average hunter's ability with guns. Yet these same hunters own their weapons and should logically be expected to know what their guns will, and will not, do. Two World Wars in the past 40 years have necessitated use of personal firearms by most adult males on this continent. The training in the maintenance of weapons and their proper use including shooting techniques has been received by almost all males.

Why, then, these hunters such poor marksmen? Why, if they are trained in the use of guns, are there so many fatal hunting accidents each year? Why, if the soldiers of two wars have experienced at first hand the awful realities of guns, does carelessness play such a large part in shooting fatalities?

Any adult in Canada can walk into any store selling guns and buy a shotgun and a rifle and ammunition. Hunting licences are dispensed for a fee with no investigation of the applicant's caution or of his ability to use a gun correctly or of his judgment of dangerous shooting situations. Formal instruction in the correct use of shotguns and rifles is non-existent apart from the army, police training schools or private gun clubs.

The average hunter, caught up in the autumnal madness of open season, usually takes his place on the firing line in marsh or wood equipped with gun and ammunition as deadly and efficient as science can make them. Armed with knowledge of the proper use of the weapon and correct hunting procedures is usually a vague remembrance of some boyhood instruction. Only dimly does he recall the greater length on the bag limits and the penalties which excesses could bring if the guilty party were caught by a game warden.

It is no wonder that "hunters" are slain each fall in "accidental" shootings. The wonder is that any survive.

JUST IN TIME

Atomic energy may provide Ontario with an alternative to water power as a cheap means of producing electricity.

Lack of cheap power could stifle man's progress. Even worse would be lack of food. The world's population is growing.

At the recent Atoms-for-Peace conference in Geneva, Dr. R. A. Silow, an FAO expert, said that atomic energy can be harnessed to increase food production in three ways, by preventing the loss and wastage of agricultural products, by raising present yields and by developing unproductive lands. Atomic radiations are being used to sterilize food stocks, which can then be stored. Radio-isotopes enable scientists to study animal and plant physiology and thus increase production, and to study fishing problems. Atomic energy could be made available to develop unproductive land through the study of water distribution.

Once again—just in time.

WRITTEN ON THE RUN

This is the type of editorial which an Englishman dare not write in September.

Now if it were only July—and the boss had said that we were looking a little wan and should take two months holidays. . . .

Then it would be safe to say that the English are a great race. Then it would be possible to prove the point by reporting that the English have just found a use for the Outer Hebrides, those unfortunate little islands which, despite their best efforts, have never been able to wander far enough away from Scotland to lose their identification with the mainland and escape to England. They have established a rocket base there.

Then it would be possible to point out that, in this atomic age, the English had quite a problem, since it is no longer an asset to live in a light little isle, where every nook and cranny is hospitable and habitable.

It would also be possible to point out that, besides being ingenious, the English are a race with a long memory. How else could it have happened that any of them chanced to remember the existence of the Outer Hebrides?

BRING ON THE CAKE

Ellen Elizabeth, fair as a queen,
Enters this morning another year
Into her teens.
The number, you ask me? Yes, I know it well,
But grudge her promised her never to tell.

This I can say, she has come to the stage
When pretty young maidens don't mention their age.

How many candles will glow on the cake?
If I should tell you, my promise I'd break.
There'll be enough, as we gather about,
For Ellen at once with one puff to blow out.
But birthdays, however, the number may mount,
Are festival days that no longer we'll count.

Long last her laughter, as time quickly flies,
Long shine the twinkle that brightens her eyes.
Happy the birthdays that still are to be.
Be good to her, life, for so lovely is she.
Time, treat her gently; keep Ellen Elizabeth free.
This is the wish of her grandpa today.

These Gals Like Gales

(Ottawa Journal)

Arthur Krock, a serious political writer for the New York Times, is outraged by the names which the U.S. Weather Bureau gives those bouncy wicked gals, the Hurricanes. Not satisfied, he complains, with "Carol" and "Hazel" in 1954, "the married men who dominate the Bureau" have given us "Connie" and "Diane" in 1955, named the next "Ione", and are planning now for the future with "Janet" and "Janice". Mr. Krock asks, are these, sweet girlish names for such a menace, which can bring fire, death, wounds and homelessness?"

On the theory, no doubt, that the wanton wind will be more deadly than the male anyway, Mr. Krock thinks the Weather Bureau people should stop reading nursery rhymes with "their sweet girlish nonsense-names" and take up mythology.

There they would find Deino, Enyo and Pephredo, sentinels for the Gorgons, "with one movable eye and one tooth among them"; and Sthena, Euryale and Medusa, "with long brass hands, brazen claws and snakes for hair," the sight of whom turned beholders into stone. And what about the Furies, unpleasant lassies who were called swearing agents, responding to the names of Alecto, Megaera and Telphane?

Warming to his subject, waxing his book of mythology madly, Krock mentions Charybdis, a sea monster who was "a maiden above the waist and a fish beset with dogs" and three times a day sucked in the sea and then discharged it in a furious whirlpool to bring shipwrecks and drownings.

Krock seems to have something there; a real name for a hurricane. However, he goes on to tell of Circe, the girl who would have turned Ulysses into a swine with the rest of his expeditionary force if he hadn't out-tricked her first. Also of the fifty Danaides, daughters of the King of Argos, of whom had police records and of and come up with "Pansy" and Cidin's five wolves who certainly "Violet"!

Washington Seeress

(By R. M. Harrison in the Windsor Star)

Down Washington way, Jeane Dixon, a seeress who is taken seriously, predicted not long ago that, shortly after his second inaugural in January, 1957, Eisenhower would bring a new blood into the Cabinet and begin shifting more responsibility to Vice-President Nixon as a build-up for Nixon's 1960 candidacy for the White House. It was Jeane's crystal ball which enabled her to predict Truman's surprise re-election in 1948 and She's invincible in 1952. Today's cardiograph at Denver may merely have speeded up that crystal ball by four years.

Incidentally, even if you don't believe in crystal ball, Mrs. Dixon (wife of a prominent Washington real estate dealer who refuses to accept payment for her occult powers because she considers them God-given) seems to have something on the ball. At the time of Georgi Malenkov's succession to the hot seat of Premier-Stalin in Russia, she drew pretty heavily on and said it wouldn't be for long. Malenkov would be out in "about two years," was her verdict. "He will be succeeded by a man with an awful lot of power, a man who will have green eyes and high, wavy hair parted on the side."

Less than two years later, the world was electrified by Russia's bloodless shelving of Premier Nikolai Bulganin — the man who neatly fitted Jeane's prescription — succeeded to the premiership, complete with snout and chuckle.

It's of interest, further, that this amateur prophet is also having almost light-hearted about the Russian menace. The crystal ball conjurers bet that Russia actually wants a long, peacetime breather and will reopen the doors even wider to religion. In fact, she believes Billy Graham will play a tremendous role in this.

A year before Iran deposed Premier Mossadegh in 1953 and recalled the pro-Western Shah, Jeane Dixon foresaw that event as the "Soviet Waterloo." She now believes that the downfall of Mossadegh marked the supreme taste about of Russia's aggressive foreign policy and world conquest, waving cornfields or no waving cornfields.

Another bit of Dixon wizardry is her repeating. Back in 1944, when war was raging in Europe and Asia, Jeane received a summons from the White House. President Roosevelt was sending a car for her to arrive, after a few joking remarks, the President himself took hold of both her hands palm up, and asked: "Tell me, when will I die?"

Jeane studied his hand and was silent. The President prodded for an answer, and finally replied, quietly: "I see death not too far away but perhaps in the spring." Responding calmly Roosevelt mused: "I thought it would be sooner." That ended the interview. F. D. R. went to the polls anyway, won re-election and died less than three months after inauguration, on April 12, 1954.

Have 150,000 Atom Bombs

(Edmonton Journal)

Some interesting general implicity revealing statements about American stockpile of atomic bombs are made in the United States book by Ralph E. Lapp, a prominent physicist. Those who doubt many persons in various countries already taken pencil and paper to derive from the statements a mark an approximate idea of the size of the stockpile.

The remark was that the stockpile already "amounts to several tons of TNT equivalent explosive power on the planet." The world's population now is estimated to be 1852, 000,000. The term several usually means more than two, but not many more. So "several" could be two and three. Then the stockpile would be equivalent explosive power of approximately 7,500,000,000 tons of TNT. The new hydrogen bomb is a bomb so far tested by the U.S. was credited with explosive power equivalent to about 10 million tons. Many older bombs in the stockpile are doubtless of much lesser force. One would therefore conclude that the number of atomic bombs could run as high as 200,000. Allowing for the hydrogen bombs in the total would still leave many "only ordinary" atomic bombs.

These seem fantastic figures, but that is just the way Dr. Lapp describes the stockpile. He said, in a speech at the Mid-Century Springs, West Virginia, the stockpile is so large already that there is no longer is any point in keeping it secret. He called upon President Eisenhower to disclose the dimensions, saying this "could be done without risk."

Assuming the figure for atom bombs, alone, is around 150,000, it may be noted that the U.S. has reduced the business of turning out bombs to a peacetime basis, like a "mass-production process. That would be surprising. The country has been intensively engaged in producing bombs, refining and improving them, and preparing for practically ten years. This would be expected to proceed under the whiphish of apprehension, for the world's most powerful industry. Fully as large-scale large-scale production of almost any item in the peacetime economy.

The meaning of such a stockpile in terms of deterrence or retaliation is hard to estimate, as it would depend on American capacity to deliver the bombs on the enemy by H-bombs, on vital targets. Judging by recent reviews of progress in American civil and military leaders, this capacity could handle only a fraction of the available bombs; but the indicated power in the stockpile is still awe-inspiring, answer.

Masons Aided Catholics

(Brantford Expositor)

Limestone Ridge Convent in Ontario Two miles South of it stands Mac-ton School. It is a separate — that is, Roman Catholic — school. The building is a large, eight flat. Its phlase was noticed by a townsman, who told one of the trustees. Meanwhile a party of men in a passing bus also noticed the fire, and he and his 19 companions called on the bus driver to stop. They got out, burst in the door and into the building, discovered a pile of paper burning on top of a cupboard, put it out, and extinguished the fire. Only smoke damage to measure they found and doused another blaze in a waste basket full of paper under a table.

Aside from the suspicion of arson, the rather arresting thing about the fire brigade assistance was that the 20 volunteer firemen were more or less like the Good Samaritan. They were not members, nor be of assistance, were all members of the Masonic Lodge, returning to Drayton from a meeting at Malden.

These laudable evidences of the real spirit of brotherhood in religious tolerance are not unique. The pity of it is that they are unusual enough to make them news. Instead of dwelling on checking the record, however to find out how often there have been many instances which have been ignored because of local political convictions, often bitterly opposed to each other, have gone out of real distress.

The writer did not too ancient date concerned the burning of a Roman Catholic church in the local Orangemen offering the displaced congregation the use of their hall. Some years ago, the Orangemen of Toronto was more or less famous for the devout Roman Catholic family home was on the route of the annual Orange parade and who made it a kindly gesture to hand out lemonade to the parched marchers.

We could do with a lot more of this sort of thing.

FAITH—OLD AND NEW DEFINITIONS

The Bible defines faith as the giving of substance to things hoped for. What a fine definition that is!

But I heard a modern definition recently, and it ran something like this: "Faith means living one's life in scorn of consequences."

I think of a minister, widely known as a fine associate in this country, doing a splendid piece of work although he was born without arms. I think of a certain blind man in our town who seems never to allow what we would call his affliction to interfere in any way with his enjoyment of life with joy.

St. Paul had a thorn in his flesh. He asked God to remove it, but God refused, saying that his grace was sufficient for such as carried heavy burdens.

The truly brave souls never let the circumstances of life make them downhearted. They do not take the bludgeonings of life with their head bowed. Rather they lay hold on the adverse circumstances of life and make them contribute to their faith, courage and fulfillment. The one ethical teaching which above all others stands out in Christian doctrine is that the significance of life depends not upon the circumstances we encounter but upon the way we meet these circumstances.

What is faith? Faith is the spirit which enables us to face the compulsion of life and to maintain an

Please, Folks, Don't Go Over My Head

When I reach into the appalling pile of letters on my desk, say from measy, misery, me, and pull one out to answer I like to find I can answer it without violating the Hippocratic injunctio — Do Good If You Can But Do Not Harm. This gives me a smug feeling that I'm helping some poor soul to gain better health.

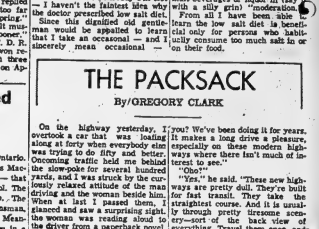
But when I pull out the letter that shouldn't have been written to me at all, I'm annoyed. First, because the letter asks for advice about the diagnosis or treatment of the correspondent's ailment or disease, which is not in my province. Second, because the scrounger clutters up the mail and takes the time of my assistants. And third, because this kind of critter can and often does make a tremendous stink — the publisher or editor about Brady's racket. It is worthy of note that some such letter was thrown out because they go over my head.

This one, for example:

My doctor tells me I have sugar in my urine and he has put me on a low salt diet . . Already I'm tired — I haven't the faintest idea what doctor prescribed such a diet.

Since this dignified old gentleman would appear to be serious that I take an occasional — and I sincerely mean occasional — glass of beer or a Tom Collins . . . Just how often is occasional, I ask?

I turn to you for a bit of private advice . . .



You mean you want me to help you deceive your doctor? Even I answered your query. Mr. Hiwit, it could do you no good and it might do you harm.

The answer to your first question: Mix mail beverages or liquor be taken in moderation by one who has small deal of sugar, no matter what ails you or whether you have enjoyed good health up to date, your carbohydrate tolerance is moderation can't do you any good, and only the doctor who prescribed the low salt diet can tell you whether you can safely take moderate amounts of sugar (I'm with a silly grin) "moderation." For that I have been cast.

learn the low salt diet is beneficially only for persons who habitually consume too much salt in or on their food.

THE PACKSACK

By/GREGORY CLARK

On the highway yesterday, I overtook a car that was loafing along at forty when everybody else was trying to get there and back. Oncoming traffic held me behind the slow-poke for several hundred yards, and I was struck by the curiously inconsiderate attitude of the man driving and the woman at his side. When at last I passed them, I glanced with a surprising sight, for the woman was reading aloud to the driver from a paperback novel.

Being a collector of such studies, I drew off to the shoulder and let them pass me. Then I followed them again and confirmed my impression. There was no doubt about it. The wife was reading aloud to her husband. I passed on.

A few miles up the highway, I drew into a service station for gas. And while I was there, the car I had followed overtook me, and turned into the service station too. I nipped over and begged the couple's pardon. Explained:

"Did I see your wife reading to you as you drove along?"

"Yes, sir," the man replied cheerily. "So you noticed that, did you? We've been doing it for years. It makes a long drive a pleasure, especially on these modern highways where there isn't much of interest to see."

"Oho!"

"Yes," he said. "These new highways are pretty dull. They're built for speed, that's all. They take the straightest course. And it is usually through long stretches of scenery—sort of the back view of everything. Travel them once, and you've seen all there is to see. And what little there is of it. So my self and let them go by . . . just sit and steer, as if I were a long-haul truck driver."

"And it helps keep you awake?"

"It does. And it is relaxing. We've been doing it for years, and my wife is a good reader. Drama-tic. So, instead of racing along the highways, wearing myself out merely to get the distance past me, I idle along in a comfortable, easy-chair sort of gait, and enjoy a good book."

"Wouldn't radio . . .?" I suggested.

"Radio," said he, "is too higgledy-piggledy for us."

OUTLOOKS

How important are the many Outlooks of life! At every age they meet us and our eyes never grow weary from scanning these ever-changing guide posts in our daily living. We are always looking for them. They are a cheerful Outlook on life. That means they are not self contained, but keep gliding ahead, ever on. Their world is the world of everyone else.

I often set and meditated in my resting "Outlook" at my summer island retreat in Penobscot Bay. It was built by a Micmac Indian, who lived there many years ago, from onto was more or less famous for the devout Roman Catholic family home was on the route of the annual Orange parade and who made it a kindly gesture to hand out lemonade to the parched marchers.

We could do with a lot more of this sort of thing.

The attitude of Sultan Arafa of Morocco whom the French want to depose, and who says only Allah can move him, is rather like that of the man who said he could call spirits from the vasty deep. He certainly could, but they wouldn't answer.

My dictionary says that an Outlook is "a way of thinking about things." The business man, whose business may not be good, can think either good or bad about how things stand. If he has a confident and optimistic Outlook everything is in his favor. Too many fail because they do not think themselves out of trouble. Their Outlook is dull and dark.

Outlooks make so many "impossible" things possible! The Outlook is only a viewpoint. We can review ourself, and then we can review everything ahead and make plans accordingly. In a dull sea, the man who does the Outlook business is very important indeed. As Pilot his whole concern is for the safety of his ship. This with us all if we keep an intelligent and watchful eye upon what may be ahead, we will so far, be well guided by our Outlooks. Each becomes a "key" station to the object of our plans and dreams. Ours must be the Forward Look and the will to keep marching on to our objective and destination. Our outlooks will be the basis of the vision that we would gain our heart's desire.

Juveniles Whip Brooklin 10-5; Enter Finals

MADOC (Special) — Madoc juveniles captured the eastern and central Ontario OASA juvenile 'C' championship and qualified to meet Wingham for the provincial title last night by whipping Brooklin 10-5 in the third and deciding game of their two-of-three series.

The locals, played in Brooklin, saw a close-fought battle for the initial six frames with Madoc holding a narrow 5-4 lead. They finally exploded for seven markers in the seventh frame off three Brooklin pitchers and then held on as Brooklin plated one in the 8th and a trio in the ninth.

Madoc now meet Wingham for the All-Ontario championship with the first game scheduled for the western city on Saturday. The second game will be played in Madoc on Saturday, October 8th.

Wayne Shaw went the route for the victors, allowing 10 safeties. He was never in trouble until the ninth, fanning two and walking only one.

Pascoe fired for Brooklin until the big seventh when he was relieved by Redshaw and then K. Jones. Between them they allowed 13 hits, walked seven and passed two.

Devolin accounted for Madoc's first two runs with a long homer in the second after three singles had put Brooklin in front 1-0 for hits, two walks and an error plated the winner's seven markers in the seventh.

Burnside sparked Madoc's attack with two triples, a double and two singles. Johnson added a double and two singles while Devolin homered and singled. M. Jones was tops in defeat with a home run and a one-bagger.

CAUSED BY DRINK

Missing Girls Sent Letter To Police Chief

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Police chief W. S. Boome said Wednesday that he has received a letter from three teen-age girls who have been the object of a widespread police search since they were reported missing from their homes more than a month ago.

The girls wrote that they had left of their own accord and did not intend to return, the chief said.

The envelope, bearing a Toronto postmark, contained a letter from each of the three teen-agers. The girls said they had left home because of family differences.

Joyce Ives, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Ives of Sandwich West township, and two cousins, Jessie Ives, 15, and Doreen Ives, 19, both daughters of Stanley Ives of Leamington, disappeared Aug. 30.

The chief said he notified Inspector J. L. Needham of the Ontario Provincial Police criminal investigation branch when the letter was received last week. He said he did not disclose receipt of the letter until the handwriting was checked and proven to be that of the three girls.

The girls said they are working and are "very happy."

Deadline Is Set For Ousting Of Moroccan Sultan

PARIS (Reuters) — Gen. Pierre Boyer de LaTour, French resident-general in Morocco, is under instructions from Premier Edgar Faure to oust reluctant Sultan Moulay Ben Arafa by midnight tonight and start the long-delayed "new deal" for the North African protectorate.

Under the plan worked out by the French and Moroccan nationalists, Ben Arafa will be replaced by a three-man regency council which, in turn, will pick a representative government.

The die-hard Presence Francaise, a group of militant French settlers in Morocco, has threatened to stop Ben Arafa's departure, by force if necessary. They consider his removal an unwarranted concession to Moroccan nationalists.

TERRORISM FLARES

Terrorism meanwhile was reported to have flared up overnight in Casablanca with the reports that Ben Arafa was on the point of leaving the country.

Two French police inspectors were injured and two terrorists were killed and three others, including a woman, wounded, when police laid siege to the headquarters of a terrorist cell in a house in the New Medina, the city's densest Arab quarter.

Four persons died and four were injured by terrorists in nine separate incidents Wednesday in the Atlantic port.

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP)—Mrs. J. C. She entered hospital while the votes were being counted Monday night.

Soviet Leaders Deeply Worried About Eisenhower

LONDON (AP)—A highly placed Western diplomat says Soviet leaders are so deeply concerned over President Eisenhower's illness that they have decided to go slow in dealing with the West.

The diplomat said Kremlin leaders told him in Moscow that they do not want to make any long-term foreign policy commitments until they learn when and whether Eisenhower will return to active leadership of the United States.

The Russians, he said, are especially suspicious of Vice-President Richard Nixon.

The diplomat, who asked that his name not be used, is visiting Europe on leave from his post in a foreign embassy in the Soviet capita .

Indonesia Women Flock to Polls

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Sandalled women in gaily colored sarongs voted in startling numbers today, far outnumbering the men at many polling places as Indonesia's first popular national election got under way.

The brisk women's vote seems destined to play a decisive role in the elections, in which big question is whether the Communists can fulfil their promise to win a majority.

No one could tell for whom the women voted as all eyes centered on the struggle between the Communists and the anti-Red Moslem parties. A Communist victory would have serious repercussions throughout southeast Asia.

The voters, who total 42,320,000 on the registry books, are balloting in urgent two-day 3,000 scattered islands forming the republic. Final results in the contests for 26 in parliament may not be for six months. However, a trend may emerge in two o weeks.

Mrs. R. E. Bonnor, R.N., Belleville, is progressing favorably following a serious operation at Belleville General Hospital.

The Rev. J. L. MacKay, Ottawa superintendent of Home Mission for Eastern Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George Turner of Hamilton, formerly of Belleville, are visiting relatives and renewing old acquaintances in the city.

Weddings

MORDEN—ALLEN

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in the little country church at Empey Hill, recently when Roberta Grace Allen, became bride of Richard James Morden. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Allen, Carrville, Ont., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morden, Belleville, Ont. The Rev. Merrick of Belleville officiated, assisted by the Rev. J. Graham of Ont.

The traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Alexander, Ont., and the bride was given away by the Rev. J. Renshaw Bowyer to the taking of the marriage vows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length strapless dress of Chantilly lace with ruffles of nylon net over satin. The lace jacket buttoned up about the neck with a small flat lace collar and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a white flowered headdress and she carried a waterfall bouquet of Shasta daisies.

The bride's attendants were Misses Sandra, Sylvia and Patsy Allen, sisters of the bride. Misses Sandra and Sylvia Allen were flower bridesmaids and wore floor length off-the-shoulder gowns of cinnamon net over yellow taffeta with matching pleated headdresses and carried nosegays of yellow and bronze baby mums.

Miss Patsy Allen, the junior bridesmaid, wore an ankle length gown of yellow nylon organdie over yellow taffeta with a matching headdress set on each side with a blackeyed Susan. She carried a basket of blackeyed Susans tied by white satin ribbons with streamers reaching to the bottom of her gown.

Each attendant wore a single strand of pearls given to her by the bride.

During the signing of the register, the Rev. Mr. Renshaw sang "Father All Creating", the first two marriage hymns in the ceremony.

A reception was held in the spacious dining room of Dawson's restaurant, Deseronto, which was decorated with streamers, bells and flowers with the bride's table centred with a three tiered wedding cake. The bride's mother received the guests gowned in navy rose with matching hat, assisted by the groom's mother in navy with black accessories.

Some fifty guests attended from Galt, Listowel, Gananoque, Kingston, Cataraqui, Tamworth and Napanee.

Amid showers of confetti, the couple left for their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a green flowered dress with a black hat and wood green shoes, purse and gloves.

They will reside in New Brunswick.

KONING—NICHOLLS

CAMPBELLFORD. — The marriage was solemnized in Knox United Church, Campbellford, on Saturday, of Anne Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Nicholls, to Dirk Koning, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Koning-Hoogkamp and the late Mr. Dirk-Koning of Echt, Holland.

The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith officiated.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink, white and mauve mums and other autumn flowers.

The wedding music was played by Donald D. Bennett and Mrs. Donald Bennett was soloist. As her the bride's mother was seated she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love".

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was dressed in a gown of ice-pink brocaded satin with a scalloped portrait neckline, embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The tight-fitting bodice extended to a point in front and fastened down the back with a row of tiny buttons. The skirt was floor-length and very full. The long sleeves were fashioned with tiny points and her fingertip veil was of ice-pink illusion fastened to a headdress of Chantilly lace and embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations, arranged with a white and mauve hybrid orchid.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Wayne Young of Toronto. She was dressed in a floor length gown of apple green lace and net with a lace bolero. Her headdress was a matching hat trimmed with rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white and mauve gladioli.

The best man was Mr. George W. Rose and ushers were Mr. Wayne Young and Mr. Earl Hall.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother received in a gown of dusty rose lace over taffeta with powder blue feather hat and matching gloves, and wore a corsage of blue carnations. Mrs. Stewart Nelson, who received for the groom, wore a gown of powder blue crepe de sole and lace, with a mushroom pink hat, gloves and a corsage of Bettertime roses. The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake and white tapers and a bowl of white mums flanked by the groom's mother from Holland.

Later the bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara and points west. For travelling the bride wore a blue worsted flannel suit with blue hat and tan accessories and an orchid corsage. On their return the couple will reside in Campbellford.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Stewart Nelson. Mrs. Alan Watson also engertained at a miscellaneous shower, when the bride's associates from the Bank of Montreal in town, presented gifts. Mrs. Don Bennett also entertained at a miscellaneous shower for her honor.

Eric Christmas Delights With Unique Presentation

Christmas came to Belleville last night with a wealth of gifts.

Out of season?

Hardly. For one could do with this Christmas every day of the year.

Eric Christmas, one of Canada's most widely-known stage artists and one of the brighter stars in its young theatrical firmament, proved each this beyond any possible doubt whatever when he opened the season of the Canadian Women's Club at Queen Victoria School here last night.

For nearly two hours, (excluding a ten-minute interval), he ran the gamut of theatrical presentation, singlehanded and before a packed audience, to give it an experience unique to this part of the world.

On second thought Mr. Christmas does not possess a wealth of theatrical gifts. They are a veritable plethora, as anyone who saw his performance, or performances last night, will agree.

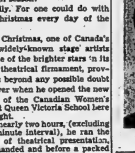
The gifts that were unwrapped by the Christmas tree were as diversified as they were professionally perfect.

Clad in a business suit, with no props save a chair, a table, his ingenious brain and the audience's appreciation of the same, he barcharacters, sketches and just plain theatrical moods in front of a drab gray curtain, bringing as much life to the little stage of the auditorium as a threering circus.

From the salty gags and style of an English music hall performer of an English music hall performer, to the serious Shakespearan stuff and speeches. Without, it was difficult to choose a single item that was outstanding in his presentation. They were all gems.

A veteran performer, who came to Canada with a burnt cork backdrop of British theatre behind him, from his first walk-on he held his audience in the palm of his hand.

Intimately, he set the mood for the evening by simply-standing around, making the cracks and gags any vaudeville performer uses for a build-up. An hour later he was holding the house's attention with his presentation of Mark Anthony's oration from "Julius Caesar."



BROAD TAKE-OFF

His first sketch was a broad take-off called "Courting", depicting two different nationalities might propose marriage if their national traits were reversed.

From that he slipped quietly into a heavy Irish mood for recita one of Stanley Holloway's famous monologues "The Battle of Hastings." After that he relaxed on the edge of the table to read a poem, and followed with a character study while reciting a grim nineteenth century street ballad.

Then he delved into Dickens to extract three more contrasting character studies with readings on the delectable Scrimh Heap pathetic closing pages of "An Old Curiosity Shop" and the quietly-heroic speech of Sidney Carton from "The Tale of Two Cities."

From Shakespeare besides his

ERIC CHRISTMAS

Mark Anthony oration, he also presented the first chorus from Henry V.

Between times he was a full-scale English pantomime, a barnstorming actor, a verbose clergyman, a chatty old English charlady with a very bad cold—all delicious skits.

Christmas probably is best known to all Canadians for his character, "Madam Moonperdink" whom he has played on the Wayne and Schuster radio shows for some years. For good measure he threw the old girl in again last night in a take-off on a pr demonstration.

At present he is touring the country out of Toronto, with presentations in dozens of communities across the nation. After last night, it would be agreeable if Christmas could come again, only once a year.

Study Guild Holds Meeting

"Public Philosophy", a book by Walter Lippmann, was the topic of discussion at the first fall meeting of the Women's Study Guild, held this week at the home of Mrs. A. D. Archibald, Dufferin Avenue.

The president, Mrs. H. C. Selden, welcomed the members, and expressed regret at the loss of four members who are moving out of town. The program committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wilson, presentated an outline of the program for the coming year.

The worship service, conducted by Mrs. Hurst, on the theme "Men of Integrity" included a reading from Chapter two of Proverbs and Chapter four of Philippians.

Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Wishart, who were in charge of the program, reviewed Lippmann's book "Public Philosophy". According to Lippmann, public philosophy is a creed to live by, a standard of action, a cultural heritage transmitted from one generation to another. If lost or neglected for an age, it must be re-discovered in another before men can live under a system of justice and truth. The Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights, the American Constitution, were formed by men following a public philosophy.

The weakness of our present day government lies in an imbalance of power between those governing the people and those representing the people, says Lippmann. A stronger executive body, composed of men of integrity, is needed. The officials of government owe their primary duty to the office. The elector's duty is to fill the office, not to elect it.

It is the opinion of the author that public philosophy can be renewed and communicated from one generation to another only by imbuing the young with an appreciation of the great truths and moral precepts which have withstood the test of time.

A lively discussion of the means of implementing Mr. Lippmann's philosophy in a modern democracy followed the presentation of the book review.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and the evening, Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Buchanan.

Inspirational Book Written By Minister

By JAS. S. A. STEARMAN

While in prayer a young minister, the Rev. Ralph Barclay Warren, B.A., B.D., got a vision of extending his field of service by writing a short devotional message for the Christmas issue of the local paper The Uxbridge Times-Journal. It was accepted and Mr. Warren has been writing weekly since that first message in 1941. Other weekly papers and four dailies took up the feature. Now this and an article on the Sunday school lesson appear in a total of ninety-two newspapers.

Thomas Nelson & Sons (Canada) Limited Toronto has published a selection of the best articles under the title Spiritual Strength for Today. In many of these the author with his finger on the pulse of the times, has used some current event to point out some great spiritual truth. A note from W. L. Mackenzie King in 1949 commends the author for his leadership in the formation of a true public opinion.

Reading "Spiritual Strength for Today" is extremely interesting and most profitable. In keeping with the title, this is a most timely book. In these days of frustrations and disillusionments nothing is more needed by serious-minded people than everywhere than adequate spiritual strength

Newspaper Staff Honors Bride-to-Be

The staff of the Ontario Intelligencer yesterday wished well to fellow-staffer, Miss Catherine Walker, who leaves the newspaper this week to be married.

Gathered in the editorial room of the newspaper, the entire staffs from all departments presented Miss Fortin with a drawing room lamp. The presentation was made by Marg Foster while sports editor George Carver made the presentation speech, expressing the wishes of the assembled group to Miss Fortin.

day by day. Such chapters as "The Home", "The Daily Walk," "The Way of Happiness," and "Strength in Suffering," will be found most invigorating and inspiring to the earnest reader.

The author, who graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, with a B.A. degree, and from Emmanuel College of Victoria University, Toronto, with a B.D. degree, writes in an easy, readable style using common words beautifully. In all his messages he has stated, clearly and without apology, his radiant faith in the living Saviour and His power to meet every need of man. One daily newspaper writes, "We heartily appreciate the weekly contributions you have been making for some time to our weekly church page. We have had many favorable comments on your inspirational articles." One school teacher writes of the book; "Spiritual Strength for Today—It is just that."

The book is available at James Texts, Quinte Book Shop and Schawb's. Price $3.00.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BE WISE ENOUGH TO WAIT AWHILE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 18 years old, and come from a broken family. I stay with my mother.

There is a girl my own age whom I love very much and would like to marry. Her parents don't object to her getting married, and my mother is the only person who is against the idea. I wrote to my father and told him about our plans, and he is with me all the way. I told him that Mother is against the idea, and he said for me to go ahead and get married.

Do you think I should obey my mother's wishes, or do as my father says? — George P.D

Dear George:

A question like yours is extremely difficult to answer for several reasons.

First, and perhaps most important, I know nothing whatever about the relationship between your parents, except that I assume, from what you say, that they are divorced. That makes it impossible for me to know why one of them objects to your marrying now, while the other approves. For example, your mother may have sound and excellent reasons why she may be against the idea solely because she doesn't want to be left alone. On the other hand, your father, on his side, may have good reasons for approving, or he might simply be egging you on to defy your mother because he feels antagonistic toward her.

See what I mean, and how impossible it would be for me to say which one's attitude is " right and which is wrong?

If you want my own opinion, independent of what either of them say, however, then I must tell you that, unless your circumstances are quite unusual, I would feel it a great mistake for you to marry at your age.

Nor would I consider it a wise step for an 18-year-old girl to take, either. At any such age, very few young people are mature enough to undertake the responsibilities of marriage, or even to have any realistic ideas of what those responsibilities are.

Oh, they are sure they know, of course. But all they are actually sure of is that they are "in love," and that to be married to each other would mean bliss forever more.

But the hard, cold fact is that most teenagers today use the term as "in love" without having the faintest idea what it really means. If they are fascinated by the way someone looks, carried away by that someone's "line," bowled over by the sweet talk handed out, they assume they're "in love," when all they are is "very much attracted to" that person. What, if anything, they have in common, what sort of standards, ideals and character each has; how well each will stand up under the hard knocks, crises and emergencies that come as an inevitable part of married life; how faithful, devoted and loyal each will prove to be as a marital partner; how tough it will be to be tied down by the responsibilities of a home and babies when other girls and boys of their age are free to be out having good times—none of all this is taken into account. And consequently the vast majority of teenage marriages are on the rocks inside a year.

I know, you think this couldn't possibly happen to you. You think you and the girl you love are "different." That's what they all think.

And aside from everything else, are you prepared, at 18, to support a wife and possible children? Have you any job at all, or, if you do, is it pay enough to cover, for a minimum of time, and perhaps more very soon, rent, furniture, food, clothes, reasonable recreation, unforeseen illness or other emergencies? If you suddenly lost that job, for any reason, have you enough in the bank to keep yourselves comfortable while you're hunting another.

No, George, regardless of what either of your parents say, I think it would be very foolish for you to marry now. To be wise enough to wait a year or so may mean all the difference between making, at the right time, a marriage that will be for keeps, or making one that will end before it has hardly started.

A WALL easel is a fine space saver for the playroom. Fasten a large piece of heavy wrapping paper or oilcloth to a well lighter spot, and tuck a pad of newsprint on this backing. Leave a wide border on all sides, to protect the wall.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

GOOD GROOMING ESSENTIAL TO SMARTNESS

Dress hems checked and mended regularly are an important part of a good grooming routine.

Not every woman can be a beauty. That goes without saying. But any woman who takes the trouble to keep herself well groomed can present such a smart and attractive appearance that others will not even think of slight imperfections of feature.

Good grooming comprises a great many details and, while the list of them may seem formidable at first glance, it isn't really. It's simply a list of habits which, if not already acquired, you can—and quite easily.

Do you remember when you were a little girl getting ready for church on Sunday morning? It was always quite exciting, wasn't it? Wearing your best dress, your prettiest hat, shiny patent leather shoes, white gloves and carrying your new little pocketbook. You were well scrubbed, too. Your mother saw to that. And your hair was as glossy as your gay little slippers. Mother saw to that, too.

But now you're on your own. And how are you doing now that you're a Big Girl? Do you look as neat and shiny every day as you did on those wonderful Sunday mornings? You should, you know, because, essentially, that's all good grooming amounts to—cleanliness and neatness. And, if you've slipped into bad habits, you've only yourself to blame. So let's check up today since just one bad habit can make the difference between perfect and careless grooming.

Is your skin always scrupulously clean? And that means body skin as well as your complexion.

Are hair and scalp in healthy condition, with hair brushed to a lustrous sheen?

Are your nails always perfectly manicured? Or do they sport chipped polish, torn cuticle and hangnails? Look them over carefully now.

Look over the suit or dress you are wearing this very minute. Is it well brushed, or do bits of lint or, worse yet, fluffs of cotton advertising to the world that you're not too careful about what you wear?

If you're wearing a low neckline do lingerie straps show? Are you absolutely sure your slip is not showing? Or that your hemline isn't ripped?

And what about your stockings? Are the seams perfectly straight? And shoes? Are they well polished or brushed; or are they slightly on the "grayish" side? Are the heels? Run down or straight as a die?

All little things—but good grooming depends upon them. And it does, n't matter if you have a face like Helen of Troy, if your grooming isnt perfect, the picture is spoiled. So why not make one evening a week checking up? Look over dress hems, lingerie straps, garter belts and all the other items in your wardrobe and, if anything needs repair, do it immediately. Otherwise, you're liable to reach into wardrobe or dresser drawer one of these days, pull something out and put it on in a hurry—only to discover once you've left the house that it's not as spanking clean as you thought. Worse yet, someone else might make that awful discovery!

Fashion Flashes

All hands in fur departments and fur shops report interest in fur jackets for early Fall, with beaver — in many styles, lengths and colors — well liked. Nutria, dyed in pale shades, including ivory white, is another favorite. Newest style to register is the bloused bolero, self belted with a glitter or shell buckle.

Much liked by buyers and customers is the velvet tunic dress for dressy afternoon-into-evening wear. A nice example has a lace top richly embroidered in rhinestones and pearls over pale pink, pale blue or white faille. The neckline, straight and high in front, dips to a V in back. Seaming at the sides suggests a soft waistline and the tunic flares at the sides.

Most acceptable to juniors is the long, lean silhouette, a big change after all the bouncy, flouncy skirts and petticoats. What junior miss wants, and buys, any store folk, is the unbelted sheath —usually with hip pockets to accentuate the long, lean, hungry line. She likes wool jersey with ribbing trim and also chooses fine flannel and very soft, supple tweeds.

For Parties Put Your Freezer to Work

By Mary Moore

During the past two days I have had three requests from friends and readers for tested methods of freezing prepared foods for parties; so that they will be ready to pop onto tea or buffet tables just before guests arrive. One was for a Golden Wedding Anniversary and another for a Bridal Tea (as you will see below).

"Dear Mrs. Moore: . . . the real reason that prompted this long overdue bouquet related to your direction: I am giving a bridal tea and shower . . . and with a deep freeze as the latest of our proud possessions I feel that their preparation of the fancy sandwiches and baked goods (small cup cakes, etc.) can be done weeks in advance, with the only big thing to be done the day of the party would be that of arranging the trays . . . I haven't had enough experience with sandwich making to know what fillings and spreads are adaptable to freezing. I do know that mayonnaise does not freeze well . . . what do you think of sour cream, vinegar, salt and sugar combination to moisten the fillings . . . there will be about 30 people at the party. —Mrs. C. J. C.

SANDWICHES AND CANAPES FOR FREEZING

Prepare sandwiches and canapes from fresh bread of any variety. Spread bread completely with softened butter to prevent soaking up the filling. Use boiled salad dressing sparingly—do not use mayonnaise, jelly or egg white. Package sandwiches singly or in pairs so that sandwiches are made package a roll made from one lengthwise slice of bread cut each separately. Slice roll or ribbon sandwiches when they are partially thawed at party time. They will completely thaw quickly after slicing. Use moisture-vapor proof wrapping material. For canapes separate the layers with double thickness of freezer paper and package in moisture-proof cartons. Sandwich storage time is from 2 to 4 weeks.

BAKED COOKIES STORED IN FREEZER

Cool fresh-baked cookies and wrap carefully in freezer paper and freeze. These will store 6 or 8 months. Thaw at room temperature.

I have a novel "cupcake" that I would like to introduce to you and which I think would be a great hit at any party.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM NESTS

These amounts make 10 large "nests", Mrs. C. J. G. will have to make this recipe up three times for her party of 30.

One-half cup butter, 2 squares bitter chocolate, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal (uncooked), 1 teaspoon vanilla, approximately 1 quart strawberry or vanilla ice cream. Melt butter and chocolate in double boiler. Remove from heat. Mix, salt, sugar, flour and oatmeal and blend into melted chocolate mixture, add vanilla. Pack into well-greased muffin cups, covering the bottom and extending two-thirds up the sides of the muffin cups. Bake at 350° F. (mod.) for 12 minutes. When you remove them from the oven they will be puffy. Slightly grease the bottom of an individual custard cup and press down into the warm muffins and give a slight twist. Now remove the cups and let cool. Fill each cup with scoop of ice cream—pastel colors are prettiest. Freeze hard at once on tray lined with freezer paper. When frozen solid wrap in freezer paper and store in moisture-proof carton. These should not be made more than one week in advance.

I hope these ideas help you folks who have big parties coming up, and are freezer owners.

ABOUT FORMAL MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are being married in the very small chapel of our church, with only our two attendants and our parents present at the ceremony. And we are having no reception of any kind. We are both extremely devout, and we wish to emphasize the spiritual aspect of our marriage, not at all the social, as with a reception. So we will send formal announcements of our marriage, and of course we want every detail of them to be correct. Advice has varied about several details, and we are depending on your point of view, for you have answered many of my questions in the past several years.

I hope these ideas help you folks who have big parties coming up, and are freezer owners.

1. About the second line. Most of the announcements I receive have this line at announce the marriage of their daughter. Are you using this "modern" wording, or the two-line version?

2. How about the 'on' before the day and date; 'on Tuesday, the first of November"?

3. Which year-form is correct: (1) "One thousand, nine hundred and fifty-five" or (2) "Nineteen hundred and fifty five"?

4. Is it ever permissible to state in the announcement the name of the church in which the ceremony took place? I have never seen this done, but from what I have said above, naturally we would very much like to do this. K.H.I.

1. Either form is correct. The fact that the above one-line form cuts down on the engraving-expense often makes this the choice. But I prefer the more gracious form, the two-line form.

Either (1):

have the honour to announce the marriage of their daughter.

Or (2):

have the honour of announcing the marriage of their daughter.

Notice the spelling of "honour": in formal wedding invitations and announcements always with the "u."

2. Here again I think it's sure gracious . . . certainly sounds better . . . to include the "on" before the date:

on Tuesday, the first of November

3. Either year-form is correct. But I think the way one says 'the first' . . . "Nineteen hundred and fifty-five" . . . is the more natural way. However, many excellent stationers staunchly abide by the other form.

4. Yes, not only is it permissible to include in the announcement the name of the church in which the ceremony took place, but this is very impressive and significant. And this is particularly fitting when you and your bridegroom's family are of the same spiritual point of view. God bless you both.

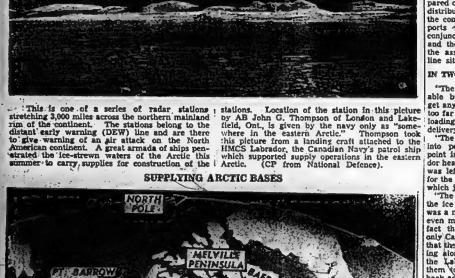
RADAR SUPPLY CONVOY



These United States merchant vessels are part of the greatest armada in the history of the north. They are carrying supplies for the distant early warning (DEW) line of radar stations across the roof of Canada. This photo, by PO C. R. Veal of Toronto and Victoria serving in the Royal Canadian Navy's Patrol ship Labrador, shows the ships steaming slowly through an ice field in Foxe basin towards sites earmarked for eastern Arctic radar stations. More than 120 ships moved 548,000 tons of cargo well inside the Arctic Circle for radar construction this summer. (CP from National Defence).

DEFENCE OUTPOST

This is one of a series of radar stations stretching 3,000 miles across the northern mainland rim of the continent. The stations belong to the distant early warning (DEW) line and are there to give warning of an air attack on the North American continent. The great armada of ships penetrated the ice-strewn waters of the Arctic this summer to carry supplies for construction of the stations. Location of the station in this picture by AB John G. Thompson of London and Lakefield, Ont., is given by the navy only as "somewhere in the eastern Arctic." Thompson took this picture from a landing craft attached to the HMCS Labrador, the Canadian Navy's patrol ship which supported supply operations in the eastern Arctic. (CP from National Defence).

SUPPLYING ARCTIC BASES

The greatest armada of ships in the history of the north, assisted by cargo planes, has completed the job of carrying supplies to the Canadian Arctic for construction of the Distant Early Warning (DEW) radar line across the continent's northern rim. This map shows how the supply convoys from the east and west coasts of the United States and from Saint John, N.B., and Halifax penetrated the ice-strewn waters of the north, assisted by cargo planes, to complete the job of carrying supplies to the Canadian Arctic for construction of the Distant Early Warning (DEW) radar line across the continent's northern rim. The map shows how the supply convoys from the east and west coasts of the United States and from Saint John, N.B., and Halifax penetrated the ice-strewn waters of the north. West-coast ships supplied the western Arctic from Point Barrow in Alaska to the mouth of the Mackenzie river. East-coast ships worked in the area of Melville Peninsula, Baffin island and Foxe basin. Montreal, Mont Joli, Que., Churchill, Man., and Edmonton supplied the vast central area. (CP Photo).

Federal Planners Are Hopeful Of Pact on Health Insurance

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—While a Canadian health insurance scheme will be debated at next week's federal-provincial conference, federal officials are not hopeful of arriving at anything more than the most general-type of agreement on principle at this time.

And there is doubt that the conference will get even this far. Much will depend on how strongly the more influential provinces — notably Ontario—push their views.

At all events, federal planners do not look for more than a small, cautious start to result from this meeting that starts Monday. A comprehensive plan covering all medical care is seen as between five and 10 years away.

Many factors — economic and political—will influence the federal government's disposition to embark on a scheme now.

BRIGHT TIP SCALE

Some key federal advisers are inclined to think the political weight might tip the scale, especially if a combination of Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit provincial governments put pressure on the central Liberal government with firm proposals.

The federal government, so far as can be learned, plans to put no health proposals before the conference at the outset but to wait and see what the provinces want. However, it has had experts preparing much reference material which will be at the disposal of the provinces.

A committee of cabinet members discussed health insurance this week but Wednesday's formal cabinet meeting was understood to have been devoted to the question of general fiscal arrangements with the provinces.

It appears likely, however, that health plans will be proposed by Ontario, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and probably Alberta.

ONTARIO PROPOSALS

Ontario's Premier Frost, at whose insistence last April the matter was put on the agenda, already has announced he will make proposals but has given no details.

Premier Frost's plan is believed to be laid out on a stage-by-stage basis to reach full implementation over a period of years. He has not indicated the stages.

However, federal authorities think he may start off with diagnostic services such as x-rays and possibly include so-called "catastrophic" insurance. The latter would cover medical bills above a given level, either a set amount or figure or a percentage of the individual's income.

Three Acquitted

SARNIA (CP) — Three Indian youths charged with the rape of a 29-year-old married woman were acquitted Wednesday by Lambton county Supreme Court jury.

The three, Larry Kiyoshk, Manuel Johnson and Alvin Aquash, were charged when the woman identified them as "the boys" who broke into her Walpole island home and assaulted her on the morning of May 31.

HAD TWO MOUTHS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The medical rarity of a child born with an extra mouth was described Monday by a Columbus plastic surgeon who corrected the deformity. The Canici, Ohio, boy now is 23 years old and leads a normal life reports Dr. Hugh C. Beatty, 75-year-old professor emeritus at Ohio State University. The boy's identity was not disclosed.

Greatest Armada in History Of North Fought and Defeated Arctic Ice in Long Expedition

OTTAWA (CP) — The greatest armada in the history of the North fought and defeated Arctic ice in a recently-ended three-months expedition.

More than 120 ships moved 548,000 tons of cargo well inside the Arctic circle for construction of the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line stretching for 3,000 miles along the northern mainland rim of the continent.

Some ships were damaged in their battles with the ice but none was lost.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION

Officials here say the operation was remarkably successful. In nearly every case, the freighters were able to get through to their planned unloading sites in the eastern and western Arctic.

The merchantmen, nearly all American, moved supplies north from San Francisco, San Diego and Seattle on the west coast, Norfolk, Va., New York, Boston, Halifax and Saint John, N.B., on the east coast.

The ships made rendezvous before they reached the ice and formed convoys.

What happened to one of these convoys is described by Lieut. Thomas Arthur Irvine of Ottawa and Halifax, a hydrographer aboard the Canadian navy patrol vessel Labrador. The eastern Arctic convoy was under command of Capt. O. C. S. Robertson, master of the Labrador.

"The Labrador's preliminary work of surveying a feasible route through 200 miles of uncharted and ice-covered sea was completed.

"Charts of this route were prepared on board, copies printed and distribution made to the ships of the convoy. Ice reconnaissance reports were anxiously studied in conjunction with weather reports and the time had come to begin the assault to the selected DEW line sites.

IN TWO COLUMNS

"The ice reports were not favorable but they probably wouldn't get any better until the season was too far advanced to permit the unloading schedule to be met at the delivery sites.

"The sailing convoy jockeyed into position at the rendezvous point in two columns. The Labrador headed one column and a sistership was left at the head of the other for the U.S. navy icebreaker Eastwind which joined later in the day.

"The ships were in open water—the ice was yet to be met—and it was a most impressive sight, made even more so for her crew by the fact that the Labrador was the only Canadian ship taking part and that the freighters, dutifully steaming along astern, were relying on the Labrador and Edisto to get them to their unloading sites and back again through some 200 miles of ice.

"As night fell—24-hour daylight having left us some time ago—the ships switched on their running lights and the illusion that we were back in the dark North Atlantic days of 1942 was over.

"The convoy met its first scattered ice the following morning and there was a noticeable slowing down on the part of the merchant ships. A merchant ship's hull is a thin-skinned proposition compared to the Labrador's tough, high tensile steel plating.

SLOW PROGRESS

"The icebreaker turned and headed down the line to give a bit of encouragement and assistance if necessary to the vulnerable freighters.

"One U.S. navy ship had a flat hoist flying as we steamed past. After decoding it, the signalman announced its meaning to the captain: 'Have you any women on board?' They had obviously heard of the girl stowaway who travelled from Hawaii to Seattle and Halifax in the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan.

"As the ice got heavier, progress became painfully slow. Freighters are not usually designed for passage among ice floes 10 feet thick and there was no point in making signals to their captains asking them to go a bit faster.

"They were already doing the best they could and it would take a day or so for them to get over the initial shock of forcing their ships through the ice at speeds up to 20 miles each day being a good average and sometimes as little as nine miles.

"At night the convoy stopped but as a favorable current was found to be setting the ships back to the southward and there was nothing for it but to keep moving ahead during the dark hours.

CHASED STRAGGLERS

"As dawn broke, the Labrador would get under way and chase up the stragglers and eventually get back to the head of her column to take position ahead of the leading freighter. The first ice reconnaissance of the day would be airborne by 6 a.m. and half an hour later the helicopter would be back on board with information as to the best courses to steer and the ice concentrations to be negotiated ahead of the ship.

"For the first three days the story was much the same—six- to seven-tenths and sometimes as much as 25-tenths. (Tenths is total ice coverage of the visible sea area). Close in to the coast, the ice was lighter but the water was shallow and no ship wants to be caught on a lee shore—a dangerous situation even without the ice to complicate it. The safe passage of the convoy was the first consideration and we were a lot safer off shore despite the heavier ice.

"Eight days after leaving the rendezvous, the leading ships broke into open water some 20 miles from the first unloading site and, apart from a few reports of minor hull damage, the freighters had come through their ice-breaking ordeal extremely well. Preparation for unloading began as soon as all the merchant ships were safely anchored."

SENTENCED TO LIFE

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—A white man convicted of raping a Negro woman was sentenced Monday by Judge William F. Allen to life imprisonment. Andrew Jackson Pendarvis was convicted July 21 by a jury of 12 white men, whose recommendation of mercy saved him from the electric chair. The length of sentence was determined by Judge Allen.

Report Russia Offering Arms To Saudi Arabia

CAIRO (Reuters)—Russia Wed. was reported to have offered to sell arms to Saudi Arabia in a move said to gain a foothold as weapons merchant for the Middle East.

Reports of the offer to Saudi Arabia followed official announcements Tuesday that both Russia and Communist Czechoslovakia have offered to sell guns to Egypt.

Rumors were persistent here today that the United States will shortly give Egypt a credit of $10,000,000 to buy the arms she wants —with no obligation in return—in an apparent attempt to offset Egyptian deals with the Czechs and Russians.

The Egyptian move to buy from the Communists has dismayed Western diplomats. One big question is whether Soviet technicians will come to train the Egyptian army to use the new weapons, or whether Egypt will send men to military colleges in Prague and Moscow.

TUGBOAT CAPTAIN MISSING

NEW YORK (AP)—Police and the coast guard today searched Arthur Kill, in New York harbor between Staten island and New Jersey, for the missing captain of a tugboat which sank Tuesday night in the narrow strait when its barge tow piled over the stern. The tug had slowed to make a turn when it was struck by the barge loaded with 500 tons of molasses. Four sailors were rescued.

Little Benny's Notebook

I saw pop getting off the buss and walked home with him for company, and we passed Flora and Dora outside of their house.

Being the bewty looking twins down in the next block, and pop said, Are you still having trubble telling them apart?

No sir, Flora has an exter freckle under one eye, and F stands for freckle and Flora both, so it's a cinch, I said. G, pop, they're always fooling their teechers. When one gets kept after school the other call stays in for her if she dont happen to have an engagement and her sister does. It must be fun to be twin sisters, beh pop? I said, and pop said, I suppose, so, I've never tried.

Anyways, pop, I wouldn't want to be just one ordinery geri, I said. Heck, if a geri isn't bewitiful she thinks it's an insult of nature, but a boy dont give a darn how his naturel face looks as long as it's got everything on it that belongs there, I said, and pop said, in fact, if nature has skreddy mussed up his face, it must take a load off his mind when he plays football.

Sure, and it's considered a distrace if a geri's hankerchif isn't pure white from cleenness, and sometimes they have to wear white gloves even when it's not cold. I said, Heck, I've only known one geri that could even throw strate, so everybody thought she was wonderful. I bet that's the kind of a geri I'd be, if I had to, I said, and pop said, I bet you're right, but the chances are a billen to one that you'll never be any kind of a geri.

Meening it's probably too late Which it is.

Many Barnardo Home Boys Made High Rank in Society

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Seventy-three years ago, Thomas John Barnardo, famous Irish-born philanthropist and founder of homes for destitute children, started a movement that sent British youngsters to new lives in Canada.

From 1882 until the start of the Second World War 29,000 were sent to Canada. Some became farmers. Others became doctors, journalists, salesmen, policemen, bakers, builders. A few became politicians and assist in provincial legislatures. Most of them settled happily.

Services marking the 50th anniversary of Dr. Barnardo's death were held this month at Barkingside, Essex, where a monument commemorates the man and his work. The address was given by Rt. Rev. Hugh R. Gough, Bishop of Barking. Dr. Barnardo died Sept. 19, 1905.

FOUNDED 186 HOMES

There are other tributes to Barnardo in Britain today — 108 homes he founded for destitute children, all supported by public donations. The queen mother is patron, and Princess Margaret is the president.

But Barnardo's homes were not always as accepted and respected as they are now. Their start goes back to 1866 when 21-year-old Barnardo left Dublin to study medicine in London to become a medical missionary in China.

It was in an old donkey shed for costermongers — cleaned up and used as a night school for poor children—that Barnardo met 10-year-old Jim Jarvis, a small, ragged mite who was to change the young doctor's life.

Jim Jarvis showed Barnardo the sufferings of homeless children, the appalling conditions in which they existed—without homes or parents. It was a vista but one era, and stray children were left to forage for themselves in squalor and disease.

Shocked at the hopeless life of outcast children, Barnardo sought public help, and in 1868 opened a mission house across from the donkey shed. Two years later, abandoning his desire to go to China, he started a regular home for waifs and strays, but accommodation was limited.

DR. BARNARDO

The memory of Dr. Thomas Barnardo, Irish-born philantropist and founder of homes in Britain for destitute children, has been honored with services marking the 50th anniversary of his death. From 1882 until the start of the Second World War 29,000 British youngsters were sent to Canada to start new lives. Most of them settled happily. There are 108 Barnardo homes in Britain for destitute children, all supported by public donations. (CP Photo).

A little lad whose flaming red hair earned him the name of "Carrots" was refused entrance because of this lack of room. While waiting for a vacancy, Carrots died—alone, hungry and cold. His body was found in an empty barrel, his only home.

Dr. Barnardo resolved never again to turn away a child and his sign—"no destitute child ever refused admission" — became famous. He went on to open a cottage village in Barkingside, Encouraged by public support, he started other homes and found foster parents to raise many youngsters.

Impressed by the opportunities in Canada and Australia, Dr. Barnardo trained many of his charges for life abroad. Many thousands were sent to Canada before the turn of the century. The doctor visited them several times in Canada, and often expressed his pleasure that they had become hard-working citizens of the new dominion.

The work of caring for "nobody's children" has gone on since the philanthropist's death. In the past 80 years, Dr. Barnardo's homes have cared for 143,000 children, and are known today as having the largest and most comprehensive child-care facilities in Britain.

Cypriots Call General Strike Against British

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Organizers of a 24-hour general strike Wed. called on Greek Cypriots to bring Cyprus "to complete standstill" Thursday in a new protest against British rule.

The strike leaders, who include trade-union officials, issued orders for all Greek Cypriots to stop work in protest against "military and police rule" and "detention of persons without trial" under emergency regulations. The walkout will also protest against United Nations' refusal to discuss the Cyprus question.

The strike call comes on the heels of an appeal Tuesday night by Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, leader of the campaign for union of the island with Greece, for all headmen and leaders in Cyprus villages to resign their posts in a new campaign of passive resistance. Resignations were reported flowing in today.

Boasts Only Tropical Orchard in Canada

Perked to the roof, Sam Russ' tropical backyard orchard at Collingwood, Ont., has grown to a peak problem while producing abundance of tropical fruit for owner, seen centre with son Joe, right, and admirer Tony Greco. Only tropical orchard under glass, the hobby that Mr. Russ developed as a diversion from his store and theatre interests, is rapidly becoming a tourist attraction. Visitors marvel at the size of the oranges, lemons, olives, bananas and figs which fill the greenhouse to overflowing. The project started in, but soon outgrew a little glass house he built on the roof of his theatre. (Central Press Canadian).

FIRE HITS PLANT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Smoke and water caused minor damage to the mailing room of the Vancouver Herald Wednesday night. Firemen quickly subdued the flames and no one was injured.

Calgary Evacuation Exercise Pronounced Real Success

CALGARY (CP)—The men who plotted Canada's first major evacuation test agreed today the quality of Operation Lifesaver was good but the quantity was disappointing.

Only about 5,312 of the estimated 25,000 persons in the northwestern part of the city accepted the invitation to take part in the operation Wednesday.

Earlier it was estimated about 10,000 persons in 2,500 cars participated but civil defence officials said Wednesday night only 1,328 cars, carrying an average of four persons each, passed check points at the city limits.

BLAME WEATHER

Officials blamed the low turnout on poor weather, loss of enthusiasm during a one-week postponement, criticism of the operation by some public officials and lack of co-operation by some employers.

The operation, biggest evacuation exercise undertaken in Canada, was shelved last week when a driving storm hit the Calgary area and dumped 6-8 inches of snow to make a mass evacuation unsafe and many country roads impassable.

Rain fell in the Calgary area intermittently Wednesday and many of the 17 reception centres reported snow. In the evening, as the evacuees returned to Calgary, the rain turned to soggy snow flakes.

But despite slippery and muddy roads the operation ran smoothly. No mishaps were reported.

The nine-square-mile area of Calgary was deserted 2½ hours after the sirens sounded at 10:30 a.m. Thirty minutes after the alert the entire section was sealed off from the rest of the city. Unauthorized traffic was turned back.

DESPITE HANDICAPS

Mayor Don Mackay said the operation succeeded "remarkably well in spite of almost inconceivable handicaps."

The evacuated area was patrolled by RCMP and city police to prevent looting. Some of those who live in the area and did not participate were sick, elderly or had small children they did not wish to take out to the country. All remained in their homes until after the test was completed.

The reception centres, some as much as 90 miles away, functioned smoothly. At Innisfail, about 90 miles north of Calgary, where emergency feeding and welfare facilities were tested, slightly more than 300 evacuees showed up. The town was prepared to accommodate 3,500.

Thinks Suburbs Limit Child's Development

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 1,200 experts who have been discussing the problems of community planning for five days will take a look today at the planning practices of Montreal and Ottawa.

The tours will mark the end of the joint annual meeting of the American Society of Planning Officials and the Community Planning Association of Canada.

At the last formal session here, an American psychiatrist said children who live in suburbs may develop a particular type of personality trouble because their experiences are limited.

"FEMININE WORLD"

Suburbs are almost an "entirely feminine world" where residents have similar economic standings, said Dr. Leonard J. Duhl of the National Institute of Mental Health Bethesda, Md.

"Father races out of the house on his way to work not to return until late at night and leaves mother not only to care for the home but to be the ruler of daytime Suburbia.

"It is a segregated, matriarchal society that offers limited experience to the growing child."

Dr. Duhl said a child needs to be with people of both sexes of different ages, national origins, religions and incomes to develop his full potentialities.

Soothing Music Much Enjoyed By Eisenhower

DENVER (CP)—A tape-recording machine played soothing music to President Eisenhower in his hospital bed Wednesday. Presidential aides said he enjoyed it thoroughly and asked for more.

Wednesday's concert, said White House press secretary James Hagerty, consisted of such numbers as Drigo's "Serenade, "Flirtation Waltz," "In the Still of the Night" and "Moonlight and Roses," performed by a string orchestra.

For future listening the president asked for more classical fare—Bach and Brahms.

The president also asked for some "reading records"—similar to those used by the blind. They include readings of mysteries, westerns and Shakespeare plays.

Hagerty said the recordings will be supplied.

SARNIA MAN HURT

TORONTO (CP)—Felix Fisher of Sarnia was severely injured Wednesday when he was crushed between two trucks in suburban North York.

Tons of Water Prevent Blast

SARNIA (CP) — Tons of water poured over a tank which had started to build up pressure averted an explosion in Chemical Valley Wednesday.

The tank, containing an inflammable plastic ingredient called polystyrene, is situated on the Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd., 300-acre property.

The company's auxiliary fire fighting crew was called when the 25-foot long 8,000 gallon tank gave off what appeared to be smoke. Firemen set up hoses, sending long sprays of cold river water onto the tank to cool it down.

Don Hamilton, company public relations supervisor, said the trouble developed when an exothermic reaction took place in the tank causing it to become over-pressurized and blow off steam.

He said that if the tank had exploded little damage would have been caused to other buildings on the plant property which lies between the Polymer Corporation plant and the Sun Oil Co. refinery. Both are about half a mile away.

Britain Takes Grave View Of Egypt's Action

LONDON (CP)—Britain is telling Egypt that she takes a "grave view" of the Egyptian government's intention to buy arms from Russia and Czechoslovakia, it was officially announced today.

A foreign office spokesman said the British ambassador to Cairo has been told to see Col. Gamal Nasser, Egyptian prime minister, and to warn him of "the dangers of starting an arms race in the Middle East."

The intervention in Cairo is the third of a series of steps taken by Britain and the United States in the last 48 hours as the result of Egypt's disclosure that she has accepted an offer to get arms from Communist sources in return for Egyptian cotton.

Negroes' Friends Asked to Leave Southern Town

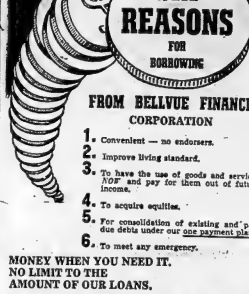
TCHULA, Miss. (AP)—An angry mass meeting of white men Wednesday night asked two white men to leave Holmes county because of alleged advocation of racial integration.

The two men are Dr. T. R. Minter and E. C. Cox. They are directors of a co-operative farm in Providence community and do medical and missionary work among Negroes.

The mass meeting which overflowed from the Tchula high school gymnasium passed a resolution asking Dr. Minter and Cox to move "in the best interests of the country."

J. P. Love, newly elected member of the state House of Representatives who presided at the four-hour mass meeting, said a representative group of citizens wanted to investigate reports that Dr. Minter and Cox had been teaching theories against the southern "way of life."

Dr. Minter and Cox said they have no immediate plans of moving.



Woman Remanded

TORONTO (CP)—Adelard Fatry, 40, of Montreal Wednesday was remanded to Oct. 5 on a charge of abducting a 14-year-old Montreal girl.

Police said they arrested Fatry in a rooming house early Wednesday after the landlady told them the girl had collapsed. Officers said the girl claimed she had not eaten for two days.

Screen Star keeps "young" look

Time and weather can't mar the perennial good looks of aluminum across cloth. It gets star billing among builders and home owners both because it lasts so much longer and because it never stains or discolors surrounding woodwork.

It is also the lowest-priced non-rusting insect screen on the market. And that adds point to the happy fact that Canada is the world's most efficient aluminum producer. And that fact, in turn, means that people who make aluminum screen and window frames, roofing and hardware for Canada's active building industry can do so at prices that save a lot of people a lot of money.

Six Identify Accused Man As One Who Entered Bank

Witness Testifies at Hearing

Six of seven bank employees of the Toronto Dominion Bank at Marmora identified James Orval Ross, 32, of Toronto, in a police lineup at Belleville as one of the two robbers who robbed the Marmora bank on the 29th of $5,462.

This was told to a Hastings county Magistrate's Court at Marmora yesterday by one of three witnesses who testified at the preliminary hearing of Ross who is charged with armed robbery of the Marmora bank.

Roy Chas. E. Moss, accountant at the Marmora bank, told the court that bank employees had gone to Belleville following the arrest of Moss in Toronto and that six of seven staff members had identified Ross as one of the two robbers.

After three witnesses were heard Wednesday proceedings were adjourned by magistrate R. C. Jackson until Friday morning. When arraigned on the bank robbery charge Ross elected trial by judge and jury. The accused is being defended by Mr. G. H. Hackett of Belleville solicitor who is acting as legal aid.

WITNESSES EXCLUDED

Exclusion of all witnesses was requested by Defence Counsel Ross. Inspector Lawrence Boyd, of the O. P. P. criminal investigation department and Provincial Police Chief Charles Lockwood of Marmora headed up investigation of the case, was left to sit with Assistant Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson.

Witnesses called yesterday were Cpl. Reginald Rackham, Ontario Provincial police photographer; bank accountant Roy Moss and bank manager K. C. McKay.

Magistrate Jackson can commit the accused for trial at any time he considers sufficient evidence has been heard. However, to dismiss in echarge he must hear all Crown witnesses.

BIZARRE NOTE

Yesterday's court opening took on a bizarre note as the accused appeared for arraignment dressed in a brown balaclava hood and wearing a black masquerade mask.

"It is with complete respect for the court that I suggest the accused be allowed to wear a mask during this hearing," defence counsel Kenneth Ross said.

"I expect witnesses will be called here for identification and if the accused is standing five feet away it would be just the same as the witness being handed a written description."

Mr. Ross contended that any description given by witnesses should be from what they saw on the day of the robbery. He said he knew of no law requesting an accused person to appear in clothes worn in certain clothing.

The Crown described the accused's appearance as a masquerade attended Defence Counsel Ross to produce such a precedent in court appearance. "If so I will go along," he said.

ORDERED TO REMOVE MASK

Magistrate Jackson noted that he knew of no such precedent. "I can not see how we can proceed but in the usual way. I can't allow such a precedent to be set in this court." He then ordered the accused to remove his mask.

Cpl. Rackham produced photographs of the interior and exterior of the bank taken the day following the robbery. He said he could not been able to find any fingerprints of the accused either in the bank or on the 1946 Plymouth allegedly used by the bank robbers.

Bank accountant Ray Moss told how he had let the two robbers into the bank when they represented themselves as plumbers from Stirling sent to repair the bank plumbing.

He then told how employees had been bound and gagged as they arrived at the bank and how combinations on the safe were changed, and safe had been turned by the various bank workers. He said all employees had been bound with the exception of the bank manager.

Bank Manager McKay said he had let himself into the bank at 9:15 in the morning only to be met by a man crouching behind the counter with a leveled revolver. He said the second robber had been similarly armed.

The robber had asked what time it was and he had told them. He then went off and he had told them 9:45.

FEIGNED HEART ATTACK

He then told how he had feigned a heart attack in an effort to stall for time. The robbers had brought him a glass of water and produced some aspirin tablets.

He said he had sat in a chair while the robbers had been escorted to the vault and told to turn off the combination on the safe.

"I spun the dials several times and the robber said to me that I was not yet off," he said.

The larger of the two robbers had then said "no further delay" and he turned off the combination. With the safe door open the teller's cash box was produced. The robber had asked if this was all the cash on hand and the manager said he had replied "approximately."

ARRIVED AT WRONG TIME

"I told them this was all the cash the bank had on hand and said the other safe compartments contained registered bonds."

There was no attempt to force the bank staff to open the other compartments in the safe.

Mr. McKay said the robbers had asked where the mine payroll was. The witness said he had told them they had arrived at the wrong time.

He said the robbers had taken only the bills in the teller's cash box. This amounted to $3,416 in Canadian funds and $2,076 in American bills. Two bank revolvers had also been taken, he said.

Before leaving the bank the robbers had herded the bank staff into the basement furnace room and barricaded the door. When the staff heard the side door of the bank close they had forced their way out and notified police.

At the previous witness had been asked to do Mr. McKay described the bank robbers and identified the accused as the "smaller" of the two men.

Court was adjourned for five minutes to allow the witness to return to his bank and get a copy of a written description of the two men which had been ordered warded to bank headquarters the day of the robbery. This was read into the court record at the request of defence counsel Ross.

The police artist of being shown police photographs from which he had recognized a picture of the accused. He had later identified the accused during a court appearance in Toronto and also in a police lineup at Belleville.

Report Peron Aboard Plane Bound for Spain

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Unofficial reports say deposed president Juan D. Peron left by plane Wednesday night for Spain. These reports, which are unconfirmed, say Peron was to change planes at Rio de Janeiro.

Peron has been aboard a Paraguayan gunboat for more than a week, and the supposition had been that he was going into exile in Paraguay. But the new government of provisional president Edmundo Lonardi had been described as opposed to letting Peron stay in that neighboring country too long.

As the report that Peron had gone to Spain circulated, the government took steps to broaden its support and give a shot in the arm to the nation's slowly reviving democratic political life.

Interior and Justice Minister Edmundo Busso announced a four-party "consultative junta" will be formed to advise Lonardi and his cabinet until a new congress is elected.

The minister made no mention of Peron's former partner or of the Communists. But he added that representatives of labor, business and industry probably will be included on the junta.

The government's roundup of potential troublemakers continued. Federal police arrested Alejandro Leloir, president of the Peronists Radical sources said several other picked up soon.

Lonardi has issued a promised decree of complete amnesty for all civilians and military men sentenced for political crimes and uprisings against the Peron regime.

Eisenhower Continues to Show Steady Improvement But None Will Say He Is 'Over Hump'

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

DENVER (AP)—An atmosphere of growing but still subdued optimism over President Eisenhower's heart condition spread through the Denver White House today.

James C. Hagerty, the president's press secretary, said Eisenhower has suffered no pain since Tuesday, that he no longer is seeing a temperature, that his muscle is high, appearance good and there is no feeling of depression.

For 13 hours Wednesday there was no need of an oxygen tent, and at times during the day he listened to soft recorded music.

None of the outstanding heart specialists here or on call around the country is discounting the possibility of a relapse or even another attack. None will say, at this point that the president is out of danger, "over the hump," or even that he is improving definitely and steadily.

But for five consecutive days, Eisenhower has been recuperating normally and "without complications" to a type of heart attack from which the large majority of victims eventually recover. The words "without complications" are the key, significant phrase. The absence of complications is encouraging to Eisenhower's physicians.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart expert who was flown in Sunday to examine the president, says complications can come any time in the first two weeks after a heart seizure. That is the period in which an afflicted heart is discarding damaged muscle tissue and forming a scar.

Eisenhower still has nine days to go on that critical period. His "moderate" coronary thrombosis—a blood clot in a heart artery—struck in the early hours last Saturday.

In Boston, Dr. White Wednesday night said the latest report on Eisenhower was "good" and the return of the blood pressure "toward its usual level" was a "particularly good sign."

Hagerty disclosed that Eisenhower's being held to 1,600 calories of food a day because the doctors are trying to keep him from putting on too much weight while he is read—perhaps in the hope that it would be denied him any event.

So far, too, aides have made no effort to discuss any official business with him. Yet the feeling is growing here that within another month he once more may be able to start picking up the reins of government.

Commons Session To Order Grain Payments Urged

REGINA (CP)—Premier Douglas says Saskatchewan's demand for cash advances on farm-stored grain calls for a special session of Parliament.

In a radio broadcast Wednesday night over a provincial network, Mr. Douglas urged the province's farm organizations, Boards of Trade and retail merchants to "call upon the federal government to convene Parliament immediately for the purpose of empowering the Canadian wheat board to make cash advances."

"Silence now will be interpreted as approval of inaction," he said. "The West must speak in no uncertain voice if it wants to be heard."

WANTS ADVANCE

Mr. Douglas said the CCF government conceded an advance of at least 75 per cent of the initial payment on all farm-stored grain. This would mean a payment of 90 cents a bushel for No. 1 northern.

The premier said he first proposed such action in an appearance before the House of Commons in June and I have yet to hear one sound argument as to why it is not good advice."

Farmers now faced the "critical" problem of selling the Canadian share on this year's crop so they could continue farming.

Mr. Douglas said the CCF also advocates Canadian acceptance of foreign contracts as partial payment for grain exports.

"We must reconcile ourselves to the fact that the areas which need of our wheat and would like to buy it are the soft-currency countries."

Policy Statement Of Canada Praised By Herald Tribune

NEW YORK (CP)—The Herald Tribune, commenting on Canada's policy statement to the United Nations General Assembly this week, says "it is good to hear a voice so collected and cool, dedicated to principles of common sense."

The speech, delivered Monday by Health Minister Martin, chief of the Canadian delegation, and dealing mainly with the problem of disarmament, is described in a Herald Tribune editorial as "a reassuring blend of optimism and caution."

On the optimistic side, the editorial notes, was Martin's statement that Canada is more hopeful on the subject of disarmament than at any time in the last 10 years and his expressed support for the proposal in President Eisenhower's plan for a joint American-Soviet early warning system against surprise attack.

But The Herald Tribune also draws attention to Martin's statement in connection with the Geneva Big Four conference that the world had sobered in the nick of time—"at least we trust that it has."

The editorial describes the qualification as giving "an impressive balance" to the Canadian statement, together with Martin's warning against expecting quick decisions on establishment of a disarmament system and his recommendation that world powers "grope for the trust and confidence without which disarmament would be impossible."

Kidnapper's Story Scorned, Faces Strong Prosecution

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vigorous prosecution was promised today for Mrs. Bertha Jean Benedicto, accused of kidnapping two-day-old Robert Marcus from his crib at Mount Zion Hospital here 10 days ago.

Robert was returned to his delirious happy parents, Dr. and Mrs. Sanford Marcus, in Stockton, Calif., early Wednesday. That was shortly after the 29-year-old woman had been spotted with a baby by a sheriff's deputy and sheriff at the prize fights in Stockton Tuesday night.

After the deputy questioned her story that the infant was hers, Mrs. Benedicto announced Dr. Marcus in San Francisco that she would deliver Robert to him in Stockton.

Their heartaches past, Dr. and Mrs. Marcus planned to take their baby home to their suburban home. There, their two older children—Susan, 2, and Richard 3½—have been waiting to see the new brother they never knew had been kidnapped.

Mrs. Benedicto was held under guard in a psychiatric ward in San Francisco Hospital after collapsing at police headquarters.

Her story of motherly love and an irresistable maternal instinct was denounced Wednesday by her own mother, who said Barbara Jean had abandoned her only natural child, a daughter, 10 years ago.

District attorney Thomas C. Lynch also scorned Mrs. Benedicto's story. She had said remorse and sympathy for Robert's mother, Mrs. Hanna Marcus, 29, who was temporarily ill, prompted the return of the child.

Lynch said he will seek an indictment for kidnapping when the county grand jury meets Monday night, and will prosecute "vigorously." The only reason Mrs. Benedicto returned the child, he declared, was because she was convinced that her capture was imminent.

Faroe Islands Governor Freed By Villagers

THORSHAVN, Faroe Islands (Reuters) — Rebellious villagers in the little town of Klaksvik Wednesday released the Danish governor of the Faroe islands after holding him captive in a new uprising over their local doctor.

They turned loose Governor Baker Hansen after getting a sharp cable from Prime Minister H. C. Hansen in Copenhagen. Denmark owns the Faroe north Atlantic chain. The Danish government today decided to send a frigate loaded with Copenhagen police to the Faroes to deal with the uprising.

The Klaksvik villagers last spring took up arms in their dispute with the Danish government over their local doctor, Olaf Halvorsen, whom the government wanted to remove. Halvorsen had been at odds with medical authorities over his failure to pay a fine for alleged practices during the Nazi occupation of Denmark.

Halvorsen finally went back to the mainland under a compromise settlement, with the promise of an inquiry into his case. He now has a practice in Copenhagen.

But the dispute flared up again in Klaksvik, where the government had gone Tuesday as chairman of the committee for the local hospital. All members of the committee were seized with him to back the villagers' demand for Halvorsen's return.

Ottawa Judge And Magistrate Exchange Words

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Ottawa judges have come to verbal blows over juvenile court functioning.

Judge J. R. McKnight of juvenile court Wednesday termed unnecessary, unwarranted and unethical criticism of his court levelled last Saturday by police court magistrate Joachim Sauve.

Magistrate Sauve, angered by flippant behavior of three youths facing eight charges of theft and forgery, told them they were not treated severely enough by juvenile court and suggested that second offenders in juvenile court be severely punished.

"I feel the magistrate's comments were unnecessary and unwarranted," Judge McKnight said. He felt it "was unethical" of magistrate Sauve since both are courts of "initial jurisprudence."

Under the Juvenile Delinquency Act, the judge said, juvenile court judges are specifically required not to adjudge a child as an offender but as one in a condition of delinquency requiring help, guidance and proper supervision.

CAMPBELLFORD

Young Adults Hold Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD— St. John's Young Adults club held their first meeting following the summer recess on Thursday night in the church basement.

The two main items of business introduced by president Anne Palliser was the formation of a badminton club, now that the facilities for same were available in the new auditorium annex, and the probability of presenting a variety show, as last year. On the latter topic, Don Baldwin, who directed last season's show, was called upon for comment, and his outline of ideas for another such venture indicated that he had given the matter careful thought and was ready to do it again with the co-operation of the members. He named tentative committees based on the assistance provided last year, and put forth some new ideas for a program. He suggested dates be set for the variety show during the month of February, which he considered the ideal time for entertainment.

Ken Kingston was placed in charge of the formation of the badminton club. It was agreed that the Young Adults would request loan of badminton racquets from the Young People's Union until such time as they could procure their own. It is expected that the first weekly badminton night would be Wednesday, commencing in October.

Devotionals for the meeting were in charge of Stewart Milne and Joyce Gunter, and Don Ferguson was pianist. Don Baldwin conducted games, in which Walter Elliott and his colleagues starred in each test.

Double Problem for Staff of Children's Hospital

If the staff of the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto are seeing double these days, it is no wonder! For 80 pairs of twins of scheduled 400 pair have so far visited the hospital to participate in a study aimed at eliminating possible errors in determining identical and fraternal twins. This is crucial in such research on hereditary aspects of disease since only the identical twins inherit the same combination of genes. Twins ranging from the toddlers to teen-agers such as identical sisters Diane, left, and Donna Rydall, include blood-grouping and fingerprinting. (Central Press Canadian).

Most Republicans Still Hope Ike Will Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Republican leaders are reluctant to concede that President Eisenhower may retire to private life because of his heart attack. But at least a dozen are resigned to a belief he will do so.

Of 115 party leaders reached by The Associated Press Wednesday, only a handful were willing to express a firm opinion whether the president should run for a second term.

The vast majority said it is too early to tell, and that the decision is one for Eisenhower himself and his doctors and family.

Few took note of reports from Denver that the consensus of those around Eisenhower is that he will seek to serve out his present term but that it is highly unlikely he will be a candidate again.

ACTRESS IN HOSPITAL

BOSTON (AP)—Veteran actress Katharine Cornell, 57, entered New England Deaconess Hospital Wednesday for an operation to correct a lung irritation. Her ailment was described as a "small, chronic lung abscess."

Canadians Like Way Bulganin Answered Letter

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canadian authorities liked the way Russia's Premier Bulganin expressed himself in his letter to President Eisenhower last week—but they don't believe it did much for the cause of arms control.

Health Minister Paul Martin told the UN disarmament sub-committee Wednesday he saw no evidence in the letter "of any fundamental advance" in Russia's position on control and inspection.

Nevertheless Canada considered the letter "a very important statement of policy," and Martin again urged that the sub-committee formally discuss it.

Copies of the letter, which questioned the practicability of Eisenhower's plan for mutual air reconaissance and exchange of military information with Russia, were sent to London and Paris but not to Ottawa.

Canada first asked the sub-committee to consider it last week. Martin said Wednesday his delegation thinks "it would be futile and pointless for us to try to carry on serious talks without taking account of this statement of Soviet policy."

The sub-committee took no decision on his request.

Neither Canada nor the United States believes the Bulganin letter constituted a final rejection of Eisenhower's plan. An authoritative American source said Wednesday the U.S. will continue to push the proposal despite Eisenhower's illness.

RETIRE CARRIER

LONDON (Reuters) — The aircraft carrier Indomitable, wartime flagship of the home fleet, Monday was consigned to the "disposals list." The admiralty said the light cruiser Argonaut, the submarine depot ship Montclare, and 10 destroyers and frigates were also earmarked for the breakers.

Among ten models in three series offered by the new 1956 Mercury is the luxurious Montclair coupe shown here. Restyled throughout, the Montclair features a sweep side moulding which permits eye-appealing color combinations in spectacular new "tio-tones." A new and more rugged Safety-Surge V-8 engine with 9 to 1 compression ratio has been coupled with improvements in handling and ride characteristics to ensure maximum performance at all speeds and under all driving conditions.

Appeals Getting Out of Hand Says Bureau

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Better Business Bureau says the number of appeals to the public is getting out of hand.

In a letter to Mayor Nathan Phillips, the bureau says they have multiplied to a "staggering total" since the end of the Second World War.

Most people have no idea how much of their money reaches the organizations they hope to assist, it adds.

The bureau argues that while there are several well-known and reputable organizations which file accredited financial statements, there are "countless small agencies which are continually soliciting funds."

OIL NEAR ROME

ROME (Reuters)—Italian Prime Minister Antonio Segni told reporters Wednesday night that the Italian National Petroleum Company has struck oil for the second time this month in the Abruzzi mountains, east of Rome.

Christians Asked To Stand Up For Religion

TORONTO (CP)—Christians who wave the flag for Christianity on Sundays and pull it down during the week were criticized Wednesday night by evangelist Billy Graham.

Speaking to a crowd of 12,000, he asked Christians to stand up for their religion and to display more "moral courage."

The flag-wavers are virtually breaking the third commandment and "taking His name in vain," the United States preacher said.

"Lawsuits are pending against magazines in the United States, accused of harming reputations. We have laws of libel and slander, rigidly enforced, to protect our names. God also is jealous of His name and reputation and yet it is besmirched daily by profanity and irreverence.

"Sins we used to call scarlet have faded to pink but in God's eyes they are still scarlet."

No one in Canada would think of referring to Queen Elizabeth in a foul oath, said Graham, appealing for even greater reverence for "the King of Kings."

At the end of the service 212 "decisions for Christ" were recorded.

Plans Shelved

WINDSOR (CP) — Plans for $100,000 park extending four blo along Windsor's waterfront shelved Wednesday by board control less than 24 hours a being approved by two city co cil committees.

The controllers instructed Ma Michael J. Patrick to form fr m lately a "Windsor Tomorrow" co mittee which would consider park plan along with other aspe of the Windsor civic centre pl

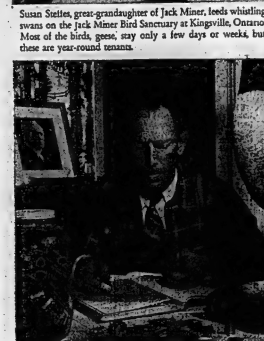
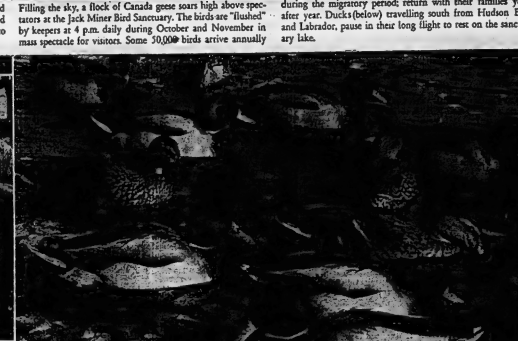
Jack Miner's Birds Return



Susan Stelfox, great-granddaughter of Jack Miner, feeds whistling swans on the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary at Kingsville, Ontario. Most of the birds, geese, stay only a few days or weeks, but these are year-round tenants.

Aluminum bands attached to the legs of geese are stamped with a religious text, date and address. Tags have been returned from as far as South America; have contributed greatly to scientific information on the birds' migratory habits.



Filling the sky, a flock of Canada geese soars high above spectators at the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary. The birds are "flushed" by keepers at 4 p.m. daily during October and November in mass spectacle for visitors. Some 30,000 birds arrive annually during the migratory period; return with their families year after year. Ducks (below) travelling south from Hudson Bay and Labrador, pause in their long flight to rest on the sanctuary lake.

Tags and sanctuary idea were started by the late Jack Miner, in 1909. Now, protected by preserves across the continent, geese have increased over 30% recently. Here, son Jasper Miner records data from returned bands.

Brothers Manley (left) and Jasper Miner (right) at the gate of their father's home. Both men conduct their own businesses; still find time to run sanctuary. The 400-acre farm grows its own grain; operates a bird hospital.

Terrific Race Likely to Run Into Next Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Incoming business in the American steel industry is setting a terrific pace likely to continue into 1956, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly.

"Producers are still trying to match production with order volume," it says. "The mills are handicapped by a shortage of steel-making capacity. Expansion programs now in the works will not make themselves felt until next year."

The illness of President Eisenhower is expected to have little or no effect on the fast tempo of business in the metals field. Delivery lags "have reached the point where even large consumers have to use their ingenuity to keep production lines going."

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Deseronto Home and School Association held its regular meeting in the public school Thursday afternoon. In Hallation of executive officers was conducted by Mrs. R. Sexsmith. Members of the new executive are as follows:

Mrs. C. Cole, president; Mrs. G. Rickwood, vice-president; Mrs. D. Runnals, vice-president; Mrs. M. MacKay, secretary; Mrs. M. Ryan, treasurer; Mrs. G. Rickwood, program; Mrs. M. MacKay, press; Mrs. C. Grey, publications; Mrs. A. Fraser, sick; Mrs. E. Keech, membership; Mrs. G. Fox, social; Mrs. H. Bender, high school; Mrs. J. Graham, room mothers; Mrs. C. Metcalfe, projects; Mrs. R. Boyce, Mrs. J. Leafe, Mrs. L. Gurnsaler, teachers' reports.

Mrs. E. Harvey thanked Mrs. R. Sexsmith for presiding. One project for the year, a hearing test for the pupils was approved. The eye test conducted by the Home and School last year proved very successful and many children benefited by the project.

Mrs. Rickwood introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. McCullough, teacher of Room 1.

Mrs. McCullough gave a very informative talk on the problems and rewards of teaching first graders. She spoke of a child's adjustment to school life, and because children know no racial discrimination, we could learn a lesson watching children helping new Canadians, who cannot speak English, adjust to strange surroundings and a new way of life.

Mrs. McCullough gave a resume of the day's activities, in Grade 1 classroom and showed some of the work done by pupils.

With a well chosen poem Mrs. McCullough ended her very instructive talk.

Mrs. D. Armitage thanked the speaker on behalf of the Home and School members.

Mrs. Cole dismissed the meeting and a social hour was enjoyed with tea and lunch served by the social committee.

Wooler

WOOLER— Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ruttan are spending two weeks with their daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Taylor, Mr. Taylor and son, at Pontiac, Mich.

The Women's Association of the United church met on Thursday with a large attendance. The hostesses, Mrs. Douglas Fox and Mrs. Cecil Calnsforth and their groups served lunch at noon. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. G. R. Putnam. There was no business meeting.

The place—A hall in Flatbush.

The time—Pre-pub opening.

Thomas McGurk, head of the Foam Blowers and Suds Consumers Local No. 6535895763, is speaking.

"Lissen youse guys, that includes all bums. Yez know what Daniel Rowe told yez. If yez don't git the most of it through yez thick skulls I'll explain it wold-be-wold.

"Fust av all, yez has gotta be reciprocells. In other words yez must do to da Bums what they did to yez, or do it foist before dey gets a crack back atcha. Otskin, Hodges and da gang polectted us. We've gotta do deir garden angels. And yez don't want no weeds.

"Da second pernt is, don't get excited. Keep cold. If any of dem Yankee pitchers git hot, keep cool. Keep yuh noives wrapped up. Don't act like wanna dem Jynt bums when Willie hits one. Show da folks you're from Brooklyn where tempers are as cool as the fragrint waiters of the garbagcous Gowanus.

"And keep ya seats. Don't stand up only when the star-spangled banner is played. Keep sittin'. Its good for da noives. If yez persist in jumpin' like a jack-in-da-box youse is libel to sustain fracturous, spraining of the cadillac region, and bruises to all parts of da autonomy.

"Keep yo mitts down. Don't go wavin' 'em like a empire in a football game when dey's a touchdown. Some jok might stick a cam in ya fist and da bums will tink ya sellin' suds. Besides da condarmes might tink you bet' stock up.

"And keep yez bennies on ya heads. Ya will averd sunstroke and brain consecration if some Yankee jolk bops yo from behind.

"'Tis a good idea to keep ya verces down. Shouitn' too much mey cause tomorial consummations. And largingitis might set in. WHO, US?

A Yankee fanatic has accused this department of being a Dodger supporter.

Why, the very idea! If the chief below gets word of this, we'll be doing our sports-scribbling for the Crooked Eye Trumpet until we collect that piled-up unemployment insurance.

We believe we have been the soul of discretional impartiality regarding the world series. We have tried to be impartial. We have tried to be fair to both clubs. We have endeavored to point out the good and bad points of the combatants.

But it is not our fault if a 29-cent ball-point pen goes haywire at times, especially prior to and during a world series. We are not responsible for what the cheap little sharpy does in moments of stress. The same with the typewriter. When we sit down to scrawl that danged Underwood starts clackclack-clack. And looming up on the white paper are the words: "Come on, Yah Bums."

Newspaper men are used to being called names. The above sample is a mild form. Generally they are three or four words hyphenated. We have never been called a "bum" but there it is. What else could that danged Underwood mean but the Brooklyn Dodgers?

Meantime we remain neutral.

There it goes again, out of control. "Come on Dodgers, Jackie, Otskin, Campy and da rest of youse guys." We Give Up!

GRAND FINALE

"Rassilin" should bow out of Belleville in a grand old battle of pachyderms come Friday evening when no less than six hulking he-men will tag-team for victory. Aided and abetted, if not prevented, by two gentlemen who wear the white of purity of Marse Frank Tumney's College of Applied Refereeology. The two Vons, and Terrible Terence O'Toole will match elbows, elbrows, scowls and scuffs with Fred Atkins, Doug Hepburn and Colonel Baillargeron in a merry-go-round of slugs, slams, whams and bams. It could end up in the rafters. A couple of Pats will be on their backs when Fraley meets Flanagan in an hour-limit opener.

Collins Two Circuit Clouts Carry Bombers to Victory; Brooklyn Rally Falls Short

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Dreary indeed was the Brooklyn outlook today as the Dodgers, striving to win their first world championship, again came to grips with their nemesis New York Yankees in the second game of the 1955 world series.

Downed in Wednesday's opener by a lefthander, the kind they've blasted all over the National League during the regular season, the Dodgers were to be served the same southpaw dose today. Yankee manager Casey Stengel, encouraged by lefty Whitey Ford's victory despite an admittedly mediocre pitching performance, came right back with another left hander in Tommy Byrne.

Manager Walter Alston of the Dodgers was shaken somewhat by the Yankee's savage home run barrage—their trademark in the annual fall baseball classic—that blasted his ace righthander, Don Newcombe, off the hill and powered them to a 6-5 victory. The sophomore skipper, however, decided to entrust Billy Loes, another righthander, with the "get even" assignment.

MADE A COMEBACK

Byrne, who only once before has pitched in a series, made a fine comeback this year at the ripe old age of 35. He won 16 and lost five, pitching three shutouts. Loes, plagued by a sore arm on and off all season, wound up with only a 10-4 record. He has pitched in three previous series games, winning one and losing one, both against the Yankees.

The weatherman, who came through in fine style Wednesday after scaring the folks with a wet prediction, promised a perfect baseball day—fair and sunny with temperature ranging from the high 60's to the 70's and gentle westerly winds.

With one game in the bag, the odds went up on the Yankees to make it six games and another victory over the Dodgers. The American League champions are now 5-5 in the series with the Nationals and 6-3 to take today's game despite the continued slumping of their big power guy, Mickey Mantle, from the starting lineup.

MANTLE CAN'T RUN

The ailing center fielder, still unable to run hard on his torn right thigh, reported for flight work but out before Wednesday's game that he didn't think he'd play at all in the series. Don Mossi, who pitched the same lineups with the exception of the pitchers, of course.

Wednesday's 62,869 cash customers saw a whale of a game that featured the individual Yankee superiority and Dodger jinx. As in a majority of their previous clashes, it was home run power—the hallmark of the Yankees for three and a half decades—that bludgeoned the Dodgers to their seventh opening game defeat in eight world series.

Five home runs were blasted by both sides, one short of the record for one game. Three of them were hit by the Yankees, two by first baseman Joe Collins and one by left fielder Elston Howard. The pair of part-time performers drove in all but one of the Yankee runs.

Newcombe, Brooklyn's ace and only 20-game winner, was the victim of all New York's homers and runs and all but one of their nine hits before finally shuffling off the mound in the sixth inning. The powerful hurler, who had worked only 11 innings in the last three weeks, didn't look at all like the terror he was in the National League. Even his near-faultless control—he walked only 38 in 224 innings—failed him as he absorbed his third world series defeat without a victory. The two walks he yielded were turned into runs.

WEAKENED IN EIGHTH

Ford was the winner, but he was no ball of fire either. The compact little 18-game winner was tagged for nine of Brooklyn's 10 safeties, including home runs by Carl Furillo and Duke Snider. He also issued four passes but was good enough when he had to be except in the eighth inning when the Dodgers struck back for two runs to cut the Yankees' lead to one run.

The last Brooklyn run was an electrifying steal of home by Jackie Robinson that ignited the only real argument of the afternoon. Yankee catcher Yogi Berra argued plate umpire Bill Summers' decision, insisting he had tagged Robinson but the American League umpire stood firm.

The Dodgers put 15 runners on base to 12 for the Yankees, but left nine men stranded while the Yankees left only two runners on the basepaths. Ford was in constant trouble in the early innings, the Dodgers grounding 11 men on base in the first five innings, but the lefthander pulled himself out of the holes.

Bob Grim who has become the Yankees' No. 1 reliever during the past two weeks, sealed the victory with a scoreless ninth. He gave up the final Dodger hit but fanned Furillo, who had gotten three hits off Ford, for the final out.

Basilio May Fight DeMarco

BOSTON (AP) —Reports circulated in Boston bowling circles today that Carmen Basilio will defend his welterweight title against ex-champion Tony DeMarco in a 15-round return bout Nov. 30 at the Boston Garden.

Basilio won the title from DeMarco on a 12th round KO in the Boston Gardener's first defense of his championship last June 10 at Syracuse, N.Y.

Little World Series Won By Millers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Lean Bill Rigney turned over his glossy credentials to the New York Giants today, a little world series championship that climaxed one of the finest managerial jobs of the season.

Named to succeed Leo Durocher as the Giant skipper just five days ago, the 37-year-old Californian Wednesday night brought Minneapolis its first junior series title in history in a 9-4 victory over Rochester of the International League. The game was the deciding seventh of the series.

It was a regal send-off for the former Giant infielder, who returns to the New Yorkers after just two years' apprenticeship in the American Association.

His 1955 record at Minneapolis was letter perfect, a season's championship and a sweep through the playoffs in the face of tough odds once threatened to put the Giants' No. 1 farm club on the skids.

The club was almost torn apart by Giant player recalls early in the season and by a chain of injuries later on.

A season's record Nicollet Park crowd of 1,000,000 saw Leonard, Carl Sawatski, Monte Irvin and Don Bollweg smash homers for the Millers.

Lemon drove in five runs and supplied the most damaging home run, a three-run wallop in the fourth inning, which wiped out the International Leaguers' 2-0 lead. Rochester 000 300 001 4 8 1

Argos Coach Says Copeland Top Player

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Bill Swiacki of Toronto Argonatis says 30-year-old Royal Copeland is the best Canadian player in the Big Four Football Union.

He rates him over Bobby Simpson, great pass-catching end with Ottawa Rough Riders who is second in the Big Four scoring race with 46 points on eight touchdowns.

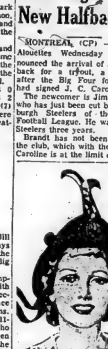
Copeland, an Argonaut, is an 11-year veteran of football who as remembered best by fans when he teamed with Joe Krol after the war to lead the Toronto three straight Grey Cup titles.

In five games this season, Copeland has caught 12 passes for 212 yards and three touchdowns, including the winner against Ottawa last Saturday.

A native of North Bay, Copeland left Argonauts in 1950 to play with Calgary Stampeders in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. He returned the following season but was used mainly on defence until this year.

Larks Sign New Halfback

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes Wednesday night announced the arrival of a new halfback for a tryout, a few hours after the Big Four football club had signed J. C. Caroline.



The newcomer is Jim Brandt, 26 who has just been cut by the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. He was with the Steelers three years.

Brandt has not been signed by the club, which with the signing of Caroline is at the limit of 30 American imports. If he should be used it would be necessary to drop another import and put the dropped player on waivers.

Caroline, released last Friday by Argos, was signed after the 3 p.m. deadline today, when waivers expired and there were no other claimants for the former Illinois halfback.

GOLDHAM SIGNS

DETROIT (CP) — Defenceman Bob Goldham Wednesday became the last Red Wing player to sign for the 1955-56 season. It will be Goldham's 11th year with a National Hockey League team and his sixth season as a player for the Detroit club.

Golden Dream

Collins' Two Mighty Homers Erase Memory of 1952 'Bust'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—A three-year nightmare turned into a golden dream for Joe Collins, the thin, silvery part-time first baseman on the New York Yankees.

His two mighty home runs sent the Yankees off to a 6-4 Opening day victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers Wednesday and erased scens of tre harrowing memories of his total "bust" in a similar series in 1952.

In that series against Brooklyn Collins went hitless in 12 times at bat and struck out four times in one game with Carl Erskine pitching.

"This sort of lets me off the hook," said the 33-year-old veteran a Yankee hanger-on in recent years, afterwards in the dressing room. "It's a wonderful feeling."

The outstanding individual player of the first game was the first honced son of a Polish immigrant reared in the hard coal regions of Scranton, Pa., and a ball player for the last 16 years.

BAD WINNING STREAK

Manager Casey Stengel, a "hunch" man, said he started Collins in the latter stages of the season only "every time we had a winning streak going and I didn't want to break up the combination."

"He has a bad foot and the middle of the month he pulled a muscle in the left thigh but I couldn't bench him because we were going so good," the gravelvoiced Yankee added.

Stengel said in one of the finishing games at Washington that the Yankees were attempting to nail down the pennant, he started to take Collins out of a game. But then, noticing three good Washington hitters coming up, he changed his mind and kept Collins in for "the defensive purpose."

"Then Joe hit a triple that helped us win the game," Casey added. "I was a hero but I got in through the side door."

Casey proved the same sort of hero Wednesday in using Collins against big, right-handed Don Newcombe. Under his two-platoon system, Stengel uses Bill Skowron against lefties.

"I may still substitute for Collins against lefthanders," Stengel said, "but I've got confidence in Joe. He can hit good pitchers."

During the season, Collins hit two home runs in one game off the Chicago White Sox' Dick Donovan. Another time he got a pair of outof-the-park belts off Cleveland's Early Wynn.

"If was using one of Mickey Mantle's bats," Collins said. "They are lighter and I can whip them around better. Also I changed my stance a little to try to get out of my slump.

"But as for slumps, I'm always in a hitting slump."

The Yankee dressing room lacked the furore of most winning dressing rooms.

Collins was happy. Stengel was vocal and crocky, and catcher Yogi Berra was mad as a hornet.

PEEVED AT DECISION

Berra was peeved at umpire Bill Summers' decision calling Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson out at the plate in the steal of home in the eighth inning.

"It was a close play but I had him easy," Yogi claimed.

Stengel, who joined sierra in protesting to Summers, said "I don't want to argue about it any more. The man behind the plate said Robinson beat the throw, not that Yogi missed the tag or dropped just beat the throw. So that's it."

Pitcher Whitey Ford, who seemed slow in throwing to the plate, said he could see Robinson all the way. He didn't come close to touching it all," Ford said. "I had my eye on him from the start. Frankly I didn't think he'd try it, with his team two runs behind.

"But once he started I took my time and threw a low fast one in what I thought was plenty of time. I think we got him."

Someone yelled: "Well, Casey, does it look like four straight now?"

"I won't say that," Stengel replied with some heat. "We won this one by just one run. They come mighty hard."

Double Play Was Factor In Opener

NEW YORK (AP)—What was the decisive factor in the first game of the 1955 world series—the New Yankee home runs? The pitching of Whitey Ford and the relief work of Bob Grim?

It was none of these, in the opinion of Carl Furillo of the beaten Brooklyn Dodgers, and a great many baseball men such as manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees sided with him.

The baseman point was that double play that Billy Martin started in the fourth inning. Said Furillo, "It looked as if we had Ford on the run and then boom—" The score was tied at 3-3 and home runs by Furillo and Duke Snider as well as a bombing triple by Jackie Robinson had perhaps unsteadied Ford a bit. Then in the fourth Don Zimmer drew a base on balls. Don Newcombe forced Zimmer at second. Gil Hodges lifted Ford for another walk and the Yankee dugout let loose a big sigh.

Up came the always dangerous Pewee Reese. He cracked a sharp grounder deep to Martin, and the peppery Yankee second baseman made a clean stop and a fast throw to Phil Rizzuto. Despite Gilliam's hard slide into second Rizzuto's peg reached first ahead of Reese.

... Shidded Home

LAW OF AVERAGES FAVORS DODGERS, BUT ODDS-MAKERS DIFFER

Taking dead aim on World Series' fences are Brooklyn Dodgers' one-two-three-four punch. The Big Four are, from left: Outfielder Carl Furillo, first baseman Gil Hodges, catcher Roy Campanella, and outfielder Duke Snider. The quartet has slugged 127 homers and batted in 440 runs this season. Although the law of averages favors Dodgers to win their first world championship in eight tries, the Yanks' are the 13-to-10 choice to bring Manager Casey Stengel his sixth series title in seven years.

Yankees' all-star centrefielder, Mickey Mantle, above, led the American league in homers with 37 round-trippers this season. A healthy muscle may force Manager Stengel to use his top slugger sparingly.

'Are We Downhearted?'

Dodgers Made the Big Plays But Yankees Had the Power

By TED SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers made the big plays of the opening game of the 1955 world series Wednesday all on their own —Jackie Robinson's steal of home, the interception of runs of Robinson and Carl Furillo in the eighth.

And although they lost they weren't too discouraged.

"They just beat us, that's all," said manager Walt Alston. "I thought Newk had his stuff pretty good, but I guess it's always with his control as usually."

Said Don Newcombe, Dodger pitcher who now has lost his third world series game and has yet to win, he pitched quickly and hit the stadium before the rest of the Dodgers had even filed in, followed by newspaper men.

ABOUT BIG EIGHTH

Most of the Dodger talk was about that big eighth inning when the score was narrowed down to 5-4.

"Robby and Furillo were bunting and they were both safe," said Alston. "They wanted to get on base. When you're behind, one extra home run doesn't do much good."

The Yankee defence was playmaking all the way both fried from the considerable surprise of the Ontario Hockey Association and Jim Bartlett, a winger out of the Quebec Hockey League.

Furillo came home on Don Zimmer's fly to centre and Robinson advanced to third. That set the stage for the most dramatic play of the game — Robinson's steal of home.

"Robby was strictly on his own stealing home," said Alston.

"Here's how it happened," said Robinson. "(Whitey) Ford wasn't giving me too much of a look. I suppose he figured I wouldn't do it, being two runs behind.

"A steal of home like that in the eighth is usually not a good play, I was safe—no doubt in my mind at all. I could see the plate when I slid in. Yogi (Berra) was back of the plate. I suppose Yogi figured he had me or he wouldn't have raised such a fuss. In my opinion it wasn't close. Probably in Yogi's it was."

Billy Martin's attempted steal of home in the sixth caused the affable Dodger catcher, Roy Campanella, to burst out laughing after the game.

"Man oh man, you just can't do that," he squealed. "When you try to steal home with a left-handed hitter up there, and a right-handed pitcher, man oh man. No batter is going to bunt. Now when Robby did it, it was with a left-handed pitcher and a right-handed batter."

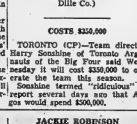
MARSHALL WITH LEAFS

ST. CATHARINES (CP) —Willie Marshall of Kirkland Lake Wednesday got his chance to show Toronto Maple Leafs he should be in the National Hockey League.



The lightweight centre, after signing a contract with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League Tuesday, was promoted to Leafs' training camp here and surprised onlookers with his speed.

The team is down to the league playing limit of 18 players exclusive of suspended Marshall and Joe Klukay are the extra forwards.

The wrist-lash hand action is the last muscular force to drive the golf swing. You pour this power in during the last third of the downswing before club smacks ball. Also, the hand lash, wrist-action takes place in the area pictured here. It is difficult to realize how important a force for distance accuracy this wrist action is when applied correctly in the last third of the downswing. It produces the whip-like effect that is so important. And while a golfer is apt to think, but after all, his wrists are about the weakest part of his golfing muscles, he forgets that the speed added to the clubhead by the wrist action is multiplied by the length of the club shaft. That's the source of wrist power. Hold that word: throw back. Pour it in during the last third of the downswing before clubhead meets ball.

Watch Campy, Billy Martin "They's a Feud Developin' "

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—A bitter feud was developing between Brooklyn Dodger Roy Campanella and New York second baseman Billy Martin today and it wouldn't surprise anyone to see them come up retarded the next time they come in contact.

It all started when Martin proclaimed a couple of days ago that Campy was an oly-duh-ist. He fell back on contact plays. Campanella laughed that one off, but when Martin tried to steal home in the Yanks' opening 6-5 victory Wednesday, the Brook catcher really got annoyed.

"Anytime that shrimp thinks he's going to run over me, little as he is, I'll break every bone in his body," growled the usually amiable Campy. "Just let him take two steps toward me and I'll take care of him. He's been too smart for too long."

MADE GESTURE

When Martin came out of first after being tagged out, he made a threatening gesture toward Campanella, but Roy was on his way to the dugout by then, so it didn't mean anything.

Appraised of Martin's remarks Campanella grunted:

"I missed tagging him where I wanted to by about three inches. I'd like to have tagged him in the teeth."

Hog Producers Want Freedom To Open Market

EXETER, Ont. (CP) — Ontario hog producers want the freedom of an open market and the chance for higher prices, Charles W. Mc-Innis, president of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association said here Wednesday night.

"We have not had that freedom because the processors have been spending millions to keep hogs from getting to market—but no hogs going direct to them," he said.

Speaking to a meeting of 700 producers of the Huron County Hog Producers' Association he said: "It is good business and we cannot blame them, but we want all hogs in a position so our marketing agencies can direct them to the packer who is willing to pay the highest price."

"If the 15.15 ball game, maybe I call on Larsen. He pitches one inning and then I get Grim for Friday and still got Larsen for Saturday."

Unearned Runs Junk Yankee Mound Strategy

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of unearned Brooklyn runs have junked New York Yankees' pitching strategy for the rest of the world series.

It all turned out, the two markers didn't mean a thing to the Dodgers. They still lost Wednesday's opener 6-5.

But the two gift runs, set up by Jim Mickwoski's error, forced Yankee manager Casey Stengel to trump up his ace, Bob Grim, earlier than he had planned. Case had been saving Grim for the starting shot in the third game of the series, figuring to go with the young righthander when the classic shifts to Ebbets Field Friday.

"If we had a 15.15 ball game," said Case afterward, "I wouldn's used another relief pitcher in the ninth. Maybe I'd use Grim later on. But when they score those two runs I've got to use Grim now I don't know who I'll pitch in the third game.

"If the 15.15 ball game, maybe I call on Larsen. He pitches one inning and then I get Grim for Friday and still got Larsen for Saturday."

General Motors Talks Progress

TORONTO (CP)—Company and unions officials expect secondary talks involving General Motors's plants in London and Windsor to end today.

Company officials said after talks with representatives of the United Automobile Workers (CIO - CCL) which opened Wednesday, that some progress appeared possible.

Negotiators are currently trying to settle problems of individual plants before declaring a settlement of overall terms.

Secondary negotiations involving GM workers at the Scarborough Frigidaire plant are continuing as are those for the big Oshawa plant. Representatives of the St. Catharines' local report their initial phase has been completed satisfactorily.

OSHAWA PROLONGED

It is expected the Oshawa talks will extend past those of the other four plants. Both company and union officials said Wednesday they hope to have secondary issues at all five plants, involving 17,000 striking workers, cleared up this week.

One of the main points in dispute is the individual discussions is the question of seniority. Other matters are job transfers, union security and apprenticeship programs.

In addition to these non-economic demands, there are others calling for a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase, a company-paid hospital plan and eight paid holidays a year.

Jose Ferrer Will Play Title Role in Cyrano de Bergerac

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Again for the last time, it's Jose Ferrer as The Nose.

Every time I do it I swear it's the last time," says the actor, who has become as firmly identified with Cyrano de Bergerac as was the late Walter Hampden.

Ferrer did the part for a full year on Broadway, then repeated his success in a 1950 movie. His dramatics netted him the Academy Award that year. On 22, he will did it in an hour's condensed version during the early days of television.

Now the TV gold has lured him into donning the monstrous schnoz again. This time he'll perform Cyrano in a 90-minute NBC spectacular for "Producers Showcase" Oct. 10. Color and everything.

For such auspicious goings-on, the actor is even growing his own beard. When friends inquire about the stubble, he replies, "That's no assurance I would have a movie career when I returned."

Of all the mediums, Ferrer thinks the stage best for the role. He feels the three-hour play suffers when cut to fit the limits of TV and movies. And although he won the Oscar with it, he thinks the movie lacked much of the dash of the original.

Ferrer has just returned from making a film, "The Cockleshell Heroes," in England. It will get another title here.

"I'll spend the winter getting Monet ready to film," he reported. Then in the spring I'll go to Spain and shoot it." He'll direct and star, as usual.

He has no plans to return to the stage.

"I'll be foolish to do it, now that my film career is going well," he remarked. "I'd have to be gone for a year at least, and there's no assurance I would have a movie career when I returned."

First Program of 'Omnibus' Will Deal With Renaissance

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) —Webster's international dictionary defines "omnibus" as, among other things, "the general public." But in a recent private poll of the general public if was found that 47 per cent of those questioned believed "Omnibus" is a television program.

It is—and one of the best. This Peabody award-winning program launches its fourth year on CBS-TV Sunday, Oct. 9, with plans that show just how mature television entertainment can be. First program of the season will concern itself with the Renaissance.

Robert Saudek, director of the TV-radio workshop of the Ford Foundation, which produces "Omnibus", recalls that he and his staff have been kicking around the idea for a program on the Renaissance for more than three years.

"Omnibus" has many big plans for this year. One is a three-part study of the state of civilization.

"It will be a world's fair without walls," said Saudek. "Viewers will go and see the real thing directly instead of replicas of the real thing.

COVER MANY SUBJECTS

The range of ideas is wide, as this season's plans indicate. Earths Will will play the leading role in Oscar Wilde's "Salome," and Esther Williams will give swimming lessons in one unique program.

In the planning stage is a program on Bach. Other subjects include popular music, aviation, navigation and a feature on American manners in the last century.

"Omnibus" set out to prove that a TV program can be successfully commercial at a high cultural level. It has succeeded.

SHOULD PAY OWN WAY

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control recommended Friday that members of Toronto city council who spend two days on a civic visit to Montreal Oct. 14 should pay expenses for the second day. The official visit is Oct. 14, but Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal recently invited the entire group to stay an extra day to see a Big Four football game between Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes. The matter will be decided by Toronto city council Monday.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — While the day is excellent for written matters and financial gains, it would be well to avoid extremes and to guard health and other assets. A genius.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Friendly but not exciting rays in the early a.m.; fine configurations as the day advances, however, and tomorrow will be most promising for worthwhile interests. Writes. Add new twists to old hobbs.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Splendid influences. A good day to co-operate with right associates, in all good causes. Business ventures, industrial trades, professional matters newly favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your keen perception and ideas for advancement could be put to the test now. You are creative, constructive in method, have fine business sense; use these assets.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Good intentions and useful activity should bring excellent returns now. The d ay is especially favorable for authors, newspaper work, advertising copy, writers and sales promoters.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Ideal influences now should encourage your finest talents and general capability. But guard health rules and listen to advice from trustworthy sources.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Without becoming upset or unhealthily angry, defend the principles you know you should, which Libr ans normally would. Save your strength for the things you should be doing.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Smugness, procrastination not wise. It is an opportune day for ably conducted matters, tasks of an unusual nature, household interests. New friendships favored.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You may be pressed into extra chores or activities but take your time and you will have no difficulty. Generally favorable rays though not an exciting one.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You can achieve in plans and endeavors without rushing or worrying. Personal interests, travel, happy events under fine Moon stimulus. Uranus' position encourages the new, unusual.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — A bright outlook for your plans. Essential work is sponsored, also meetings, lectures, worthwhile social events.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — It will be better to finish incompleted matters now than to start new, difficult ones. Be your self-reliant self all through the day and you will have good results.

You born today have splendid qualities; are on the intellectual and inventive side. Numerous scientists, inventors and jurists were born in your Zodiacal sector. Your innate sense of balance, fairness and good judgment fit you for managerial post or as legal advisor. You make efficient, devotional clergy and teachers. Curb any tendency to live beyond your means, or indulge immoderately in foods or beverages.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was thinking serious to her self, saying to pop, William, I've thought of an idea that might make a lot of money.

Pop said, here are the most practical kind you can have, pop said, and ma said, I'll tell you about it.

I'll listen, pop said, and ma said, Do you know those red traffic signals? I mean the ones on the main streets that are regulated so exactly that you never have to stop for a single red signal if you drive at just the proper speed? Well, I think it's a clever sistem, William she said.

I do indeed, but it's already been invented, so if anybody made money out of it, it's already been made, pop said, and ma said, Now William, just be quiet and you'll hear the whole story. Well, you know how some people keep whirling from station to station on the radio, just in time to skip the commercials. I do it myself sometimes, and I must admit it gives me a jolly feeling of revenge after all it's unfair to the sponsors who pay for the programs, she said.

Yes, go on, pop said, and ma said, Well dont you see! My idea is to space the commercials so there wont be any use running past them, because you'll hear right into another one, she said.

Yes gosh, pop said, and ma said Do you think it would be more practical to suggest having the commercials spoken softly instead of yelled?

Now by golsies, that's an idea worth thinking over, pop said.

Which maybe it is.

CBC May Show More British TV Programs

LONDON (CP) — A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC, says Canadians should be seeing more British shows on their screens.

Dunton, in Britain for a week-long look at the TV situation, said today that he has been holding talks with both BBC and commercial TV officials on the subject. Frequent program exchanges with Canada.

Dunton flew into London last week in time to see the opening of Britain's independent commercial TV, ending a 19-year BBC monopoly.

Pearson Will Make Stops In 12 Countries

OTTAWA. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson will make stops in 12 countries on his way to and from his visit to Russia and the Colombo plan conference at Singapore.

He will leave Friday aboard the RCAF's C-5 jetliner and will be in Russia from October 5 to 12.

The air force said Wednesday these stops will be made during the 25,000-mile, six-week tour: Gander, Nfld; London; Paris; Berlin; Moscow; Barra; Iran; Karachi, Pakistan; Colombo, Ceylon; Singapore; Calcutta; Bagdogra, India; Babattur, India; New Delhi; Lahore, Pakiston; Peshawar, Pakistan; Cairo; Brussels, and Shannon, Ireland.

The plane will carry 17 air force personnel—Wing Cmdr. W. G. Miller, 43, of Toronto and Ottawa, captain of the transport, and two complete crews.

Other members of the crew include: Sgt. E. A. J. Martin, Cornwall, aero engine technician; Sgt. T. Trodden, Smiths Falls, Ont., air frame technician; Cpl. V. F. Harnden, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., electrical technican.

65 Countries Will Attend Wheat Conference

LONDON (Reuters)—Between 60 and 65 countries, including Canada, are expected to attend the United Nations conference on the International Wheat Agreement in Geneva next month.

But informed sources here think the most contentious—and the most basic—questions affecting the future of the agreement are unlikely to be settled there.

It is thought likely that the critical questions of prices and quotas under the agreement will be postponed until a later meeting, probably in February next year. The agenda at the forthcoming conference is likely to be confined almost exclusively to general principles covering the structure and form of the agreement.

FORUM FOR VIEWS

This does not mean, however, that the burning questions of prices and quotas underlying current controversies over the agreement will not be discussed. Observers believe the conference will prove a forum for airing controversial views.

A widespread body of opinion holds that the agreement has failed because its prices failed to check over-production.

Supporters of the agreement claim that the absence of Britain from the agreement was weakened it.

Britain left the pact because she could not agree to the prices set up to govern world trade in wheat.

Another issue likely to be discussed is the present world surplus in wheat. The Corn Trade News, a leading organ of the international grain trade, states that the United States now has 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat, Canada 500,000,000 bushels and Australia 90,000,000 over and above any likely demand in the current cereal year.

Gas, Indigestion, Sour Stomach—Tells of Relief

Also Relieved Rheumatic Pains, Backache and Nervousness. Gives All Credit to Syntona.

Felt Sick All Over

Sufferers of indigestion, gas, constipation, nervousness and resulting rheumatic pains, backache and rundown condition can benefit by the experience of others and try Syntona Herbal Compound. This medicine has helped so many people that it is reasonable to expect it to do the same for you.

"I was suffering for a long time with indigestion, sour stomach and heartburn after my meals. I would get an awful full heavy distress feeling with shortness of breath which nothing seemed to relieve. My nerves were often on edge, I found it hard to sleep at night and I was troubled by backache, backache and pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. Often I felt sick all over.

"I wasn't taking Syntona long before I noticed my food was digesting better and as I kept on taking it the gas, indigestion and other distress cleared up. Now I enjoy my meals, the nervousness and aches and pains are relieved and I sleep much better at night.

Why not let this herbal medicine help you, too? It is pleasing to take and the results are quickly felt.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Floods Roar Down On Mexican Cities Hit By Hurricane

125 Buried in Single Grave At One Town in Yucatan

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Disastrous new floods roared down on Mexico's gulf coast today in the wake of hurricane Janet as the killer storm beat itself out against the Sierra Madre mountains.

The worst of three hurricanes that smashed into east Mexico this month, Janet killed at least 200 Mexicans plus 200 other persons on Caribbean islands. In addition she has been blamed for the loss of a United States hurricane hunter plane carrying a crew of nine and two Toronto newspaper men.

Not even wreckage has been sighted from the hurricane hunter plane which was last heard from Monday flying in the storm's area in the Caribbean. Hours by the crew it carried Alfred O. Tate and Douglas Cronk of the Toronto Daily Star, who were on an assignment to do a news-photo feature on hurricane flights.

EXPECT HIGH TOLL

In the storm's wake, torrential rains swollen rivers already flooding from the northern Tamaulipas state of Vera Cruz. The toll of dead and disaster was expected to rise.

The three big trans - Caribbean hurricanes — Hazel, Connie and Janet—already have caused an estimated $100,000,000—almost half the national growth of Mexico.

Property damage is reckoned at some $200,000,000—almost half the national growth of Mexico.

Janet's course was observed during the night by the storm's fury. Janet's course was observed during the night by the storm's fury.

Janet's course was observed during the night by the storm's fury.

havoc its 120-mile-an-hour winds wreaked on communications.

Reports from Merida, Yucatan, said 125 bodies were buried in a common grave at Chetumal Monday and that more were being found in the debris. Air force pilots estimated the total dead at Chetumal alone at 170.

Tampico, already under water from the two previous hurricanes and the flooding Panuco river, reported a new rise in its Venice-like streets. Exhausted from their three week battle against floods, flood and disease, thousands abandoned the city in a mass exodus. The government furnished but, railroad and airplane transportation for all who wanted to leave.

Tampico's food supply has been disrupted. Stocks were low. Prices are low and both typhoid and smallpox have broken out. More than 30,000 refugees from among the city's normal population of 110,000 are being cared for in concentration centres.

Said Duty of UN To Bring Peace To Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan of Britain declared today that " a heavy responsibility will lie on any country which introduces any new and disturbing factor into the delicate Middle East situation.

He appeared to be a reference to the disclosure in Egypt that it reached an agreement with Czechoslovakia to exchange cotton for weapons. He did not at this time take the issue had been raised even indirectly before the UN General Assembly.

Macmillan told the assembly in a policy speech that it is clearly the duty of the United Nations to allay and moderate the ill-feelings between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

"In this intractable issue," he said, "the duty of men of goodwill is to resist the temptation to lose confidence on both sides for an ultimate settlement to be reached."

Full-Scale GM Talks Will Be Started Soon

Many Local Issues Have Been Settled

TORONTO (CP) — Union and company negotiators believe full-scale talks soon will resume in the dispute between the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) and General Motors of Canada, tied up by a strike of 27,000 workers for the last 12 days.

Local issues at Ontario plants in Scarborough and Leaside were settled Thursday. Those at the St. Catharines plant were solved four days ago and Windsor plant representatives are reported to be here to conclude.

Once the Windsor discussions and those involving the Oshawa plants are cleared, top-level negotiations between representatives of the 17,000-member union and the company will begin again.

SENIORITY DISPUTE

Local disputes at the Oshawa plant are expected to offer the greatest difficulty. There the chief point still in dispute is the seniority system.

Meanwhile, an application by the company to have the strike declared illegal is being considered by the Ontario labor relations board. Its decision has been delayed until next week.

The company says the union did not signify its intention to end the jurisdictional dispute at its Oshawa plant before negotiations for a new one, and the strike therefore illegal.

When negotiations opened here last week, it was found the major issues were expected to centre until certain non-economic problems concerning the plants individually had been settled.

ECONOMIC DEMANDS

When the main talks resume they will be on the union's list of economic demands.

The UAW is asking a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase, a company-paid hospital plan and eight staturory holidays instead of six. General Motors has already offered a 10-cent-an-hour version of the guaranteed annual wage.

Ross Murphy, manager of the Oshawa unemployment insurance office, said Thursday night the workers' struggle is causing layoffs in some of the feeder plants.

Some 2,000 persons have been laid off by the strike began are being held up. No estimate is expected to start next week.

CLAIM 993 M.P.H.

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A new Swedish jet fighter has reportedly claimed to have a speed of up to 993.6 miles an hour was reported here Thursday by Swedish aviation circles. It is a delta wing aircraft about 45 feet long.

Full and Active Life Is Best Preventative Against Heart Attack

Editor's Note—There are no hard and fast rules for running away from or avoiding a heart attack. But doctors have made some revealing discoveries in the past few years about old beliefs about exercise, rest and the way to work. This is the fourth and last of a series on heart disease.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—How can you best care for your heart, to minimize your chances of heart attack?

Finding a full, active, good and sensible life may be a main rule. Doctors can lay down hard-and-fast rules. Not enough is yet known about the fundamental cause of the heart attack problem.

But they do have tips. And some authorities are finding good reasons to doubt many of the beliefs most of us hold about heart attack. Beliefs such as these:

That exercise is bad, and after 40 you should run away from it.

That tense business executives are most likely to sudden death from heart seizures.

That most heart attacks follow exertion—like shoveling heavy snow, the dramatic incidents you read or hear about.

That all attacks appear to come during sleep and resting.

That we should blindly follow the advice of "take it easy" to avoid heart attacks.

That hard work kills you.

You can easily find differences of opinion among heart experts. Here are some of the challenging new viewpoints:

Dr. Paul D. White, famous Boston cardiologist who attended Eisenhower:

Speaking of Ike's golfing: "My own feeling is that golf has often wrongly blamed, that those who play it have a better chance at 65 might have had an attack at 45 if they hadn't played golf. We don't think that exercise should be responsible.

"Moderate, very severe accidents or strains may have a precipitating effect, but they aren't the fundamental cause."

Heredity, Dr. White has said, plays a part. There's some evidence that too rich a diet can be harmful. That question is not answered yet, but "many of us believe that over-eating is the most unhealthy way of life in this country today."

Dr. Arthur M. Master, well-known New York City cardiologist:

Ike tips: Be your age. If you're 64, don't act 44. Avoid obesity. Avoid excessive smoking and drinking. Avoid infections, and if you get them, knock them out with penicillin. Have regular, physically active. After 40, take less strenuous exercise, but don't choose inactivity.

Studying 1,700 persons who had coronaries, Dr. Master and his associates found 53 per cent of attacks came while these people were sleeping or resting; 21 per cent at ordinary mild activity; nine per cent in moderate activity, except for walking; 16 per cent in walking; only 9 per cent during unusual or severe exertion.

Dodgers Lead Yanks 8-3 Going Into Eighth Inning

NEW YORK. — Brooklyn Dodgers, National League champions, were leading New York Yankees 8-3 going into the eighth inning.

The Dodgers went into an early lead by scoring two runs in the first frame of this third game of the World Series. The Yankees tied the count in the second, but the Dodgers scored two in their half of the same innings and added two more in the fourth. Yankees counted once in the seventh. The Dodgers replied with two more in their half of the seventh.

The Yankees won the first two games of this seven-game series.

FIRST INNING

Yankees: Fodres bounced off the left field wall for a long double and threw him out. McDougald raised a soft fly to Snider in short centre. Durrle made a running catch of Berra's sinking liner, and Fodres, no hits, no errors, done left.

Dodgers: Mantle backed up for Gilliam's high fly for straddling centre. Reese walked on four pitches. Snider sent reese scoring. Campanella hit a home run into the left field stands and the stands scoring Reese ahead of him. It was the catcher's first hit of the series. Furillo lined to Bauer in right centre.

two runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

Yankees: Mantle crashed a home run into the lower centre field stands. Skowron lined a double into right centre. Howard lined a third base line. Howard rolled out, Skowron to first. Bauer was safe on a held second. Martin struck out, mistiming a pitch.

Centre of Government Shifts To Denver, President Better

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

DENVER (AP)—The centre of the government shifted back to Denver today as President Eisenhower showed consistent improvement from his heart attack and his personal administrative flow here from Washington.

The decision of Sherman Adams, assistant to the president, to run the president's Denver White House temporarily, pulled the last of possible plans to delegate any of Eisenhower's authority during his illness.

Eisenhower's personal friends said the secret of Adams' ability to pel any doubt that the reins of government are in a firm and steady hand until the president is able to assume active direction of policy. They said the 58-year-old president will be at the helm of his administration in not far off time, indicated in the latest bulletins from his doctors.

There are even those who speculate that the president will not take kindly, once he has been given a fill-in on Washington manoeuvres of the last few days, the celebrity with which some people in his administration explored ways of delegating presidential authority.

They claim that the haste to declare the presidential authority could be transferred was unnecessary at a time when no urgent decisions were pending.

Meanwhile, the president, who will be 65 Oct. 14, showed such excellent recovery from his heart attack of last Saturday that doctors Thursday eliminated routine use of the oxygen tent.

And they decided that he is well enough to initial a couple of government documents. Approval of these documents, of foreign service assignments, will be the first official White House "still-hazardous" road to recovery.

For, as Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist, explains in any case of a coronary thrombosis "the first month is crucial" during the first two weeks.

A bulletin Thursday night from the president's bedside on the eighth floor of the army's Fitzsimons Hospital said:

"The vital signs had another satisfactory day without complications. The routine use of the oxygen tent has been discontinued. Tonight, for the first time, it is planned to permit the president to sleep without the tent."

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty commented that barring unforeseeable complications "we think you would be justified in writing that it is unlikely that there will be any need for delegation of powers."

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF MAY LOOM LARGE AT PARLEY

Question of Federal Aid High on Agenda

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA. (CP)—Unemployment relief likely will be the first item on the order paper at next week's federal - provincial conference, though it is not on the official agenda.

The onset of cold weather—when seasonal unemployment strikes Canada—will push the question of federal aid for jobless towards the head of the list. There is no such time urgency about other problems such as the formulation of federal-provincial fiscal arrangements.

Originally, the intent of federal and provincial heads who met here last April in an agenda-setting session was that unemployment assistance would have been settled by now through agreement and need not go on the program for the conference opening Monday.

IN NO. 1 SPOT

But this has not panned out, despite meetings of a group representing all governments. As a result, federal officials say, this most important issue of the April conference likely will be unofficially to the No. 1 spot in the discussions and in the formal opening statements on Monday.

There has been a variety of provincial reaction to a federal proposal for participating in the cost of relief payments.

Though some of the provinces have indicated willingness to sign agreements on the basis laid down by the federal government, most of not all would like to see the plan to make proposals for getting a better financial deal on a fifty-fifty central treasury.

But informants say the federal government's disposition now is to stick by its original proposition, which called for spinning $25 for each province the cost-of-welfare relief for unemployed above .45 per cent of a province's population.

In effect, this formula means the federal government would assume roughly half the cost of relief for those who are able to work and are out of jobs but are not drawing unemployment insurance.

NOW BEAR COSTS

At present, the provinces and municipalities bear any such costs, under varying conditions in each province.

France Opposed To Any System Ending NATO

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) France declared Thursday it would firmly oppose any European security system which would mean the dissolution of North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the withdrawal of United States forces from Europe.

In a major policy speech, French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay also told the UN assembly his government remains opposed to reinstatement of German unity "the essential condition for a return to a normal situation in Europe."

He also declared once more that France recognizes only one legitimate German government — the West German government at Bonn.

Thousands Flee Chicago Waterfront But Giant Wave Fails to Appear

CHICAGO (AP)—Several thousand persons were evacuated from the Lake Michigan waterfront for a time Thursday after a giant wave was reported approaching shore.

The wave, which failed to materialize, was described by the Chicago weather bureau as a seiche. A seiche, generally caused by sudden changes in air pressure, took eight-lives near Montrose harbor in Chicago when it struck in June 1954.

The alert was sounded shortly after 2 p. m. CST and was lifted some 90 minutes later. The coast guard sent a dozen squads to patrol the eleven miles of the city's 28-mile lake front.

At Waukegan, 45 miles north of Chicago, factory workers and lake front residents were ordered to be evacuated from the area. The order was lifted when no giant waves were home by late afternoon.

An American Airlines pilot told Chicago's Midway airport control tower he sighted a heavy swell on the lake about 10 miles west of Michigan City, Ind. The control tower notified the weather bureau.

At East Lansing, Mich., state police said another pilot reported a wave 20 feet high and moving across the lake, 10 miles offshore.

No other evidence of the wave was reported.

Moroccan Sultan Is Ready To Quit On His Own Terms

Would Turn Powers Over To Member of Own Family

PARIS (Reuters)—A spokesman for the Moroccan Istiqlal Nationalist party said here today the party has private reports that the aged sultan of Morocco, Moulay Ben Arafa, left for Tangier and retirement this afternoon.

SULTAN'S OFFER

RABAT, French Morocco (AP)—Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa offered today to quit the Moroccan throne if he can turn his powers over to a member of his own family.

The first public break in the 74-year-old ruler's determination to keep the post the French gave him two years ago came after the French resident - general, Pierre Boyer de LaTour, ordered the arrest of the sultan's chief aide, protocol chief Abderrahman el Hajoui.

El Hajoui sped off in his white Cadillac before dawn toward Casablanca, with two loopholes of power in his pockets. But the Tour charged the protocol chief had exercised "inadmissible pressure" on the sultan to make him refuse to quit.

Although Moulay Arafa attempted to put conditions in his unexpected departure, his troubled hold on the throne appeared to be drawing rapidly to an end.

French observers said the French government promised Moroccan nationalists to remove the old man as the first step in a settlement to end the violence in the North African protectorate and give it some measure of self-rule.

THREE CONDITIONS

Moulay Arafa has been the chief nationalist target since the French called his nephew, Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef, and put the old man on the throne in 1953.

Moulay Arafa's offer to quit was contained in a letter to French Resident-General Pierre Commandeur.

French officials refused to disclose the letter's provisions but a reliable source said the sultan listed these conditions for his resignation:

1. The French government would have to guarantee that Ben Youssef would not return to the throne.

2. The sultan's powers would be delegated to a member of his own family. This would destroy France's plan for a three-man regency council. This plan had aroused strong opposition from French residents, Moroccan political parties, and has support Moulay Arafa.

3. Friends and supporters of the sultan would be protected against any punishment.

Violence flickered meanwhile on both sides and the threat of widespread civil war appeared to mount.

Police reported eight murder attempts within an hour Thursday night in Casablanca, two of them successful. A Moroccan policeman and a French reserve lieutenant were killed.

A bomb was thrown at a building occupied by Moroccans housing a young European woman and her daughter.

The Algerian police began a sweeping roundup of terrorist suspects in Algiers and Oran. Arabs and Algerians were searched and more than a dozen were arrested.

War Veteran Pumps Life Back Into 'Dead' Baby

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A Second World War veteran Thursday pumped life back into an apparently dead baby girl on the counter of his mother's grocery store.

Mrs. Ballance Frazee rushed into the small neighborhood store carrying the limp, blue body of her seven-month-old daughter, Sylvia. She said the baby had suffocated under blankets and pillows on a bed.

Chester J. Dyczkowski, 32, happened to be in the grocery, owned by his mother. He laid the infant on the counter and applied artificial respiration for 20 minutes.

"The first sign of life was when the baby's color changed," Mrs. Dyczkowski said. "Then one of her little fists started to double up. It was a wonderful thing. She had that little body getting life back into it."

Police were called and Mrs. Frazee and the baby were taken to a hospital for examination. The hospital record showed: "Baby fine; left with mother."

Truck Driver Fined $35 For Overloading

BANCROFT. — Remarking that he did not intend to take a lenient view of people who overloaded trucks to make extra profit and smashed up the highways at the expense of others' taxpayers, Magistrate R. C. Jackson fined Clayton Brander, Stouffville, $35 and costs on conviction of overloading.

Provincial Const. John Hawkins said that Brander's tractor-trailer, when weighed by a department of highways inspector had a gross weight of 72,000 lbs., representing around 21 1-3 per cent overload.

A charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident brought against Robert Parks of Birds Creek, was dismissed by the magistrate. Conviction on a further charge of drunk driving defendant was committed to goal for 15 days.

OPP Constable John Hawkins told the court that on Sept. 16 he was called on the scene of an accident on Hastings Street, Bancroft, where a blue panel truck had been struck and knocked into the road. The vehicle was parked and had been hit during the night. Later that day he saw Parks in a car, which had been in a collision and bore blue paint marks on its damaged side. Defendant made a statement, that he had been drinking the previous night and had been in quite an accident but didn't know. Accused's driving was questioned and he was prohibited from driving for six months.

ABILITY IMPAIRED

Convicted of driving whilst his ability was impaired, Howard Fenton, of Bancroft, was fined $70 and $56 costs or three months. Mervin Doney of Maynooth, said that on the night of June 11, he was the driver of a car involved in an accident with a vehicle driven by defendant. He testified that Fenton's breath smelled of alcohol. OPP Constable George, Lloyd said that when he arrested the accused he formed the opinion that accused had been drinking and was in no condition to drive. His breath smelled, his eyes were bloodshot and his speech contradictory.

OPP Corporal Archie Grayling told the court that Fortin's manner was "bullying" and, when the officer mentioned a blood test he insisted upon having one taken. Professor Gibbard gave evidence that a sample of defendant's blood taken after the accident showed an alcoholic content of 1.1 grams per 1,000 g figure, which indicates 71 per cent alcohol in the body at that time.

TRENTON MAN FINED

Found guilty on a charge of driving whilst his ability was impaired Charles Fryer, of Trenton was fined $50 and costs or 15 days in goal. Sentence was passed when apprehended at L'Amable on August 27, accused had a case of beer in his car. Signs of the bottles were still full. Gerald Wilkins, also of Trenton, a passenger in Collar's car, was fined $10 and costs for being drunk.

Pleading guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident, Fred Purdy, of Bancroft, told OPP Corporal Archie Grayling that he drove away because he had no driver's license and did not want the police to get him. Police witness said he had great trouble in pinning the case down, as the car involved had changed hands 20 times in six weeks. Accused was fined $50 and costs or in default one month in goal. Pleading guilty to a careless driving charge Clifford MacFarlane of Combermere, was fined $20 and costs.

MRS. CLIFFORD C. BARRETT
(Watertown, N. Y.)

The funeral of Mrs. Dora Evelyn Barnhardt, of 150 Bellevue Ave., Watertown, N. Y., who died Thursday, Sept. 29th, from the White General Hospital, was conducted by St. Saints Anglican Church. Rev. W. F. Smith officiated at the service.

Bearers were Wendell Deline, Kenneth Barnhardt, Aubrey Maracle, Joseph Hamilton and Oliver Kennedy.

Interment was private in All Saints Anglican cemetery.

The deceased was born in Napanee, the daughter of Mrs. Noah Kimmerly and the late Mr. Kimmerly. She spent her girlhood prior to taking up residence in Watertown 35 years ago.

She died in Mercy Hospital, Watertown, N. Y., on Monday, Sept. 26th, after a short illness. She was 70.

She is survived by her mother, her husband, Clifford C. Barnhardt, a daughter Marylyn, 11, and a baby son, aged 11 days.

Also surviving her are two brothers, Orville Kimmerly, of Deseronto and Jack Kimmerly, of Londesboro, Ont., and two sisters, Mrs. D. Ward, of London, Ont., and Mrs. Gordon (Annie) Jackson, of Deseronto.

EDGAR TOMPKINS
(Kingston)

The funeral of Edgar Tompkins, of Kingston, was held Wednesday, Sept. 28th, from the White Funeral Home, Deseronto. Rev. Walter F. Smith officiated the service.

Bearers were William and Roland Tompkins, brothers of the deceased, Murney Green, George Hopping, Roy Green and Tom Toomey.

Interment took place in Deseronto cemetery.

The deceased was born in Deseronto, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tilson Tompkins, and lived in Toronto prior to taking up residence in Kingston, where he was employed as a carpenter.

He died in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, on Sunday, Sept. 25th, after a brief illness. At that time he had only put behind him over 70 miles non-stop walking of Highway No. 2.

However, he didn't express one iota of fear that he would make it.

He started on Monday of this week from the city hall in Montreal. Accompanied only by his trainer, Carl Schuster, who is covering the journey in a tractor-drawn trailer, he has been on the go ever since. Resting on the hoof on mixtures of sugar, dextrose and honey.

The reason behind his foot-soreing feat?

Well, when told one paper along the highway had given it as his idea of improving his favorite girl in Chatham he just laughed.

COURAGE BROADENS WITH HIS BIG BULK

According to dog lovers in England, the bulldog—tough, bowlegged symbol of British courage—has been bred to a standstill and can hardly waddle to the nearest dog show. To which the breeders replied that the blame lies in the fashion for a shorter-bodied, more compact bulldog sought by fanciers in England. They say that as a result, the dog has become "scoordinated," so that his short legs can hardly carry the heavy bulk of his shoulders. The breeders added, however, that despite loss of mobility, his courage is as stout as ever. (Central Press Canadian).

Grounds at Quinte Secondary School Will Be Landscaped

Members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board turned their attention to dressing up the grounds at the Quinte Secondary School at their November meeting, which actually turned out to be a two-night affair.

A special committee with J. B. Durrant as chairman, H. C. Seldon, Mrs. Ralph Parrott and the new principal L. F. Reid, was named to bring in a recommendation regarding the grounds at the above school and also to take any measure thought advisable to improve the campus at the Collegiate.

Top soil will be added to the slopes at the end of the newly graded playing field at the Quinte Secondary school. The board chairman was given authority to have the lawn in front of the new school graded and to arrange for its seeding.

And the playing field in front of the collegiate has not been forgotten. During the summer Parks Superviser Nicholson has been almost weed on the campus lawn in an effort to keep the bare spots covered.

Authority was given to raise excavated gravel from a basement in the basement rooms at the collegiate to be converted into a cafeteria and to enclose as much as possible in vertical columns.

Vocational school inspectors A. Gambel, T. O. W. Fowler and Miss M. Gordon were present but postponed portion of the meetingers' cars.

Marathon Walker, Robert Mendl, Believes He Will Make Goal

Robert Mendl is a guy with a lot on the ball of his foot.

The ball of each foot, actually.

A 24-year-old Czech, a bookbinder, a new Canadian, the young man also has something to commend him for his grit endurance of a mammoth nature.

Or rather, a marathon nature.

For Robert presently is attempting to walk non-stop from Montreal to Chatham, and there has been as much movement on the road since the U.S. cavalry gave up chasing Indians.

Yesterday about 3 p.m. he appeared suddenly over the crest of Belleville as he advanced, step by step, on his destination.

"I am getting a little tired," admitted the wiry-looking marathoner as a passing car, which pulled doggedly beside him as they passed, offered coffee. At that time he had only put behind him over 70 miles non-stop walking of Highway No. 2.

However, he didn't express one iota of fear that he would make it.

He started on Monday of this week from the city hall in Montreal. Accompanied only by his trainer, Carl Schuster, who is covering the journey in a tractor-drawn trailer, he has been on the go ever since. Resting on the hoof on mixtures of sugar, dextrose and honey.

The reason behind his foot-soreing feat?

Well, when told one paper along the highway had given it as his idea of improving his favorite girl in Chatham he just laughed.

KNOWS CHATHAM'S MAYOR

"I do not even know anyone in Chatham, except the mayor of the city," he replied.

"I am doing this just to set a new world record."

The world record?

Well, according to Robert, it is 366 miles non-stop, from Toronto to Chatham and back again. Oh, incidentally, he was the one who set it.

That's how come he knows the mayor of Chatham.

So far he has had one piece of bad luck.

Misinformation near Brockville set him off on the wrong highway and he covered 16 miles on Highway No. 31 near Morrisburg, before he found out his mistake. Then he had to retrace his steps, adding 32 miles to the jaunt.

He expected to arrive in Toronto some time tomorrow morning between 2 a.m. and 10 a.m.

Will he make it?

Robert thinks so and from what he says so does his promoter, Bud Hall, program director of CKEY, Toronto.

As far as Robert is concerned this is, in this part of the world, the biggest hike since Henry Ford started paying $5 a day.

Ideal Weather Favors Fair At Demorestville

PICTON — Favored by almost ideal weather and a large crowd, Demorestville Fair on Wednesday proved one of the best in years. It was a "two-in-one" fair with Sophisburg and schools having a large entry in a special section. Inside and outside the main building the bounty of fields, garden and orchard was heaped in colorful array. The display of flowers was unusually fine, with huge dahlias and gladioli especially beautiful. Ladies' work classes were well filled and home cooking made a tempting display. Attracting attention were many pets of all kinds.

Ten boys completed the Sophiasburg Calf Club competition. Tommy Dilchirn ran head calf, while Leslie Jones was tops in showmanship.

Roadsters, saddle horses and ponies were shown by Douglas Morden, Hampton; Walter Demille and Betty Hicks.

A chicken dinner, served in the township hall by the Demorestville Women's Institute was enjoyed by around 225 persons.

Opening the fair was a parade of school children, headed by the senior room of Demorestville school, Elmbrook, Bethesda, Juniper room at Demorestville, Hillcrest, Northport, Jericho, Doxsees, Solemnville, Big Island, Bloomer. Each carried an artistically decorated banner, while many of the pupils were bedecked in streamers.

In the school section, most points for prizes were won by S.S. No. 5, followed by S.S. 2, 9, 9 and ten. Individual Miss Diane Gorsline had most points for girls and David Semple for the boys.

In a music competition conducted by Noah Trumble, Barbara Newcombe, Mary Crowley, Barbara Wannamaker were winners in girls' 6-12 years; Douglas Fraser, boys' 6-8 years; Douglas Fraser, boys 9-12; Marilyn and Geraldine Courtney, Larry McDermott and Glen Foster, Madeline and Sheila Aman, in duet, any age; Madeline Demorestville, Solmesville schools in novelty numbers.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials drifted lower in late morning trading on the Toronto stock exchange today. Only papers showed fairly consistent demand but gains were fractional. Sales were up to 2,068,000 shares at 11 a.m. from Thursday's 2,393,200 but a large slice of the business was in a few speculative stocks.

Profit-taking knocked back some of the recent market leaders. Chrysler and Aluminium each eased $2.

Some mines with copper prospects jumped ahead on heavy volume. Bidgood Kirkland added 15 to 33 on 450,000 shares, Glenn Uranium 25 to 81.98 on 434,000 shares and Geneva 6¼ to 26 on 283,000. Most senior mines were fractionally easier.

Petrol added a cent to $7.19 on 119,000-share turnover among western oils.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were uneven, firm to 50 cents a hundredweight lower this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were generally unchanged while hogs were $1 to $2 a hundredweight lower. Sheep and lambs were steady.

Cattle receipts were some 700 head less than last week and about 1,000 head more than the same week in 1954. Receipts from western Canada were 1,517 cattle and 967 calves. These were mostly replacement cattle. There were three carloads shipped to eastern Canadian slaughterers and there were no exports to the United States.

Broad orders for high-good and choice slaughter cattle made for an active market at firm prices on the scant supply of these grades.

It was estimated that 1,800 common killers and stockers would be unsold at the close.

Prices: Choice steers, all weights $20.50-21.50, with sales to $21.75; good steers $19.50-20.50; medium $16-19; commons $12-16; good heifers $18-18.50, with a few choice at $19; medium $16.50-18; commons $12-16; bonor steers and heifers $8-12; choice fed yearlings $21.50-22.50, with sales to $23, a few extreme tops of $23.50; good fed yearlings $20-21.50; medium $17-20; good cows generally $12. with sales to $13.50; good light heifery cows up to $13.50; canner and cutter cows $7-9; good heavy bologna bulls $12-12.50; a few butcher bulls up to $13; common and medium light bulls edown to $9.

Replacement cattle: Common and medium grades of cattle continued to dominate the receipts of this class. The few good stockers and stock calves offered sold at prices ranging from $18-19 with some matched hereford calves at $18.50 and a few extreme sales at $20. Mediums were $16-17.50 with commons at $14-16.

Calf receipts were comparable to last week with sales made at steady values. Good and choice vealers were $23-25 with sales to $25.50 and an odd top of $26. Medium were $16-22; commons $10-15. Grass calves sold for slaughter were $10-12. Fat heavy calves posed a serious problem with this grade proving slow and hard to sell.

Hogs were $1 to $2 a hundredweight lower with grade A at $25 and several loads at $26.50. Sows lost 75 cents a hundredweight to sell at $17.50 while stags were unchanged at $15.

Sheep and lambs were slightly less than last week. These classes held steady with good handyweight ewes and wethers selling at $19 a hundredweight Bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight while heavy lambs were discounted $2. Common and medium lambs ranged at $12-17. Feeder lambs were $14-17. Good light sheep were generally $7-8 with commons and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

SUNDAY EDITION DEARER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Post and Times Herald announced Thursday night it is raising the price of its Sunday edition to 20 cents a copy, from 15 cents. Daily issues will remain at five cents. The newspaper said the higher rates are necessary because of increased costs.

Three Comedians Take Falls Into Water, Did Not Get Wet

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a commentary of some sort on the current state of so-called comedy in television that in three program debuts within a space of three hours the other evening three comedians did pratfalls into pools of water.

Not since the infancy of the movies, in the heyday of Mack Sennett, have so many comedians been so dependent on such tiresome devices. All these gentlemen have greater potentialities than getting all wet—and they displayed them in occasional flashes.

Milton Berle returned to NBC-TV for a new season which will bring him to the screen 13 times in the next 39 weeks. Comedians are as much the victims of fashion as women's clothing, and last year Berle went out of fashion.

Now he's back. The best thing about his return was that he came back giving his all. But he still seems to be hounded by the fear of failure. He was pressing mightily.

Please relax, Mr. Berle. You can press pants and military advancement, but you can't manufacture humor. When you fell into the canal in that Venetian sketch, it was suddened instead of amused. You can only do so many things so much better than falling overboard and emerging not very wet.

The next victim of water was Red Skelton, who made his season's debut on CBS-TV. Skelton was gently nudged into a sewer opening by Ed Sullivan, playing a bus driver.

Skelton plays it too broad for me. I'm haunted by the feeling I've seen and heard it all before when I look at Skelton. When he splashed into the sewer and emerged not wet at all, I knew I'd seen it somewhere before. Then I remembered his preceding Berle show.

An NBC film package called "The Great Gildersleeve" probe in New York the same evening as Berle and Skelton. It was Gildersleeve's fate to fall in a fish pond and the fate of his rival in love to fall into another.

Four dunkings in one evening of TV comedy are pretty rough even for a two-hundred viewer. Perhaps you can blame the victims for much—but there's the matter of New York's fate of comedy these days? Comedians have always followed the fickle fashion; it's definitely unfair to send them into society with their cliches showing.

Would Not Seek Second Term If He Was Ike

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Paul D. White, noted Boston heart specialist who attended President Eisenhower, said today that if he were Eisenhower he "wouldn't want to run" for a second term.

Interviewed on the NBC television show "Today," Dr. White was asked if he believed Mr. Ike was possible for the president to serve a second term in view of his recent heart attack.

Dr. White replied:

"Many things are possible that may not be advisable. It is up to him to make the decision. He may or may not have complete recovery. . . . If I were in his shoes I wouldn't want to run again, having seen the strain."

ROCK BRIDGE, 22 HURT

FUCHISHIA, Japan (AP)—Fifty Tokyo high school boys, skylarking today on an excursion, started rocking a small suspension bridge. A cable snapped, plunged them 25 feet into a Hodosawilin river. Thirty-two were injured.

Hon. F.S. Thomas Much Improved

LITTLE CURRENT (CP)—Hon. Fletcher S. Thomas, provincial minister of agriculture had some rest during the night and his condition was reported "very much better" at 11 a. m. this morning.

"His temperature is down this morning and he is resting easier," his attending physician Dr. J. F. Bailey stated. "We felt some real concern over his condition yesterday."

The agriculture minister was flown to Manitoulin Island Wednesday to officially open the big cattle sale here. But was rushed from a hotel suite to the Joseph General Hospital here Thursday morning when found to be suffering from pneumonia.

Dr. Bailey said the agriculture minister was suffering from a slight touch of pneumonia combined with severe attack of bronchitis. There was some congestion of the lungs.

It is expected he will be confined to hospitals here for about a week. Although nurses are on 24-hour duty at his bedside his condition was not considered sufficiently serious for Mrs. Thomas to come from their home at St. Thomas.

Marmora Chief Tells Court How Man Identified

MARMORA (Staff)—Marmora Police Chief Charles Lockwood was the only witness to testify this morning as the preliminary hearing of James Orval Ross on a charge of armed robbery resumed before Magistrate R. C. Jackson after having been adjourned Wednesday afternoon.

Ross is charged with the armed robbery of $5,400 from the Marmora branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank on June 28th.

Testimony given by Chief Lockwood hinted that a telephone tip to an unidentified investigating officer was responsible for the apprehension of Ross. Chief Lockwood said that following the tip whose source was not disclosed, photographs of suspects were forwarded to him. The photographs were then examined by bank employees with the exception of accountant Roy Moss and all identified pictures of the accused as resembling one of the hold-up men.

Chief Lockwood stated that to the best of his knowledge the tip that led to Ross' arrest was information concerning the identity of a man who had taken part in a robbery near Peterborough.

Questioning of Chief Lockwood was continued principally to the part which he played in the arranging a police lineup in Belleville at which the bank employees identified Ross.

Défence counsel, Kenneth G. M. Ross, of Belleville, cross-examined Chief Lockwood at length to determine if members of the bank staff had had time to confer with each other on the identification of Ross he played in the lineup. Chief Lockwood stated that bank employees were called to the police lineup individually and had no chance to confer.

Three members of the bank staff with the exception of teller Wilma McKeown identified Ross as one of the holdup men. Chief Lockwood stated that "there was a burst of laughter" from other men in the lineup when Miss McKeown picked a man other than Ross as the bandit.

Chief Lockwood was scheduled to take the stand when court reconvened at 2.00 p.m.

It was expected that he would be the only witness at the afternoon session.

Cyprus Is Calm As Strike Ends

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Hundreds of British commandos today swooped on a village outside Nicosia to hunt for terrorists and munitions following riots through this British Mediterranean colony Thursday.

The troops sealed off Avios Nicolaos, 30 miles northeast of here and made a house-to-house search. Mine detectors were used in the houses and in fields outside the village.

The swoop followed a 24-hour general strike against British rule and a return to calm from the island-wide rioting.

Outbreaks in cities, towns and villages throughout the colony Thursday brought 213 arrests and an undetermined amount of damage from stone and bottle attacks.

Tear - gas offensives by British forces caused injuries to three Cypriot Greeks. Four British soldiers were injured slightly by stones.

Curfews imposed after rioting Thursday in Limassol and Famagusta were lifted at dawn today.

Commissioner Martin Clemens this morning lifted restrictions on assemblies of more than five people within Nicosia's Greek quarters, originally imposed until midnight tonight.

WE RUST OUT

Dr. Theodoree G. Klumpp, who served as chairman of the Hoover commission's medical services task force:

"We don't wear out. We rust out." To him it appears "the major evil in the excessive decline of physical, mental and emotional activity in adult life in relation to what it was in youth."

His opinion is that commonsense activity to keep all body organs and glands working efficiently combats ageing and combats development of the artery disease process.

He and others caution the amount of exercise for health should be based upon what you are accustomed to. Starting in again suddenly, or at something too strenuous, is foolish. It's also foolish not to have a heart checkup first if you suspect anything wrong with your heart.

THEY WANT TO WORK!

Seven volunteer firemen in Nether Stowey, England, have quit their jobs in a huff because someone else was always putting out fires.

The men complained to the parish council that fire departments from distant towns had been invading their territory and extinguishing fires before they could get to them. The men also stated that their late arrival, through no fault of their own, made them the butt of jokes by other firemen and left them open to ridicule.

This is a very delicate situation for the parish councillors.

Nothing could be more annoying for a volunteer fireman than to be roused from a warm bed in the middle of the night, hasten across a darkened landscape to the scene of a fire and arrive to find another fireman calmly coiling hose and the embers dead. The least a volunteer smoke-eater should expect when he sets off to douse a fire is to have a fire to douse when he gets there.

The frustration of dashing to dead fires steeled to do one's duty despite the danger of a holocaust, falling timbers and foul vapors is as nothing compared to the torment which rivalry can add to the occasion. It makes one burn to think of the brands which might be tacked to the escutcheon of the Nether Stowey volunteer fire brigade.

Community pride in this matter might prove to be a real stumbling block to easy solution of the brigade's dilemma. On the one hand the good people of Nether Stowey have not only the reputation of their fellow villagers to consider but also the more important question of territorial jurisdiction. Should firemen from distant towns be allowed to invade the area patrolled by the local group? Should such serious matters as fighting fires be reduced to a game to be played among neighboring communities with the winners being privileged to hurl insults at the losers? This sort of thing could lead to bad feeling, and on a small local scale, to a sort of civil war.

Then again, there are the interests of the fire stricken to be considered. Should the people of Nether Stowey show a united front in interfering firemen while their buildings are consumed? Should they invite visitors to fight the flames until their local unit arrives? Should they accept the aid of the fastest brigade in the district and run the risk of losing local protection if the fire next neighbors resign from the brigade affronted by this expression of non-confidence?

The decision for Nether Stowey, it seems, can neither be stowed away nor postponed. Fire away.

THE BURR-LIKE MIND

The human mind is like a burr.

A burr may roll for a considerable distance over a smooth, hard surface which offers it no friendly grasp.

But let the burr once touch another object soft like itself and it will stick like mad, like a burr.

The human mind deals in similar fashion with facts. Give it a "fact" like the indestructibility of matter and, while it will recognize the statement despite apparently contrary evidence, such as the disappearance of a log in the flames of the fireplace, it will not cling to it. And so when, a little later, the scientific mind proves that matter is not indestructible after all, the mind does not cling to the now-dispproven theory of indestructibility.

For many years a man has been accounted to regard the star as beyond his reach. But they are so far removed from close investigation by his senses that, when he is told that it may one day be possible for him to travel to them, he accepts the statement.

When the scientist predicts that man will travel to outer space by means of a rocket, the human mind will accept that statement. But when the same scientist tells him that this rocket will "propel itself purely by what is called recoil, a process which is independent of earth, water or air" a form of propulsion more effective in a vacuum than in atmosphere, the burr-like mind refuses to budge, to accept this new statement. Space travel by rocket—yes. Movement produced by the ejection of gases in a vacuum, they have nothing to push against—no. All man's experience teaches him that motion is the result of pushing against something—the foot against the ground, the wheel against the road, the wind against the sail, the propeller against the water or the air, the jet thrust against the air, the bowstring against the arrow, the gunpowder against the bullet. If there is nothing to push against, there can be no motion. So says the burr-like mind. But the scientist says the mind is wrong—again.

STRANGE SIMILARITY

What causes a heart attack?

Practically every layman—and many doctors—will have a ready answer to that question.

But the specialist may hesitate. For knowing much, he has learned how little he knows.

For instance, the heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, says that President Eisenhower's golf-playing may have delayed, rather than caused, his heart attack.

But, he adds, "we don't know."

An article by W. H. Lawrence of the New York Times Service suggests another question. Lawrence reports that members of the White House staff say that a heart attack during the President's Colorado vacation last year "would have made a lot more sense to them than a seizure this year." For last year Eisenhower was tense, worried by a host of world and domestic problems. This year he was relaxed, with the Geneva conference having eased the international situation and with grave worries at home. Yet the heart attack came when he was relaxed and enjoying life, not when he was worried.

There is a striking similarity here between Eisenhower's present plight and Roosevelt's death. Roosevelt kept going during the tough war years; but when victory was only days away he was smitten.

Is it possible that there is something else that the doctors do not know about heart attacks, that there is something about release from tension which is dangerous?

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eggleton have left their home at Holmfield, Manitoba, after visiting their niece, Mrs. L. Phillips, Gordon Street.

Mrs. J. Leal of Bonarlaw, Is visiting her sister, Mrs. James Bateman, North Front Street.

Louie, the loon, has not yet decided to leave for a warmer climate, although all its fellows have departed, according to the officials at the pump house on the Trent road. For several years the bird has returned to spend the summer hunting perch in the small lagoon in the bay opposite to the pumping station. It is never molested and each year it becomes tamer. This year Louie has ventured nearer to the shore and has shown an inclination to make friends with employees at the plant. Fat and heavy after a season of plentiful feeding on fish and other small fish, the bird seems reluctant to spread its wings and test them in preliminary flights as it has done in previous years. It is hoped the bird will get away soon, as the pumping house boys would like to welcome Louie back again next season.

Do Not Panic if You Get Lost in the Woods

Your imagination can kill you if you miss your way in the bush, unless you sit down, relax and say to yourself: "Getting lost isn't funny, but it need not be fatal!"

So says CANADA, bi-monthly magazine of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, in an article in its current issue on one of the most frightening hazards of the out-of-doors, particularly during the hunting season when the adult reaction to being lost differ widely, too, SYLVA finds, and observes:

"A lost child is so pathetic; neither ice cream, candy nor policemen turning somersaults will bring a smile to the tear-streaked face of a tiny tot waiting for 'Mummy'. Every circus, every exhibition, every parade has its quota of strays.

"What youngsters feel when 'lost' is always tempered by the knowledge that 'Mom' and 'Dad' have never failed them—and always materializes out of the dark-ness after a few minutes of fright. Thus their fears do not take over their reason completely; there is always a hope.

"Grown-ups, however, because they have not been so accustomed to others, take being 'lost' much more seriously. Some remain for lasting scars and some will not venture into the bush again, even in summer.

"To fear that one will get lost rob one of the feeling of freedom when 'roughing it' on vacation trips. Other trips for which they are not fitted — and get 'lost' with sad results.

"To get lost is not extraordinary. Almost everyone who ventures in the bush gets 'mixed up' at times. One must be careful, of course; it's not funny. But there is one other point of return if you don't keep your head. Look for familiar landmarks.

"Before having camp, note the direction of all visible hills, valleys, lakes, rivers and roads. Check your map; if you have forgotten to your map; are they north, south, east or west? Then, on the return route, especially of changes in direction, using the sun and time of day as a guide. Don't be afraid to ask for assistance, if necessary, especially if you plan to return by some other route, blaze a few occasionally in such a way that the blaze will be visible from the way back.

"If you do get 'mixed up' in your direction, don't advance call yourself lost. Sit down, light your pipe, relax and think things over. Be methodical. Look for an old Bear's skin chief who missed his way and, when found, promptly announced that he was all right. 'Indian not lost — wigwam lost!' said Jawwhich, after all, was good psychology. It kept him from doubling and swerving himself to death.

"So, get out your compass and study your map. Go over your route as you remember it and try to reconstruct the course taken since you left a last known point. Almost at once, in most cases, you will note where you took a wrong turn — and in a few minutes will be back on your way.

"If you find you're still somewhat mixed up, calmly determine a plan of action and stick to it!—at least until you prove yourself wrong. If several people are together, stay together — even if they disagree. Decision does not satisfy one of the party — because there is always a certain amount of safety in numbers. Searchers will likely locate a party more readily than an individual.

"Compare any visible landmarks with those noted on your map; graphical map and, with your company, try to chart a route that will bring you back to camp or to a road, river, lake or railway line where the possibility of communicating with others will be improved.

"But remember that if you have been away from camp for long, search parties will already be looking for you. So stay close to your base. Build a small fire and keep the fire with damp leaves or grasses on a beach or safe place in a clearing, but don't let your fire get too big or hot that it becomes a forest fire, or you will be charged with careless use of fire, or property damage, dead or dead!

"Should you decide to move about, go straight north from your base camp if you have lost the northeast and straight back — and so on around the compass until you find your way to your camp number. But be sure to leave notes at your base camp, at intersection trails on streams and so forth, outlining your plans, so that searchers, whether you intend to return to any point at any-time, if you have no paper, pencil, etc., in the ground in prominent places, with information regarding the direction taken — or day stones from the base of a stake in the direction travelled. Blazes on trees will also help the search party.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What this generation lacks is gentlemen of leisure. We have nobody doing our reflecting for us any more.

Up until a few years ago, there were certain places you could always find gentlemen of leisure. The front of the general store, the railroad station, the local veranadahs were the likeliest spots.

All the best hotels had rows of those "lobby lizards" and "lounge room" chairs along their verandahs, and the gentlemen of leisure gathered to tilt the chairs back and relax, to gossip some and discuss it, decently and without urgency. The front of stores had either verandahs, benches, benches or boxes of as yet unopened merchandise, on which to be a gentlemen of leisure assemble. The railroad stations had trucks, cars, borrows and pieces of freight, and the more enterprising of them actually had commodious outdoor benches

For the wealthier gentlemen of leisure, there were clubs where a man could loaf all afternoon, giving his mind the time and mood for cogitation and debate with his fellows.

Today, nobody meets trains anymore, except to meet somebody in particular. Store fronts, even in the country, offer no place to sit. If there isn't a gas pump in front, trucks and cars drive right up and right up against the window ledge. In the small hotels, the lobbies that formerly contained lounges but chairs and spittoons now harbor pinball machines, juke boxes and coke dispensers. And the big hotels are so noisy, and so chilled by cold-eyed bellhops, that a true gentleman of leisure would hardly be at home there for more than an hour or two.

And in the clubs—designed for leisure—they have so many committees, charged with so many good causes and noble enterprises, that a man doesn't dare lay back and take it easy while he reads. One of the committees would nail him.

Leisure is at an end.

AGE

Age is what all hope to reach,
Wished for loved one and for friend;
Theme of many a gracious speech
As man nears the journey's end.

Still, when it has come; it's said,
Age is timid; youth is bold;
For the tasks that lie ahead,
Pass him by, for he's too old.

I would say a word for Age.
Wisdom often it supplies,
Makes of many a man a sage,
Puts a twinkle in the eyes.
This the wish from yea to year,

Though to friends it's never told:
May you live until you hear,
"Step aside. You're much too old."

Age is not of counted years,
Nor the hair that's turning gray.
If the spirit young appears
Youthful heart and mind will stay.

Time may weary them with strife,
But for friends this thought I hold:
For the tasks and joys of life
May they never be too old.

Bearskins vs. Coon Caps

(St. Catharines Standard)

What ho! The parading of a Scots Guardsman in full uniform at Niagara Falls, Canada—a publicity stunt by the British Travel Association seems to have touched off a row in the Canadian Old Country. It really isn't done, old boy.

When Major Alastair Ritchie appeared on American television, with Niagara Falls and the New York night club, he attracted a lot of attention from curious Americans. But when reports of his antics reached London the Establishment was not pleased. The Canadian Mounted Police are a constant source of irritation to the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa. Moreover, pictures of these resplendent specimens of the human race used repeatedly in advertising and publicity both on national and commercial levels.

With the American tendency for a fad to die quickly, Major Ritchie would not be surprising if in the near future Sergeant Major Ritchie's visit, all the little urchins on the streets of United States cities were to stroll about, bugle tradel their Davy Crockett coonskins in for the Scots Guards bearskins.

In fact if British businessmen want to boost their lagging trade with the United States they might go into export of "genuine Scots Guards uniforms, junior size." The theme also could be used in the field of women's fashions, with variations of the bearskin theme for Monday's hats, and Scots Guard tartan kilts for street wear.

Scots Guards dirks and skien dhu's might also help the cutlery export trade, and even the United States police forces had to consider the arsenal immediately after sale.

But the real gimmicks should be the writing of a hit song expounding upon the exploits of the Scots Guardsmen, along the barrackroom ballad type of thing, expounding upon what was done by some sergeant-major, who, in the sergeant-major, is always good. Then would try for a tune other than that of Davy Crockett.

Records could be sold by the million, and in almost every parent in the United States crazy, foreign-sounding, bug eyed performing rights, this should balance the British national budget, and drive every American abroad for relief.

The only danger in this entire campaign is that Major Ritchie might be sadly influenced by American fads and return to his regiment wearing a Davy-type coonskin hat. Any such exchange of styles might be good for interregimental rivalry, if not for London blood pressures.

Heroes Stay Behind Lines

(London Free Press)

Lieutant - Colonel Sir Ernest Down, director of exercises for the United States army, reports that certain field tests have shown that the safest place to be in military action is behind the lines. Of course! It used to be the king on his white charger, who rallied his troops in the army and became a shining hero. "Follow me!" he said, and the peasantry advanced.

If you want to be a hero now you stay behind the lines and tell your men "forward!" where they will go, in fact, be mowed, blasted to lines in mortal danger from a bomb. It shows what science has done for you. You'd hardly know the sun!

Home Is The Place To Have A Baby

All six of our children, writes an American woman of the sort at this heartening is best from, were born in a Nursing Home instead of a hospital — Mrs. ..... 's nursing home She never has more than three or four guests at a time. She tells mothers tales case of their babies and she encourages them to nurse their babies. She is not only a fine woman, she is a good teaching. She had a whole filing cabinet filled with them . . . (Mrs. S. H.)

There's a field of endeavor waiting for thousands and thousands of women throughout the country, especially the backward cities where people without homes fit to have a baby in, have no alternative but to go to a nineteenth century hospital and submit to all the quaint "regulations" imposed upon the customers by old-fashioned lying-in institutions. How kind the kind where newborn infants are crowded together in the show window where there is a much better chance that fatal infantile diarrhea or other infection may be transferred from one to the others by non-immune visitors and nurse. The place for a new-born infant is in mother's arms or at her side, and the infant is happier and safer if mother takes care of her own

While I think this woman was fortunate in having her babies in a nursing home rather than a hospital, still I wonder why she didn't have them at home. Home is the best and safest place to have a baby — and, please, Yank Wisecracs, spare me that hackneyed argument about all the equipment for emergencies.

There are some feeble arguments against having a baby at home, even though your home is safer than any hospital can be. Some multiparae (bold it, the word means women who have borne more than one child) declare that going to the hospital for a week or two for childbirth is the only time they ever get a good rest . . . and I, even I, do not choose to argue with them about the need to rearrange their living habits.

A more compulsive factor of home hospitalization for childbirth is the refusal of many doctors to attend confinement unless the expectant mother goes to the hospital. This behavior is motivated, I believe, by the inherent dishonesty. The doctor can get away with all, even a bit of improper treatment, neglect and downright malpractice if the patient is isolated in a nineteenth century hospital, whereas if the patient is in her own home the doctor has to be-

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NO NEED OF LASH

A father once gave his son a colt the day the animal was born and made the boy responsible from that time on for its care. The boy trained the growing colt so carefully that it really never had to be broken. Colt and man grew up together, and the boy found that the animal was quick to respond to a log or makeshift raft.

The farmer had only the matches in your waterproof case only to ignite warming fires. Use dry fire wood. Remember, you have caught a fish or animal. Conserve your strength. Avoid accidents. Only in keep this thought constantly in mind that you have caught a fish or animal. Conserve your strength. Avoid accidents. Only in the bush you have only yourself to fear; no animal in our north woods will attack you.

"To spend a night in the open, even without blankets, with only a no undue hardship during much of the year, so long as you make some provision for a fire. Gather a small lean-to of brush to keep from getting chilled. Your fire will most likely be located in a reasonable time. Don't worry about searchers or will find your way out yourself — if you use your map, your compass and your head.

"These are but a few of the many precautions that you should loot recommended by experienced woods travellers. The main thing is never give in to panic and run blindly about. The basic travel is the one who uses his head.

THE LITTLE WANT ADS

A newspaper without its Little Want Ads would be narrowed soul. From time to times I had a lot of fun going through a junk shop on Hudson Street, New York, where I purchased many an odd item for my newspaper collection. I was in search of the kind of antique that would be of interest to my readers. Many times I would find a piece of furniture that I knew had been used by Horace Greeley. Then I would get a chance to buy a pen that I knew had been used by Greeley. "Press it with an anchor." Well, that is how flexible and varied are the Little Want Ads in an up and coming newspaper. It's a regular trading post for almost everything under the Sun!

The latest and biggest drive-I theatre is situated near Hartford, Conn. It has capacity for 2,500 cars and can play to 5,500 people, estimating two and a half to a car. There is a cafeteria, a carnival, free rides for children, and the drive-in has its own traffic light. It cost $500,000 to build.

Next we'll be hearing of drive-in theatres with shopping centres, banks and indoor theatres for those who can't stand drive-ins.

Prior to marriage Miss Bateman was honored by her Toronto friends and associates in the nursing profession at a kitchen and miscellaneous shower. On Saturday, September 17, Mrs. W. E. Bateman hosted a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter.

BOLDRICK—BRIDGER

A quiet but pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at Hollowday Street United church parsonage at 1.00 p.m., on Saturday, September 24, when Olga Bridger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bridger, Kingston, was united in holy matrimony to John Earle Milson Boldrick, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick, Plainfield. The Rev. S. E. Larman officiated.

The bride wore a charcoal grey suit with red accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Miss Benie Brady, the bride's only attendant, was dressed in a light blue suit with red accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Clifford Hart was the best man.

The couple left on a honeymoon to Algonquin Park, after which they will reside at Plainfield.

Fashion Flash

ONE RESULT of the Dovy Crockett fad is the emergence of good, old-fashioned coonskin as a deluxe fur. One of America's finest milliners does a "slouch" hat of natural raccoon and lines it with matching brown suede. The hat casts a flattering shadow on the face and comes with its own coonskin stole.

Convent Walls Again Close On Marie Dionne

QUEBEC (CP)—The walls of a cloistered convent have closed for the second time around Marie Dionne, one of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets.

The frail quints, who left the convent of La Congregation de Sevants du Tres St. Sacrement to May, 1954, returned there secretly Sept. 12 to pick up the threads of her monastic life, it was learned Wednesday.

Authorities at the convent would say only that she had returned and would take up where she left off as a novice again. No reason was given for her coming back.

FOR HEALTH REASONS

When Marie, 21, left last year her family said it was because of ill health. She went to her home in Callander, Ont., and the possibility of her return was mentioned.

However, the death last summer of her sister Emilie at a religious home in Ste. Agathe, Que., disrupted the Dionne family's life and Marie remained at home.

Marie originally entered the yelow-stone convent Nov. 3, 1953 and but prior to her departure was elevated from the rank of postulant to that of novice. At that time she was given the name of Sister Marie-Rachel.

Marie must remain a novice for two years if she is to be received permanently into the order.

CAN PRONOUNCE VOWS

Only then will she pronounce vows of poverty, obedience and chastity. She will be required to pronounce them annually for three years. Thereafter Marie may take her perpetual vows, that is, renounce the world and become a member of the order for the rest of her life.

The congregation is a religious order for women founded in 1856 by blessed Pierre Julien Eymard who was noted for his devotion to the Holy Host.

Members of the order each spend two hours—one during the night—kneeling in the chapel before a gold monstance containing a consecrated Host. The nuns pray in a sanctuary hidden from the public section of their church, Mount Thabor, in a whitewashed building.

RAISED PUBLICLY

Mount Thabor, a large, greystone temple adjoining the monastery, was built in 1953 from funds raised in a public campaign.

The temple was dedicated to the memory of Canadian soldiers who died in two world wars. With the nuns replacing each other hourly in the sanctuary, adoration of the Host goes on 24 hours a day.

While silence is the rule, nuns have recreation periods during which they may speak. One of their tasks is to make wafers for the Roman Catholic cloches and to fashion clerical vestments.

Princess Royal Delayed Day By Bad Weather

QUEBEC (CP) — The Princess Royal, aunt of Queen Elizabeth, arrived here today more than a day behind schedule, for a month-long visit to Canada.

Princess Mary is aboard the liner Empress of France which is expected to dock at Wolfe's Cove at noon. The ship was delayed a day by bad weather during the transatlantic crossing.

The 58-year-old sister of the late King George VI will be greeted at the dock by Governor-General Massey, her host at the Citadel for her three-day visit here. After inspecting a military guard of honor, her only official function of the day will be a dinner in her honor given by Mr. Massey.

She is scheduled to visit Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Kingston, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria before returning to England Oct. 1.

Harmony Club Honors Pupils

On Wednesday night, the Harmony Studio Club met at the home of Mrs. Emily Veley, 11 Holloway Street.

The meeting took the form of a party for the pupils attaining the highest marks in their respective grades of music. Mrs. C. Scott, as chairman, welcomed the pupils and parents, who were guests for the evening.

Various games were played under the leadership of Mrs. Mangold, Miss Lois Bradshaw and Mrs. Scott.

During the evening Mrs. Veley spoke briefly on the life of Sergi Jamin Britten after which a section of his composition "The Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra" was played.

The pupils who received cards of congratulations from Mrs. Veley were as follows: piano—grade one, Judy Oliver; grade two, Patricia Shorey and Patricia Carter; tie; grade three, Marina Bongard; grade four, Doreen Rush; grade five, Lois Bailey; grade six, Eileen Hancock; Theory—grade one, Eileen Hancock; grade two, Irma Embury.

Mrs. Scott, on behalf of the Harmony Studio Club, presented Irma Embury with the special grade eight award card for successfully passing with honors grade eight piano and grade two theory.

A special congratulation cake was cut by Miss Embury and served with refreshments.

Autumn Duet

By TRACY ADRIAN

An autumn duet of belong-togethers is a grand choice for country dwellers and the campus group. Designed to give plenty of service as an ensemble, the two different items may be mix-matched to make a variety of different outfits.

As pictured there is a straight skirt in dark grey tweed flecked with white, orange and black. Over it is worn a bulky little jacket with a flared collar in wool rib-knit.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHY DID YOU LET HIM SPEND SO MUCH?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

For many months now, I have been going with a fellow with whom I am very much in love.

Whenever we went out, he always spent a lot of money on me, and even went into debt to buy an expensive car to please me. I found out that he sold practically everything he owned to take me out.

Now he has very little money, and nothing left to sell, so he says he doesn't want to take me out any more because he has nothing to offer me. When I tell him that I want him for what he is, and not for what he can offer me, he won't listen.

What can I do? R.S

Dear R.S.

Don't you think it's a little bit late to be asking, only now, what you can do? It seems to me the time to have put some thought into this was before your boy friend got so reckless.

Of course I realize the possibility that you might not have been aware of what he was doing. Still, I should think that when you saw him spending money so freely, even buying him an expensive car, you would have wondered about his apparent wealth, tactfully of course, but you could really afford to spend so much, and considerate enough to have suggested things you could do on dates that wouldn't cost much.

By letting him be so extravagant, you allowed him to get a pattern for entertaining that he now feels it impossible to break by cutting down on expenses. So rather than break up the pattern, he prefers to break up with you.

Frankly, I feel that you are at least partially responsible for the situation, for you must have known that few boys, unless they come into wealth suddenly, have so much money to spend as this one seems to have. You must also have known whether or not he had this kind of family, and if you knew he didn't, it was up to you to see that his dates with you were for more than he could comfortably afford. This would have shown him better than anything else, in time to have averted the break-up, perhaps, that you wanted him for what he is and not for what he can offer you.

Of course you can't dodge the possibility that he may now have lost interest in you, and want to start all over with another girl on a less expensive basis. And since you say you have made your attitudes toward him clear, so that he fully realizes it's his friendship you want, not his money, the next move is plainly up to him.

You might make one more try to find out just what his attitude is toward you by inviting him over to your house for an evening, just to watch television or something of the sort. Or think up some other way of spending an evening that would make no demands on his pocketbook.

If he accepts the invitation, you'll know he sincerely wants to keep your friendship. If he doesn't, then I'm afraid you'll have to realize that either his interest has waned, or he has too much false pride to reorganize his dating pattern on a lower level. In either case, the move should be his.

And don't sit around doing nothing but wait. That won't help make one, either. Go out with other friends, and have just as many active interests as you can. That way, you'll never find yourself at a loss for friends or fun.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

GOOD HEALTH FAYS BEAUTY DIVIDENS

"Beauty, but skin deep" as described by the late Phillip Stamen Bailey, has come to mean so many things over the years that most persons unconsciously misquote the phrase. And rightly so, for one hears that "beauty is only skin deep."

Quoted correctly or incorrectly, however, the fact is that beauty is far more than skin deep. It comes from deep within—from a healthy body and a healthy mind. And, without these, one's looks can be neither radiant nor compelling.

Take care of your health, "and whether you're a classic beauty or not, your appearance will be a vastly improved that you—and others—will scarcely be aware that you as being truly beautiful.

Diet is important to good health, of course. And you've probably read the requirements for a well balanced one many times. But there are other factors which you probably rarely consider in relation to health. Your disposition, for instance. If you are tranquil, serene and tolerant of your fellow creatures you will remain far more youthful in appearance than if you go through life with a constant chip of your shoulder, with temper tantrums, emotional upheavals, suspiciousness and intolerance etch lines in the face that cause could never do.

Contentment is important, too. Don't strive after the impossible for, after all, mere "things" cannot bring happiness. And it's happiness that gives radiance to the complexion and sparkle to the eyes. Everyone has troubles, of course. But learn to bear them philosophically. Rebellion and frustration also leave their marks and detract from youthful appearance.

Rest and relaxation and, yes, fun, too, are necessary if one would look as well as possible. Don't ever be "too busy" to take time out for fun. Hobbies, recreation and healthy pastimes are the greatest tonic in the world. If you become depressed at times, as most of us do, don't sit and brood. Make yourself get outdoors. Take a brisk walk, do some window-shopping, go to a movie or have a gabfest with someone you like. You'll get a better perspective on life—and look better for it. All of these things come under the heading of mental health. Combine them with good care of your body and you can stay young and beautiful for as long as you want. And that's forever, isn't it?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HOURS OF PARTY SUGGEST PARTY-FARE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our plan for our housewarming is to invite approximately four guests, and to serve only small sandwiches and hors d'oeuvres, with a choice of two kinds of cocktails and a choice of high-balls. It would be most inconvenient and awkward for us to serve a buffet supper—and of course more expensive. Do you think we should give our party from 5 to 7 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, or would 5 to 9, or 7 to 9 be more appropriate? — S.

The customary hours for a housewarming to be given on Sunday afternoon are 4 to 7 or 5 to 7. During these hours it would be appropriate for you to serve the foods and beverages you are planning to serve. For the 5 to 9 hours, and certainly for the 7 to 9 hours, your guests would probably expect to be served a buffet supper . . . which is just what you don't want them to expect.

CORRECT FORM FOR FORMAL CHURCH WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please publish in your column the correct form for the customary invitation to the church ceremony?

2. One engraver I consulted insisted that today "honour" is spelled "honor." True?

3. Another engraver said that today very few year is included, in a wedding invitation. I have never heard of this. True?

1. This is the usual form:
Mr. and Mrs. John Peter Ames request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Patricia to
Mr. Philip Worthington
on Tuesday, the 21st of November at four o'clock
Centre Church
Haven, New York

2. Not . . . not true. The word "honour" is spelled like this in wedding invitations and announcements. Please insist on this.

3. Very, very seldom is the year mentioned in a wedding invitation . . . although of course it is a must

NO DOUBT your children have found extra - special weeks, shall we, during the summer. They'll want to take their prize collections to school, and a good way to carry and show the assorted items is in an egg carton. Each treasure can have its own nest.

on the wedding announcements.

WHEN TO MAIL FORMAL WEDDING INVITATIONS?

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

1 How long before the date of my formal wedding should I send out the invitations?

2 Is it true that I should not send a formal announcement of the wedding to anyone who was invited to the wedding? If this is true, does it apply even if the person invited could not attend the wedding?

3 When should the formal announcements be mailed? — BB

1 Today formal wedding invitations should be mailed four weeks before the wedding date. This applies, also, to those for formal weddings generally take place during socially-busy seasons, and this long notice gives the guests time to make their plans. Also (many brides have found out) this time-schedule gives a chance to mail invitations, even though somewhat later, to friends or acquaintances who may not have been "remembered" in the four-weeks-ahead list.

2. Yes . . . it is true that an announcement is not sent to anyone who was invited to the wedding. And yes, this rule does apply even if the person invited could not attend the wedding.

3. The formal announcements of the marriage should be all ready . . . engraved, addressed, stamped . . . to be mailed immediately after the marriage has taken place. Or as soon as possible afterward. If possible, plan is to mail the announcements so that they may be delivered locally the day after the marriage has taken place.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY MIGHT BE DOUBLE THE FUN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We would like to have a birthday party together. Would this be proper?

2. We know the same people. What is the proper way for us to send invitations to a "double" birthday party? That is, should each send her invitations individually, or should they be sent together? — S.

1. It's proper, of course, if this is what you both want . and it can be a most happy and joyous occasion. Might be twice the fun of a single birthday party! Particularly, as you say in your second question, you have the same friends.

2. Since your idea is to have a double birthday party, and since you have the same friends, I should think it would be logical to send the invitations together. For example, the one with the more attractive handwriting might write (as you say) "Nancy and I have the same birthday, and we thought it would be fun to celebrate it together this year. So the Nancy-and-Sally birthday party will be at my house on Saturday, November 5th, buffet supper at 7 o'clock, and we hope the party will be fun. Please tell us you'll be with us, to share your birthday cake yet?

Dearest love to you from both of us Devotedly,

Sally

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . our problem right now is the scalloped potatoes for the banquet and I wondered if you could get a recipe for 50 to 100 that would multiply and follow. . . . It seems that everybody has their own way of making scalloped potatoes and I'm a little afraid of the outcome if we mix it up.—B. D.

ANSWER:

I will give you two recipes—each one serves 50 people. I would recommend that two of your most energetic lieutenants divide each recipe by four and made up this quarter-batch and serve it to sash-other's families, so that all taste both, then make your decision about which one you will make up for the big banquet. This experiment will serve another purpose too—pansizes and length of preparation time, and exact weight of pared potatoes.

SCALLOPED POTATOES
(For 50 people)

Scrive and 1-3 pounds potatoes, 3 tablespoons salt, 16 cups medium White Sauce (see below), 1 cup grated or ground onion, 2 cups buttered cracker or breadcrumbs; two baking pans 20x12x2 1-4 inches. Wash, thinly pare and thinly slice potatoes. Place in pans and sprinkle with salt. Add onion in hot White Sauce; pour over potatoes. Bake 1 hour in oven of 350 deg. Fahr., then cover with buttered crumbs and continue baking 1 hour longer.

SCALLOPED POTATOES NO. 2
(For 50 people)

Fat, 1-4 cups, flour 1 7-8 cups, milk, 17 1-2 cups, salt 3 1-3 tablespoons, 15 lbs. potatoes, melted butter 4 tablespoons. Using first four ingredients prepare a cream sauce. Wash pare and weigh potatoes. Slice thin. Arrange alternate layers of sliced potatoes and cream sauce in greased baking pans, having cream sauce on bottom and top. Pour melted butter evenly over surface. Bake at 325 or 350 deg. Fahr. until potatoes are tender and surface is browned—about 1 1-2 hours.

NOTE:

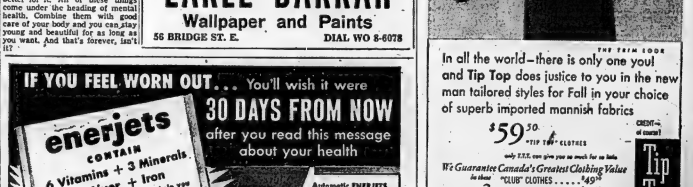
You will notice that the potatoes differ in weight in these recipes, the second one calling for 15 lbs. after paring; the first 12 1-2 lbs. before paring. In the second recipe baking time is shorter. You will have to take your choice. The first recipe with crumbs on top will stay hot longer when it comes to serving.

MEDIUM WHITE SAUCE

For 16 cups 1 1-2 to 2 cups hot melted butter or other fat, 2 cups flour, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 16 cups milk, scalded. Mix flour, salt and pepper with melted butter. Slowly stir in preheated milk until thick. If more than this amount of white sauce is made at one time add about 1-4 of the milk to the fat-flour mixture and stir until smooth. Add this mixture to the rest of the milk.

With your careful planning I know this big project will be a success.

NOTE TO READERS:



As you see these recipes are long and I would be grateful if convenient of big groups would clip the above.

Politicians Will Freeze Out Bathing Belles

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The fun and games of a Kentish holiday hotel will be muted in mid-October. The politicians are freezing out the bathing belles.

Here's the background:

Britain's Labor party goes to Margate Oct. 10-14 for its 54th annual conference. Ordinarily, no upheaval is involved, but this time things are different because the seaside resort now dances to the tune of Billy Butlin, the affable holiday-camp king.

Butlin, once a Canadian Army drummer boy and department-store employee in Toronto, purchased four Margate hotels last March and transformed them in the usual Butlin style, installing cheerful young hostesses and organizing various entertainments.

The hitch is that one hotel, the St. George's, is traditionally conference headquarters. It quickly became apparent that Butlin's hospitality-to-the-hilt techniques might need some revamping.

TELEPHONES LACKING

For one thing—although nobody knows exactly why—Butlin hotels lack telephones. Indispensable to politicians and newspaper men alike. For another, delegates would hardly want to be badgered into playing billiards when they should be writing speeches.

Something of the special Butlin atmosphere can be gleaned from a typical day's program. First item, says the entertainment manager, is "fun and games," usually outdoor ball games. Then comes the morning competitions, such as billiards and table tennis, followed by a "ramble" or hike. The afternoon brings more competitions, involving among other things the crowning of a "most glamorous grandmother." Dancing, panel games and assorted sports round out the fun.

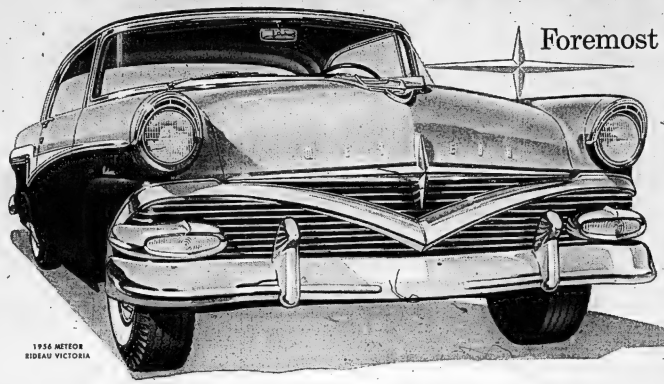
Butlin officials kept saying the program is not compulsory, but it was finally decided to make some "adjustments." So telephones have been installed in all rooms, and the hotel will be closed to the general, fun-loving public for the period of the conference.

"We're taking the conference very seriously," said the entertainment manager, brushing aside a reporter's plea for some human-interest angles.

ACCENT FROM TORONTO

Butlin, born in South Africa, lived in Toronto years ago and still has a Canadian accent. He has five holiday camps in Britain, one in Ireland and hotels run on similar lines in Blackpool, Brighton and Margate. He has made millions out of the camps—his own pet idea—and has seen them become a British institution. It now is something of a cliche for a courie to say they first met at a Butlin camp.

A special feature are the glamorous hostesses, determined young things in red blazers and white skirts whose job is to make sure every guest enjoys every minute of his stay. Fleet street particularly likes the tale of the reporter who was sitting in a hotel lounge trying to do a story for his paper when a hostess came along, forcing him ultimately to flee to his room to complete the yarn.



1812 SKULLS FOUND

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Two skulls and a number of bones were unearthed Wednesday by a power shovel excavating for a new gasoline station. They are believed to be remains of soldiers quartered here to repel possible British invasion during the War of 1812.

Smelter Workers Lose First Bid to Regain Foothold In North Gold Mining Camp

TIMMINS (CP)—The Communist-dominated International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (ind.) has lost in its first bid to regain a foothold in the Pierced pine gold mining camp of northern Ontario.

The union was turned back Thursday when the Ontario labor board denied its application for certification at Aunor Gold Mines Ltd., near here. The board said the union "deliberately falsified" documents it submitted with its request to represent 252 Aunor miners.

The Mine-Mill union, banished from the Canadian Congress of Communist domination, is seeking Labor six years ago because of to wrest control of the district from the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL). It wants a government-supervised election to decide which would be bargaining agent for the Aunor miners.

RULED INVALID

Four signatures on the request were ruled invalid by the board. It said three miners received "loans" from Mine-Mill organizers to pay the $8 required to join the union and the fourth never paid anything.

After hearing eight witnesses, chairman Jacob Finkelman of Toronto said the labor board upheld the Steelworkers' contention the signatures were "a barefaced fraud designed to deceive the board."

Four Aunor miners, Rene Marion, Rene Majeau, Clement Gosselin and Arthur Chibelos, said fellow miner Leonard Michaud lent them money to sign the Mine-Mill cards. Michaud later gave them "receipts" for the "payments" when a labor board inspector visited the district, the witnesses said.

NOT RESPONSIBLE

Michaud, who with Kitchener Bannazyne, international director of the union, failed to organize the workers, testified he was not responsible for the receipts. Two of the witnesses received "loans," he said.

Another Mine - Mill organizer, Harry Rackett, told the board he thought all cards were paid up. Bannazyne, admitting he was with Michaud when the loans were transacted, pleaded ignorance, but later said Michaud made loans in his presence.

John Osler of Toronto, Steelworkers counsel, said the entire application was a fraud that could not have been spotted.

"The previous organizing experience of these men makes it plain that the signatures were designed to make fraudulent use of the powers of this board," Osler said.

David Archer of Toronto, union representative on the board, charged the four signatures were illegally obtained to push the Mine-Mill list over the 45-per-cent mark required for certification.

William Kennedy, Canadian vice-president of Mine-Mill, said his union did not intend to deceive the board. The miners were to repay the loans.

Mr. Finkelman reminded the Mine-Mill officers that he penalized the union last year for a similar offence. The group then was attempting to organize the Upper Canada mine at Kirkland Lake. The union lost its grip in the Porcupine camp in 1949 and 1950.

Peron Supporters Back Down In Face of Threat

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Well-armed labor supporters of ousted Argentine president Juan D. Peron backed down Thursday night in the face of a grim police threat to blast them from their headquarters.

A possibly serious clash was averted at a building housing a city employes' labor organization, one of three raided by soldiers and police in a search for arms.

About 100 armed union members at first defied a surrender ultimatum but gave up five minutes before tanks were to begin shelling the building.

Other groups raided Thursday night were the railroad workers and bank employees.

Labor organizations, banded together in the big General Confederation of Labor (CGT), provided a major source of power during Peron's regime.

Officials of provisional President Eduardo Lonardi's new government meanwhile disclosed new information designed to show that the Peron government was shot through with corruption. Newspaper reports said "official circles" have made known "new sensational revelations on the fabulous business conducted by the men of the deposed regime."

These disclosures included reports of a big shipment of gold to Switzerland by members of the former government and shakedown of national lottery agents during the 1954 electoral election campaign.

Foreign Minister Mario Amadeo told a press conference that Peron was still on a Paraguayan gunboat anchored in the outer harbor of Buenos Aires, spiking a spate of rumors that the fallen strong man had left the vessel.

KILLED CAT, FINED

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Lorne Downey, 42, was fined $63 Thursday for hammering a half-grown cat to death. Downey told the court he suffers from hay fever and is allergic to cats. He said the cat strayed into his home and seemed to be in pain.

Heart Specialist Praises Action Taken by Doctor

BOSTON (AP)—To have moved President Eisenhower to a hospital too soon after his heart attack might have killed him, Dr. Paul D. White said Thursday.

The internationally famed heart specialist, flown to Denver last Sunday for consultation with the president's physicians, told a press conference in his office:

"I have seen death come on a number of occasions to patients who were moved too soon after the onset of their acute thrombosis; they succumbed sometimes before reaching the hospital.

"Of course, they might have succumbed anyway no matter whether they were moved or not, but this is often an added strain at the height of the painful reaction."

DOCTORS WONDERED

Eisenhower suffered his heart attack at 2:45 a.m. MST last Saturday. Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician, administered morphine and the president slept until 11 a.m. An electrocardiogram was taken at 1 p.m. Some physicians wondered at the delay.

Dr. White endorsed Dr. Snyder's conduct regarding the electrocardiogram, the administration of drugs to the patient and the decision not to have the president go to the hospital on a stretcher.

"Any family doctor would do well to follow Gen. Snyder's procedure," he said.

Disposition of Fees Collected By Municipal Officials Is Matter Between City, Workers

TORONTO (CP) — A Queen's Park source said Thursday the disposition of fees collected by municipal officials is a matter of principle between the municipality and the employees.

He was commenting on a recent disclosure in Toronto that costs awarded the city in court actions were paid directly to the city solicitor and distributed among members of the legal staff for their personal use.

The government official, who declined to be quoted, said he thought most municipalities in Ontario allow their officials to keep fees collected in their departments.

He said salaries paid to treasurers, solicitors and clerks in smaller municipalities range from about $500 to $2,500.

The question of disposition of fees is decided in accordance with the wishes of the municipality and is usually taken into consideration when salaries of employees are being set or discussed with them, he said.

Toronto's problem of recovering court costs has never been considered satisfactory because of a legal department policy of paying all recovered fees and costs directly to the treasury department.

The board of control in Toronto has recommended that the Municipal Act be changed to permit municipalities to collect court costs directly instead of having them paid to members of the legal department.

The Municipal Act now permits courts to assign costs only to individuals and not to corporations.

In Sault Ste. Marie, the solicitor is paid an annual salary and any costs incurred by him in connection with a case are paid to him. Other costs assessed in court actions are retained by the municipality.

Costs in court actions in Galt go directly to the treasurer and only occasionally does the solicitor appear in court to prosecute infractions of city by-laws. He is paid an annual salary.

Woodstock's solicitor submits an account to council for each item of legal work requested by the city. He is not retained on salary.

Solicitors employed by the city and township of Oshawa are paid annual retainers by the two municipalities. The municipalities do not channel costs awarded to them in court actions directly to the solicitors.

The system here provides that the municipal share of fines and other court revenue is taken out first. The city and township then divide the remainder according to the volume of cases each has had.

Boy, 12, Rescues Mother, Sister Trapped by Fire

AURORA (CP)—Trapped by fire in an upstairs bedroom of her farm home near here Thursday night, Mrs. Robert Sturgess lowered her 12-year-old son from the window with knotted sheets. The boy ran to neighbors, called the fire brigade and returned with a ladder to rescue his mother and two-year-old sister.

Damage was estimated at $3,000. Mr. Sturgess is away on a fishing trip.

DOUBTS LEGEND

Mr. Greene said he feels there is treasure on this tiny blob of land a few miles off the south shore of Nova Scotia. But he's not convinced that it was left by the pirate Captain Kidd. It's more likely, he considers, that any treasure was buried on behalf of the tottering French government of two centuries ago.

He said pirates would not have had time to construct the ingenious well uncovered by previous

Pirate Swag on Nova Scotia Isle Hunted by Five Texas Oil Firms

OAK ISLAND, N. S. (CP)—Workers started moving a heavy oil rig to this tiny island today as a Texas petroleum engineer sought to determine whether Captain Kidd buried his swag here.

George Greene of Corpus Christi said five Texas oil companies hired him "to prove or disprove the legend, and if there's anything there we are going to find it."

If he does find anything—and a few odd pieces of what might be considered good indications have been found in the past—45 per cent will go to M. R. Chappell of Sydney, N. S., owner of the southern part of the island. The Nova Scotia government will collect five per cent and the rest belongs to the finders.

This is the sixth organized attempt to uncover the secret of Oak Island's so-called treasure trove, a well that flooded before previous searchers could reach the bottom.

Money received from court sources goes into the general fund of each municipality and officials say neither has any intention of changing the arrangement. City, township and provincial police cases are heard in one court.

In Kingston, costs collected by the city solicitor are allowed as a deduction from the solicitor and client bill rendered to city council by the solicitor for services in court proceedings."

The Kingston agreement with its solicitor says:

"The corporation . . . agrees that the solicitor shall be entitled to and may retain all costs, charges, fees and other sums to which he may be entitled to tax and recover from persons, firms or corporations having suits or litigation with the corporation, such costs so recovered to be deducted from the solicitor and client account rendered against the corporation."

Brantford pays its solicitor $5,000 a year and mileage and out-of-pocket expenses for trips on city business. From his fee, he pays his stenographers who handle legal documents involving city business.

IT'S TEMPORARY

MONTREAL (CP)—J. M. Bree, president and general manager of Canada Cement Company, said Thursday "the current cement shortage in Canada is temporary." In an interview he added that "the situation is by no means critical." He was commenting on reports from Toronto and western Canada that cement is difficult to obtain or practically unobtainable.

Prairie Farm Leaders to Give Views on Wheat

SASKATOON (CP)—Prairie agriculture leaders will prepare a brief to the federal government outlining their views on the wheat glut situation, it was decided at a conference here.

The Interprovincial Farm Union Council will meet, on a date yet to be set, with the agriculture ministers of the three prairie provinces to prepare the brief.

The IFUC conference was informed that federal Trade Minister Howe, has agreed to meet "at an early date" with the agriculture ministers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, representatives of the Canadian wheat board and other interested prties.

The two-day conference, which ended Wednesday, was attended by representativers of the Manitoba and Saskatchewan governments and by delegates from farm, municipal and business groups in the three prairie provinces.

OUTLINE STEPS

The conference's views on the grain-storage glut came in resolutions outlining steps calculated to maintain or increase the prices the farmer receives for his wheat. The motions agreed:

1. That if it becomes necessary to accept ower prices on the world wheat market to compete with other exporters, the decrease should be borne by the federal government;

2. That a two-price system for wheat—one for domestic sales, the other for sales outside Canada—might be necessary;

3. That the conference favors the principle of marketing wheat through international agreements;

4. That the Canadian government should assume the carrying charges on all grain in store at the end of each crop year;

5. That a "more positive" program for disposing of Canadian grain without price cutting be put into effect;

6. That the Income Tax Act be amended to provide for a rapid write-off of approved farm-storage facilities on a basis similar to that permitted elevator companies;

7. That the Canadian agricultural price support act be amended to include cereal grain; and

8. That the railway companies increase the number of box cars available for the amount of grain.

Sunday School Lesson:

World Into Which Jesus Came

By ROY L. SMITH

The great name — the overwhelming personage — of that world was Caesar Augustus, great nephew and adopted son of Julius Caesar who had so brilliantly administered the affairs of the Roman Empire that he was able to persuade the world that he was a man who had become God. Therefore altars and temples were erected to his honor and cowering servants and officials bowed their heads and worshipped him. It was a fabulous world of far-reaching roads that led off into the furthermost reaches of the civilized world, of relatless armies that trampled the little people of the earth into the dust, and of an economic system which governed for the sake of taxes and rested on a base composed of slavery and despotism.

AND GOD BECAME A MAN

One night, in an obscure little village in a small province lying at the outskirts of the Empire, a baby was born. It was not that the birth of a child was so unusual. Probably, on the same night, thousands of other babies were born, many also in obscure provinces. Other babies may have been born that night in Bethlehem, but the thing that made this birth so vastly significant was the fact that into a world which saw its rulers make himself a god, God, in the birth of the baby, had made himself a man.

As the story is told in the Gospel of Luke two strangely contrasting statements appear. One says that "a decree went out from Caesar Augustus," and the other was the announcement of the heavenly host that "to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord." As a great Christian preacher of a generation later phrased it, "God sent forth His Son" (Gal. 4:4). Between two sentences there could not have been a greater contrast.

NO ROOM IN THE INN

Perhaps the meanest sin of a small town consists of its willingness to be small. Bethlehem, for example, was so completely wrapped up in itself that fateful night, an obscure couple could arrive in the village, be desperately in need of shelter, and find no roof except that of a stable opened to them.

"Don't we have an inn?" some householders said, shrugging off all responsibility in the case. But the innkeeper was doing his best. His little establishment provided no more than limited accommodations at best, and the early arrivals had to be cared for first. He was a just man, and had a fine respect for priority.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 2: "Birth of Jesus," Luke 2:1-40.

It is so very easy to shoulder our responsibilities off onto the government, the social agencies, the public schools, and all manner of other official bodies. But there are some duties that are never merely official — some privileges that are outside the ordinary. Someone in Bethlehem with an empty room missed an opportunity that night to make themselves immortal by providing shelter for a lonely couple from the country!

REVELATIONS TO HUMBLE FOLK

The world into which Jesus came was not entirely unlike our own, was one in which the government filled all the sky. Roman coins bore the likenesses of the people; Roman orders governed even the strictest codes; no man was able anytime to elude the watchful eye of the Empire. But oddly enough, the great revelation of all the ages came that night to a little group of the humblest citizens in all the land — shepherds keeping watch over their flocks by night.

That government is the wisest which keeps closest to the common people whom God must love, as Abraham Lincoln said, because He made so many of them. And the historians say that the plain people, in every great crisis, have more nearly seen and recognized the truth, than the high and mighty in their thrones.

Soviet Union Orders Release Of 8,887 Germans

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union, keeping its promises to the West German government, is releasing 9,626 German war prisoners.

The Moscow press has published a decree of the praesidium of the Supreme Soviet ordering 8,887 of the prisoners freed outright. The other 749, because of the "special gravity" of their offences against the Russian people, would be handed over for further disposition to the East or West German governments, depending on their original residence.

Premier Bulganin told Chancellor Adenauer during their talks here earlier this month that Russia would release the prisoners. This was the principal condition Adenauer forced for opening diplomatic relations between Moscow and West Germany.

The West Germans claim the Russians have not accounted for 80,000 to 100,000 German prisoners, but Bulganin insisted that Soviet records showed only the 9,626.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Premier Frost of Ontario has described the federal offer of unemployment aid as unfair and has announced he intends to propose a flat treasury payment of 50 cents per capita annually to each province.

Prime Minister St. Laurent already has stated the federal plan is better, and cabinet informants now say there is no chance of the Frost plan being accepted.

With the federal stand on unemployment already pretty well set, the cabinet has devoted most of its time in Wednesday and Thursday meetings to preparing for dealings on the general question of fiscal arrangements to replace the five-year tax rental pacts that expire March 31, 1957.

Informants said Thursday the government will reject provincial demands for higher payments under the rental agreements and instead will offer an alternative formula that will involve the central government collecting income taxes for the provinces.

Generally, one cabinet source said, a majority of the provinces have indicated a disposition to sign along the lines of the federal offer, though waiting for the conference is the hope of getting a better proposition.

'Quite Violent, Vulgah, What?' Says Briton of World Series

The story of the second game of the world series that fellows was written for The Associated Press by J. S. Barker, a well known cricket writer in England and the British West Indies, and is strictly from the viewpoint of cricket.

By J. S. BARKER

NEW YORK (AP)—This ground (ball-park) Thursday reminded me forcibly of cricket's holy of holies, Lord's.

The world's best-known ball-club (baseball team), Brooklyn Dodgers were facing New York Yankees in the second game of what Brooklyn refers to as the "world serious."

To a cricketer, baseball is an uncouth compound of loud and vulgar noises and violence, players who insult each other and the umpires with vigorous impartiality, umpires who insult the players, and fans who insult everybody. But Thursday's game was as decorous—and pretty nearly as dull—as a meeting of the MCC selection board.

FIRST JOLLY OLD ENOCH

Mr. Junior Gilliam took first knock against pitcher (bowler) Tommy Byrne. Or rather, he tried to take first knock but missed three full pitches in succession. The next batsman, Mr. Peewee Reese, managed to hit one deep to mid-off, where he was neatly caught. A gentleman named Duke Snider promptly followed his example.

For the Yankees a Mr. Hank Bauer pulled a fast, inswinging full toss to deep square leg to score the first hit (i.e. base hit, i.e. one-quarter of a run). But Mr. Loes struck out the next batter and the catcher (wicket keeper) Campanella flashed the ball to second base where Mr. Bauer was ignominiously run out.

This is known locally as "a double play," and gets two men out with one ball. Before I had digested this oddity, a Mr. Irv Noren had been caught at mid-on, and the Yankees were out, the Dodgers were off the field, and the Yankees were out there wailing.

From the seventh onward a familiar sound was the hoarse—and pretty nearly as dull—as a meeting of the MCC selection board.

Series Sidelights

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN (AP) — Who's the big man on the New York Yankees?

Why, Yogi Berra, if you want to accept the opinion of Brooklyn shortstop Pee Wee Reese.

"He's the ball club," declared the Brook captain today. "He makes it. He's trying to beat you in a million ways and he does it, too.

"He even tries to talk you out of the ball game. I told him before yesterday's game: 'Don't open your big mouth to me, you little second-so. Just let me alone.'

"You get up to the plate and Yogi will say: 'Gee, it's kinda hard to see the ball today, ain't it?' He's trying to plant that idea in your head, so maybe you'll really think it's hard to see the ball."

Well, now, Prof. Stengel, would you care to comment on the possibility of the Yanks winning the series in four straight now that they've got a 2-0 lead?

"It's not over yet," replied the professor. "You can bet they won't call off the series now."

It didn't take long for plate umpire Lee Ballanfant to displease Brooklyn starter Billy Loes. On the second pitch to Yank leadoff man Hank Bauer, Loes began to glare at Ballanfant.

From that point until he was taken out in the big Yank fourth, Loes gave Ballanfant every kind of look imaginable.

Billy has erupted from time to time all season against the umpires so his annoyance at the calls was not exactly a surprise.

Rumors making the rounds in the press room: Ex-Giant manager Leo Durocher will be back in baseball before the start of next season and Dizzy Trevor, the old Brooklyn idol, will get the Pittsburgh managership.

Loes came up with one dubious record. He became the first pitcher in series history to hit two batters. First he got Yogi Berra, then Ed Robinson.

No one could remember the last time two lefties in a row whipped the Dodgers—mostly because the other National League clubs kept their southpaws away from Walt Alston's men.

"The whole trouble is we haven't faced enough lefthanders," complained Jackie Robinson.

The Brooks' veteran relief catcher, Dixie Howell, had an explanation for their miserable showing.

"We caught the Yanks hot," he said, "just when they were playing their best ball. We were like Carl, too, during the season. But our streak ended and so will theirs."

Before he was forced to retire, Hank Bauer amused himself kidding Dodger right fielder Carl Furillo, who has been complaining about a cold.

"Please stay out of right field," cracked Bauer, "You've got the place full of germs."

Carl Erskine, who set a series record by striking out 14 Yanks in the third game in the '53 series, has been pitching, which explains why he didn't get the No. 3 assignment.

Jockey Club Stands Pat On Ghost Nags

LONDON (CP)—Britain's Jockey Club blithely stood pat today on the question of overnight declarations, an old skeleton in the racing closet.

Indifferent to public clamor, the ruling body said in a statement Thursday that owners and trainers will still decide when to run their horses—even if it means a flock of surprise entries.

Under present rules horses can be declared runners up to 45 minutes before the race. The result is that some races are won by "ghost" horses whose names do not appear in the published entries.

The ruling follows a storm of protest in British papers, precipitated by a series of unexpected runners. Three of six races at Sandown Park last Sept. 10 were won by last-minute entries, and four surprise starters won last Saturday.

"Carl is not yet 100 per cent," said Alston. "So I know I can get only one game out of him. I can use others in the early games and have them come back later."

Most of the Brook regulars think Erskine has more stuff than any member of the pitching staff.

Casey Stengel's observation on the Mickey Mantle situation: "I guess I'll start him at shortstop—on our trip to Japan next month."

Bisons Nip Boston 3-1

WELLAND (CP)—Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League upset the National League Boston Bruins 3-1 in an exhibition game Thursday night.

Bisons, reinforced with Chicago Black Hawk players, shut out the Bruins until after the 16-minute mark of the last period when Lorne Ferguson scored. Al Dewsbury put Buffalo ahead 1-0 in the first period and Frank Sullivan added another goal in the second stanza.

Duff Scores Three for Leafs

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Rookie right winger Dick Duff scored three goals Thursday night as the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs walloped Cleveland Barons of the American League 7-0 in an exhibition game.

It was Leafs' third straight pre-season victory. They achieved it easily over the listless Cleveland team.

A crowd of 3,000 saw Leafs take a 2-0 lead in the first period and make it 7-0 by the end of the second. Right winger Ron Stewart scored twice for Leafs while utility forward Joe Klukay and left winger Ed Smith tallied singles.

Hec Lalande Signs With Black Hawks

WELLAND (CP)—Busy for the last two days with contract negotiations, general manager Tommy Ivan of Chicago Black Hawks said Thursday 11 players have signed. Forms have been signed by Glen Skov, Harry Watson, Hank Bassen, George Sullivan, Nick Mickoski, Frank Martin, Johnny Wilson, Alan Stanley, Gus Mortson, Hec Lalande and Hank Ciesla.

Lalande is from the Galt junior club. He has been one of the brightest rookies in camp. Ciesla, from the St. Catharines TeePees, was last season's Ontario Junior Hockey Association scoring champion.

ACQUIT THREE

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Three men were acquitted here Thursday on a charge of rape. They are George Johnston, 28, Delton Johnston, and Bill King, 24.

Pembroke Blanks Canadiens 2-0

PEMBROKE (CP) — Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association reinforced by six Canadiens players — Thursday night defeated Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League 2-0 in an exhibition game before 3,051 fans.

Montreal's Jacques Plante in the Pembroke nets handled 28 shots.

ASK GAS REDUCTION

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario fuel board Thursday approved lower natural gas rates for the metropolitan Toronto area. Consumers' Gas Co., which serves the area, applied for reduced rates Sept. 20. The reduction amounts to $550,000 and becomes effective Oct. 1 for a six-month period.

LOADING THE WAGONS!

There's a definite scent on "Sweets" in the Eastern senior "A" group if the manner in which the majority of the clubs are stacking their rosters with outside "help" can be judged a criterion.

It would appear that the exchequer-riddled clubs of last season have had a definite change of mind, unless some of these allegedly high-class players they have signed, or are going to sign, have agreed to work for comparative peanuts. Where is this cry of "cutting player costs" that accompanied the beat-jerking pleas of club managers after last season's marked "in-the-red" agony was completed?

The Kingston Goodyears, it appears, are determined to hang on to that provincial championship come Hades or high water. The fact that three or four of their star players of last season are reported to have toured in the towel is dimmed into insignificance with the reports of the new hired help.

The latest from Roddenville has it that the Goodies have signed Les Binkley, goalie, last year with the Galt Black Hawks; Junior "A" scrad; Mel Mlodzki, forward with the Ashibi senior "A" Eskimos; Duke Doran, formerly of this city; Bill Morris who wore a Cornwall Colt uniform last season; Art Clune, last season with St. Michael's College Majors and Marcie Pitt graduate Wall Hamilton. Add to this glittering array Georgs Samelenko, former Oshawan who played with Paisley in the Scottish League last year and ended up third top scorer, and Joe Levandoski, if he is successful in getting his "amateur" status cleared, and you have a fairly good idea of the power imported by the Goodies. At least they will have an imposing array from which to select the quartet allotment allowed by the Ontario "A" Association. Another question is, which are imports, and vice versa?

Magi maestro Klitch Stanford of the Brockville Magedomas is reported to have combed the Ottawa Valley, where the pickings are said to be good after the interment of the Quebec League and its cash and its some scintillating performers. Klitch has already published an array of stars and claims to have a trio of snipers under the table ready to sign once the reinforcement rules are cleared. Wonder if Bobby Wilson is one of Klitch's aces-in-the hole?

Up west 'o here, where the ebullient Wren Blair and his Whitby Dunlops are concentrating on the forthcoming season's activities, there is an ominous quiet. Blair announced a short time ago a snappy galaxy of stars and in the meantime has been scouring the countryside looking for potential Dunlops—and that guy doesn't settle for a worn-out veteran. He has mustered his squad with Bus Gagnon, Bobby Attersley, Fred Eicher and a number of last year's brilliant performers and you can bet your granny's store-window the Dunlop wont be found wanting for talent when they open the season against the TPT's here on October 28.

Nothing out of Cornwall but M'sieu Miron and Coach Frank Mario are not letting any alfalfa tickle their pinkies while the rest of the clubs are piling talent aboard the various band wagons. Cornwall is located in a district famous for hockey players and friend Ray has a large area from which he can draw. The Colts, too, should have access to the unemployed Quebec loop players, and don't be surprised if some high-class down-east names are included in the Colt's roster this season.

All of which behooves the TPT management to get "on its horse" and double its efforts for a much-needed goal-keeper and a defence ace. After all the schedule opens here on October 28 and unless the calendar lies, that is roughly four weeks away. Up to today the TPT's, despite their efforts have had any amount of talent for these players and some-thing will have to be done— and done smartly.

It seems to this department that the powers-that-be will have to be given a free hand to acquire the needed talent. With other clubs apparently paying what the players are said to be worth, the TPT's cannot be expected to secure high-class players for a lesser figure. We have always advocated a lessening of operating costs through cutting of player expenses, but that will not be done if other clubs are carrying out the same old "get-em-at-a-good price" routine!

We understand that there has been no noticeable inclination on the part of imports to work at a less figure than last year. In order to cut player expenses the move must be a general one, favored by all clubs. Maybe Cornwall, Whitby, Brockville and Kingston have secured their talent at a reduced rate. If so the slack has been taken up. The rest of the Intelligencer crew are holding out for 1954 prices.

The TPT management is holding a conclave with the Duncan twins this week-end but in the meantime "Time's awasting," and that opening date won't wait for any club. The big question still over aside is a goal-keeper and an average one will not fill the bill.

The fans of Belleville if expected to play 6-6 tempo on the new turnstiles—will want a club at least comparable with the other-teams of the group. Like those of any other season they won't sprain muscles going to the arena in the cause of a consistently losing squad. Experience has taught previous sponsors that fact.

QUEEN'S MEET McGILL

Still smarting over that shellacking at the hands of the Sarnia Imperials last Saturday, Queen's Golden Gaels are readying themselves with grim determination for the Intercollegiate football union opener at Richardson Stadium come Saturday. The McGill Redmen, who though not favored by their coach to grab titular honors, bid fair to become tough stepping stones to the remaining trio of aspirants. Coach Frank Tyndall is not taking any chances—and has been drilling the Tricolor relentlessly all week preparatory to Saturday's important tussle.

Still suffering from quarterback miseries, Tyndal feels he has sufficiently competent players to fill the breach created by the absence of Norm Dyson. The Redmen team is said to be much stronger than that which finished in the cellar last season, but they will make matters mighty interesting for the Gaels, Varsity and Western before the final whistle toots. Game gets under way at 2 p.m.

Fashions Superb Performance As Foemen Fail in Clutches; Cluster Hits, Runs in Fourth

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—Crafty old Casey Stengel led his high and mighty but crippled New York Yankees into Ebbets Field today poised and prepared to polish off the frustrated Brooklyn Dodgers in quick order.

Despite the disability of Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer, two of his leading guns, the grizzled manager was confident his American League champions would sweep the world series in four straight or, at worst, in five games. That means Casey doesn't expect the series to return to the stadium where the Yankees took the Dodgers into camp in the first two games.

The odds-makers apparently are in agreement with Stengel since they made the Yankees a prohibitive 5 to 2 favorite to win their 17th series and sixth straight against the Dodgers. Not since 1921 has a team, after losing the first two games, come back to win the title. That year the New York Giants did it, conquering the Yankees. But that was in best five-of-nine games series. Never has it been achieved since the present four-of-seven system was restored the following year.

GOT A BETTER ONE

"I know those fellows have a good club," Stengel said Thursday night, several hours after the Yankees had whipped the Dodgers 4-2 following their opening game 8-5 victory. "But we got a better one. I also know that two of my power guys will be missing—maybe for the rest of the series—but I've got some pretty good fellows on the bench, too.

"Playing in their park don't scare me none, either. It makes no difference to my guys. They won a couple of pennants for me on the road and if I remember right, they did all right in Brooklyn in other years."

Having turned back the winless Brooks with two lefthanders in the stadium, Stengel gave the third game assignment to Whitey Ford. Turley, the righthanded ace who never before has appeared in a series game.

Walter Alston, who gave his two top righthanders blasted off the hill on successive days, switched to a lefthander, Johnny Podres. By coincidence, today happens to be Podres' 23rd birthday. The young-ster made one world series appearance and yielded five runs in the first inning, during his only start for the Yankees in 1953.

HAS 80-50 RECORD

Podres finished the season with a 10-10 record but pitched his last complete game on June 14. He failed to finish his last 12 straight starts. Turley, the big man in the trade with the Boston Red Sox last winter, wound up with a 17-13 record during the regular season after a bad last start. He fanned 150 but walked 177. Largely because they won six from the Bums, the Dodgers have been made a slight 11-10 favorite to win their games.

The weatherman, exceedingly cooperative up to now, has forecast occasional showers in the morning, clearing during the early afternoon. The temperature was expected to remain in the 70's with winds up to 20-25 miles per hour.

Due to the small, seating capacity, a sellout crowd of some 34,000 was expected. Starting time is for the last out in the ninth.

TOMMY BYRNE
... Third Degree

noon EST.

The injury to Bauer forced Stengel to make a change in his lineup for today's game. Bob Cerv, who replaced Bauer Thursday, was the new starting centre fielder with Elston Howard in Bauer's place in right and Irv Noren in left. Against a lefthander, Bill Skowron replaced Joe Collins at first. Alston also made a change, starting Sandy Amoros in left and shifting Junior Gilliam to second base supplanting Don Zimmer because the Yanks started a righthander.

DURING DOUBLE PLAY

Bauer's injury came at the Dodgers completed a double play in the first inning. Roy Campanella had tossed him out at second as Gil McDougald fanned. Bauer, trying to evade the tag, pulled a muscle in his right thigh which forced his exit two innings later. Maudie still plagued by the same muscle in his right thigh, is not hopeful of seeing any action in this series, except perhaps in the role of a pinch hitter.

In contrast to Wednesday's defeat at the hands of Whitey Ford, Thursday's loss to Tommy Byrne left the Dodgers stunned.

They could understand losing to one lefthander but to be beaten by two southpaws in succession was more than they could take. It was something that hadn't happened all year.

To make matters worse, Byrne held their fearsome, righthanded power to five hits as he became the first lefthander to go the distance and beat them. It was more than a year, Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati did it at Ebbets Field on Sept. 30, 1954.

"We must be a lousy ball club," blurted out Carl Furillo, the Dodgers' most fiery competitor. As he realized the implication of his remark, he amended it by adding:

"Tomorrow's game will prove whether we're a good ball club or not. If we can come back and beat 'em, then we got it. If they beat us again, we're not a good club."

Byrne, the comeback man of the year, was magnificent. The 28-year-old Hannibal native now makes his home in Wake Forest, N.C., famed also for being the courageous Duke Snider with a man on base in the eighth and Jackie Robinson at the plate in the ninth.

National Hockey League Players Ready for Colorful All-Star Game

MONTREAL (CP)—The greatest players in hockey, resplendent in star-studded uniforms, will work as a unit Sunday night in Detroit and try to prove once more that a collection of stars can best the best hired-and-proven hockey machine.

It is the ninth annual all-star game, artificially created in the 1955-56 hockey season. It brings together the selected all-stars of last season—both the first and second teams—and the Stanley Cup champions, the Detroit Red Wings.

After the game, which will be attended by hockey's top brass, the all-stars will rejoin their clubs preparatory to the opening later in the week of the regular National Hockey League schedule. Proceeds from the game go to the NHL Pension Fund.

HAVE FOUR WINS

The all-stars have won the spectacle four times. Only once have the Stanley Cup champions been victorious, and once they tied. On both occasions—in 1950 and 1954—the stars' opponents were the Red Wings. Losers were Toronto Maple Leafs, three times, and Montreal Canadiens, once. Twice the governing regulations were revamped, in 1951 and 1953, when the first all-star team met the second, all-star team. Each game ended in a tie.

Coach Jimmy Skinner will handle his Red Wings Sunday night. Dick Irvin, as coach of the runner-up Montreal Canadiens in the cup series last spring, will direct the all-stars. Since, the veteran Irvin has taken over the job of coaching the Chicago Black Hawks.

In addition to the 10 players of the first and second all-star teams, Irvin had the privilege of using eight other players. He named four from his own Hawks, two from Toronto Maple Leafs and two from Boston Bruins.

THE TEAM

Those on the all-star team, in order of first-second team choice, are:

Defence: Allan Stanley, Chicago;

Those chosen by coach Irvin are: Leo Boivin, Boston, and Jim Morrison, Toronto; centre: Red Sullivan, Chicago; right wing: Eddie Litzenberger, Chicago; left wing: Harry Watson, Chicago; and two extra forwards, Leo Labine, Boston and Don Stewart, Toronto.

Two all-star Red Wing players, defenceman Red Kelly of the first team and defenceman Bob Goldham of the second team, will play them at home. Kelly, who played centre for the Leafs before being traded to Detroit, will be making his first appearance in Toronto since the deal.

'Gold Dust Twins,

Krol, Copeland Hold Argos Reunion In Important Fray With Alouettes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Gold Dust Twins—two of Canada's greatest football players before the wholesale influx of American imports—will be back together again Saturday.

Joe (King) Krol, called up earlier this week to bolster Toronto Argonaut kicking, and Royal Copeland will team up again when the Scullers tangle with Montreal Alouettes in a Big Four Football Union game in Toronto.

But it won't be like the old days when their passing-receiving combination led Argos to three straight Grey Cup victories. Krol will be strictly a punter. Copeland is an offensive halfback.

Elsewhere in the Big Four, Hamilton Tiger-Cats meet Rough Riders in Ottawa. It will be former T-Cat halfback Bernie Custis' first opportunity to play against his old teammates.

WIFU STRUGGLES

In the West, Edmonton Eskimos will be trying to clinch first place in the Western Interprovincial Union. Their string of 10 straight wins without a loss has already assured them of a playoff berth. Victories against Blue Bombers in Winnipeg Saturday and against Saskatchewan Roughriders in Edmonton Monday will give them undisputed right to first place.

The other WIFU games bring together Saskatchewan and British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Saturday and Lions at Calgary Monday against Stampeders.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union Sarnia Imperials face Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at Kitchener tonight. A win for Imperials could move them into a first-place tie with Kitchener.

Dutchmen are in Toronto Sunday for a game against the winless Beaches. The collar-dwellers will be trying for their first victory in seven games.

COLLEGE GAMES

The senior Intercollegiate League officially opens Saturday with University of Toronto Blues in London against Western Mustangs. Montreal's McGill Redmen face Queen's Golden Gaels in Kingston in the other game.

The Toronto - Montreal duet shapes up as a natural crowdpleaser. Krol will be making his comeback bid after two years of inactivity. Corky Tharp, who joined Argos in time for last Saturday's game against Ottawa, will be running against Krol, bulldozing halfback Fred Abbruzzi.

J. C. Caroline, replaced on Argos' roster by Tharp, will be facing his former teammates for the first time. A grey- nassing duel between Tom Dublinski, Argonaut quarterback, and Sam Etcheverry of Montreal is anticipated.

At Ottawa, Rough Riders might be without star halfback Avatus Stone. Coach Chan Caldwell isn't sure if Stone will be ready for the game. If he has to sit out the crucial contest, Tom (The Bomb) Tracy will do the punting.

INTO A TIE

Toronto and Ottawa wins would throw the league into a four-way tie. Montreal and Hamilton are now tied for first place, both games ahead of Argos and Riders, who are tied.

Edmonton Eskimos will be relying on their two fullback, Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright, to clinch first place.

Winnipeg needing a win to keep playoff hopes alive, are looking for a double celebration Saturday when they mark "Indian Jack Jacobs Day" at the stadium.

Doug Ford Tops Golf Tourney

HUNTINGDON, N. Y. (AP) — Doug Ford shot a two-under-par 68 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $15,000 Long Island open golf championship at the Huntingdon Crescent Club.

The national PGA champion held a one-stroke lead over Al Brosch, a six-time Long Island champion, and Billy Maxwell.

Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., was one of eight players tied for fourth place with par 70s.

Dodgers Not Lost Momentum Says Alston

BROOKLYN (AP)—It begins to look as if the Brooklyn Dodgers lost not momentum as the result of pleading the National League pennant so early and somehow can't get back into stride.

Manager Walter Alston says "no" but the victory of the New York Yankees in the second game, 4-2, after the Yankees won the opener 6-5 puts the Dodgers almost hopelessly behind.

"You don't need to fire up a big league player for the series. He's always fired up," said Alston, "it definitely don't think winning the pennant early had anything to do with it."

The Dodgers clinched the pennant Sept. 8. The Yankees had to subdue the Cleveland Indians in a stretch fight that carried within inches of the end. Despite Alston, it looks now as if the Yankees have death and fire and the Dodgers haven't.

It's as simple as saying that one-and-one-make-two to understand Sam Snead's method corrected by some compensating action means that there are two flaws in your swing. And, therefore, you set up two chances for error in making the shot, you'd the distance and accuracy which should be yours. The player who sways his head, and, therefore, his body forward, as he swings his arms back, must sway his head and body backward when he swings forward and down. This gives a loose-moving top anchor to the axis of his swing. The player an automobile wheel shimmy or wobble and that is what happens to a golfer who moves his head. Now that you've seen pictured the error of head and body swaying shown by the dotted line, fix your eyes on the solid outline figure and mentally copy that swing action.

HO G KONG.—(Reuters) — The governor of Hong Kong, Sir Alexander Grantham, will leave line next Tuesday for a "private" visit to Peiping as guest of the British envoy there. 'Psychy, Lying Beat Dodgers' Says Clutch-Flinger Byrne

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Old Tommy Byrne, who two years ago thought his baseball days might be ended, said Thursday he used a little bit of "psychy" and a little bit of lying to lull Brooklyn's big bats into impotency for the Yankees' 4-2 second game victory in the world series.

"I told Duke Snider in the eighth inning I was going to throw him a fast ball," Byrne said, "but I gave him a slider instead."

The strikeout of Snider was one of three big strikeouts for the Yankee veteran which ended Brooklyn threats. He whiffed Pee Wee Reese with a man on base in the fifth, fooled Snider in the eighth and then made Gil Hodges bite at a slider in the ninth to end the game.

"All three strikeouts were with sliders," said Byrne, "I threw a different curve and tossed the fast ball here and there. It is all part of the new pitching outlook which saved my career."

CASEY FLABBERGASTED

Casey Stengel, the Yankees' crusty manager, was pleased at getting the game Jumps on the Dodgers and he praised Byrne's performance justifiably.

Added if it was Byrne's best game of the year, Case said, "No, he's pitched a lot of good games for me this year."

Byrne was all praised the pitching of Brooklyn's Karl Spooner.

"He looked good," said catcher Yogi Berra. "I'd say he's on par with our Bob Turley with that fast ball."

Quick, Magi, the Lamp!

Byrne Would Be Outfielder With New Start of Life

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BROOKLYN (AP) — Tommy Byrne is a frustrated pitcher who wishes he'd been given the Babe Ruth and changed to an outfielder.

"I've always had ambitions to be a hitter," the wiry North Carolinian said after pitching and batting the New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the second game of the world series.

"If I had it all to do over again—but it's too late now—I'd have been an outfielder."

Byrne, uncorking a strikeout-ruiner after Elston Howard and Billy Martin with the runs which proved the final margin of victory.

A GOOD ONE

"That was a good one, wallop," the 35-year-old southpaw beamed proudly. "I liked it."

Byrne is a lean, hollow-cheeked college graduate with a gift of gab—on and off baseball—and a unique approach to his job.

Shunted down to Charleston, W. Va., in 1953 after being discarded by four American League clubs, he thought his baseball days were ended.

"It was then I took stock of myself," he recalls.

"I was terribly wild. I was trying to throw the batters down with sheer power. So I got smart. I changed my pitching technique, learned sliders, curves and change-up stuff. And I learned I could put myself to using psychology, in needling the batters."

WAS A SENSATION

As a result Byrne was a winter sensation in the South American winter league in late 1953, winning 13, and was a sensation in 1954 with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

That's when the Yankees brought him back to the big time—an act followed by curves and change of pace that will be eternally grateful. Byrne helped propel the Yankees into the world series with a 16-5 record, the best in the league.

"I like to talk to the guys at bat," Byrne said. "It disconcerts them. I say stuff like 'Well, I think I'll throw a fast ball.' Of course, I throw a slider, as I did against Duke Snider in the eighth inning. I like the devil."

Byrne said he also makes a study of the batters' stances and reactions to pitches. Then he knows what to feed them the next time.

Jack Lemon Hailed as One Of Best Light Comedians

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I was a snob about Hollywood. I admit it. When my wife and I were on television we got offers from studios. We didn't even bother to reply."

This was Jack Lemmon talking. Now he's one of the filmland's biggest boosters.

And no wonder. He has been cofeatured in a series of films that would be any actor's dream, and he is being hailed (by this writer at least) as the country's best light comedian since Cary Grant.

Like many New York actors, Lemmon was conditioned to view Hollywood as an ogre. He was earning good money in TV—in fact, more than he's getting now as a film star. He could afford to turn a deaf ear.

STRING OF SUCCESSES

"But then Columbia came up with the deal for 'It Should Happen to You,'" he recalled. "With Judy Holliday as star and George Cukor as director, how could I miss? Besides the contract was for two a year, giving me a chance to do plays and TV."

So he scrambled. His film debut was a hit, and he followed with "Phffft," "Three for the Show" and "Mister Roberts." Now he's getting raves for "My Sister Eileen" and he'll soon start "It Happened One Night," playing the Clark Gable role opposite June Allyson.

Lemmon is much the same in person as he appears on the screen—a little frantic, bright, handsome, with a ready laugh. It has amazed many people to find such a polished comedy scene in someone so young.

500 TV SHOWS

But Jack is no tyro. He spent his youth in stock companies and graduated to soap operas in radio. He served in small New York nitteries, playing straight man and comedian with burlesque comics. He has done "between 400 and 500" TV shows, about half of them comedies — and appeared in a broadway revival of "Room Service."

So you can see the kid is not just starting out in the business. He has had to fight for one thing in Hollywood—his name.

The boss wanted him to change to Lennon. Replied Lemmon: "When they'll really number 4 to Stalin, Lenin."

He held his ground, and it's still Lemmon.

Gault Heads Minor Hockey

Bill Gault was elected president of the Belleville Minor hockey association last night at the organization's initial meeting of the 1955-56 season.

About 15 persons were present with the election of officers the main subject on the agenda. Mel Richards was named vice-president with Bill Hurst holding the secretary-treasurer's position.

The conveners were also named for the different leagues. Mel Richards is the sqirt convener, Harry Robins; pee wee, Boiler Lloyd and Nel Hallan; bantam, Hugh Jones; midget, Bill Gault; juvenile and junior, if a team is formed.

It was decided to appoint someone to look after the equipment at the Arena and to see the Arena Commission about more time for the minor players.

The next meeting will take place near the end of October.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, October 1, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Benefits likely if you are unselfish in attitude. Your aim to please will react favorably, bringing happiness, help, harmony to all. Avoid extremes.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This day's influences and advantages should fit nicely into your schedule, and there is also a chance that you could make advancement in fields other than your own.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Hassle in fine aspect for those who are keen, alert. Be discreet, loyalty in home and office affairs. Withhold sharp criticism and remarks; they seldom produce the desired effect.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Stars somewhat negative in influence. Conflict, inharmonious atmosphere likely. Watch yourself.

July 23 to August 22 (Leo) — Don't take things for granted or make unnecessary changes that would cause loss of time, hinder production or ungsettle workers. Keep mind clear.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Today has some excellent influences to help the willing to satisfying results. These fortunate vibrations favor hard workers, religious, professional and domestic activities generally.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Difficult task could be upsetting if not taken in stride. Be calm, consistent and reasonable. Your nature rebels against discord.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Highly activated rays should stimulate worthy efforts. Accomplishments should be a foregone conclusion in most professions, trades, farming, dealing in essentials, finances.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Indications point to an upward trend in sound endeavors, whether business or personal. Avoid errors through either inertia or over-confidence. Know that you can achieve.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Some possible risk may be necessary to further your cause now but, remember, avoid hit-or-miss trys. Most encouraging rays begin in afternoon, continue into evening.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Tackle essentials before looking around for new fields to take over. It's just as harmful to overdo or overestimate as it is to be lax or sluggish. Domestic affairs need close watching.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Particularly favored are familiar activities, work for which you are talented or trained, literary efforts, clerical matters.

You born today have a virile, happy nature and are born with general capability and a liking for children, family, civic pride, and the will to make a go of the hardest things with courageous determination. Don't overindulge in things you especially like. And while it is commendable to fight for rights and the under-privileged, be sure that you do not yield to outbursts of temper. Aim high every day; you can make great strides this year.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and waste remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest at the time of the night and nerve-jangling may soon follow. That's the time to take Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's stimulate the kidneys in normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Doan's Kidney Pills now. 41

Plane Is Missing In Northwest

EDMONTON (CP) — A four-engined York air transport with two men aboard was sought today in the Northwest Territories following a radio report from the pilot that he was ditching the plane.

The craft, owned by Associated Airways Ltd. of Edmonton and flying on the DEW (distant early warning) radar line airlift, was believed ditched on some lake in the Great Slave lake area while on a flight from Yellowknife to Edmonton.

Report of the missing aircraft came only two days after Associated had resumed freight-trafficflying on its DEW lift. All freight traffic had been temporarily suspended following a crash two weeks ago in which two Associated pilots were killed.

Aboard the York were Capt. Joseph Cressall, 34, formerly of Northern Ireland, and First Officer Gerald (Larry) Lozie, 27, a Dutch navy pilot.

H&S Assoc. Elects Officers For Coming Year

The first meeting of the 195 to 1956 season of the Breadne School Home and School Association took place in the Breadne School auditorium on Monday evening.

The meeting was opened by Wing Commander L. C. Dill worth, who called upon Breadne School principal Mr. Dwyer, to introduce the speakers.

First was Mr. Wilbur Leonard who is the school's musical director. Mr. Leonard stressed the musical studies should not be separate thing from classroom studies but should be so arranged to seem part of the regular day lessons.

Mr. Gibson, the second speaker is Breadner School's physics training instructor. A definite course for physical education has been laid down by the Board of Education said Mr. Gibson. He went on to explain further that there was not the intention to build supermen of the students but to instill in them an appreciation of physical activities for later years.

Mr. Gibson also asked parents of students from Grade Four and higher, to encourage their children to join the house leagues in sport activities, such as baseball basketball and volleyball.

EXECUTIVE ELECTED

Elections took place with the following members elected to the executive:

President, Squadron Leader McMurch; first vice-president, Mrs Moffat; second vice-president, Sgt Therian; secretary, Sgt. Previous to the meeting parents were able to meet the teachers of the school and to inspect the work done by the children since the start of the season.

British Columbia Industry Awaits Arrival of Natural Gas

By LARRY STANWOOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia industry is awaiting the arrival of natural gas from the north expected to launch the province on its most prosperous economic era.

A projected 24-inch pipeline, stretching 650 miles from B.C.'s Peace River area to Vancouver, has reached the final planning stage by Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., and much of its construction has already been worked out on paper.

Actual construction of the $140,000,000 pipeline, however, awaits the expected nod from the United States federal power commission to export a large quantity of gas across the border.

CONTINGENT ON EXPORT

Westcoast Transmission plans to supply daily 300,000,000 cubic feet of the low-cost, natural gas fuel to the, heavily populated and highly industrialized states of Washington, Oregon and California. Without approval for American distributors to import the gas, there can be no B.C. pipeline, says Westcoast.

British Columbia consumption is estimated at only 50,000,000 cubic feet daily, not enough to justify construction of the line, planned for an ultimate capacity of 700,000,000 cubic feet.

Some idea of the effect natural gas will have on the province's industrial growth has been offered by business and government leaders.

"The development which will originate from this project will be greater than anything since the war," said Premier Bennett whose government supports the scheme.

About the Peace River district, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said: "We have opportunities of development there comparable to Texas."

The provincial government will receive $8,000,000 a year in royalties during the early stages of operation with a considerable increase during the next 10 years.

BOOST EXPLORATION

Already oil and gas exploration in the Peace is expected to be doubled once natural gas flows to southern markets.

Pioneered by Pacific Petroleum Ltd. of Vancouver and Calgary and major stockholders of Westcoast Transmission, more than 100 wells have been drilled in the northeastern corner of B.C. to establish reserves of more than 4,000,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas, or enough for 20 years.

Frank McMahon, who heads Pacific Northwest and Westcoast, told Vancouver business men the arrival of natural gas here would spark an immediate expenditure of some $50,000,000 by major oil and gas companies in the north.

Industrialists foresee the birth of a petro-chemical industry and a sharp growth in secondary industries.

For more than 1,000,000 householders, B. C. Electric Co. Ltd., supplying power and manufactured gas in Vancouver and the lower mainland, predicts an immediate cut in domestic fuel cost up to 40 per cent.

YEAR JOB

Meanwhile, survey crews are staking the pipeline's right-of-way through B.C.'s rugged interior and Canadian Bechtel Corporation is ready to order thousands of tons of the 30-inch steel pipe.

Expected to take two years, the project will employ 2,000 skilled workmen and several major western Canada contractors. But not much action is anticipated before next spring.

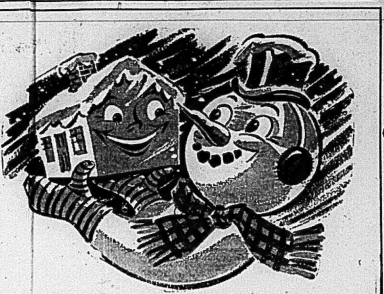
Start of the line will be near Fort St. John, centre of the proven natural-gas reserve.

It will generally parallel the John Hart highway to Prince George, follow the Caribou highway and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway south and swing in an easterly direction just above the Fraser valley to terminate at the U.S. border near Huntingdon, B.C., 35 miles east of Vacouver.

A 40-foot right-of-way will have to be cleared along most of its route.

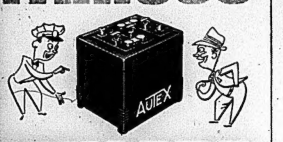
FEEDER LINES

Spur lines of four inches upward will lead off from the main line to feed every feasible city in B.C. At Huntingdon, the line will link with Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation's line from the San Juan valley of New Mexico-Colorado, already under construction.



B.C. Electric Co. of Vancouver, which has applied for a franchise to distribute the gas here and in the lower mainland, will construct the 18-inch Huntingdon-Vancouver link.

Engineers say the overall pipelaying project will not be difficult although a double crossing will have to be engineered over one point on the Fraser river. North of Prince George, still unserved by rail, supplies ad equipment will have to be moved by tuck.



Elsewhere, rails will carry most of the load and when the cargoes of steel tubing start rolling into Vancouver it will mean one of the biggest freighting jobs in the West for the railways.
